John L. Burke, 27, of Las Vegas, Nev., was charged with bank robbery before U.S. Commissioner Billy Costa, who set bond at $50,000. It was not posted.

The roof of a barn eight miles west of Cody, owned by George Paysene, collapsed, but two children and about 400 sheep and 60 cows inside were brought out uninjured. The rear of the Ben Franklin store in Cody also collapsed from the weight of the snow, but there were no reported casualties.

Tornadoes also swooped down near Emporia in Kansas and Hebron in Nebraska. Two funnel clouds skimmed along the earth west of Ponca City and three more were sighted at Blackwell in Oklahoma.

State Senator Demands CU Regent Resign

DENVER (AP) — State Sen. Woody Hewett, R-Boulder, demanded Saturday the resignation of University of Colorado regent Charles D. Bromley, who is charged with drunk driving.

Bromley, 64, a Denver lawyer who has denied the drunkenness charge, said he has "no intention of resigning."

Dist. Atty. Bert M. Keating filed the charge after Bromley's arrest April 12 after police said his car hit a street sign, a parked car, two trees, a hedge, a bicycle and a house. He will appear in Municipal Court Wednesday on the charge.

Keating said it was Bromley's third accident in three years.

Hewett said Bromley had lowered his stature among students at the university. Bromley is a Republican with five years remaining of his six-year term.

"How do you expect to keep students in line when one of the university's leaders goes off on a tangent like this?" Hewett asked. "He might want to shoot me but I don't give a damn."

Johnson to Continue His Personal Campaign

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson made clear Saturday that he intends to continue campaigning on a face-to-face and hand-to-hand basis no matter what some party strategists think about it.

Speaking in a news conference, Johnson minimized the security risks inherent in mingling with crowds in streets and supermarkets. By implication, he dismissed the arguments of political tacticians who feel the time and energy consumed in such contacts could produce more votes if expended in other ways.

Planner Says Interested Citizens Must Save Essential Core of City

By GLEN URBAN

If Colorado Springs is going to save the core of the city, the interested citizen here must move to do it, according to Edgardo Contini.

Contini is an associate of Victor Gruen Associates of Los Angeles, a consulting and planning firm for municipal development. He spoke Saturday noon at a meeting of Downtown Colorado Springs, Inc., in the Antlers Hotel.

Contini told members of the association, "The next move is up to you."

He said that it is very evident that Colorado Springs has many favorable factors that could lead to the preservation of the heart of the city.

Those factors are an enviable site, a good heritage of a workable center of town with wide streets and parks, a college near the center of town, and a wealth of confidence in the future of the town.

Referring to the college (Colorado College) he said, "Many cities would give their eye teeth to have such a college."

The key to keeping or rebuilding the core of a city, Contini said, "is will."

When a city has a will and the community gets behind its leadership, the core can be saved, he said.

Another important element is that of identity, according to Contini.

When people identify themselves with their home city, they are much more interested in it, and its preservation, according to the speaker.

He said that people began living together in cities as soon as it was possible. People want two things — social exchange, and privacy, he said. The city af-

Science Getting Ready to Unearth State's Richest Treasure, Oil Shale

By STEPHEN M. ALG

DENVER (AP)—At long last, what may turn out to be the nation's greatest treasure appears on the verge of being unearthed.

The treasure is rock. Not diamonds, but what geologists claim is the world's largest deposit of oil shale — oil-bearing rock. A potential supply of oil that could sward any other known oil reserve.

The oil shale deposit is known as the Green River formation. It lies in three states — Colorado, Utah and Wyoming. By far the largest and richest bed is in western Colorado.

How much oil is in the Green River formation?

The Oil and Gas Journal, an industry publication, estimates the potential this way:

Put another way, it's 63 trillion gallons — enough to submerge an area larger than California and Oregon beneath a lake of oil one foot deep.

It's also enough to start a new industry — the industry that's starting to break open in the Rocky Mountains.

Most of the major oil companies — and a few smaller firms — have staked claims or obtained leases in the rich oil shale beds of Colorado. A few have leases in Wyoming and Utah.

The advent of the new oil shale industry is being hastened, experts say, by the increasing costs of locating new pools of crude petroleum.

In the past, easily located sources of crude petroleum have kept the oil shale industry asleep — a sleeping giant as it turns out.

Knowledge of oil shale and rudimentary processing methods—are not new. More than 100 years ago some Asian

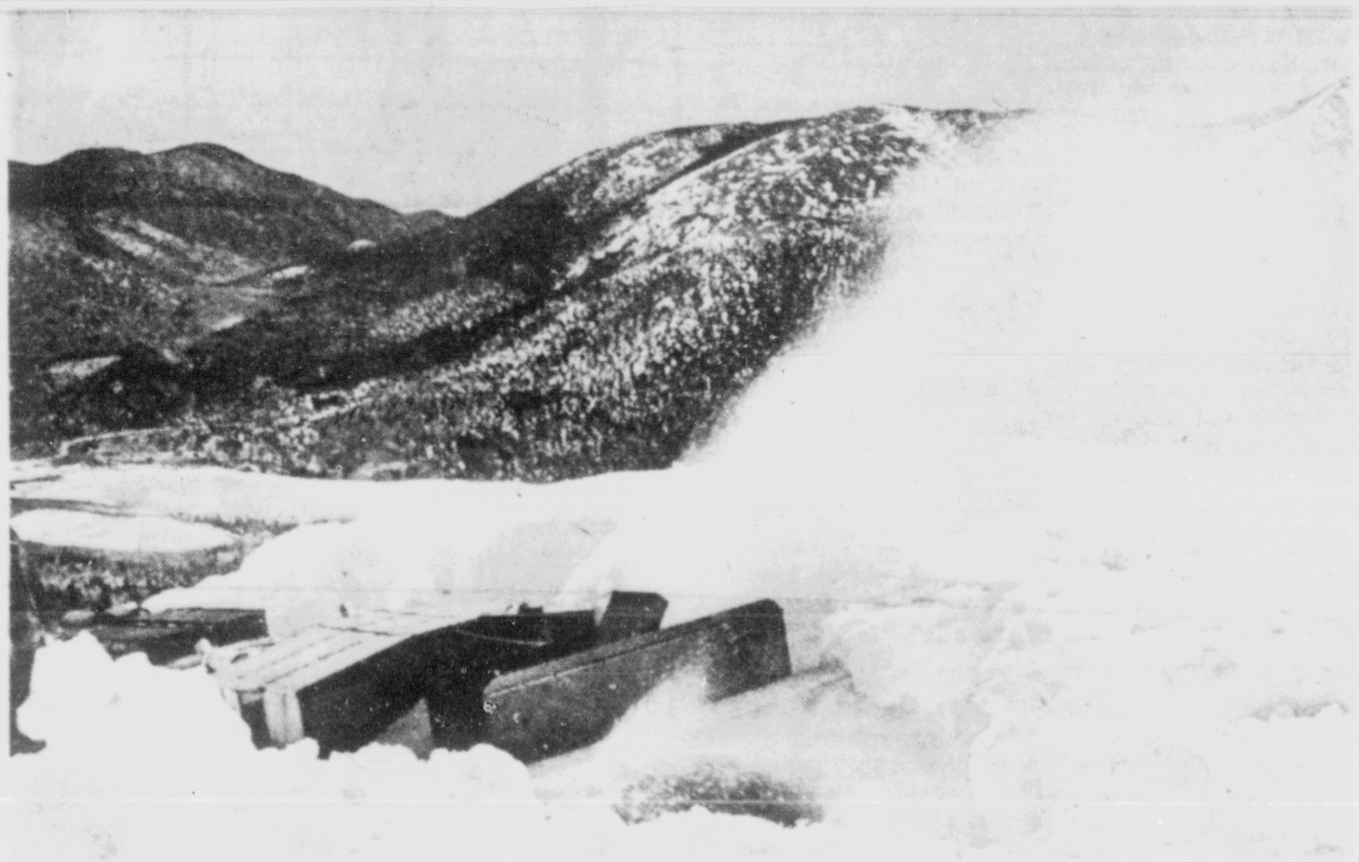
Johnson to Continue His Personal Campaign

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson made clear Saturday that he intends to continue campaigning on a face-to-face and hand-to-hand basis no matter what some party strategists think about it.

Speaking in a news conference, Johnson minimized the security risks inherent in mingling with crowds in streets and supermarkets. By implication, he dismissed the arguments of political tacticians who feel the time and energy consumed in such contacts could produce more votes if expended in other ways.



CLEARING COG ROUTE—This was the scene on the Pikes Peak Cog Railway as the big rotary snow plow chewed its way through ice and snow 12 feet deep in some places to clear the nine-mile scenic route to the summit for the 1964 season. Regular passenger service on the road will begin Monday.

Jaycees Oppose Opening Road Through Park

The Colorado Springs Junior Chamber of Commerce took action Thursday to oppose opening the road through Memorial Park.

The Jaycees took the action after learning that the proposed re-opening and the addition of the proposed frontage road would mean a loss of about 48 acres of ground from the park.

The Prospect Lake Improvement Society has petitioned City Council asking that the road which parallels the lake be re-opened. A public hearing on the matter will be held next week.

More than 2,800 signatures have been collected so far asking that the road be opened. Because of the interest in the proposal, council elected to hold the special public hearing in the City Auditorium.

The Jaycees Board of Directors voted to oppose the road opening and to ask that the Traffic Engineering Department of Colorado Springs inves-

Frisco Greets King Hussein: Denver Next

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Jordan's King Hussein received a warm and noisy welcome Saturday on arrival by plane for a weekend visit.

There were official handshakes, shouts from a Jordanian social group and a bouquet of roses from Wafa Mughannan, 9.

Hatless and wearing a brown business suit, the diminutive monarch was one of the first to emerge after the American Air Lines jet arrived at 1:55 p.m. from New York City.

King Hussein is on a 10-state visit. Earlier he visited President Lyndon Johnson at the White House.

He will leave Monday for Denver, Colo.

President to Ask Congress To Aid Appalachian Area

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson said Saturday he will ask Congress to approve a billion-dollar aid program for nine Appalachian states.

The President also told a news conference that the United States and the Soviet Union are discussing several possible agreements which he said "might lessen tensions and promote peace."

Johnson said "we are hopeful" about the outcome of American-Soviet discussions. And, without getting specific, he reported that he has exchanged "a good many communications" with Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

Johnson met with reporters in his oval office, flanked at his desk by former President Harry S. Truman, who dropped in for

Snow and Sleet Storm Ravages Wyoming Areas

CHEYENNE (UPI) — A spring snow, rain and sleet storm, which dumped up to 15 inches of snow in Cody played havoc in northern Wyoming Saturday.

The storm knocked out power lines in Fremont and Park counties and threatened extensive water and weight damage to buildings throughout the two counties.

The roof of a barn eight miles west of Cody, owned by George Payseno, collapsed, but two children and about 400 sheep and 60 cows inside were brought out uninjured. The rear of the Ben Franklin store in Cody also collapsed from the weight of the snow, but there were no reported casualties.

Power lines owned by the Riverton Valley Electric Association in Fremont County and Shoshone River Power and Supply, which services Park County and a section of Montana, were hard hit by heavy wet flakes

Guarded Papers Of President Harding Opened

By ROBERT E. MILLER

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A 40-year void in American history ended Saturday as the carefully guarded papers of the late President Warren G. Harding were officially opened by the Ohio Historical Society.

Historians were advised not to expect spectacular disclosures regarding the nation's 29th president, but at the same time, Kenneth W. Duckett, curator of manuscripts for the society, said the papers hold the key to "many of the mysteries" of the late president's life.

He helped catalog the 13 file cabinets of documents which have been in the custody of the Harding Memorial Association of Marion since the death of Harding's widow in 1924.

Since that time, they have been kept in the basement of the Harding home at Marion and have been carefully maintained by Dr. Carl W. Sawyer, son of Harding's personal physician. No researcher has examined them to date.

The association voted last October, after negotiations with a special committee of the society, to release the documents.

Duckett said the papers shed no light on such controversial matters as the Teapot Dome scandal, which occurred during the Harding administration (1920-1923), and that they made no mention of some of the widely circulated accusations involving Harding's personal life.

Cog Road Clear; First Trip Set Monday, 2 P.M.

The Cog Railroad to the summit of Pikes Peak has been cleared of snow and the first passenger train of the 1964 season will leave the Ruxton Avenue station in Manitou Springs at 2 p.m. Monday.

Cog Railway crews worked for nine days clearing the tracks and the giant rotary snowplow engine encountered 12 foot drifts in some places. This was considered normal by the snowplow crew which watches the big machine chew its way to the top each spring.

The summit of the 14,110 foot peak was reached on Friday and very little back tracking had to be done this year. One snow storm accompanied by strong winds filled one of the deep cuts so that it had to be opened a second time, but this was considered a minimum of trouble by the crew which has

Lynda Johnson, Friend Agreed To Break Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — The engagement of President Johnson's daughter Lynda Bird to Navy Lt. (j.g.) Bernard Rosenbach has been broken by mutual agreement.

Mrs. Elizabeth Carpenter, press secretary to Mrs. Lady Bird Johnson, the First Lady, confirmed Saturday the engagement had been broken. She said Rosenbach, 23, was in Washington last weekend and Lynda Bird, 20, returned his ring at that time.

Rosenbach, stationed at Mayport Naval Station near Jacksonville, Fla., said when asked about the broken engagement: "Yes, that is true."

Mrs. Carpenter said religion was not a factor.

It was learned that friends had been expecting the engagement to end for several weeks.

Rosenbach is a Roman Cath-

Planner Says Interested Citizens Must Save Essential Core of City

By GLEN URBAN

If Colorado Springs is going to save the core of the city, the interested citizen here must move to do it, according to Edgardo Contini.

Contini is an associate of Victor Greun Associates of Los Angeles, a consulting and planning firm for municipal development. He spoke Saturday noon at a meeting of Downtown Colorado Springs, Inc., in the Antlers Hotel.

Contini told members of the association, "The next move is up to you."

He said that it is very evident that Colorado Springs has many favorable factors that could lead to the preservation of the heart of the city.

Those factors are: an enviable site, a good heritage of a workable center of town with wide streets and parks; a college near the center of town, and a wealth of confidence in the future of the town.

Referring to the college (Colorado College) he said, "Many cities would give their eye teeth to have such a college."

The key to keeping or rebuilding the core of a city, Contini said, "is will."

When a city has a will and the community gets behind its leadership, the core can be saved, he said.

Another important element is that of identity, according to Contini.

When people identify themselves with their home city, they are much more interested in it, and its preservation, according to the speaker.

He said that people began living together in cities as soon as it was possible. People want two things — social exchange, and privacy, he said. The city af-

Mrs. Esther Leckenby, Wife of Publisher Dies

DENVER (AP) — Mrs. Esther Leckenby, 66, of Steamboat Springs, Colo., widow of Maurice Leckenby, widely known newspaperman, died Saturday at a Denver hospital.

Mrs. Leckenby was first hospitalized in Denver last September for treatment of cancer.

Her husband, publisher and Democratic party leader, died of a pulmonary hemorrhage Sept. 21, 1963.

Mrs. Leckenby is survived by her son, Charles, editor and publisher of the Steamboat Springs Pilot, and a brother, George Wafer of Denver.

Members Schedule Final Vote at 10 A.M. Today

By GORDON G. GAUSS

DENVER (AP) — Four hours after the Colorado Legislature convened in special session Saturday the House of Representatives passed on preliminary reading a new plan for reapportioning the state's four congressional districts—a plan so new it was not drafted until noon.

The new plan is known as the "25" plan—simply because it was evolved on April 25 — said Rep. Harold McCormick, R-Canon City, who led the drive for it.

It is a modified form of the "doughnut" plan. It leaves Denver as a single district. It adds Douglas County to Adams, Arapahoe, Boulder and Jefferson counties to form the doughnut second district around Denver.

It places Logan along with Morgan, Weld, and Larimer counties in the Fourth District, now mostly on the Western Slope, and it also adds the San Luis Valley to this district. Fremont, Custer and Huerfano counties, however, would remain in the Third District.

The test vote on the House approval was 37-20. All Democrats voted against the plan and were joined by three northern Colorado Republicans — Reps. Ruth

Gov. Love Talks Briefly as Session Opens

By GORDON G. GAUSS

DENVER (AP)—Colorado legislators meeting in special session for the first time in nearly three years, were urged Saturday by Gov. John A. Love to work out a reapportionment equalizing population in "the state's four congressional districts "in a bipartisan manner."

"I am confident," the governor said in a brief extemporaneous speech at a joint session of the House and Senate, "that you will represent not only your areas but also will represent the state as a whole."

Explaining to the lawmakers that he called the extraordinary session because of rulings of the Supreme Court of the United States, Love said he thought no

Academy Cadet Injured During Parachute Jump

DENVER (UPI) — Fred Cox, 20, a junior cadet at the Air Force Academy was injured when wind filled his parachute and jerked him along the ground after he made a successful jump from a plane at an altitude of 3,000 feet in Jefferson County Saturday.

Cox was knocked unconscious, battered and bruised, but refused treatment when an ambulance went to the scene, a field west of Denver.

Chuck King, 28, Englewood, said Cox was with a group of sport parachutists who took off from Columbine Airport southwest of Denver and was one of five who jumped from an altitude of 3,000 feet.

After Cox got down, a whirlwind re-inflated his chute. He was jerked into the air twice, carried for short distances and dropped to the ground. Another parachutist finally reached the chute and spilled the air from it.

Cox was making his second jump.

Tornadoes, Hail, Thunderstorms Hit Wide Areas

By United Press International

The outbreak of turbulence in parts of the Northwest, Southwest Plains states and the Gulf area marred an otherwise balmy pattern of sunny, dry and cool weather in the rest of the nation.

A series of tornadoes struck the small farming community of Broadus, Montana, injuring at least one person in addition to ripping off several roofs, knocking down power lines and overturning a trailer.

At least three twisters were sighted in the area and property damage was estimated at $100,000.

Tornadoes also swooped down near Emporia in Kansas and Hebron in Nebraska. Two funnel clouds skimmed along the earth west of Ponca City and three more were sighted at Blackwell in Oklahoma.

Youthful Drifter Admits Slaying Of Career Girls

By CHARLES L. WEST

NEW YORK (AP)—A poker-faced, teen-aged drifter was charged Saturday with the baffling slayings of Manhattan career girls Janice Wylie and Emily Hoffert.

Police arrested him after he allegedly had struck twice again, but was chased from the last living victim.

George Whitmore Jr., 19, a Negro who dropped out of school after the eighth grade, admitted all the charges in an oral statement, detectives said. In court, however, his court-appointed lawyer asserted:

"These statements and confessions were made under du-

Copenhagen's Fairy Statue Loses Its Head

COPENHAGEN, Denmark — (UPI) — Vandals striking in the misty dawn Saturday sawed off and stole the head of Copenhagen's famed fairy tale statue, the Little Mermaid, which has guarded and charmed the harbor here for 50 years.

Other vandals striking at the same time 100 miles away in Odense, birthplace of Hans Christian Andersen, broke off the head of a granite statue recently placed in the fairy tale garden there. The bust was of a Chinese boxer.

Danes so angry some were weeping gathered by the thousand along the waterfront to stare helplessly at the remains of Copenhagen's beloved symbol, an almost life-sized statue that looked seaward and greeted with sad eyes the millions who enter Copenhagen by ship.

The statue was cleaned and polished only Friday. Police said six fingerprints found on the statue may help them find the vandals who spent an estimated hour under cover of harbor mists sawing through the throat and neck of the Little Mermaid.

The statue was inspired by a Hans Christian Andersen fairy tale. It was sculptured and cast in 1913 by Edvard Eriksen, who used as his model ballet dancer Ellen Price. Miss Price, a great grandchild of one of Andersen's friends, Jonas Collin, attended the 50th anniversary celebrations last Aug. 23.

Communications Seminar to Be Held at CSU

Transference to technical information to both technical and nontechnical audiences—a growing problem in this day of automation and space flight — will be the theme of Colorado State University's seventh annual Institute in Technical and Industrial Communications.

The seminar will be held on the university's Fort Collins campus, July 6 through 10.

The Institute under the direction of Dr. Herman M. Weisman, head of the school's division of technical journalism, is one of the few programs of its kind in the world.

It provides practitioners and students in the communication field with an intensive, one-week program of seminars and workshops designed to explore the problems and ideas confronting modern-day media.

The seminar is held each July so persons attending from out of state can extend their stay into a vacation in the Colorado Rockies.

Keynote speaker for the 1964 seminar will be Dr. Shirleigh Silverman, director of research at the Office of Naval Research.

The Institute also will feature lectures and discussions by 19 other experts in the communications field.

Guest faculty members will include Melvin S. Day, director of scientific and technical information for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration; Herbert B. Michaelson, research editor of the IBM Journal of Research and Development; Capt. John B. Haney, of the U. S. Air Force Academy; Waldo T. Boyd, manager of special data projects for the Aerojet-General Liquid Rocket Plant; Dr. Israel Light of the National Institute of Mental Health; Harold F. Osborne, director of educational publications for the Atomic Energy Commission; and Dr. C. O. Neidt, professor of psychology at CSU.

Other speakers will include H. N. Hubbs, chief of the presentations section for Martin Co. in Denver; Dr. Roy C. Nelson, chairman of CSU's department of English; Dr. John R. Olive, executive director of the American Institute of Biological Sciences; A. M. I. Fiskin, documentation group supervisor for Sunstrand-Aviation of Denver; Roy Davison, executive assistant, technical services, for System Development Corp.; Dr. George T. Vardaman, chairman of the administrative communication department at the University of Denver; Dr. Bernard M. Oliver, vice president of research and development for Hewlett-Packard Co.; Julius Frome, Head documentation unit, National Clearinghouse for Mental Health Information; Lt. Col. Arthur Dreyer, deputy director of information, Air Force Logistic Command, Wright-Patterson Air Force Base; William E. DeSmith, manager education and training, Autonetics; J. W. Perry, professor of Systems Engineering, University of Arizona, and Dr. Herman M. Weisman.

Reservations for the seminar may be made by writing Dr. Weisman at Colorado State University, Fort Collins.

King's Itinerary Announced by NORAD

North American Air Defense Command officials today announced the official itinerary for the Colorado Springs portion of the U.S. visit of His Majesty Hussein I, King of the Hashemite Kingdom of Jordan.

The visiting monarch will depart Denver early Tuesday. His first stop in the Colorado Springs area will be at the Air Force Academy where he will meet with cadets and school officials.

He will lunch at the Academy and will depart immediately for North American Air Defense Command headquarters.

Upon arrival at NORAD at approximately 1:30 p.m., he will be accorded full military two-nation honors by the NORAD honor guard and the famed NORAD band.

Lt. Gen. Herbert B. Thatcher, commander of the NORAD component USAF Air Defense Command, acting for the Commander in Chief Gen. John K. Gerhart — absent from his headquarters on an official military trip — will take the military honors with the 28 year-old king.

The public is invited to this portion of the ceremonies for the young king and can view the events from the Boulder Street side of the NORAD headquarters.

Immediately following honors, Lt. Gen. Thatcher will accompany the visitor during a series of meetings with the NORAD staff. He will then escort him to the climax of the day's events — a visit to the NORAD Combat Operations Center where he will watch and talk with both Canadian and United States NORAD personnel on duty there.

The Colorado Springs stop for King Hussein is scheduled to terminate at approximately 4:30 p.m. when he will return to Denver.

Others in the Royal Jordanian party will include: His Royal Highness, Prince Hassan Ibn Talal, His Majesty's brother; His Excellency, Abdul Monem Rifa'i, permanent representative of Jordan to the United Nations; His Excellency, Salah Abu Zeid, Jordanian minister of information; The Honorable Iklil Sati, chief of royal protocol; His Highness, Prince Raad Bin Zeid, first secretary to His Majesty; Brig. Science for You

By BOB BROWN

PROBLEM: You and a Horse.

DO THIS: Measure the height of the stair or steps, then find out how much energy is used in climbing it.

HOW? Multiply the height of your weight to get foot-pounds of energy. Suppose you weigh 110 pounds and the stair is ten feet high, you have used 1,110-foot-pounds of energy. To change this into horsepower, another figure must be added: time. Horsepower is 33,000 foot-pounds per minute, or 550 foot-pounds per second. If you climb the stair in five seconds, then your power is 1,100 divided by 5 times 550, or four-tenths of a horsepower.

County Shows Drop in Cancer Mortality

A new report on the incidence of cancer in the United States shows just how El Paso County compares with other areas of the country in number of cases per year.

The figures, compiled by the U.S. Public Health Service, shed light on the entire cancer picture locally — on lung cancer as well as on the other forms of the disease.

The report makes its appearance just in time for use this month, which has been designated by President Johnson as "Cancer Control Month."

Among residents of El Paso County, according to the official findings, there were 143 deaths from cancer of all types in the year ending Jan. 1, 1963. The figures apply to residents only. Deaths locally of non-residents are not included.

Of this number, however, lung cancer was responsible for only 26, or 18.2 per cent of the total.

Nationally, lung cancer amounts to 16.0 per cent of the overall cancer mortality and, in the State of Colorado, to 14.9 per cent.

In practically every part of the country, the report shows, lung cancer has been on the rise in recent years.

This is confirmed by the American Cancer Society, which has released a massive statistical study linking the increasing mortality to heavy cigarette smoking.

As to El Paso County's toll from all types of cancer, it has dropped 1.4 per cent in a period of three years.

This compares with a 7.1 per cent rise in the United States and a rise of 6.0 per cent in Colorado.

In the fight against cancer, progress has been made in certain directions through new techniques in the use of drugs, radiation and surgery.

The American Cancer Society reports that, as a result, the number of Americans now alive who have had cancer and have gone for five years or more without recurrence, is now over 1,200,000.

According to Dr. James Shannon, director of the National Institutes of Health, important new victories are in sight.

Through a better understanding of viruses and the development of more effective chemicals, dramatic progress may be achieved in the next ten years or so, he believes.

Pay Hike Sought

BONN, Germany (AP)—The deputy chairman of the Federation of German Trade Unions, Bernhard Tacke, predicts there will be a drive for wage increases of 8 to 10 per cent in West Germany this year. He also told a news conference prices would rise 3 to 3.5 per cent, as they did last year.

Skyline Club To Be Scene of Military Meet

Skyline Club will be the scene of another colorful military reception and dinner on Tuesday.

The evening's ceremonies will climax a day of NORAD conferences for fifteen National military representatives to Supreme Headquarters Allied Powers Europe. The group represents fourteen different countries.

The series of meetings with the NORAD staff of Gen. John K. Gerhart, the Canadian-United States aerospace command chief, will take up the entire Tuesday afternoon.

Their hosts at the military reception and dinner that evening at the Skyline Club Redwood-Imperial room will be Air Vice Marshal and Mrs. Murray D. Lister of the Royal Canadian Air Force.

The picturesque Skyline dining room will be the backdrop for military ceremonial customs of the many nations, performed by career officers attired in the colorful uniform of each country they represent.

The representatives scheduled to visit NORAD include: Col. Norbert Gathier, Belgian Army; Air Vice Marshal R. A. Cameron, Canadian Air Force; Col. H. Valentiner, Danish Air Force; Maj. Gen. B. Saint-Hillier, French Army; Brig. Gen. W. Repenning, German Air Force; Maj. Gen. D. Constantopoulos, Greek Army; Maj. Gen. Guiseppe Inaudi, Italian Army; Lt. Col. T. E. WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, M.D. Ph.D.

Successful dieting is more a psychological problem than medical. So heed my advice to Rev. Samuel and stop imitating the hog farmers who urge pigs to drink with their meals. This is an unwise plan that causes us to wash down half chewed food and put on undue poundage. Send for the dieting booklet below.

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.

CASE S-448: Rev. Samuel is a very popular clergyman.

"But, Dr. Crane," he began, "I am invited to so many banquets to make speeches that I am getting [illegible].

"Since I am about [illegible] pounds overweight, what are some of the best ways to slenderize?

"I find it very difficult to go on a diet and attend banquets constantly."

DIETING PSYCHOLOGY

As a basic rule for all dieters, [illegible] avoid ALL liquids with your meals!

That simple device alone will usually [illegible] many pounds of your surplus blubber.

For most of us associate sweet rolls or pie or cake with coffee.

If there is no coffee at our plate, then we lose much of our desire for the rolls, pie or cake!

Just test yourself and you'll find the truth of that fact.

Besides, you really should not drink with your meals, for then you wash down half chewed food.

Mankind is one of the few creatures that drinks at meal time and it is really a pernicious habit that swiftly adds poundage.

A second bit of advice for obese [illegible] eat 6 meals per day but only 200 calories apiece.

And it is wise to shrink your stomach when you wish to diet in earnest.

Lately [illegible] suggested that you fast completely for a few days.

But you can get much the same effect by using my [illegible] [illegible] glass [illegible] the first day [illegible] the second day [illegible] day.

But that [illegible] seems [illegible] very [illegible] started [illegible].

The first day [illegible] a headache [illegible].

A full cup of cottage cheese [illegible] 200 calories but is very filling and rich in protein.

Church women [illegible] start a dieting contest and [illegible] raise money [illegible] $2 [illegible] per pound [illegible] shed, for that's what they [illegible] in groceries.

For further advice and a calorie chart, send for my booklet "How to Lose 10 Lbs. in 10 Days," enclosing a [illegible] stamped return envelope plus 20 cents.

Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.

County Shows Drop in Cancer Mortality

A new report on the incidence of cancer in the United States shows just how El Paso County compares with other areas of the country in number of cases per year.

The figures, compiled by the U.S. Public Health Service, shed light on the entire cancer picture [illegible] lung cancer as well as on the other forms of the disease.

The report makes its appearance just in time for use this month, which has been designated by President Johnson as Cancer Control Month.

Among residents of El Paso County, according to the official findings, there were 143 deaths from cancer of all types in the year ending Jan. 1, 1963. The figures apply to residents only. Deaths locally of non-residents are not included.

Of this number, however, lung cancer was responsible for only 26, or 18.2 per cent of the total.

Nationally, lung cancer amounts to 16.0 per cent of the overall cancer mortality and in the State of Colorado to 14.9 per cent.

In practically every part of the country, the report shows, lung cancer has been on the rise in recent years.

This is confirmed by the American Cancer Society, which has released a massive statistical study linking the increasing mortality to heavy cigarette smoking.

As to El Paso County's toll from all types of cancer, it has dropped 1.4 per cent in a period of three years.

This compares with a 7.1 per cent rise in the United States and a rise of 6.0 per cent in Colorado.

In the fight against cancer, progress has been made in certain directions through new techniques in the use of drugs, radiation and surgery.

The American Cancer Society reports that, as a result, the number of Americans now alive who have had cancer and have gone for five years or more without recurrence, is now over 1,200,000.

Through a better understanding of viruses and the development of more effective chemicals, dramatic progress may be achieved in the next ten years or so, he believes.

Skyline Club To Be Scene of Military Meet

Skyline Club will be the scene of another colorful military reception and dinner on Tuesday.

The evening's ceremonies will climax a day of NORAD conferences for fifteen National military representatives to Supreme Headquarters Allied Powers Europe. The group represents fourteen different countries.

The series of meetings with the NORAD staff of Gen. John K. Gerhart, the Canadian-United States aerospace command chief, will take up the entire Tuesday afternoon.

Their hosts at the military reception and dinner that evening at the Skyline Club Redwood-Imperial room will be Air Vice Marshal and Mrs. Murray D. Lister of the Royal Canadian Air Force.

The picturesque Skyline dining room will be the backdrop for military ceremonial customs of the many nations, performed by career officers attired in the colorful uniform of each country they represent.

The representatives scheduled to visit NORAD include Col. Norbert Gatnier, Belgian Army; Air Vice Marshal R. A. Cameron, Canadian Air Force; [illegible] H. Valentiner, Danish Air Force; Maj. Gen. B. Saint-Hillier, French Army; Brig. Gen. W. Ripenning, German Air Force; Maj. Gen. D. Constantopoulos, Greek Army; Maj. Gen. Giuseppe Pirelli, Italian Army; Lt. Col. T. E. Meieners, Luxembourg Army; Brig. Gen. F. E. Lagerwerff, Netherlands Army; Col. Christian Fredrick Moe, Norwegian Army; Maj. J. V. Gomes Cardoso, Portuguese Army; Brig. Gen. K. Taran, Turkish Army; Air Commodore C. B. E. Burt-Andrews, British Royal Air Force; Col. J. R. East, U.S. Air Force; and Rear Adm. Pighini, Italian Navy.

Caucasians comprise 36.5 per cent of the resident population, Japanese 29.1 per cent.

Gov. Love Talks Briefly as Session Opens

one really wanted to change the present system.

"It is my guess, if the people were called upon to express themselves by a vote, they would just as soon leave things as they are now," he said. "This, however, is not possible."

Love said he does not believe Colorado voters want to elect their congressmen at large.

Love cited the wide population disparity which has developed in Colorado congressional districts since the last reapportionment [illegible].

The principal problem, he said, is to increase the population of the Fourth District and to reduce the population of the Second District. The 1960 census gave the First District, Denver, a population of [illegible]; the Second District, northern Colorado, a population of [illegible]; the Third District, Southern Colorado, [illegible], and the Fourth, mostly the Western Slope, [illegible].

Also absent were [illegible] Quinlan [illegible] who was reported [illegible] minor illness, Rep. [illegible] R-Boulder, [illegible] La Junta [illegible] and Rep. Frank E. Evans, D-Pueblo. Evans was in Denver earlier Saturday but [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] law makers made [illegible] a possible second special session. This, however, [illegible] the lawmakers [illegible] of the Supreme Court of the United States decided a new method of apportioning the Colorado legislature violates the federal Constitution.

Love made no point in his message about the length of the special session. Several days ago he commented that the job should be finished within a week. Most Republican leaders were hopeful it could wind up sooner.

Both House Speaker John Vanderhoof and Senate Floor Leader Ranger Rogers of Littleton said they were driving for a windup Tuesday night.

In an effort to achieve this Sunday sessions starting at 1 p.m. were scheduled by the leaders for both the House and Senate.

Tornadoes, Hail, Batter Nation

in parts of Oklahoma and at Marble Falls, Texas.

Thunderstorms drenched the lower Mississippi Valley and the Gulf Coast. A tornado hit Panacea, Fla., about 45 miles south of Tallahassee, causing minor property damage.

A storm which left snow in the central and northern Rockies moved into Wyoming, bringing livestock warnings for the Dakotas, Nebraska and Kansas. Cold rain, gale winds and freezing temperatures were forecast.

Tornado warnings were up through early evening for parts of Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas and Nebraska.

The U.S. Weather Bureau reported a funnel cloud sighting between Liberty and Dayton, Tex., northeast of Houston, but local authorities could not confirm the report. However, Houston suburbs reported hail, severe thunderstorms and 50-mile winds.

Winds up to 65 miles an hour accompanied a thunderstorm at Baton Rouge, La., uprooting trees, damaging homes, smashing plate glass windows and knocking down traffic lights and utility poles. A barn and a light plane were demolished 25 miles west of Baton Rouge. Friday tornadoes caused severe damage in northwest Louisiana.

Science Plans to Unearth Great Treasure, Oil Shale

and European nations were processing it.

Today it is being processed into natural gas in the Soviet Union's Baltic regions and into petroleum products in Manchuria. The Manchurian operation was begun by the Japanese during World War II to supply fuel for the emperor's war machine in an area where crude petroleum supplies were insufficient.

In the United States several attempts were made as early as the 1920s. The industry [illegible] that were some of the [illegible] than [illegible] Texas oilfields were discovered about the same time.

During World War II the U.S. government also began experimenting with ways to extract oil from shale. The government built an experimental oil shale research station at Rifle, in western Colorado's shale belt.

[illegible]

[illegible] burning [illegible] the ground [illegible] and burning it. During the burning the oil comes out of the rock as a vapor which, when it cools, becomes liquid [illegible].

[illegible]

Another problem is political. Much of the thickest beds are owned by the government. Private industry holds several rich beds, but they are nowhere near as thick as the government's, which approach 2,000 feet.

How the government [illegible] without being [illegible] presents a tough problem.

One industry source claims that the government owns about 80 per cent of the most valuable oil shale land. A government spokesman says it is not necessarily the most valuable—but it is the thickest.

Oil companies hold about 15 per cent.

An industry spokesman said that the government's 80 per cent may amount to [illegible] and more than half of the oil shale. This percentage represents only the surface acreage.

Since private industry holds most of the land at the edge of the basin—the thinnest part of the shale bed—the government's holdings are considerably larger. It is 80 per cent of the surface land and contains the deepest shale beds.

The economics of the whole industry might be quite affected by what the government does with this rich, thick stuff, the spokesman says.

K. E. Stanfield, a project coordinator at the U. S. Bureau of Mines petroleum experimental station at Laramie, Wyo., says the biggest share of the richest land is in private hands.

Stanfield says that the so-called "mahogony zone,"—the best shale — with a depth of about 73 feet, is privately owned. The average yield on this land is about 27 gallons of oil per ton of shale.

Government lands, he says, average 25 gallons per ton. Stanfield says that despite the fact that there is a mahogony layer in upper regions of the beds, the government lands have perhaps 1,900 feet of inferior shale at lower levels.

A remaining 25 per cent of the shale lands, an industry official said, is in disputed ownership. This is said to be a reason for delaying development of the industry. Oil firms want the claims settled before they start investing millions of dollars.

Still another problem is waste disposal. What to do with the millions of tons of spent shale.

At the University of Wyoming, a government-sponsored project is under way to determine what vegetation will grow in the shale. [illegible] But preliminary experiments [illegible] have shown that grasses and [illegible] will grow in the spent shale after about three years.

Other plans would turn the waste into building blocks or road ballast, but, as one industry spokesman puts it, "We would be producing such tremendous quantities of it we wouldn't be able to market more than 1 per cent of it."

Lynda Johnson, Friend Agreed To Break Up

[illegible] Lynda Bird is a Protestant.

The engagement was first disclosed in June 1963 when her father, then vice president, gave a party for her and remarked that she was wearing a diamond ring given her by Rosenbach.

Rosenbach is assigned to the [illegible] Carpenter said [illegible] Washington.

Rosenbach is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard W. Rosenbach of Comfort, Tex. His father operates a lumber business there.

Comfort is about [illegible] from the Johnson ranch [illegible] Rosenbach and [illegible] have known each other [illegible] years. Rosenbach and Lynda Bird have been going together since he attended the U.S. Naval Academy where he was graduated in 1962.

No wedding plans had ever been announced by the White House.

Rosenbach did not attend Lynda Bird's 20th birthday party here March 19 but it was explained that he could not get leave. She still has two years of schooling remaining to complete her college education.

Knife Lunger End With Tear Gas Burns

A disturbance at the Court House Cafe, 118 E. Cucharras St. Friday night resulted in Ernest E. Trujillo, 19, 528 S. El Paso St. being hospitalized with tear gas burns in his eyes, police reported.

According to the report the police department received a call from Arthur Caldwell of the cafe who said there was a customer "giving his waitresses a bad time."

When the officers arrived, the man had taken off but Caldwell told them he had asked him to leave and the man pulled a knife and lunged at him. In self defense Caldwell used tear gas and the man left the cafe.

Police traced him a short time later to Penrose Hospital where Trujillo was admitted suffering from eye burns. The police who have a signed complaint against him attempted to interview him at the hospital but were "unable to talk to him as he was incoherent."

Hospital officials described Trujillo's condition Saturday night as "good."

Future of Rights Bill May Hinge On Border States

"There is a broader [illegible] of the [illegible] measure [illegible]. There are too many uncertainties.

"It is purely [illegible]," Gore continued, "[illegible] all that preference and prejudice can be eliminated from our private lives.

"And it would be contrary to generally accepted principles of individual freedom for government to attempt to compel [illegible]."

A Democrat, Gore voted for the civil rights bills of 1957 and 1960 but said he cannot support the current legislation in its present form.

Nineteen Southern senators are dead set against civil rights legislation and are dedicating their oratorical energies to trying to talk the bill to death. If they can persuade 15 colleagues that the bill should not be passed, attempts to choke off debate—now in its 40th day—would be impossible. To invoke cloture, 67 have to be in favor if all 100 senators show up and vote.

Leaders hope to drive a wedge into the talkfest Tuesday or Wednesday by calling for a vote on their amendment to provide jury trials in discrimination cases.

THEATER FOR MYSTERIES

NEW YORK (AP)—A theater specializing in mystery melodramas is being planned by Robert Feldstein, Derek Mali and Amnon Kabatchik.

The trio have obtained rights to several Agatha Christie plays and such other suspense classics as "The Cat and the Canary" and "The Thirteenth Chair."

There should be an eager audience, Feldstein avers, because there are millions of whodonit fans reading magazines and paperbacks. An off-Broadway playhouse is being sought for autumn debut.

Future of City Core Depends Upon Citizens

"Everyone wanted to live as close to the center of the city as possible," he said.

"But the automobile and newspapers, magazines, radio and television changed all that. Now a man can take his family out to the suburbs and live in his house there while communications bring him news and entertainment. Information and entertainment are delivered right in the home," he said.

This change broke up the tight core, the center of the city, he explained.

Today the core of the city is in the most difficult because it no longer exclusively offers what people want, and a new problem is coming with strip cities, he said.

Referring to the strip cities, he said one now is developing in this area at the edge of the Rocky Mountains as cities expand toward one another.

The core of a city is worth saving, he said, because the core of a city offers culture, it is the seat of government and provides a center for commercial activity.

The trains will operate for the time being on a one-a-day schedule leaving the station at 1 p.m. The round trip fare is $4 for adults and $2 for children. Later on a 9 a.m. train is put into service and during July and August the line operates the popular Sunset Special at 5 p.m.

This year two new Swiss-made trains will be put into service offering the most up-to-date sightseeing accommodations. The combination engine and passenger coaches are capable of carrying 80 persons each.

The Cog Wheel Route which has been operating since 1891 has never had a passenger accident in the history of the line. This is one of the most popular tourist attractions in the state and offers incomparable scenic grandeur along the nine mile route to the summit house.

The Nation's Weather

Report furnished by U.S. Weather Bureau Station at Peterson Field

Tornadoes struck seven miles southwest and twenty miles west of Emporia, Kan., and near Beatrice in Southeast Nebraska Saturday.

Two funnel clouds were sited [illegible] miles west of Ponca City and three at Blackwell in extreme northcentral Oklahoma. The ground was covered with hail at Blackwell and ranged from marble to golf ball sizes. There was marble-sized hail at [illegible].

Thunderstorms occurred in the lower Mississippi Valley and along the Gulf Coast. The Florida highway patrol reported that a tornado hit Panacea, Fla., causing several persons to suffer minor injuries. There was damage to nine houses, two house trailers, two cars and some sections of roadway.

One and 99 hundredths inches of rain fell at Clewiston, 50 miles west of West Palm Beach, Fla. Nearly an inch fell in Louisiana and the southern Mississippi in a six-hour period Saturday afternoon.

Rain and snow and cold continued in the Great Basin and northern and central Rockies. One inch of snow fell Saturday afternoon at Idaho Falls, Idaho, and Casper, Wyo. Showers accompanied a cold front along [illegible] western Washington and Oregon. Maximum temperatures Saturday afternoon ranged from the 30s and lower 40s in northeast Nevada, southeast Idaho and central Wyoming to the upper 90s in the lower Rio Grande Valley of Texas.

Greek Cypriots Claim Victory Against Turks

Cypriots killed. A spokesman put the death toll at 11 Turks and said another was captured.

The Greek Cypriot government radio used the word "completion" of the operation but all indications were the Greeks were massing for an all-out assault on the citadel which was last conquered in the 12th century by the English king, Richard the Lion-Hearted. It is the Turks' last big stronghold in the northeast.

A Turkish Cypriot spokesman said at least 1,500 Greek Cypriots were attacking the Turkish Cypriot positions from both sides of Kyrenia Pass. He claimed "at least 20 Greek army officers and men" were taking part in the attack.

The spokesman said a Turkish Cypriot ambulance was fired on. He also said Greek Cypriots were attacking the village of Aghirda, from which women and children were being evacuated.

tigate and correct the intersection of Union Boulevard and Airport Road.

Jaycees felt that this intersection "was the main sore spot with the residents of southeast Colorado Springs."

Moe Rollert of the Parks and Recreation Department was guest speaker at the meeting and told Jaycee Directors that the proposed reopening and construction of a new road would involve many problems and a great deal of money.

Rollert said the replacement of a road through the park with an adjacent parking area between the road and the lake would result in a loss of 48 acres of ground from the 185-acre park.

Redistricting Proposal Gets Tentative Okay

Clark of Fort Collins, Ray Black of Loveland and Kathleen Littler of Greeley.

The House arranged to meet at 10 a.m. Sunday to vote on final passage of the bill. If approved, it will go to the Senate where major opposition is considered certain.

Four of the 20 Republican senators live in the northern Colorado area and are considered likely to vote against the bill. They are Frank L. Gill of Hillrose, Earl Wolvington of Sterling, Carl Magnuson of Eaton and Paul Wenke of Fort Collins.

This would mean the Republicans must corral at least two Democratic votes to get the 18 votes necessary for passage.

A conference committee might have to write the bill if a deadlock develops.

The Senate State Affairs Committee reported out for debate Saturday afternoon five differing reapportionment plans. All were debated but no vote was taken.

The Senate will reconvene at 1 p.m. Sunday.

House Democrats complained bitterly of Republican tactics in driving the reapportionment bill through to preliminary passage. Rep. Allen Dines, the party floor leader, declared the move "was cut and dried" even while Republican Gov. John A. Love was asking the Democrats for help on reapportionment as a bi-partisan measure.

Dines also objected to revision of the bill by floor amendments only an hour after a committee had approved the original roughout plan, drawn by Rep. C. P. (Doc) Lamb, R-Brush.

Dines complained that at the final minute the Republican floor leader, John [illegible] of Longmont, was demanding to see Democratic suggestions.

Mrs. Clark, Mrs. Littler and Rep. Black apparently were angered when they could muster only eight votes for a plan splitting the Denver suburban area and including Weld and Larimer counties with it in the revised Second District.

Rep. John Kane, D-Northglenn, was overwhelmed when he tried to put Fremont County in the Fourth District and Logan County in the Third. He said it would be an advantage to Congressman Wayne N. Aspinall to have the switch.

The House also passed on preliminary reading a bill which would facilitate division of any county into two congressional districts.

Rep. Ben Klein, D-Denver, declared this disclosed a secret Republican plan to partition Denver. [illegible] retorted that the measure was purely precautionary.

In a last minute switch in strategy, Rep. Walter R. Stalker, R-Joes, sponsored a memorial asking Congress to call a constitutional convention to draft an amendment to the Constitution of the United States removing federal courts from control over apportionment of seats in state legislatures. Originally Sen. Gill had planned to sponsor the memorial.

The House State Affairs Committee ordered the memorial printed but decided to consult Atty. Gen. Duke W. Dunbar to determine whether the matter could be considered at this session since it was not on the call issued by Love.

The special session, first for a Colorado legislature in nearly three years, opened with a call by the governor for a reapportionment equalizing the population of the congressional districts in a bipartisan manner.

Committee Asked To Probe Sugar Plant Financing

that new plants would be financed from the normal sources of private capital.

The sugar industry operates under special legislation which insures fair treatment for producers, processors and consumers. There is no reason to believe that investments of farmers or loans from government agencies should have to be used for orderly expansion of the sugar beet industry.

Farmers in the best sugar producing areas should not be forced to enter a contest to supply cheap capital investment funds.

[illegible] said he is sympathetic to the needs of depressed industries but that the sugar act does provide extraordinary stability through sugar quotas. Sugar factories could be placed in depressed areas without using area redevelopment administration funds, he said, adding:

The plant for Hereford, Tex., was conditional on a capital commitment from area producers for $3 million, about one-fourth of the cost, to be paid in the form of deductions of $1 a ton from the price otherwise to be paid for beets delivered to the processor.

The plant to process beets from acreage allotted last week to Maine farmers involves a first mortgage of $8 million to be placed privately but insured by the Maine Industrial Building Authority.

He said the ARA announcement had [illegible] the Small Business Administration to offer a loan of nearly $7 million for the Maine plant and that another $2.4 million had been pledged by [illegible] and the Great Western Sugar Co. of Denver.

Storm Plays Havoc In Wyoming Areas that caused numerous line breakages.

RVEA reported power failures throughout its distribution system. Twenty-two lines were knocked out but most service had been restored by late Saturday.

A 69,000-volt transmission line between Lander and Riverton was also affected, an RVEA spokesman said.

Shoshone River Power and Supply reported up to 80 per cent of its consumers experienced power failures. Affected were subscribers west of Cody, Meeteetse residents and Cooke City, Mont.

Service men hoped to have all service restored by Sunday morning.

Several motorists stranded on State highway 120 between Cody and Meeteetse were led back to Cody by Wyoming Highway Department snow plows after their progress had been halted by deep snow.

The road was closed by the Wyoming Highway Patrol, stranding a busload of Meeteetse high school students for the night in Cody where they had been participating in a district music festival Saturday.

Up to six feet of drifted new snow was reported in the Shoshone and Carter Mountain ranges west of Cody.

ness and stress and is now recanting all the confessions he made.

Whitmore, displaying no emotion, was ordered held without bail for arraignment in the double murder.

Miss Wylie, 21, daughter of writer and television producer Max Wylie and niece of author Philip Wylie, and Miss Hoffert, 23, daughter of Dr. [illegible] Hoffert of Minneapolis, were found stabbed and beaten to death last Aug. 28 in their apartment.

Each had been slashed repeatedly even after death and their bodies [illegible] each other, tied together. Miss Wylie nude and Miss Hoffert fully clothed. There had been no apparent sexual attack and nothing was known to be missing from the shambles of the [illegible] apartment on the East Side.

An almost total lack of clues reduced the investigation to routine police work and waiting for the killer to strike again.

The break came at 1:40 a.m. Thursday on a lonely Brooklyn street. Patrolman Frank Isola surprised a mugger who had dragged 21-year-old Elba Borrero into a cellar alley near her home and was attempting to rape her. Isola fired four shots at the fleeing man, who escaped.

But Isola had gotten a good look at the suspect.

The next day the patrolman rode with two detectives, looking for the man. They spotted Whitmore on a street and picked him up.

The mugging attack was similar in method to the slaying of Minnie Edmonds, 46, a Negro, in Brooklyn April 14. She died of four stab wounds in the face and chest.

LBJ to Seek Assistance for Appalachians lunch, and Texas author J. Frank Dobie, who is a weekend house guest.

Truman interjected comments from time to time during the session and answered a couple of questions at the end.

The conference broke up after Johnson introduced his daughter Lynda Bird, 20, who stepped in to pay her respects to Truman. The President suggested the newsmen might want to question her too but no questions were forthcoming.

Later in the day the White House confirmed a report that Lynda's engagement to Navy Lt. (j.g.) Bernard Rosenbach had been broken by mutual agreement.

Johnson announced at the outset that he will submit to Congress on Monday [illegible] the Appalachian states — Maryland, Virginia, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama, Georgia and North Carolina.

The President, who visited some of those states Friday to dramatize his war on poverty, [illegible] which indicated the aid program eventually would cost [illegible] or more, including [illegible] million for [illegible] miles of highways.

In other news topics, the President said:

—There is still a serious risk of efforts to upset the Geneva accords providing for a neutralist-headed government in Laos. "We are still disturbed about the situation," he said.

—Gen. Paul Harkins, commander of U.S. forces in South Viet Nam, will retire Aug. 1 and be replaced by his deputy, Lt. Gen. William C. Westmoreland.

—Aircraft manufacturers have failed in efforts to develop design proposals for an economic supersonic jet transport, so the program will be reviewed. "I remain convinced that it will be possible to develop an American supersonic transport which will be economical to operate," said Johnson.

—Reminded that Truman earlier Saturday expressed concern that Johnson "takes too many risks" by mixing with crowds, and asked for his own reaction, the President said: "I am exercising all the precautions that prudent men responsible for my safety recommend."

Forest Beginning Summer Program

The Black Forest Athletic Association opens up its summer baseball program today with registration scheduled this afternoon.

Dr. Harold Hobbs, president of the association, said that registration is scheduled from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. It will be held at the association's newly-acquired area about one-quarter of a mile north of the intersection of Milam and Burgess Roads.

The association this winter signed an agreement with the Congregational Conference to use some of the land of the La Foret camp for its athletic and recreation programs.

Registration this year is the same as last. For children of families belonging to the association, the charge is $1 a person.

For children of non-member families, the charge is the $1 registration fee plus a $3 fee for insurance.

As in other years, the association will have a number of boy's teams, for lads from 8 through 16, and one or more girls' teams, depending on the interest, according to Hobbs.

Project School Child Meeting Set for Monday

The parents of Manitou Springs are once again invited and urged to attend a meeting of the Project School Child Monday at 8 p.m. in the council chambers at Memorial Hall.

The group will discuss the school's physical plant, instructional materials, school grounds, and special rooms, i. e., gymnasium, auditorium, cafeteria, etc. Present and future needs of the Manitou School system will also be considered.

About 120 million persons in the U.S. have either inadequate public libraries, or no libraries at all.

A "LICKING" GOOD TIME! — At a recent meeting at the Sugar Shack, Black Forest, these two delighted youngsters, Kris and Michael Bowman, assisted in their own way with the Gold Bond Stamp project which will provide tables and chairs for the future catechetical center. Our Lady of the Pines Parish of Black Forest, recently accelerated the building fund drive for the purpose of building a parish hall at the corner of McFarran and Black Forest Roads. This building will serve as a center for catechism and social activities for some 50 youngsters of the area, as well as a meeting place for adults. When a priest is available, Holy Mass will also be offered in the building. Information about either the Gold Bond project or building fund may be obtained by calling Mrs. Frank Bornowski, 495-2715, or Mrs. Oscar Bowman, 495-2903.

CU Receives $30,000 NSF Conference Grant

The University of Colorado has received a $30,300 National Science Foundation grant to support a college teachers' conference on mechanics Aug. 3-28, on the Boulder campus.

Director will be Prof. Malcolm Correll, director of general education.

About 50 teachers will study ways of improving the teaching of mechanics — the fundamental field underlying all physics.

The teachers will concentrate on ways of introducing the special theory of relativity, as it is related to mechanics, at the undergraduate level.

A separate, summer-long mechanics institute for college engineering teachers was announced earlier this year. It is supported by a $59,900 NSF grant and will be directed by Prof. James Chinn of the civil engineering department.

Safety Practices Taught As School Child Learns

By DAVID NYDICK
UPI Education Specialist

Parents and teachers have the responsibility to prepare children for accident-free lives. Training in this area is important since statistics show that accidents are a leading cause of death and disability. Industry has recognized the large economic loss caused by accidents and spends extensive sums of money for accident prevention.

The most effective approach to accident prevention is through the development of individuals who act safely under all circumstances. Schools have programs which teach safety precautions. Teachers emphasize safety throughout the program. They constantly show students how to perform activities properly to avoid hazards.

The shop teacher is always demanding care in the use of tools. The classroom teacher tells students to keep their feet out of the aisle and not to tilt their chairs back. In addition, teachers are aware of safety factors in every class activity.

Safety actually is being taught whenever a child learns a skill. Skillful and knowledgeable performances result in safety. An obvious example is the proper use of a hammer, saw, or knife as versus carless handling of these same tolls.

Students should be taught to consider the dangers of an activity. If they are taught to be aware of hazards as youngsters, they will continue to do the same as adults.

This brings us to the area of safety habits. Habits tend to be unconscious actions. The individual who closes a match book cover before he strikes the match doesn't stop to think of the dangers of leaving it open. He has performed this activity so many times that he doesn't think about it any more. The time to teach him safety was when he first began lighting matches.

Some other factors which seem to prevent accidents are neatness, politeness, respect for others and careful workmanship. There also are physical factors which affect safety. Poor vision or hearing, fatigue, generally poor physical condition, and poor coordination are contributing causes of many accidents. These should be considered before entering into any activity. Corrective measures should be initiated as soon as possible.

Producer Suggests Five Plays a Night

NEW YORK (AP) — Stage shows comprising two or three one-act plays are usually regarded as having limited box-office appeal, but Eugene Endrey wants to expand such programming.

"In that way," he says, "an audience would see in one evening everything that the theater can offer-comedy, drama, Grand Guignol, mystery, satire and so on."

Endrey reports he has collected 500 short works that would assure a diversified repertoire.

Annual Clock Juggling Takes Place Today

"The time is out of joint; O cursed spite, That ever I was born to set it right!"

This quotation from Shakespeare's "Hamlet" aptly suits what is taking place today across 24 states or parts thereof which shifted to Daylight Saving Time.

Some 100 million Americans were affected by the clock juggling which took place at the first stroke of the clock this morning.

This time confusion has resulted in such quandaries as a bus running through seven time changes in the 35 miles of highway between Steubenville, Ohio, and Moundsville, W. Va.

Other quandaries include airliners taking off from the country's capital and arriving in Norfolk, Va., 12 minutes before it left, and rail "operating" employes working on Standard Time while "non-operating" employes work on DST.

The problem even has international implications: when President Tito of Yogoslavia visited the United States in 1963, his plane landed in Virginia an hour early because that part of the state was not yet on DST.

For the first time since World War I, Congress has launched a study of the peacetime problem. In 1963, the Senate Commerce Committee apporved legislation to modernize the Standard Time Act of 1918, including the observance of the April-October DST switchover dates. (Uniform switchover dates when DST is observed are the last Sundays of April and October each year.)

Interstate Commerce Commission files reveal a variety of other proopsals to ease the time snafu — ranging from leaving clocks alone and changing office hours instead, during the summer, to making it noon everywhere "when the sun is directly south of Sioux City, Iowa."

Another proposal is to shift to a 10-hour metric day with 100-minute hours and 100-second minutes — termed "the time of the Space Age."

The ICC has been the official time zone custodian in the U.S. since 1918 when Congress ratified four United States time zones originally developed by the railroads in 1883 to eliminate the mass confusion caused by each railroad running on its own standard time.

There were 100 such railroad standard times prior to 1883.

The emotion which the time question can stir up is well known to Thomas Pyne, retired ICC examiner who handled the commission's time hearings for more than 30 years.

On one occasion, armed marshals escorted Pyne through the streets of Nashville, Tenn., when an excited overflow crowd showed up and a time zone hearing had to be shifted to a large building.

Pyne also recalls a futile Defense Department protest after top Pentagon officials flew into Alaska two hours late for an important military conference because they forgot that Alaska informally observed four time zones of its own.

The ICC itself, on occasion, sounds uncertain. Replying to a recent inquiry as to whether a 7½-hour — instead of a 7-hour — differential ever existed between New York City and Honolulu, the commission responded with a less than definitive letter which concluded:

"There was a time when there was a 7½-hour differential between the time in New York and Honolulu as the Hawaiian Standard Time was shifted from 157½ degrees west of Greenwhich (the meridian of Honolulu) to that of 150 degrees, or from 5½ hours slower than New York to 5 hours. This Commission does not know precisely when this change occurred but our best information indicates that it was around the middle of 1948, nor is it known what source of authority made the change."

The critical impact of time confusion on economic efficiency was well demonstrated in both World Wars when the Congress determined that the nation could not endure the annual time scramble.

Year-round DST — or War Time — was legislated in order to conserve fuel and electrical energy and to end clock juggling during the national emergencies.

The war time was twice repealed, however, and the nation returned to the complex time diversities in effect today.

The concept of DST is said to have originated with Ben Franklin when he was U. S. Ambassador to France. Franklin awoke unusually early one morning and noted that daylight was already streaming through his window while Paris still slept. This wasted daylight annoyed the frugal American and his fertile mind soon evolved a plan to conserve this daylight by advancing clocks one hour. He even calculated how many candles this would save the people of Paris.

Franklin's plan didn't catch on then, but now two centuries later, the sporadic, non-uniform adoption of the Franklin idea is causing America massive confusion, substantial extra costs, and other economic waste.

The ICC has 60 thick docket volumes on the subject of time. Typical of the personal emotion generated by time schizophrenia is the following quote from an irate Indiana citizen protesting his community being moved from the Central to the Eastern time zone:

"Confusion bordering on chaos reigns supreme, and anarchy is the mode of the day! By such means do states and nations pass through the gates of the graveyard of history!"

Strategic Air Command, Offutt AFB, Neb., prior to joining the Academy staff. Between Nov. 3, 1959, and Nov. 15, 1963, he demonstrated extraordinary ability in maintaining accurate and timely force status data despite continual changes in the operation and the introduction of complex data processing equipment.

SMOKING PROFITS IRS

CHICAGO (AP) — Smoking, despite its physical hazards on humans, turns a sizeable profit for the Internal Revenue Service.

Revenue from tobacco taxes rose to a record $2.1 billion during 1963.

The 47 states which levy a tobacco tax collected an additional $1.1 billion during the year for a new record amount.

The federal government's collections from tobacco taxes were $400 million higher than in 1953.

New York collected $123.6 million last year and more than doubled its decade-ago tobacco tax figure of $61.6 million.

A total of 20,699,000 cars and trucks was manufactured throughout the world last year, with United States producing 9,108,678 vehicles.

FEDERAL TAX TIPS

BY ROGER E. WARD
Administrative Representative
Internal Revenue Service

EMPLOYMENT TAX RETURN DUE: Local area employers are again reminded that Thursday is an important tax date. It is the dealine for reporting and paying income tax withheld and social security taxes for the calendar quarter ended March 31, 1964. Employers should use Form 941 to report their tax liability or that period, and mail it, along with depositary receipts and full payment of taxes due, to DISTRICT DIRECTOR INTERNAL REVENUE SERVICE, DENVER, COLORADO 80902. Circular E, "Employer's Tax Guide," which furnishes more detailed information on this subject, is available upon request at our local offices located at 521 South Tejon St., or by giving us a call at 636-5171.

EXCISE TAX RETURN ALSO DUE: Manufacturers, retailers, and other taxpayers required to file quarterly Federal excise tax returns are reminded that the deadline for filing returns and paying the tax for the calendar quarter ending March 31, 1964, is also Thursday.

Taxpayers liable for more than $100 of the excise taxes listed on Form 720 for any month (except the third month of a quarter), are required to deposit their full payments of these taxes in local authorized banks or a Federal Reserve Bank before the last day of the month after the month in which the tax liability occurred. Form 537, Federal Depositary Receipt, is used for this purpose. Returns should also be sent to the District Director whose address is given above. If a pre-addressed Form 720 is received, they should be used.

IDENTIFY YOUR PAYMENT: Unidentified checks come into Internal Revenue Service offices every day. Often we receive payments with no explanation as to what they are for. When this happens, these checks are placed in a special account. Every effort is made to identify these payments. But this takes time and additional clerical help — help which could be used to process refunds. IRS has a large number of checks just waiting to be credited to some taxpayer's account. In making remittances attach your bill or notice and if possible place a notation on the check what the payment is for, the year of tax, and the type of tax owed.

Don't Frighten Mink, Air Force Order Says

EVERETT, Wash. (AP)—Operation Hush is under way at Paine Air Force Base and the order of the day is: Please do not frighten the mink.

Fifty local mink ranchers appealed to the Air Force for quiet until the spring crop of mink is born. They said loud noises sometimes frighten baby mink to death.

The Air Force agreed to a temporary alteration in takeoff and landing courses.

CU Receives $30,000 NSF Conference Grant

The University of Colorado has received a $30,000 National Science Foundation grant to support a college teachers conference on mechanics Aug. 3-28 on the Boulder campus.

Director will be Prof. Malcolm Correll, director of general education.

About 50 teachers will study ways of improving the teaching of mechanics, the fundamental field underlying all physics.

The teachers will concentrate on ways of introducing the special theory of relativity as it is related to mechanics at the undergraduate level.

A separate summer-long mechanics institute for college engineering teachers was announced earlier this year. It is supported by a $59,900 NSF grant and will be directed by Prof. James Chinn of the CU engineering department.

Another Poor Year Seen For Soviet Agriculture

By HENRY S. BRADSHER

MOSCOW (AP)—Spring has come late, from the mountains of the Caucasus northward across the rich black plains of the Ukraine and into the birch forests around Moscow—and another poor year is in prospect for Soviet agriculture.

It probably will not be so bad as the disastrous farm results of last year. This is the indication of weather reports and both official and private statements.

But nothing short of a spectacular year could begin to restore wheat reserves that ran out last year, forcing buying in the United States and Canada.

Instead of expecting the spectacular, Soviet experts are already skeptical. Moscow's ambassador to Canada has talked of buying more wheat this year.

Nothing in prospect for some years can give the Russian people the better diet of more meat and dairy products that Premier Khrushchev promised in 1957 would replace their predominantly starchy diet by now. The immediate prospect is less meat.

Animals were slaughtered because they could not be fed. Severe drought last year cut supplies of both fodder and human food by perhaps 20 per cent.

Some 29 million pigs—41 per cent of the total—were killed, together with 7.3 million sheep and goats, 1.5 million cattle and probably a lot of horses, the work animals of undermechanized rural areas.

The slaughter hit government herds especially hard, forcing greater dependence on the 26 million little private farm plots that remain in the Communist system of 49,000 collective and state farms.

The drought blamed for the bad year has been broken by winter snows, the government reports, but the picture is far from cheery.

Some of the richest farming areas in the southwestern part of the Soviet Union had thaws followed by hard freezes that iced up fields. The deeply frozen ground has not absorbed moisture properly. Some areas had bad floods.

Autumn dryness added to problems of the crop of winter wheat. Large areas sown last autumn are having to be resown with lower yield spring wheat.

Soviet agriculture has other problems besides weather.

A basic question is simply whether farming is compatible with the highly centralized control that goes by the name of communism.

Khrushchev, who considers agriculture one of his personal specialties, has moved a little way toward local initiative and local decisions. He has not provided much of the personal incentive that makes Western farms produce.

ity, such as the one being pursued by San Diego's Fred Rohr of Rohr Corp., who tells of applying aircraft fabrication skills to making sandwich panel homes that can be assembled quickly and cheaply.

This kind of diversification is not a perfect answer either, other executives comment. Emerson Mead, president of Smith-Corona Marchant Corp., notes.

Executives say the defense industry has become overcrowded and hotly competitive, and that further shrinkage in total orders could make the going rough in the areas that remain.

"The defense dollar is a hard buck to make," says Boeing Co. President William Allen.

Therefore many businesses are looking to a second possibil- that will sell well on the store product to making something it's not always easy to switch from making a precision shelf.

Dr. Arnold Beckman of Beckman Instruments comments:

"So much of the conversion that people are talking about would mean going into activities already being carried on by someone else. It would be competing with companies already in business. That wouldn't contribute a thing."

The only kind of conversion that would work, he says, is new products. Other executives agree.

But Beckman and others question whether this transition would be quick or automatic.

Already there are signs that civilian industry is not quick to snap up engineers and research people being shed by defense contractors. Nor is the demand for college graduates as intense as it was.

Some suggest that the government may need to step in, one way or another, to quicken the flow of talent into civilian activities. Many executives, inside and outside defense work, seemed to support the idea of special tax provisions or other government incentives to stimulate development of new products.

These executives also were receptive to government participation in another area: public projects to convert seawater, eliminate air pollution, rebuild cities, expand schools, develop mass transportation systems.

Nazi Murderers Are Still Being Hunted in Germany

By WELLINGTON LONG

BONN (UPI) — If there remains in West Germany a single Nazi murderer who has not yet answered for his crimes, there is one man who is determined to get him.

He is 50-year-old district attorney Erwin Schuele, a pleasant but determined Stuttgart man with a long memory and indefatigable tenacity.

Schuele is the man behind the Auschwitz trials and the others either now under way or being prepared for Hitler lieutenants who did their zealous best to follow their fuehrer's dictum that Jews and other "subhuman's" be eliminated as though they were lice.

He started on the trail of the unpunished in 1956 and intends to follow it to the end — until the last one is found.

It was in 1956 that Schuele discovered hundreds of men who had murdered hundreds of thousands of others were still evading justice—and he decided to go after them.

Sitting in his headquarters in the baroque residence city of Ludwigsburg, Schuele recalled how it all began.

"I was a case worker in the Baden - Wuerttemberg State Ministry of Justice in 1956," he said, "when the interrogation of a man named Fischer-Cchweder came across my desk. He had been denounced by someone for allegedly shooting Lithuanian civilians in 1941. Fischer-Schweder denied the allegations, saying that as a police chief in that country, he had been asked by a Wehrmacht officer to execute some partisan snipers sentenced to death by a German army court martial.

"The story rang false to me because I was an infantry officer in that area at that time. In the first place, there hadn't been any partisans sniping at the Germans then. In the second place, no army commander would bother to capture a sniper, hold a court, sentence him to death and then turn him over to some other authority for execution. When on the attack, if we met opposition, we just rolled over it."

Schuele interrogated the man, got him to admit he had been a Gestapo officer and managed to get from him the name of the unit commander, whom Fischer-Schweder claimed had committed suicide. On a gamble, Schuele sent an inquiry to the criminal police. He discovered the man was alive, and was now an important insurance company executive.

But Schuele lacked evidence of a crime. Groping in the dark, he asked an American intelligence officer if it were possible for a German attorney to peek inside the Berlin documents center maintained by the United States and containing Gestapo and other Nazi personnel files.

Eleven years after the war no German law officer had yet been allowed to search those files. But the Americans decided to let Schuele look for the file of one man, Fischer-Schweder's commander.

He found a gold mine. In addition to the man's personnel file, he turned up one of his annual reports. It read like the balance sheet of a corporation, except that the 153,879 figure at the bottom represented not money but the numbers of persons executed by that particular unit in one year.

Schuele had a good hold on the case now. It turned into the prosecution of the Tilsit Einsatz commando group, the first of the professional Nazi murder squads in occupied territories to be tried by a German court.

It was an eye - opener for Schuele, who handled the prosecution as well as the pre-trial investigation.

"When I was captured by the Russians at the end of the war," he recalled, "I was held in Auschwitz. One day we prisoners were taken to Birkenau. By then, it was in ruins. But the Russians walked us around the place, saying this had been a gas chamber, there had been crematoria, here a building filled with baby shoes and human hair, over there a storehouse full of gold teeth fillings, and that the Germans had done all this.

"I thought to myself, they're crazy if they think I'm going to believe all that."

Schuele remained a prisoner of war in Russia until 1950, and so he missed the Nuernberg war crimes trials.

"In the Tilsit investigation," he says now, "I first stumbled on proof of the organization of mass extermination.

"The results of the Tilsit case were a shock to German justice. We suddenly became aware that a whole class of grave, capital injustices had not yet been purged—that the assumption that the Allies had already dealt with all the cases of crimes in the areas formerly occupied by Germany was false."

At Schuele's suggestion, the ministers of justice of the 11 states established a central office to coordinate preliminary investigation of Nazi crimes of violence against civil persons beyond the borders of the former Reich—crimes not actually connected with prosecution of the war.

"To start with, I bought some books—'The Final Solution' by Gerald Reitlinger, and 'The Theory and Practice of Hell' by Eugene Kogon, that sort of thing—and went through the indexes. We got the bound volumes of the Nuernberg trials proceedings.

"Then, we had each state give us a report on every trial or investigation ever conducted in its jurisdiction of alleged crimes that fell within our competence. In this way we were able to start a file of names."

Today, the file contains 136,000 names, with the card of each man containing everything known about his wartime acitivities, and every mention of him in any proceedings known to Schuele's office.

But in the beginning, Schuele's biggest problem was secrecy that had so long cloaked some of the Nazi's worst actions. The Nazis had been secretive about their extermination activities, although they had kept detailed files. These fell into Allied hand at the war's end, but after the Nuernberg trials were removed from Germany and were closed to German officials.

After the war, the Americans, British and French sentenced 5,025 persons for Nazi crimes. Of these 806 were sentenced to death and 486 actually executed. The Russians convicted about 10,000 Nazis of crimes, giving most of them 25-year sentences. Perhaps another 4,000 were convicted by other countries.

Between the end of the war and the end of 1962, West German courts had heard cases against 12,846 Nazis and had convicted 5,426 of them. Twelve had been sentenced to death, and 75 to life imprisonment. The remaining 5,225 had received lesser prison sentences.

But 90 per cent of these cases had been completed by the end of 1953, and the prosecution of Nazis seemed at an end.

A number of reasons had been advanced for the lull that then followed in the prosecution of Nazis.

—The incriminating documents were in foreign hands and unavailable to German authorities. A number of cases later convictions were pigeon-holed at that time because many key witnesses as well as accused still were abroad, either as prisoners of war in Russia or hiding under assumed names in South America, Spain or Africa.

In 1954, the federal government announced an amnesty for those who were using false identities. Quite a few of the men mistakenly thought this also freed them from prosecution for other crimes, and came into the open, even filing for soldiers pensions.

And many of those abroad decided it was safe to come home.

By 1959, Schuele had established himself in the state prison at Ludwigsburg — chosen because it happened to have an empty suite of offices and because it was already tightly guarded. Schuele could imagine that once his files started growing, a number of persons might be interested in refiling them.

He established a working relationship with the U.S. documents center in Berlin. But the American staff was so small it often required up to four months to answer one of Schuele's queries. In 1960, Schuele registered a big advance when he and an assistant were allowed to search the former German files kept by the Americans in Alexandria, Va. There, Schuele selected and photographed 10,000 documents detailing the work of the killer groups.

Schuele objects to suggestions heard from certain quarters in Germany that the people now being tried are "only small fry."

"All of the people now on trial or to be tried," he emphasized, "were equipped with their own command authority. Look at those Auschwitz defendants — no one can say they were small fry.

"I am not interested in the private soldier who was assigned to the firing squad. These men were afraid to disobey orders. I have never yet found a single case of a man being shot for refusing to take part in such executions. But I can understand private soldiers feared they'd be shot for a refusal.

"Of course, if we find a private soldier who clearly exceeded his orders, like the man who notched his rifle butt for every Jew he killed and every one hundred notches allowed himself a good drink, we put him on trial."

"These trials have a tremendous educational value," he concluded. "I don't accept that all Germans are murderers. But these cases show what a criminal state can make of a people who are peace loving."

Solid Citizens Prefer Three-Button Suits, Still

NEW YORK (UPI) — Most men go through three phases of dress—ultra-conservatism in college, a venture into higher style when he graduates, and a return to ultra - conservatism when he becomes a solid citizen.

And with a nod to that old saw about leading a horse to water, etc., you can lead a solid citizen to a one - button suit but you can't make him wear it. He wants a three-button jacket and preferably with two pairs of pants.

The big manufacturers are forced to make three types of suits to fit the changing demand —the young man's traditional or ivy league with natural shoulders, the sharper suit with a bit of flair—a little squarer shoulder and one or two buttons—and the gentleman's three-button suit.

The "bread and butter" suit is even more conservative than the notoriously conservative college wear. Strictly three-button, rarely two - button, sometimes with pleats in the pants. A Sunday suit for what George Weintraub calls the backbone of the nation.

Weintraub is vice president in charge of sales for Joseph H. Cohen & Sons, Inc., a manufacturer of men's suits in such prodigious quantities that its Philadelphia plant turns out 25,000 to 30,000 a week at peak capacity.

Most people describe him as "dynamic" when they speak of his sales ability, whether he's traveling the country as he does often or whether he is meeting in the New York showroom with the buyer for some big store that sells the Cohen suit under its own label.

"We profess to know the business but when buyers come in from Shreveport, Dallas, Omaha, etc., you can tell them your one-button suit is the biggest thing in the world," he said. "They agree and say, please give me a gentleman's three-button suit."

These are the suits for the man who puts home and family first, a car second and himself a poor third. He doesn't buy very many suits over the years and as a result as men's clothes slowly evolve he may end up a not too well dressed solid citizen.

"Men aren't dressing up properly," Weintraub says. "It's a terrible thing to see wide lapels, wide double-breasted lapels. A campaign should be prepared to pay $10 for an old fashioned suit and give it to the Red Cross or some other charity."

Weintraub says that throughout the country the traditional or ivy league will account for about 20 per cent of total sales, the fashion number with one or two buttons and its many variations 20 to 25 per cent. The bread and butter suit makes up the remaining 60 to 65 per cent.

"Fashion people say that's what's the trouble with fashion," Weintraub said. "But you give women wildly plunging necklines and some will wear them but most of them will not. If you try to make men wear one-button suits they would stop buying."

Whether things will ever change remains doubtful. Many a young man who wouldn't dare wear anything but traditional in college starts swinging with the fashions when he's out on his own—except for the hidebound Ivy League type who never changes.

"But men throughout the country — Albuquerque, Laredo, Minneapolis, Chicago, Gary, Kokomo—go to work after finishing school and like his daddy he just goes in to buy a nice suit and that customer will never change."

There is a slight change — some of the conservative breed are wearing a few two - button jackets and by fall the figure may reach 35 per cent of total sales. But they will be staunchly conservative with variation — low two button (plunging neckline), high two button, one vent, two vents, etc.

FEDERAL TAX TIPS

BY ROGER E. WARD
Administrative Representative
Internal Revenue Service

EMPLOYMENT TAX RETURN DUE. Local area employers are again reminded that Thursday is an important tax date. It is the dealine for reporting and paying income tax withheld and social security taxes for the calendar quarter ended March 31, 1964. Employers should use Form 941 to report their tax liability for that period, and mail it along with depositary receipts and full payment of taxes due, to DISTRICT DIRECTOR, INTERNAL REVENUE SERVICE, DENVER, COLORADO 80902. Circular E, Employer's Tax Guide, which furnishes more detailed information on this subject is available upon request at our local offices located at 521 South Tejon St., or by giving us a call at 636-7171.

EXCISE TAX RETURN ALSO DUE. Manufacturers, retailers, and other taxpayers required to file quarterly Federal excise tax returns are reminded that the deadline for filing returns and paying the tax for the calendar quarter ending March 31, 1964, is also Thursday.

Taxpayers liable for more than $100 of the excise taxes listed on Form 720 for any month, except the third month of a quarter, are required to deposit their full payments of these taxes in local authorized banks or a Federal Reserve Bank before the last day of the month after the month in which the tax liability occurred. Form [illegible] Federal Depositary Receipt, is used for this purpose. Returns should also be sent to the District Director whose address is given above. If a pre-addressed Form 720 is received, they should be used.

IDENTIFY YOUR PAYMENT. Unidentified checks come into Internal Revenue Service offices every day. Often we receive payments with no explanation as to what they are for. When this happens, these checks are placed in a special account. Every effort is made to identify these payments. But this takes time and additional clerical help — help which could be used to process refunds. IRS has a large number of checks just waiting to be credited to some taxpayer's account. In making remittances attach your bill or notice and if possible place a notation on the check what the payment is for, the year of tax, and the type of tax owed.

Dr. Schweitzer Defies Africa's Progressiveness

By ANDREW BOROWIEC

LAMBARENE, Gabon (AP)—In his jungle hospital on the banks of the Ogooue River, Dr. Albert Schweitzer defies Africa's rush toward the white man's idea of progress.

His hospital has treated more than 50,000 Africans in its 40-year existence. They continue to come in growing numbers to the filth-strewn shacks serving as wards—disregarding a new, gleaming hospital built by the French on nearby Lambarene Island.

"Here they find conditions to which they are accustomed and they know they will be cured," says the old man with bushy white eyebrows.

Dr. Schweitzer has become one of the most controversial figures in restless Africa. The problem narrows down to whether the continent should force its development or should be left to itself and its traditions.

"Africa—" he begins, and dismisses the subject with a wave.

"There is no point in writing all this," he says with an ironic smile. "They are trying to stir the people up against me."

"They" are the few educated Africans who head the continent's sometimes reckless move toward European-type civilization. Their critics — European and African alike—accuse them of frequently overlooking the most valid parts of Western civilization for the glitter of superficial progress.

Said a French official working for the Gabon government:

"For years we have been thinking of forcing him to introduce some idea of hygiene, adopt modern treatment methods. But we are powerless. He has millions of dollars and influential people behind him."

Dr. Schweitzer has heard all this. He sees only one thing—that the black man from the bush continues to come for help to him and his doctors, some of whom come from the world's best hospitals.

Some sick are carried by relatives over 200 miles of forest paths. Once in the hospital, they get a ticket with a number. It is explained "African names are too complicated — who knows how to spell them anyway?"

To Schwietzer and his staff the problem is simple—you cannot give an African two pills and tell him to take them on two different occasions. He has to be given one pill at a time and supervised when swallowing it.

There are no showers in the hospital—the sick are washed by their families in the Ogooue. There is no latrine "because they are not used to it."

No nurses are on duty in the wards but 15 work in the hospital. Families alert the doctors in case of emergency.

And thousands of Africans leave Schweitzer's hospital cured and grateful. They return to mud shacks in the heart of the rain forest.

Loose-Tongued TV Alerted To Cut Swearing

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Television has been getting loose-tongued lately. CBS, alerted, has moved to cut the swearing out of its programs.

Michael Dann, program vice president, in a short note to producers Wednesday noted, "an increase in the use of expressions which a significant number of viewers find unacceptable."

"While we do not permit under any circumstances references to the diety in other than reverent fashion," the memo continued, "a number of dramatic episodes have employed 'hell' 'damn' and the like. We do not wish so to restrict creative effort as to emasculate or bowdlerize our programs. Nevertheless, I am convinced that the instances of the use of questionable slang can be further and significantly reduced."

Dann said that many complaints had been received from viewers about offensive language, and that there had also been expressions of unhappiness from affiliated television stations which use their programs.

Even casual television viewers have noticed, on all networks, more frequent and incidental use of strong words and phrases which in many homes are considered shocking.

There is another problem area left in the medical and psychiatric programs. Frequently the themes are built around subjects not usually discussed with children present. "Questionable slang" also pops up in the excitement of the game and panel shows.

All networks might do a little cracking down, too, on the deliberate double entendres that pop up in variety shows (Red Skelton and Johnny Carson seem to reach for them). From time to time, there is a mildly dirty joke. Some viewers are shocked; others find them merely childish and vulgar. Either way, it is offensive.

Dave Garroway will be returning soon to broadcasting—with a CBS radio show. ABC's Howard K. Smith has made his motion picture debut—playing himself in "The Best Man." Jerry Paris, who plays the dentist-neighbor on "The Dick Van Dyke Show" will continue to direct most of the shows episodes.

The EXCHANGE had just opened for business when Seven Falls became a scenic attraction back in 1888!

The value of Seven Falls as a scenic attraction was first recognized by James Hull. A short time after purchasing the land he began building a road up to the falls. The stairway beside the falls was built to enable visitors to get to the top of the falls for a breath-taking view of mountains and plains. In recent years convenience and entertainment facilities have been added to make the spot even more enjoyable. Seven Falls, now owned by A. G. Hill, is annually visited by nearly one-quarter million people.

When The Exchange National Bank first opened for business customer services were geared to the time – 1888. In succeeding decades The Exchange has continued to expand and add facilities to better serve the needs of the customer – from the banking necessities of 1888, to the full-service commercial banking facilities of today. One service that existed in 1888 and remains today is "personal service". For full-service banking facilities and personal service . . . visit The Exchange National Bank.

Another Poor Year Seen For Soviet Agriculture

By HENRY S. BRADSHER

MOSCOW (AP)—Spring has come late from the mountains of the Caucasus northward across the rich black plains of the Ukraine and into the birch forests around Moscow—and another poor year is in prospect for Soviet agriculture.

It probably will not be so bad as the disastrous farm results of last year. This is the indication of weather reports and both official and private statements.

But nothing short of a spectacular year could begin to restore wheat reserves that ran out last year, forcing buying in the United States and Canada.

Instead of expecting the spectacular, Soviet experts are already skeptical. Moscow's ambassador to Canada has talked [illegible] buying more wheat this year.

Nazi Murderers Are Still Being Hunted in Germany

He started [illegible] unpunished [illegible] to follow [illegible] the last [illegible]

It was in [illegible] discovered [illegible] who had murdered [illegible] thousands [illegible] evading justice and [illegible] to go after them.

Sitting [illegible] the [illegible] Ludwigsburg, Schuele [illegible] how it all began.

"I was a [illegible] Baden-Wuerttemberg State Ministry of Justice [illegible]" he said, "when the [illegible] a man named Fischer-Schweder came across my desk. He had been denounced [illegible] allegedly shooting [illegible] civilians in 1941. Fischer-Schweder countered the allegations saying that as a police chief in that county he had been [illegible] a Wehrmacht officer [illegible] some partisan snipers sentenced to death by a German army court martial.

"The story rang false to me because I was an infantry officer in that area at that time. In the first place, there hadn't been any partisans sniping at the Germans then. In the second place, no army commander would bother to capture a sniper, hold a court, sentence him to death and then turn him over to some other authority for execution. When [illegible] we met [illegible] we just rolled over [illegible]"

Schuele [illegible] the man [illegible] he had been a Gestapo [illegible] and managed to get from him the name of the unit commander whom Fischer-Schweder claimed had committed suicide. On a gamble Schuele sent an inquiry to the criminal police. He discovered the man was alive and was now an important insurance company executive.

But Schuele lacked evidence of a crime. Groping in the dark he asked an American intelligence officer if it were possible for a German attorney to peek inside the Berlin documents center maintained by the United States and containing Gestapo and other Nazi personnel files.

Eleven years after the war no German law officer had yet been allowed to search those [illegible]. But the Americans decided to let Schuele look for the [illegible] one man Fischer-Schweder [illegible] commander.

Schuele remained a prisoner of war in Russia until 1950 and [illegible] missed the Nuernberg war crimes trials.

"The results of the Tilsit case were a shock to Germany [illegible] We suddenly became aware that a whole class of [illegible] capital [illegible] had not [illegible] been purged—that the assumption that the Allies had already dealt with all the cases [illegible] in the areas formerly [illegible] by Germany was false."

At Schuele's suggestion, the ministers of justice of the 11 states established a central office to coordinate preliminary investigation of Nazi crimes [illegible] against civil persons [illegible] the [illegible] crimes not actually connected with prosecution of the war.

"To start with I bought some books, 'The Final Solution' by Gerald Reitlinger and 'The Theory and Practice of Hell' by Eugene Kogon, that sort of thing [illegible] the indexes. We got the bound volumes of the Nuernberg trials proceedings.

"Then we had each state give us a report on every trial or investigation ever conducted in its jurisdiction of alleged crimes that fell within our competence. In this way we were able to start a file of names."

There Schuele selected and photographed [illegible] 000 documents detailing the [illegible] of the killer groups.

ANPA Carries Newspaper Flag, President Says

NEW YORK (AP) — Gene Robb, publisher of two Albany (N.Y.) newspapers and the new president of the American Newspaper Publishers Association says the association "carries the flag" of the newspaper business.

And he says he will do his level best to uphold the principles of the association, which represents 884 newspapers.

Robb, publisher of the Times-Union and the Knickerbocker News, made the pledge after his election by the ANPA Thursday.

His first official act was presentation of a plaque to outgoing President Irwin Maier, president and publisher of the Milwaukee Journal and the Milwaukee Sentinel. Maier had served the association's traditional two one-year terms as president. Presentation of the plaque was the final event of the ANPA's convention, for which a record-high 1,563 persons were registered.

J. Howard Wood, Chicago Tribune, was elected to succeed Robb as vice president. Joyce A. Swan, Minneapolis Star and Tribune, was elected treasurer to succeed Frank A. Daniels, Raleigh (N.C.) News & Observer and Times. St. Clair Balfour, Southam Newspapers, Toronto, Canada, was re-elected secretary. The votes for the officers and for nine directors were unanimous.

Maier was elected to a two-year term as a director. Also elected to two-year terms were Peyton Anderson, Macon (Ga.) Telegraph & News and Jack R. Howard, Scripps-Howard Newspapers, New York.

Eugene S. Pulliam, Indianapolis (Ind.) Star & News, was elected a director for one year to fill the unexpired term of Wood upon the latter's election as vice president.

Directors re-elected for two-year terms were Eugene C. Bishop, Peninsula Newspapers, Palo Alto, Calif.; Barnard L. Colby, New London (Conn.) Day; John T. Jones Jr., Houston (Tex.) Chronicle; William F. Schmick Jr., Baltimore (Md.) Sun, and Walter W. White, Lincoln (Neb.) Star.

The ANPA, whose conventions have traditionally been held in New York City, will meet here next year but it raised the possibility that some future conventions may be held elsewhere. The convention adopted a resolution to the effect that the conventions may be held in New York or in other places in the United States or in Canada.

The convention adopted a resolution in tribute to 97 association members who had died since the last convention. The resolution, read by Robert M. White II, Mexico (Mo.) Ledger, said: "We are grateful to have had them for our friends. We are grateful, as is the nation, as is the cause of freedom itself for their high service in the high calling of journalism."

Two Komodo dragons, largest of all living lizards, were given to Washington's National Zoo recently by Indonesia's Premier Sukarno. The reptiles are the only ones living in captivity in the United States.

Cardiac Nerves Essential To Continued Heart Health

By The Colorado Chiropractic Society

Is it possible that heart trouble is caused by failure of the cardiac nerves as well as — or rather than — blood clots?

Heart attacks are among the most common causes of death in the United States, and it strikes down not only the elderly in retirement age but young men too. It is not uncommon to see men in their 30s striken. It is not even rare among men in their 20s.

It is good sense for every man to consider himself a possible target for heart trouble, just as he must prepare with fire insurance on his home to protect his family.

Where his heart is concerned, two questions head the list.

What causes it, and can I prevent it?

The blood clot has been winning most of the credit for causing heart failure in recent years, yet, there is another area of cause which has been ignored to an unsafe extent.

It is simply this: the failure of the cardiac nerves to direct the activities of the heart muscles.

In testing the blood clot theory, the doctor of chiropractic asks why, if there are enough blood clots to stop proper blood flow in the heart muscles, why don't more clots reach the brain with serious consequences?

This doctor, using the standard scientific approach of theory and then trial, gets results with predictable regularity, proving in any research laboratory that a cut nerve supply to the heart is disastrous.

But such cases of nerve trouble are treatable — nerves are not cut, but only pinched. Evidence of this condition is found in cases where patients experience pain in the left chest area, shoulder and arm long before outright heart trouble is diagnosed, turning into a full-fledged heart attack only when the nerves are pinched off to the point that the heart can no longer function.

The rules for supplying nerve energy are very basic. The electronics expert learns before anything else that equipment won't work without a power supply — well soldered connections and careful maintenance is not enough.

The human body, the heart included, is subject to the same rules; that is, without that nerve supply from the power source, which is the brain, it will quit working just as surely as a radio tube will go out if the electricity is turned off.

Another weakness in the blood clot theory is the common case of a businessman who, having driven himself to a high nervous pitch, is suddenly stricken with a heart attack. Blood clots? Not likely, says the doctor of chiropractic. It is, rather, the breaking point for already hard pressed nerves.

What to do if heart failure occurs or threatens?

Diagnosis, immediately, not only of the heart itself but of nerve condition in the place where trouble most often occurs, in the spinal column.

A bad heart needs its nerve supply. Your chiropractor can do this for you as no other doctor is trained to do.

Your time is measured by your heartbeats. Keep it healthy.

Slick-Up Week Set for Air Academy

Brooms and rakes, mops and dust rags, will temporarily replace more familiar equipment at the Air Force Academy.

Col. Ralph J. Hallenbeck, chief of staff, has proclaimed May 11-15 as clean up week and staff members will soon launch a campaign to slick up the Academy for the soon-to-arrive influx of summer visitors.

To spur efforts in housing areas, Col. Hallenbeck will meet May 1 with the senior occupant of each cluster. Recognition will be given the best cluster in Douglass and Pine Valleys and in the senior officer's housing area.

Inspectors will also check all Academy organizations for good housekeeping practices, supply discipline, standardization of equipment, and cleanliness of facilities and equipment.

Ratings of excellent, satisfactory or unsatisfactory will be given. Certificates will be presented to all units receiving superior ratings.

In commenting on the annual clean-up effort, Col. Hallenbeck said: "People from all over the world will be here for June Week and we want the Academy to be spic and span for them."

BOY SCOUT TO ADMIRAL — Over 90 per cent of today's Navy Admirals were once in the Scouting program. Former scout, Rear Admiral William A. Sea Explorers of Ship Kitty Hawk will demonstrate, during the four-day Scout-O-Rama their seamanship abilities by comparing small boating programs of the Sea Explorers to the large Navy ships commanded by Admirals.

Mental Retarded Unit Is Approved

BOULDER (UPI) — University of Colorado Regents Friday approved an affiliation of the Medical Center in Denver and the State Department of Institutions for building and operating new hospital and treatment facilities for mentally retarded at the State Training School at Wheat Ridge.

The proposed 100-bed hospital would be used for treatment of acute and chronic mental retardation.

It would be financed by a $360,000 legislative appropriation and matching federal funds. The project is estimated to cost $1,291,000.

CU Regents Approve Lab

BOULDER (AP) — University of Colorado regents approved today plans for a $1.8 million building to house the Joint Institute for Laboratory Astrophysics.

The building will be used in a program for advanced research in graduate education. It will be financed through federal grants and by funds advanced by the state under authorization by the legislature earlier this year.

The regents also agreed to sell $440,000 in housing revenue bonds to a combine of Boettcher & Co. and John Nuveen & Co. of Denver at an interest rate of 3.459 per cent.

Bonds totaling $1.6 million will be sold to the Federal Housing Home Finance Agency at 3.5 per cent interest. The funds will be used to build the Kittredge Residence Hall for 500 unmarried students, ready next fall.

Dr. Schweitzer Defies Africa's Progressiveness

By ANDREW BOROWIEC

LAMBARENE, Gabon (AP) — In his jungle hospital on the banks of the Ogooue River, Dr. Albert Schweitzer defies Africa's rush toward the white man's idea of progress.

His hospital has treated more than 50,000 Africans in its 43-year existence. They continue to come in growing numbers to the [illegible] serving as wards, [illegible] a new gleaming hospital built by the French in nearby Lambarene Island.

"Here they find conditions to which they are accustomed and they know they will be cured," says the old man with bushy white eyebrows.

Dr. Schweitzer has become one of the most controversial figures in restless Africa. The problem narrows down to whether the continent should force its development or should be left to itself and its traditions.

"Africa ..." he begins and dismisses the subject with a wave.

There is [illegible]

They are the few educated Africans who [illegible] the continent's sometimes reckless move toward European-type civilization. Their critics — European and African alike — accuse them of frequently overlooking the most valid parts of Western civilization for the glitter of superficial progress.

Said a French official working for the Gabon government:

"For years we have been thinking of forcing him to introduce some idea of hygiene, adopt modern treatment methods. But we are powerless. He has millions of dollars and influential people behind him."

Dr. Schweitzer has heard all this. He sees only one thing: that the black man from the bush continues to come for help to him and his doctors, some of whom come from the world's best hospitals.

Some [illegible] ferried by relatives [illegible] 200 miles of forest [illegible]. Once in the hospital, they get a [illegible] with a number. It is explained: "African names are too complicated ... who knows how to spell them anyway?"

To Schweitzer and his staff the problem is simple — you cannot give an African two pills and tell him to take them on two different occasions. He has to be given one pill at a time and supervised when swallowing it.

There are no [illegible] in the hospital — the sick are washed by their families in the Ogooue. There is no [illegible] because they are not used to it.

No nurses are on duty in the wards [illegible] in case of emergency.

Loose-Tongued TV Alerted To Cut Swearing

Even casual television viewers have noticed on all networks more frequent and incidental use of strong words and phrases which in many homes are considered shocking.

There is another problem area left in the medical and psychiatric programs. Frequently the themes are built around subjects not usually discussed with children present. Questionable slang also pops up in the excitement of the game and panel shows.

All networks might do a little cracking down, too, on the deliberate double entendres that pop up in variety shows. Red Skelton and Johnny Carson seem to reach for them. From time to time there is a mildly dirty joke. Some viewers are shocked, others find them merely childish and vulgar. Either way, it is offensive.

Dave Garroway will be returning soon to broadcasting with a CBS radio show. ABC's Howard K. Smith has made his motion picture debut playing himself in "The Best Man." Jerry Paris, who plays the dentist-neighbor on "The Dick Van Dyke Show," will continue to direct most of the show's episodes.

The EXCHANGE had just opened for business when Seven Falls became a scenic attraction back in 1888!

The value of Seven Falls as a scenic attraction was first recognized by James Hull. A short time after purchasing the land he began building a road up to the falls. The stairway beside the falls was built to enable visitors to get to the top of the falls for a breath-taking view of the falls and plains. In recent years several new entertainment facilities have been added to make the spot even more enjoyable. Seven Falls, now owned by A. G. Hill, is annually visited by nearly one-quarter million people.

When The Exchange National Bank first opened for business customer services were geared to the time — 1888. In succeeding decades The Exchange has continued to expand and add facilities to better serve the needs of the customer — from the banking necessities of 1888, to the full-service commercial banking facilities of today. One service that existed in 1888 and remains today is "personal service". For full-service banking facilities and personal service . . . visit The Exchange National Bank.

Health Policies Added To Electronic System

An electronic data processing system has taken over all the routine daily transactions between Mutual of New York and its health insurance policyholders in 14 areas of the United States, including the area served by MONY's Leo E. Quinlan agency at 619 N. Cascade Ave.

MONY's life insurance policies were converted to the system over the last two years.

The core of the system is an IBM 7070 computer and other ultra-fast equipment in MONY's home office in New York City. There is no electronic equipment in the Colorado Springs office.

State Department Finds Security Risks in Ranks

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the news from Washington:

SECURITY RISKS: The State Department says it found 63 security risks in its ranks last year, most of them homosexuals, none subversives.

The report was given to a House Appropriations subcommittee in closed session Feb. 4 and released by the subcommittee Thursday. The department has 25,000 employes.

Raymond W. Laugel, acting deputy assistant secretary for security, told the subcommittee all 63 employes resigned after the department showed them its evidence.

Laugel said that the 63 security risks included 45 homosexuals, 6 employes with psychiatric difficulties, 5 excessive drinkers, 3 accused of immoral conduct, 2 employes who had undesirable associates, 1 accused of falsification, and 1 accused of misusing funds.

Laugel said the employe accused of misusing funds was a foreign service procurement and supply specialist in the Far East with responsibility "for nonofficial commissary funds which were loosely handled; he loaned money and got in arrears."

The State Department reported that he reimbursed the overseas post for the $1,313 that was misused.

BAKER: An Internal Revenue Service investigation has established that Bobby Baker forged an accountant's name to 1961 federal income tax returns, Commissioner Mortimer Caplin said in a letter to Chairman B. Everett Jordan, D-N.C., of the Senate Rules Committee.

Caplin said Baker signed the name of Milton L. Hauft as the preparer of the individual return submitted by Baker and by his wife Dorothy and also as the preparer of his partnership return on the Carousel Motel in Ocean City, Md.

"These facts will be further considered by the service as they relate to Mr. Baker's tax affairs," Caplin said.

Under the law, the taxpayer must sign his income tax form. The signature of any person who helped him prepare the return also is required.

Sen. John J. Williams, Delaware Republican whose private investigation of Baker compelled the Senate to hold hearings, read Caplin's letter to the Senate and suggested the Justice Department "take appropriate action."

Baker resigned under fire Oct. 7 as $19,600-a-year secretary to the Senate's Democrats.

RED BLOC: The United States is reported giving serious consideration to sale of a synthetic rubber plant to Communist Romania in view of the satellite nation's efforts to gain some independence from the Soviet Union.

The State Department is understood to favor the sale, but officials say there is a difference of opinion with the administration. In any event, Gheorghe Gaston-Marin, Romania's deputy premier, has been invited to Washington for negotiations.

HEALTH INSURANCE: Sen. Harrison A. Williams, D-N.J., will conduct a hearing May 4 on deceptive and misleading practices in the sale of health insurance policies.

"We are particularly interested in the methods used by some companies in the sale of mail order policies and in the high-pressure tactics of at least a few relatively small companies," Williams said today.

The senator is chairman of the subcommittee on frauds and misrepresentation affecting the elderly.

Horace Mann Hears From Japanese School

Ken D. Chandler, principal at Horace Mann Junior High School received a formal letter from M. Miyashita, principal of Shimoyoshida Junior High School, Fujiyoshida, Japan saying "We feel it is an honor and a pleasure to be called 'your sister school.'"

Shimoyoshida Junior High School is one of three junior high school's in the city of Fujiyoshida, which is located on the northern slope of Japan's famous Mt. Fuji. This school was opened in 1947 with approximately 450 students, today the enrollment is close to 1900.

The school year is divided into three school terms, which total 248 school days. Classes are held from 8:30 a.m. to 3:15 p.m. five and one-half days a week.

The subject offered are similar to ours, they do offer English. "I guess we should try teaching Japanese to our students," said James D. Beechwood, sister school chairman.

AFA Dining Hall Wins Hennessy Trophy Again

The third time's a charm — for the Air Force Academy's Airman Dining Hall, at least.

After taking first runner up spot for two straight years, the Academy facility has been named winner of the coveted Hennessy Trophy, symbolic of the outstanding single unit dining hall in the entire Air Force.

SM Sgt. Eldon Rice, food service officer, and S Sgt. Ray Orth, dining hall NOCIC, will attend the National Restaurant Association Exposition in Chicago May 24 to accept the trophy for the Academy.

The Hennessy Trophy is named in honor of John L. Hennessy, named food service advisor by President Roosevelt during World War II.

Co-sponsors of the award are the National Cafeteria Managers Assn., the Food Services Executives Assn., and the National Restaurant Assn.

COWS FOR KIMULI

* * *

Scout's Promise Pays Off in Cows for Kimuli

"Thirty-five dollars — for a cow!" was the reaction when Karen Thomas, publicity chairman for the Cows for Kimuli Committee, suggested that her brother Jon's Explorer Post raise money for cows.

She convinced him that the Scout's promise to "help other people at all times" extends to buying cows for starving Africans as well as to helping little old ladies across streets.

Cows are needed for a group of Rwandese refugee families in the Kimuli valley of Tanganyika. These families have been uprooted by political and social turmoil resulting from the trouble in the Congo. They lost their homes, possessions, and dairy cattle — the basis of their economy.

These Rwandese have been given land and meagre rations in Tanganyika. But rebuilding lives is a hard task in a new country, particularly when you don't have necessary possessions. It is a long struggle to make the virgin bush produce adequate harvests.

Dr. Pierre Gravel, anthropologist at the University of Colorado, lived with these people before the upheaval. He recently received word of his ex-neighbors' desperate plight, and with some CU anthropology students, formed a Cows for Kimuli Committee.

With native cows $35 a head, the committee would hope to raise about $10,000, a cow per family. Funds are being handled by the CROP program of Church World Service, with headquarters in Denver.

When questioned about the December-January atrocities in Rwanda, Miss Thomas stressed that these Rwandese are not those who returned to Rwanda and were massacred in large numbers. "In fact," she states, "it is precisely to prevent another such occurrence that cows for Kimuli is so important. If these people have an opportunity to rebuild their lives on their traditional economy — cows — it will be more possible for them to remain as peaceable as they have always been."

Explorer Post 23 worked like "good scouts" to raise $35 for one cow. They helped with two big meals at the First Methodist Church, preparing food, serving, and cleaning up. They were assisted by helpful mothers, fathers, sisters, brothers, and girl friends. The Explorers also worked at several First Methodist service dinners.

Methodist Men is the sponsoring organization of the complete Scouting program at First Methodist Church, Dr. Ben F. Lehmberg pastor. David Hays, son of Mr. and Mrs. Will Hays, 1303 Langmeyer, is president of the post, and Harold Poch, 3301 Jon, is the current Explorer committee chairman. Post Advisor Pfc. Bill Millet, formerly Scout executive of George Washington District, Trenton, N.J., is currently fulfilling his military obligation at Ft. Carson, and will return to professional Scouting at the conclusion of his military service.

As Scout Executive Jim Wiant comments, "This is a very unusual project for a post to participate in, most worthwhile. Usually the money they raise is used for themselves and their activities."

Interested persons may contact the Cows for Kimuli Committee, Box 1231, Boulder, or Miss Thomas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Thomas, 1132 N. Farragut. She is a senior anthropology student at CU.

Questions and Answers On Alcoholism

Editor's Note: As a public service, The Gazette Telegraph will answer questions on Alcoholism and Problem Drinking in our region. Send all inquiries to this newspaper. Answers will be supplied by G. L. McDougall, Director, Alcoholism Information Center, Out West Building, sponsored by the El Paso County Council on Alcoholism.

1 Q. What Are the Symptoms Associated with Acute Alcoholism?

A. Symptoms, such as marked hyperexcitability, restlessness, and nausea or vomiting, may be features of acute intoxication, and their control is a very large and important part of the management of the patient.

2 Q. What are the Symptoms Associated with the Postalcoholic State?

A. Marked tremor and tension, and other symptoms generally grouped together as psychomotor hyperactivity, may be a significant feature of the immediate postalcoholic state. These symptoms are very disturbing to the patient and are the most important cause of immediate resumption of drinking. Depression and guilt feelings are often prominent.

3 Q. What is Meant by Alcoholic Coma?

A. Alcholic coma is a special complication of the acute state. The coma is, of couse, due to the anesthetic effect of the alcohol on the brain, and the treatment is much the same as that of any anesthetic coma.

4 Q. Are Convulsions a Feature of the Acute or Post-Alcoholic State?

A. Convulsions occasionally are a feature of the postalcoholic state. When they occur they usually appear after the acute drinking has stopped, and therefore, might be considered a complication of the immediate post-alcoholic period. They can be quite severe. In most instances, no evidence of true epilepsy can be found. When this complication does occur, however, a thorough study including electroencephalography should be done if it has not been done in the past. These convulsions are usually limited to the immediate postalcoholic period, and, when they do occur, they tend to reappear with each alcoholic episode.

5 Q. Should Drugs Be Given in Treatment of an Alcoholic?

A. "Anxiety and its protean somatic manifestations are commonly seen in chronic alcoholics. The Use of barbiturates and other addicting drugs in controlling these symptoms should be extremely cautious. Some patients get as drunk on barbituates as they do on alcohol, and many are undoubtedly susceptible to drug addiction because of the similar psychological and physiological factors involved in most addictions" says Daniel J. Feldman, M. D. and Dr. Howard D. Zucker of New York.

6. Q. What Are The Goals of Therapy in Treating an Alcoholic?

A. To attain a state of complete abstinence from alcohol (for the alcoholic can never become a controlled drinker) is but the first step in therapy. Compulsive drinking, though, merely a symptom of a deep-seated personality or social maladjustment, has to be brought under control before any attempt at deeper therapy can succeed. The ultimate aim in addition to sobriety should be to render the patient more comfortable with himself and others, more effective in both work and play, more aware of and sensative to his own and others needs ... in short to help him to attain a greater degree of maturity and social adjustment. To give up the almost completely egocentric orientation of the child for that of the understanding and giving adult is a large order, and is only partially attained in any of us, be we neurotic, alcoholic or 'normal.'"

7 Q. Is Motivation Important for Recovery of the Alcoholic?

A. The question of motivation for recovery of the alcoholic is of the utmost importance. No patient will even consider giving up alchol until the suffering it causes him is greater than the pleasure it gives him. He must lose something important to him or at least be threatened with such a loss. This may be a job, the threat of divorce, the loss of social prestige, a lessening of self-respect, or the loss of physical health. Though these are powerful motivating forces, they are negative ones, and are often not sufficient in themselves to turn the tide.

Equally important are the positive motivating forces, the realistic expectations that eventually a life of sobriety can be happier and more rewarding than one of recurrent alcoholic crisis. It may take years before the alcoholic will concede this and, of course, some never do. Realistically, it is important to reach him before he has lost too much, because rehabilitation becomes the more difficult the further down he is on his descent. The chance of recovery is definitely greater when the patient still has a family and job.

8. Q. Is Early Detection and Treatment Important?

A. So important, is early detection and early treatment, that it may be necessary to precipatate a crisis. Quite often the family will need to be contacted and worked with before the patient will be willing to seek treatment. For the family to continue indefinitely to condone, excuse, and cover up for the alcholic, simply allows him to remain in his dependent and unrealistic status. Accepting alcoholism as an illness has had a profound salutary effect on the climate of public opinion, but it is equally important to bear in mind that it is a recoverable illness, and there is a duty incumbent on the family and society to do everything possible to help the patient to recover. In the last analysis, however, the alcoholic had to do his own getting well. We can help him, but we cannot do it for him. His desire to stop drinking may come and go depending upon the immediate circumstances surrounding him, and these we can sometimes influence.

Cardiac Nerves Essential To Continued Heart Health

Region Book Condensed by Reader's Digest

The colorful days of the Colorado gold rush at Cripple Creek come alive in the May issue of Reader's Digest, to be on the newsstands Tuesday.

The story, "No Place For A Lady," is told by Mrs. Mabel Barbee Lee, former dean of women at Colorado College. It is a condensed from of her book, "Cripple Creek Days," first published in 1958.

Mrs. Lee was eight years old when her father, Johnson Barbee, got gold fever and went west to Cripple Creek in 1892. She lived there for the next nine years until she came down to Colorado Springs for her senior year of high school in 1901. The following year she entered Colorado College.

In "No Place For A Lady," Mrs. Lee recalls her introduction to the boisterous gold camp:

"It was around midnight when we toiled up the last mountain slope, crossed the divide, and found the lights of Cripple Creek gleaming below. The driver stopped to let the horses blow after their long climb. Then, following an unvarying ritual, he lashed them smartly and raced downhill into the town at a headlong gallop, stopping at the last possible moment in front of the Continental Hotel with much screeching of brakes and dramatic skidding of iron tires.

An immense crowd, which had confidently been awaiting these theatrics, welcomed us with an uproar of unrestrained whoops, cries of "Hello, suckers!" and exuberant pistol shots."

The story is that of the exciting life in the famous mining town seen through the eyes of a little girl. Although Mrs. Lee later was to become dean of women at Colorado College (from 1922 to 1929) and went on to help found Bennington College in Vermont, her roots always were in Cripple Creek.

"Gold fever is intensely contagious, and even a ten-year-old was not immune," she recalled. "One warm June day, when I was on my way to Father's latest claim, the Orizaba, I came upon an abandoned mine. The ladders, still in place, seemed sturdy enough, and curiosity led me to go down the shaft alone — something I was strictly forbidden to do.

"The mine was comparatively shallow, with only one lateral drift, and when I found a candle stub cached in the entrance, along with dry matches in a corked bottle, I decided to explore. I had visions of finding a wonderful overlooked gold deposit."

Her mother died while she was a freshman at Colorado College. She wanted to drop out to help the family, but her father would not hear of it. In "No Place For A Lady," she wrote:

"During the next two years in college a variety of jobs came my way — delivering invitations to formal receptions at the president's house for 20 cents an hour, starting a children's dancing class with one of my schoolmates who played the piano, darning and mending for faculty wives, tutoring freshmen who were failing in Spanish, and helping to correct test papers. In the summer I clerked in a candy store."

When she received her bachelor's degree in 1906 she returned to the gold camp as a teacher at the Victor High School.

"It was more than 40 years before I again returned to Cripple Creek," she wrote. "When I stepped off the bus, I found that the throbbing, lusty camp of my childhood had become a ghost town. It had been one of the richest gold producers in American history; now all but a couple of the mines were shut down, and many of the business buildings on Bennett Avenue were boarded up or half demolished.

On notorious Myers, a solitary pink-brick parlor house with its lush furnishings had been preserved intact for 'atmosphere.' Tourists sauntered in and out of souvenir shops, and stayed on for evening performances of 'old-fashioned melodramas' at the Imperial Hotel. Indeed, the whole town was being restored and operated as a museum of the wild goldrush days."

National Piano Auditions Announced

Dorothy Maybelle Moore, Chairman of the Colorado Springs Chapter of the National Guild of Piano Teachers, announces that private auditions will be held at St. Mary's Conservatory of Music from May 4-9 inclusive.

National Piano Guild Tournaments, originated 36 years ago by Dr. Irl Allison in Texas, are now held in over 750 centers from coast to coast. Over 60,000 players are heard by some 250 judges from distant cities each year.

Pianists of all ages take part, from tiny tots and adult beginner hobbyists to professionals. Awards are Local, District, State, National and International Certificates with pins; High School, Collegiate and Artist Diplomas; Paderewski Medals and $100.00 Scholarships. Candidates are judged on individual merit.

Those who make creditable ratings in the spring auditions may try for cash prizes totaling $20,000 in the autumn Biennial Piano Recording Festival. Each spring there is also a Composition Test with prizes to encourage creative work.

Famous musicians of the piano world are members and serve as judges. Thousands participate in New York, Chicago, Dallas, San Antonio, Fort Worth, District of Columbia and Miami, yet Judges report that some of the finest playing is done in remote places where people get up at 4 a.m. and drive 100 miles to perform. Auditions that once cost $50.00 Plus $100.00 traveling expenses are now available for a few dollars in Guild centers over the nation, including Alaska and Hawaii.

Van Cliburn's mother, a Faculty Member and Judge, entered him in Guild Auditions for nine years. Many students who were guild winners for years, now appear as soloists with major orchestras, and are established concert artists and teachers in Universities or their own Music Schools.

Guild music teachers, the majority of whom are of modest means, established the richest purse ever awarded in an international competition. The contest named after Van Cliburn was held in Fort Worth, Texas, in October 1962, when Ralph Votapek of Wisconsin outplayed 42 others to win the first prize offered by the Guild of ten thousand dollars. The Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce donated one hundred thousand dollars for expenses toward the quadrennial competition.

The 68 land-grant colleges and universities in the United States enroll about 20 per cent of all students attending college and award about 40 per cent of the doctorate degrees in all fields of study.

Questions and Answers On Alcoholism

Answers will be supplied by [illegible] L. McDougal, Director, [illegible] Alcoholism Information [illegible] West Boulder, sponsored by the El Paso [illegible] on Alcoholism.

1 Q. What Are the Symptoms Associated with Acute A[illegible]

A. Symptoms [illegible]

2 Q. What are the Symptoms Associated with [illegible] State

A. [illegible] the most important cause [illegible]

3 Q. What is Meant by A[illegible] Coma

A. A[illegible] coma is [illegible] The coma is [illegible] the anesthetic effect of the alcohol on the brain, and the treatment is much the same as that of any anesthetic coma.

4 Q. Are Convulsions a Feature of the Acute or Post-Alcoholic State

A. Convulsions occasionally are a feature of the postalcoholic state. When they occur, they usually appear after the acute drinking has stopped and therefore might be considered a complication of the immediate postalcoholic period. They can be quite severe. In most instances, no evidence of [illegible] can be found. When this complication does occur, however, a thorough study including electroencephalography should be done if it has not been done in the past. These convulsions are usually limited to the immediate postalcoholic period, and when they do occur, they tend to reappear with each alcoholic episode.

5 Q. Should Drugs Be Given in Treatment of an Alcoholic?

A. Anxiety and its protean somatic manifestations are commonly seen in chronic alcoholics. The use of barbiturates and other addicting drugs in controlling these symptoms should be extremely cautious. Some patients get as drunk on barbiturates as they do on alcohol, and many are undoubtedly susceptible to drug addiction because of the similar psychological and physiological factors involved in most addictions," says Daniel J. Feldman, M.D., and Dr. Howard D. Zucker of New York.

6 Q. What Are The Goals of Therapy in Treating an Alcoholic?

A. To attain a state of complete abstinence from alcohol (for the alcoholic can never become a controlled drinker) is but the first step in therapy. Compulsive drinking, though merely a symptom of a deeper [illegible] personality [illegible] maladjustment, has to be brought under control before any attempt at deeper therapy can succeed. The ultimate aim [illegible] greater degree [illegible] social adjustment [illegible] and giving adult [illegible] order, and is only partially attained in any of us [illegible]

7 Q. Is Motivation Important in Recovery of the Alcoholic?

A. The question of motivation [illegible] the alcoholic is [illegible] importance. No [illegible] will ever consider giving up alcohol [illegible] the suffering [illegible] causes him is greater than the pleasure it gives him. He must see something important to him that must be threatened with [illegible] loss. This may be [illegible] a job, a [illegible] of the [illegible] Though these are powerful motivating forces, they are negative ones and are often not sufficient in themselves to turn the tide.

Equally important are the positive motivating forces, the realistic expectations that eventually [illegible] sobriety can be happier and more rewarding than [illegible] It may take years before the alcoholic will concede this, and of course some never do. Realistically, it is important to reach him before he has lost too much, because rehabilitation becomes the more difficult the farther down he is on his descent. The chance of recovery is definitely greater when the patient still has a family and job.

8 Q. Is Early Detection and Treatment Important?

A. So important is early detection and early treatment that it may be necessary to precipitate a crisis. Quite often the family will need to be contacted and worked with before the patient will be willing to seek treatment. For the family to continue indefinitely to condone, excuse and cover up for the alcoholic simply allows him to remain in his dependent and unrealistic status. Accepting alcoholism as an illness has had a profound salutary effect on the climate of public opinion, but it is equally important to bear in mind that it is a recoverable illness, and there is a duty incumbent on the family and society to do everything possible to help the patient to recover. In the last analysis, however, the alcoholic had to do his own getting well. We can help him, but we cannot do it for him. His desire to stop drinking may come and go depending upon the immediate circumstances surrounding him, and these we can sometimes influence.

AMA Discusses Contact Lenses In Industry

The Council on Occupational Health of the American Medical Association today recommended careful evaluation of the use of contact lenses by industrial workers.

The council said it "does not condemn all use of contact lenses by industrial workers, nor does it necessarily approve their use in any situation where spectacles will meet the visual need."

But it did recommend "careful evaluation of their use, based on thorough study of the hazards of each job, the ocular status of each employee, and the visual requirements of each occupation."

The use of contact lenses by industrial workers sometimes compounds eye hazards already associated with certain jobs, according to a council statement published in the current AMA Journal.

"Accidental dislodgement of a contact lens may occur without warning, especially in high-order corrections, and produce sudden incapacitations of the worker.

"In critical jobs, this may be disastrous, as in the operation of moving vehicles or aircraft."

The wearing of contact lenses is contraindicated in certain jobs that require critical emergency action or that expose the worker to unusual hazard of injury to the eyes, the council maintained.

"Many physicians believe that the substitution of contact lenses for spectacles in industrial workers is contraindicated in workers whose eyes may be exposed to dusts, molten metals, or irritant chemicals," it said.

"Small foreign bodies, which normally are washed away by tears, sometimes become lodged beneath contact lenses, where they may cause injury to the corner. Similarly chemicals splashed into the eye may be trapped under a contact lens and cause extensive corneal damage before the lens can be removed and the eye adequately irrigated."

Although the contact lens covers at least part of the cornea, the council pointed out, it does not afford more than partial protection for the eye.

For effective protection for the eyes, the contact lens wearer should use in addition to his contact lenses the same approved face shields, conventional safety spectacles, or goggles for protection against job hazards as would any other worker on a similar job, it stressed.

High School Grad Should Be Able To Make College

"Any student who can graduate from high school should be able to get into some college," says Colorado College Admission Director Richard E. Wood in the April 27 issue of U. S. News and World Report.

"Admission officers everywhere agree with Wood," says the news magazine in a four-page story dealing with the "Big Crisis for Nation's Youth — Getting Into College."

Asked by editor of U. S. News and World Report about the chances of the college applicant who is below the 50 per cent level in his high school graduating class, Wood replied that there are hundreds of colleges where he can go.

"This is the land of the third chance," said the Colorado College admission director.

Wood told newsmen in Colorado Springs today that 1,513 high school seniors have applied for admission to the independent liberal arts college as freshmen in September.

The college will admit a freshman class of 400 from those applicants, he said. The class will include about 225 men and 175 women.

He said the number of applications have increased in the past year. Last year at this time, 1,364 high school seniors had applied for admission. From these, 372 entered in September as freshmen.

Region Book Condensed by Reader's Digest

The colorful days of the Colorado gold rush at Cripple Creek come alive in the May issue of Reader's Digest, to be on the newsstands Tuesday.

The story, "No Place For A Lady," is told by Mrs. Mabel Barbee Lee, former dean of women at Colorado College. It is a condensed from of her book, "Cripple Creek Days," first published in 1958.

Mrs. Lee was eight years old when her father, Johnson Barbee, got gold fever and went west to Cripple Creek in 1892. She lived there for the next nine years until she came down to Colorado Springs for her senior year of high school in 1901. The following year she entered Colorado College.

In "No Place For A Lady," Mrs. Lee recalls her introduction to the boisterous gold camp.

"It was around midnight when we toiled up the last mountain slope, crossed the divide, and found the lights of Cripple Creek gleaming below. The driver stopped to let the horses blow after their long climb. Then, following an unvarying ritual, he lashed them smartly and raced downhill into the town at a headlong gal- [illegible] screeching of brakes and dramatic skidding of iron tires.

"An immense crowd, which had confidently been awaiting these theatrics, welcomed us with an uproar of unrestrained whoops, cries of 'Hello suckers!' and exuberant pistol shots."

The story is that of the exciting life in the famous mining town seen through the eyes of a little girl. Although Mrs. Lee later was to become dean of women at Colorado College from 1922 to 1929 and was to help found Bennington College in Vermont, her [illegible] always were in Cripple Creek.

Gold fever is intense and contagious, and even a ten-year-old was not immune, she recalled. "One warm June day when I was on my way to Father's latest claim, the Orizaba, I came upon an abandoned mine. The ladders, still in place, seemed sturdy enough and curiosity led me to go down the shaft alone — something I was strictly forbidden to do.

"The mine was comparatively shallow, with only one lateral drift, and when I found a candle stub cached in the entrance along with dry matches in a corked bottle, I decided to explore. I had visions of finding a wonderful overlooked gold deposit."

Her mother died while she was a freshman at Colorado College. She wanted to drop out to help the family, but her father would not hear of it. In "No Place For A Lady," she wrote:

"During the next two years in college a variety of jobs came my way [illegible] delivering invitations [illegible] president's house for 20 cents an hour, starting a children's dancing class with [illegible] schoolmates [illegible] also darning and mending for faculty wives, tutoring freshmen who were failing in Spanish and helping to correct test papers. In the summer I clerked in a candy store."

When she received her bachelor's degree in 1906 she returned to the gold camp as a teacher at the Victor High School.

"It was more than 40 years before I again returned to Cripple Creek," she wrote. "When I stepped off the bus, I found that the throbbing, lusty camp of my childhood had become a ghost town. It had been one of the richest gold producers in American history; now all but a couple of the mines were shut down, and many of the business buildings on Bennett Avenue were boarded up or half demolished.

[illegible] Myers [illegible] had been preserved [illegible] melodramas at the Imperial Hotel. Indeed, the whole town was being restored and [illegible] as a museum of the wild [illegible] days."

BANANA SHIPPING CHANGE

PANAMA (AP) — The United Fruit Company gradually is converting its huge banana shipping operation so that instead of sending the large stems with many branches on them intact, bunches will be cut off and packed in cartons.

Officials say with the new method that the fruit will arrive at market in better condition, and that by the end of the year all bananas shipped out of Central America by the company will be in boxes.

HOW MANY TYPES OF CRAFTS IN THIS BOOTH? — The answer is 102 different handicraft items in this one Scout-O-Rama booth. Seventy booths produced by the Cubs, Scouts and Explorers and assisted by 125 Rotarians, business firms, Military Installations and Civic Organizations will be presented in the 1964 Scout-O-Rama, with a cast of 5,000 Scouts and 1,000 adults.

SCOUTING DOES MAKE THE DIFFERENCE! — Hundreds of adult Scout Leaders, similar to those pictured at a Scout-O-Rama rehearsal, prove that Scouting Does Make The Difference in the lives of thousands of boys and young men through out the Pikes Peak Region. More than 1,000 men and women adult Scout Leaders will have a part in the regions largest and most impressive youth show which opens Wednesday at City Auditorium.

Scout-O-Rama Opens Wednesday at City Aud.

With the fanfare and precision of a Hollywood premier, the 1964 Scout-O-Rama officially opens its doors Wednesday at 7 p.m. at the City Auditorium.

After months of preparation and rehearsals, 5,000 Cubs, Scouts and Explorers and hundreds of adult leaders will offer the region's largest and most ambitious youth spectacle.

Performances will be held at City Auditorium, Wednesday through Saturday. The booth section of the Scout-O-Rama starts at 7 and continues until 8. The gigantic stage show production is presented from 8 p.m. until 9. Booths will be on display again from 9 p.m. until 10 p.m. each of the performances.

The unique feature of the Scout-O-Rama is that the entire performance will show real professional finesse, yet every person who has any part in the show is a volunteer.

Radio station technicians, professionl script writers, artists, professional announcers, booth decorators, craftsmen and scores of other professional personnel volunteer many hours of sweat and tears to assist boys in producing a tremendous show in order to display under one roof the various ramifications of the Boy Scout program.

Rotarian Bob Burghart again this year will be the official announcer for the show. When asked after the final performance last year who had the most fun, boys or adults, the answer was "everyone involved has a real sense of satisfaction and enjoyment because the boys try so hard. This will be just as true this year."

One hundred and twenty-five business firms and civic organizations are sponsoring the 70 booths displaying and demonstrating practically every vocation, avocation, hobby craft and Merit Badge subject to be found in the modern world.

The five Colorado Springs Rotary Clubs have teamed up to sponsor this year's show with the theme "Scouting can make the Difference."

John H. Alexander stated that this year's extravaganza shows the tremendous interest of the entire community in developing the unique presentations by the community. More than 65 per cent of all boys between the ages of eight and 16 are members of the Boy Scouts of America in the Pikes Peak Council. Practically every other home in the region has some relationship to the Scouting program.

Tickets for this year's Scout-O-Rama may be purchased from any Cub, Boy Scout or Explorer or at the City Auditorium on performance nights.

The major proceeds of this years show will go to provide needed equipment for Cubs and camp fees for individual Boy Scouts and Explorers.

AFA Pilot Sets New Sailplane State Record

An Air Force Academy sailplane pilot established a new Colorado state declared goal distance record in moving within one step of completing all requirements for the much sought three diamonds to the Gold C Pin awarded by the Soaring Society of America.

Capt. Wally Leland, Military Training Division, Commandant of Cadets, coaxed a Schwizer 1-26 sailplane from the Black Forest Glider Port to Garden City, Kan. — a distance of 229 miles in an eight hour flight.

In a declared goal flight a pilot must select his target before leaving and hit it dead center.

Capt. Leland turned the trick on his fourth attempt. He earlier completed a flight to Ogallala, Neb., only to find that the barograph recording the flight had failed to function. No flight is certified without a barograph record.

At the present time there are just 184 Gold C Pins in the U.S. and just 35 sailplane pilots have qualified for all three diamonds.

Diamonds are awarded a 16,000 foot climb, a declared goal flight of over 187 miles, and a total distance flight of more than 310 miles.

On his record-breaking flight, Capt. Leland left the Black Forest field at 9 a.m. A tow plane took him to 2,200 feet above the surface and he then climbed to 15,000 feet over the Academy site. He left the area at 10 a.m. and arrived over Garden City at 4:30 p.m. still holding 10,000 feet altitude. The pilot says he could have flown another 75 miles.

Capt. Leland also holds the Colorado state altitude record of 33,000 feet.

The distance flight is even more amazing since it was made in a relatively low performance aircraft. The 1-26 flown by Capt. Leland had a 23 to 1 glide ratio compared to about 40-1 on a high performance aircraft.

Capt. Leland is now setting his sights on the third diamond for his Gold C Pin. It requires a 310-mile flight.

Judging from past performances, it won't be too long until the Academy sailplane enthusiasts is heading back to the jewelers for a little work on the coveted pin.

Academy cadets, incidentally, may get a chance to try their hand at soaring soon.

A two-place sailplane trainer may be ordered this summer. The officer-in-charge of the brand new program? Wally Leland — who else.

Man Tangles With Deer Horns In City Dump

It happened at Florence at the city dump.

O. L. Venable, a retired gunsmith who lives at 414 Oak. St., was the lone participant in the somewhat painful drama enacted atop Union Mill hill north of the city.

Seems that Venable had been trimming trees and bushes about his home and had accumulated a truck load of branches which he hauled to the dump.

As he was completing the unloading process and about to tie up the gate on his Jeep, he took a step with his right foot and felt a slight impact on his leg. He took another step and discovered to his surprise that his right foot wouldn't move.

Alone on the hilltop dump, the elderly man quickly took stock of the situation which proved to be anything but good. He had overlooked a set of old deer horns lying on the brush and had inadvertently stepped down on a protruding horn.

The sharp-pointed horn had punctured his right ankle near the stocking line and then thrust itself up into the leg about four inches.

After considerable tugging, Venable was finally able to free his injured foot. Using a handkerchief to staunch the flow of blood which spurted from the wound, Venable got back in his Jeep and drove home.

His wife helped him bind up the wound, called the doctor, and rushed him to St. Joseph hospital for medical treatment.

Now at home in bed with his foot propped high in the air, Leo is looking forward to the day when his rather badly swollen leg recuperates in order for him to return to his spring clean-up chores.

AMA Discusses Contact Lenses In Industry

The Council on Occupational Health of the American Medical Association today recommended careful evaluation of the use of contact lenses by industrial workers.

The council said it "does not condemn all use of contact lenses by industrial workers nor does it necessarily approve their use in any situation where spectacles will meet the visual need."

But it did recommend "careful evaluation of their use based on thorough study of the hazards of each job, the ocular status of each employee and the visual requirements of each occupation."

"The use of contact lenses by industrial workers sometimes compounds eye hazards already associated with certain jobs," according to a council statement published in the current AMA Journal.

"Accidental dislodgement of a contact lens may occur without warning, especially in high-order corrections, and produce sudden incapacitations of the worker.

"In critical jobs, this may be disastrous, as in the operation of moving vehicles or aircraft."

The wearing of contact lenses is contraindicated in certain jobs that require critical emergency action or that expose the worker to unusual hazard of injury to the eyes, the council maintained.

"Many physicians believe that the substitution of contact lenses for spectacles in industrial workers is contraindicated in workers whose eyes may be exposed to dusts, molten metals, or irritant chemicals," it said.

"Small foreign bodies which normally are washed away by tears sometimes become lodged beneath contact lenses where they may cause injury to the cornea. Similarly, chemicals splashed into the eye may be trapped under a contact lens and cause extensive corneal damage before the lens can be removed and the eye adequately irrigated."

Although the contact lens covers at least part of the cornea, the council pointed out, it does not afford more than partial protection for the eye.

For effective protection for the eyes, the contact lens wearer should use in addition to his contact lenses the same approved face shields, conventional safety spectacles or goggles for protection against job hazards as would any other worker on a similar job, it stressed.

High School Grad Should Be Able To Make College

"Any student who can graduate from high school should be able to get into some college," says Colorado College Admission Director Richard E. Wood in the April 27 issue of U.S. News and World Report.

Admission officials everywhere agree with Wood, says the news magazine in a four-page story dealing with the "Big Crisis for Nation's Youth — Getting Into College."

Asked by editor of U.S. News and World Report about the chances of the college applicant who is below the 50 per cent level in his high school graduating class, Wood replied that there are hundreds of colleges where he can go.

"This is the land of the third chance," said the Colorado College admission director.

Wood told newsmen in Colorado Springs today that 1,513 high school seniors have applied for admission to the independent liberal arts college as freshmen in September.

The college will admit a freshman class of 400 from those applicants, he said. The class will include about 225 men and 175 women.

He said the number of applications has increased in the past year. Last year at this time 1,364 high school seniors had applied for admission. From these, 372 entered in September as freshmen.

District 11 To Offer 30 Summer Courses

District 11's summer school program for students in grades nine through 12 will offer over 30 courses in five academic departments in addition to a course in driver training.

By attending both sessions of four weeks each, students can earn two credits in mathematics, science, English, social science, and business subjects. First and second semester courses will also be given if there is sufficient demand.

All classes meet at Palmer High School, and with the exception of driver training, notehand, and typing, are in session from 8 to 11:30 a.m., Monday through Friday. The three excepted classes meet from 8 to 9:40 a.m. and from 9:50 to 11:30 a.m.

The first four weeks session starts June 8, and the second begins July 6. Tuition is $15 per session.

Teachers in the summer program are selected from the faculties of District 11 junior and senior high schools. The summer school program is fully accredited by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

All high school students, regardless of where they regularly attend school, are eligible for the District 11 summer school. In 1963 the total enrollment for the two sessions was 1569 and included students from the Canal Zone and seven states outside of Colorado.

Additional information about the high school summer program is available by calling Palmer High School.

MY ANSWER by Billy Graham

© 1964 by Chicago Tribune N.Y. News Syndicate, Inc.

ANSWER: Yes. He doesn't need to give up that part of his social life which is good and wholesome.

Some young people have the idea that God is a joy-killer—that anything that is fun is wrong. This simply is not true. The word "joy" occurs over and over again in the Scriptures, and in the New Testament particularly. There is every indication that God wants us to enjoy life—in fact, it indicates that the only true pleasure is enjoyed by those who have accepted Christ.

And another thing: to be a Christian doesn't mean that you become a religious snob and shun your former friends. Your circle of friends is your opportunity to "let your light shine for Christ." They, like you, are looking for real meaning in life, and it is your privilege and duty to share your new-found faith with them. I know you will be reluctant to do this. So was I. But I found that when I dared to put in a word for Christ that it struck a response with my friends. From that day to this, I have made bold to put in a good word for Christ, and when I do, I find that people appreciate it, and rarely resent it. We have a notion that religion is a private and secret matter. But our Lord said: "Let your light shine before men, that they may see your good works and glorify your Father which is in heaven."

QUESTION: I would like to know if there is any difference between being tempted and one's thoughts?—J. D.

ANSWER: Temptation usually comes through one's thoughts. As we have often heard said: "An idle mind is the devil's workshop." However, though evil suggestions often come to mind, they need not be expressed in overt action. Often, we cannot help, or have no control, over the thoughts that enter our minds. With all the sex advertisements that are thrust upon us today, for example, evil thoughts are bound to enter our minds. The sin is not the thought itself, but the entertaining of such thought. Jesus said: "He that looketh upon a woman to lust after her hath committed adultery already in his heart." Every day we look upon those of the opposite sex. This is not sin, of course. But if those thoughts are harbored to the point that they create lust—then Jesus said we have sinned.

This, of course, goes for other kinds of sin as well. We all have flashes of envy, pride, anger, and hatred. The human mind is a spawning place for these. But, we have been given the power of choice, and we can put them out of our minds. The Bible says: "There hath no temptation taken you but such as is common to man . . . but will make a way to escape." I Corinthians 10:13.

While we all have the power of choice—too few of us exercise it rightly without Christ in our lives. Paul said: "I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me."

British Reward Winners Usually Have Long Wait

By JOHN GALE

LONDON (AP)—A tip from herdsmen John Maris gave Scotland Yard its first big break in the great train robbery.

But months after Maris led police to the gang's lonely hideout on a Buckinghamshire farm, he is still waiting to collect his share of the reward.

This will be paid in full only after the loot is recovered and the case is closed.

On present indications, Maris and others who have helped along the way are in for a long wait.

The train robbers escaped with $7,280,000. Apart from $840,000 either unloaded by the gang or recovered by the police the loot is still missing.

Fourteen men have been jailed for terms totaling more than 300 years. The thieves have been stripped of much of their glamor and the English courts have shown their determination to stamp out big-time crime by the sternest measures at their disposal.

The raid last August on the night mail train hurtling through sleepy Buckinghamshire en route from Scotland to London produced one lasting tragedy. Engine driver Jack Mills, 57, was badly beaten around the head. He is unlikely to work again.

Said Trial Judge Edmund Davies as he handed down sentences April 16: "let us clear away any romantic notions of dare devilry.

"This is nothing more than a sordid crime of violence. Leniency would be a positively evil thing."

Thirty-year terms followed for seven of 12 accused men. Five others drew terms of up to 25 years, while two more men were jailed for shorter periods at a later trial on receiving charges.

The main trial exposed the gang not as talented amateurs—the sort of people Britons often appreciate — but as hardened crooks. Only two of the 12—attorney John Wheater and his managing clerk, Brian Field—had no previous convictions.

The rest had among them run up 40 convictions for such crimes as burglary, assault, fraud, shopbreaking, assaulting police and picking pockets.

Th convicted train robbers took their secrets to prison with them and police press their search for the remnants of the gang and the hidden loot.

Senior detectives continue to assert that more arrests are imminent but are not so optimistic publicly about getting the money back. Privately, they swap numerous theories about the whereabouts of the loot.

It may take another John Maris before there is a further break in the case.

Maris detected suspicious activity at Leatherslade Farm, the gang's remote hideout isolated one-half mile up a dirt track road 20 miles from the robbery scene. The farmhouse windows had been blacked out.

Maris told the police of his suspicions and they swooped. The gang had fled but the farmhouse was covered with finger and palm prints that led to several arrest.

Last of Famed Train Robbers Dying of Cancer

By STAN BENJAMIN

"Wild Bill" no longer describes the 74-year-old man, tired and wasted by disease.

Carlisle was 25 when he robbed his first train, the Oregon-Washington Limited just out of Green River, Wyo., in Feb. 1916. Armed with a cheap pistol, he forced a train official to pass the hat among passengers. Ladies and children did not have to contribute.

He escaped with less than $100, and this first raid became the pattern for the three more robberies on the Union Pacific.

Thousands of dollars were posted for his capture, while Fred Mazzulla, a Denver attorney who collects outlaw tales, says that Carlisle got exactly $1,023.32 for his efforts.

Caught and convicted in 1919 he was sentenced to life but escaped after three years. Recaptured he settled down to work and study, became prison librarian and developed an interest in religion before being paroled for good conduct.

In 1947 he received a complete pardon. He was a changed man. He worked in a gas station and later ran his own tourist camp near Laramie, Wyo.; his badman reputation attracted customers.

Carlisle married and the couple adopted a daughter, now married. Two years ago, after his wife died, he moved back to Pennsylvania, where he was born, to live with a niece, Hilda Cammie. Mrs. Cammie's training as a professional nurse has sustained Carlisle during recent months.

Before his illness, he made a tour of the West, collecting data to revise an autobiography which had run into technical publishing problems. Cancer ended the revision project.

What does he think of his wild youth?

"Crazy," he said. "Would I do it over? No. I've given it a lot of thought in the last year—in fact in the last 20 years. I've had it so much better! It makes a man see what he msised."

Why did he rob at all? For the money, only $1,000?

"No. I don't know. Just to keep going. Just a wild idea."

And was he glad that his early crimes were getting so much attention?

"Yes," he said. "it's a study. Everything I've done since I got out of this trash shows there wasn't anything in it. I've had a far better life working for myself and others."

Zanzibar Merger Seen as Rebuff Toward China

By COLIN FROST

LONDON (AP) — British observers today saw Zanzibar's surprise decision to merge with Tanganyika as a major rebuff for the island's pro-Chinese foreign minister, Sheikh Abdul Rahman Mohammed Babu.

Over the past three months Babu had emerged as the strongman of the island's revolution.

The decision to merge with Tanganyika was announced while he was out of the country. Some commentators in London speculated he may not be allowed to return.

Within weeks of the January revolution, Communist diplomats in East Africa were predicting that such a feud would soon come to the surface.

According to their count, about half the island's 30-man revolutionary council were "nonaligned" African nationalists and the rest Communists. The Communists were divided in allegiance between Moscow and Peking.

For most of the past month Babu has been at the world trade conference in Geneva and in Indonesia and Pakistan.

Pro - Soviet elements are represented at the top by Vice President Kassim Hanga, who has studied in Moscow and has a Soviet wife.

Hanga had a key role in organizing the merger. Significantly, in the view of diplomats here, Hanga had returned recently from talks with Soviet leaders in Moscow.

Three hundred armed Tanganyikan police are in Zanzibar at the request of Zanzibar President Abeid Karume. He asked for them soon after the January revolution to stop looting and communal clashes between the Africans and the island's Arab minority.

Since then Zanzibar leftists have built up a private army mostly of young Arabs. Their allegiance generally is believed to lie with Babu.

In Dar es Salaam, capital of Tanganyika, the government newspaper, The Nationalist, reported that the merger agreement makes Tanganyika's President Julius Nyerere head of the new nation with Karume as first vice president and Tanganyika's vice president, Rashid Kawawa, as second vice president.

The Nationalist said the agreement would become operative as soon as it was ratified by the Tanganyika Legislative Assembly and Zanzibar's Revolutionary Council, the island's only legislative body.

MY ANSWER by Billy Graham

ANSWER [illegible]

And [illegible] Christian [illegible] become a religious snob and [illegible] for Christ [illegible] and it is your privilege and duty [illegible] with them [illegible]

But I found that when I dared to put in a word for Christ that it struck a response with my friends From that day to this I have made bold to put in a good word for Christ, and when I do, I find that people appreciate it and rarely resent it We have a notion that religion is a private and secret matter But our Lord said [illegible]

QUESTION I would like to know if there is any difference between being tempted and one's thoughts? —J. D.

ANSWER Temptation usually comes through one's thoughts As we have often heard said "An idle mind is the devil's workshop" However [illegible] evil suggestions often come to mind, they need not be expressed [illegible] Often we cannot help [illegible] control over the thoughts that enter our minds With all the sex advertisements that are thrust upon us today for example evil thoughts are bound to enter our minds The sin is not the thought itself but the entertaining of such thoughts Jesus said "He that looketh upon a woman to lust after her hath committed adultery already in his heart" Every day we look upon those of the opposite sex This is not sin of course But if those thoughts are harbored to the point that they create lust—then Jesus said we have sinned

This of course goes for other kinds of sin as well We all have flashes of envy pride anger and hatred The human mind is a spawning place for these But we have been given the power of choice and we can put them out of our minds The Bible says "There hath no temptation taken you but such as is common to man . . . but will make a way to escape" I Corinthians 10 13

While we all have the power of choice—too few of us exercise it rightly without Christ in our lives Paul said "I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me"

British Reward Winners Usually Have Long Wait

By JOHN GALE

LONDON (AP) — A tip from herdsman John Maris gave Scotland Yard its first big break in the great train robbery

But months after Maris led [illegible] the gang's lonely hideout on a Buckinghamshire farm he is still waiting to collect his share of the reward

This will be paid in full only after the loot is recovered and the case is closed

On present indications Maris and others who have helped along the way are in for a long wait

The train robbers escaped with $7 280 000 Apart from $540 000 either unloaded by the gang or recovered by the police the loot is still missing

Fourteen men have been jailed for terms totaling more than 300 years The thieves have been stripped of much of their glamor and the English courts have shown their determination to stamp out big-time crime by the sternest measures at their disposal

The raid last August on the night mail train hurtling through sleepy Buckinghamshire en route from Scotland to London produced one lasting tragedy Engine driver Jack Mills 57 was badly beaten around the head He is unlikely to work again

Said Trial Judge Edmund Davies as he handed down sentences [illegible] away any romantic notion of dare devilry

This is nothing less than a sordid crime of violence [illegible]

Thirty [illegible] seven of 12 accused men Five others drew terms of up to 25 years [illegible] were [illegible] at a later trial on [illegible] charges

The trial that exposed the gang not as talented amateurs—the sort of people Britons often appreciate — but as hardened crooks Only two of the 12—attorney John Wheater and his managing clerk Brian Field—had no previous convictions

The rest had among them run up 40 convictions for such crimes as [illegible] fraud [illegible] police and [illegible]

The convicted [illegible] took their secrets to prison with them and police press their search for the remnants of the gang and the hidden loot

Senior detectives continue to assert that more arrests are imminent but are not so optimistic publicly about getting the money back. Privately they swap numerous theories about the whereabouts of the loot

It may take another John Maris before there is a further break in the case

Maris detected suspicious activity at Leatherslade Farm the gang's remote hideout isolated one-half mile up a dirt track road 20 miles from the robbery scene The farmhouse windows had been blacked out

Maris told the police of his suspicions and they swooped The gang had fled but the farmhouse was covered with finger and palm prints that led to several arrest

Last of Famed Train Robbers Dying of Cancer

By STAN BENJAMIN

[illegible] man [illegible] wasted by disease

Carlisle was 29 when he robbed his first train the Oregon-Washington Limited just out of Green River Wyo in Feb 1916 Armed with a cheap pistol he forced a train official to pass the hat among passengers Ladies and children did not have to contribute

He escaped with less than $100 [illegible] more [illegible] Pacific [illegible] Thousands of dollars were posted for his capture while Fred Mazzulla a Denver attorney who collects outlaw tales says that Carlisle got exactly $1 023 32 for his efforts

Caught and convicted in 1919 he was sentenced to life but escaped after three years Recaptured he settled down to work and study became prison librarian and developed an interest in religion before being paroled for good conduct

In 1947 he received a complete pardon He was a changed man He worked in a gas station and later ran his own tourist camp near Laramie Wyo; his badman reputation attracted customers

Carlisle married and the couple adopted a daughter now married Two years ago after his wife died he moved back to Pennsylvania where he was born to live with a niece Hilda Cammie Mrs Cammie's training as a professional nurse has sustained Carlisle during recent months

Before his illness he made a tour of the West collecting data to revise an autobiography which had run into technical publishing problems Cancer ended the revision project

What does he think of his wild [illegible]

"Crazy" he said "Would I do it over? No I've given it a lot of thought in the last year—in fact in the last 20 years I've had it so much better It makes a man see what he msised"

Why did he rob at all? For the money, only $1 000?

"No I don't know Just to keep going Just a wild idea"

And was he glad that his early crimes were getting so much attention?

"Yes" he said "It's a study Everything I've done since I got out of this trash shows there wasn't anything in it I've had a far better life working for myself and others"

Zanzibar Merger Seen as Rebuff Toward China

By COLIN FROST

LONDON (AP) — British observers today saw Zanzibar's surprise decision to merge with Tanganyika as a major rebuff for the island's pro-Chinese foreign minister Sheikh Abdul Rahman Mohammed Babu

Over the past three months Babu had emerged as the strongman of the island's revolution

The decision to merge with Tanganyika was announced while he was out of the country Some commentators in London speculated he may not be allowed to return

Recent maneuvering among the island's politicians suggests a feud between rival Communist factions may be behind the merger

Within weeks of the January revolution Communist [illegible] East Africa were [illegible] that such a feud would [illegible] to the surface

According to their [illegible] about half the island's 30-man revolutionary council were [illegible] African nationalists and the rest Communists The Communists were divided in allegiance between Moscow and Peking

Babu a former London [illegible] heads the Peking faction

For most of the past month Babu has been at the [illegible] in Geneva and in Indonesia and Pakistan

Pro-Soviet elements are represented at the top by Vice President Kassim Hanga who has [illegible] Moscow and [illegible] a Soviet wife

Hanga had a [illegible] the merger [illegible] view [illegible] Hanga had [illegible] leaders in Moscow

Three hundred armed Tanganyikan police are in Zanzibar at the request of Zanzibar President Abeid Karume He asked for them soon after the January revolution to stop looting and communal clashes between the Africans and the island's Arab minority

[illegible] Zanzibar [illegible] have [illegible] a private army mostly of young Arabs [illegible] Babu

[illegible] Tanganyika [illegible] The Nationalist [illegible] that the merger agreement makes Tanganyika President Julius Nyerere [illegible] Karume [illegible] president and Tanganyika [illegible] president Rashidi Kawawa as second vice president

The Nationalist said the agreement would become operative as soon as it was ratified by the Tanganyika Legislative Assembly and Zanzibar's Revolutionary Council the island's only legislative body

Congo to Become Independent In Fact Soon

by ROBIN MANNOCK

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (AP)—On June 30, the Congo's fourth Independence Day, this vast focal point of Africa will become independent in fact as well as in name. The last foreign soldier of the blue-helmeted United Nations army will have gone.

What happens then?

The Congolese say this is a country of surprises, and they are right. Uneasiness is an occupational disease of Congo residents.

In July 1960 Congolese soldiers, drunk on looted beer, raped and killed. Tens of thousands of terrified Belgians fled, and the Congo shattered itself into warring factions. That brought the U.N. here.

It's been a long, hard haul back to something vaguely resembling normal. The Congo today is one nation again. Granted peace, the economy will soon be on the road to recovery.

Yet unity is fragile. Revolts threaten, flare up or smolder. Government stability often hangs by a thread of conflicting tribal loyalties. But predictions of disaster in the Congo have an encouraging habit of not coming true.

The first soldiers will be gone by May 15 and at the end of the first week in June only the Leopoldville garrison will remain. Potential flashpoints like copper-rich Katanga, where memories of secession are still fresh, will be bare of U.N. troops.

Come what may, the soldiers are determined never to return.

Nevertheless, the world organization is worried that Moise Tshombe is unreconciled to Katanga's shotgun remarriage with the rest of the Congo. They fear he may try another break for independence.

U.N. soldiers fought Tshombe three times, stirring up international controversy. He is now in Europe.

The U.N. soldiers leave behind a Congolese army of more than 25,000 men already stretched to the limit to keep the lid on the country.

Although Maj. Gen. Joseph Mobutu, youthful commander of the Congo's army, has made serious efforts to bring soldiers into line, many units are of poor quality and poorly led.

Aided by Belgian, American, Italian and Israeli officers, Mobutu is trying to reorganize his forces. He seeks to convince his men they must be friends of the civil populace, but there are still outbreaks.

Most ordinary Congolese seem heartily sick of the political shenanigans of the last four years. The heady days of 1960, when the Congo danced its way to sovereignty, were followed by hunger, misery, death, destruction, unemployment, inflation and disease.

Many Congolese are refreshingly frank about admitting that this trial by ordeal found them wanting. Perhaps this down-to-earth outlook of ordinary people is the Congo's ace in the hole.

Gov. Brown Says LBJ Will Help Settle Dispute

WASHINGTON (UPI)— California Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown said Saturday President Johnson has agreed to use his "good offices" in a new effort to settle a long-standing water dispute between California and Arizona.

After calling on the President, Brown told newsmen Johnson said he would assign Lee White, associate White House counsel, to see whether a meeting could be arranged between Brown and Arizona Gov. Paul Fannin.

The California governor said the solution to the water problems would be to bring in more water and not to "fight over every last water hole."

The two states have been battling for more than a decade over water rights to the Colorado River. The Supreme Court recently gave Arizona a big victory in the dispute by ceding it a greater share of the river water for irrigational purposes.

Brown said he wanted the proposed Central Arizona Project to be built under an agreement to assure adequate water for California. This, he said, would make unnecessary an amendment guaranteeing California a certain percentage of the water under the project.

Brown said Fannin was reluctant to meet to consider an agreement.

Speaking before television cameras outside the White House, Brown also predicted Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., would win the GOP presidential primary in California June 2.

The polls now show Goldwater in the lead, New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller second, and Harold Statsen making a "fairly good" showing. Brown said

MY ACHING BACK — Mayor Harry Hoth, surrounded by CC Phi Delta Fraternity members, bends his back in the wood-sawing detail as the group worked Saturday to put the Brockhurst Boys Ranch at Green Mountain Falls in shape for use this summer. The fraternity members worked at the project as their annual Community Service Day project. The ranch is owned and operated by the Woodland Park Lions Club and is sponsored by several business men and church groups in the area for the purpose of integrating boys back into society.

BROCKHURST FUTURE DISCUSSED — Mr. and Mrs. Henry Brockhurst, who gave the land for the Brockhurst Boys Ranch, discuss future plans for expansion with John Law, president of the Colorado Springs West Lions Club at a meeting held Saturday night at the Candlelight Inn. CC Fraternity, Mayor Clean Up Boy's Ranch

Members of the Phi Delta Theta Fraternity gave the Brockhurst Boys Ranch at Green Mountain Falls a helping hand Saturday. Sixty members of the Fraternity from Colorado College spent Saturday afternoon at the boys ranch chinking log buildings, painting the main office, leveling the floor for a new shop area and doing general clean up and garden work.

The Brockhurst Boys Ranch is owned and operated by the Woodland Park Lions Club and sponsored by several business men and church groups in the area. The 10 man staff is concerned with both the prevention and treatment of delinquency and works to integrate the boys back into society. There are presently 16 boys at the Ranch.

The Phi Delta Theta members worked at the boys ranch as their annual Community Service Day project. On Community Service Day the 125 chapters of the Phi Delta Theta Fraternity take a day from their regular academic schedules and donate their time and services to a worthwhile project in the community. Early in February, two members of the local chapter of the Fraternity, Dave Edwards and Dave Van Ness, consulted with Mayor Harry Hoth as to where the Fraternity could be most useful to the community. Mayor Hoth, after investigating several possibilities, suggested the Brockhurst Boys Ranch in Green Mountain Falls. The directors of the Ranch were contacted and they began making lists of the several things that needed to be done.

The work done Saturday by the Phi Delta Theta members was badly needed in several areas of the Ranch. They cleared a site for an outdoor cooking area, cut old lumber and logs for the dining hall fire place, cleaned around several buildings and dug out the floor of a barn which is to be used as a shop building.

Mayor Hoth, who came out to the Ranch to help with the work, congratulated the Fraternity for giving it's time and effort to the Brockhurst Boys Ranch. He stated that when the Phi Delta Theta Fraternity members saw that the project was worthwhile, they were willing to work hard and long until the work was finished. Mayor Hoth remarked that such a project not only improved the physical condition of the Ranch but was a good experience for the Fraternity in learning to serve the public.

When the 'Phi Delts' and the boys at the ranch finished the work that was planned, the Ranch provided them with a bar-B-que dinner.

Denver Woman, Man Critical After Stabbings

Both victims, Mrs. Louise Espinoza, 21, and James H. Sage, 27, were reported on the danger list. Mrs. Espinoza underwent surgery and the last rites of the Roman Catholic Church were administered.

Police jailed Eloy Salazar, 34, of Denver for investigation of aggravated assault in the stabbing of the woman.

Patrolman Charles McCormick said a neighbor of Mrs. Espinoza said he found her lying at his doorway with blood pouring from a wound in the abdomen. McCormick said Salazar was standing in the street with blood on his coat. He told the officer he had been dating the woman but denied stabbing her.

Mrs. Lydia Lee, 36, was jailed for investigation of aggravated assault in the stabbing of Sage. She told officers she had been living with him.

The police stopped to investigate a honking car horn and Sage staggered up to them with blood on his chest. Mrs. Lee was with him.

Officers found his house in disarray, with blood on the floor and a bloody 12 - inch butcher knife in a waste basket. Mrs. Lee said she and Sage had been drinking and the only thing she could remember was seeing blood on his chest.

Federal Laws Will Nix State Dope Rackets

DENVER (UPI)—U.S. Atty. Lawrence Henry said Saturday the federal government would prevent a possible breakdown in enforcement of Colorado narcotics laws by strict enforcement of the federal laws.

The Colorado laws were cast in doubt this week by a decision of Boulder Dist. Judge William E. Buck. The judge dismissed 12 marijuana cases on grounds marijuana is not a true narcotic.

"MacDonald will work with the U.S. Bureau of Narcotics so that all federal laws relating to such cases are militantly enforced," Henry said.

"The federal statutes are adequate to prevent any breakdown in Colorado in this area of law enforcement."

House Member Explains View Of Prayer Ban

By JOHN BECKLER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court ban on official school prayers was seen today by a House member as part of "a deadly attempt to make our America officially a godless nation."

Rep. Robert L. F. Sikes, D-Fla., expressed that view in testimony prepared for the House Judiciary Committee and urged enactment of a constitutional amendment to reverse the court's decision.

Sikes said religion should not be confined only to the church and the home.

"I believe that religion exists everywhere, and that it should be recognized everywhere," he said. "And I consider it particularly important in these days, when teaching in the home is so often neglected, that religious education be implemented in public schools and public places."

Sikes' testimony continued the barrage by House members in support of various proposed amendments to permit prayers and Bible reading in the schools.

Nearly two dozen have testified since the hearings began Wednesday and only one, Rep. John W. Davis, D-Ga., expressed approval of the Supreme Court's prayer and Bible reading decisions.

Committee members who have raised numerous questions about the constitutional difficulties involved in the problem were chided Thursday by Rep. Craig Hosmer, R-Calif., for "tilting at windmills."

Hosmer said all Congress had to do was remove any prohibition that may exist to religious exercises in public schools and leave it to local authorities to deal with any problems that may arise.

"But it's not as simple as that," said Chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., "there are many different kinds of prayers and different versions of the Bible. A school board may prescribe a prayer or a Bible that are objectionable to some parents."

"Just go back to the situation as it was before the Supreme Court's 1962 decision," he said.

Celler, who had heard several other supporters of a new amendment make the same suggestion, said "there was great turbulence in this area."

"Twenty-one states were involved in court controversies over just these matters," he said. "The situation was not free from doubt."

Profumo Forgets Scandal, Does Social Work

By COLIN FROST

LONDON (AP) — John Profumo, his political career ended by scandal, has taken a new job as a social worker.

Five days a week the wealthy former war minister leaves his elegant West End home, and travels by subway to help the poor in the East End slums.

Friends say Profumo, 49, has had the job a month and is unpaid.

He works an eight-hour day at Toynbee Hall, a soup and citizenship settlement named after the 19th century social reformer Arnold Toynbee.

The settlement's warden, Walter Birmingham, told newsmen:

"I was very happy to accept Mr. Profumo's offer to work for us.

"At the moment Mr. Profumo is mainly reading up about the various settlement jobs. Later, we will get together and decide exactly what sort of social work he will do.

"It is a rewarding job and he obviously sees it as the beginning of a new life. We are very glad to have such an able man working for us."

Toynbee Hall pioneered in bringing university students into contact with London's poor. Lord Beveridge, architect of Britain's cradle to grave welfare system, produced his earlier writings under the organization's sponsorship. Lord Attlee, former Laborite prime minister, worked there before World War I and first became attracted to socialism there.

Profumo refused to talk about his work.

His secretary said: "He just wants to be left alone to get on with his new work. He is trying to build up his life again."

Profumo resigned as war minister last June after admitting he lied to the House of Commons to cover up his affair with Christine Keeler, a prostitute who also for a time had been having an affair with a Soviet intelligence officer.

Christine is in London's Holloway Jail.

ASWAN, United Arab Republic (AP)—Tears often streaming down weathered faces, the people of Nubia are leaving a homeland as old as history.

This modern exodus—of some 70,000 people in Egypt and Sudan—must be completed by September when waters rising behind the new Aswan Dam will engulf villages unchanged for centuries.

Although both Egypt and Sudan are spending vast sums to insure a better life for the villagers, many are deeply torn.

Sett el-Banat Konouz, a widow at 32, described her feelings:

"Strangers knocked at my door two months ago as I was feeding my child. Before they came an ugly crow had flown over my house, and I felt this was a bad omen. I opened the door and the strangers told me that I had to leave my house to a new land in the vast world of Allah. I felt they wanted to pull my heart out of my chest."

The promise of a better life means little to these people. Their old farms were almost sacred. Their roots go back 5,000 years, when Nubia was known as the Kingdom of Kush. Colonized many times, Nubians always preserved their identity and love of land. Nubians once ruled all of Egypt.

Nubia's hardy sons go out and easily find work in Cairo and Alexandria, but they almost invariably return home.

Officials found it difficult to convince people that the exodus was inevitable. They started by trying to convince the village boss, the omdah. They explained to village meetings. Then, in many cases, delegations went down river to inspect their "new world."

"The people of Debod left the village in tears," one villager recalled. "When the ships moved away they kept their eyes fixed on their houses and the cemetery, until they fell beneath the horizon."

Although each family has been promised a farm varying between two to five acres, in many cases they will have to wait until waters from the dam make reclamation of new lands possible. Meanwhile, villagers without land will get the equivalent of about $7 monthly—a decent wage in this poor land. Others are getting jobs at the Aswan Dam and in related projects.

Souvanna Bows To Conditions Of Rebel Chiefs

By DON HUTH

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — Premier Souvanna Phouma announced today that he and his cabinet have agreed to conditions laid down by rightwing rebels for settlement of the Laotian crisis. But coup leaders said they would not relinquish control of Vientiane until formation of a government they approve.

The rightist military leaders, who seized control of the capital Sunday and put Prince Souvanna under house arrest, demanded that he enlarge his government. They demanded that he add to it "qualified personalities"— meaning rightwingers —recommended by the rebels.

Prince Souvanna said the coalition cabinet of neutralists, rightists and pro-Communists accepted various points of the demand and therefore "considers that there is a continuity in the exercise of its government powers."

The cabinet "has accepted all clauses included in our motion," Gen. Kouprasith Abhay, the leader of the coup, told a news conference. But his deputy, Gen. Siho Lamphouthakoul, said: "We will maintain military control of the city of Vientiane until the formation of a government according to our wishes."

It was by no means certain that the agreement between Souvanna and the rightists would be approved by the pro-Communist Pathet Lao, an integral member of the coalition government. Its army controls a large part of Laos.

The decision must come from the Pathet Lao headquarters in Khang Khay, where Prince Souphanouvong, Pathet Lao leader and deputy premier, has holed up since he began a boycott of the government 14 months ago.

Souphanouvong in the past has repudiated a number of cabinet decisions announced by Souvanna on the basis of agreement between him and his rightwing deputy premier, Gen. Phoumi Nosavan.

Asked whether the Pathet Lao had agreed to the rightwing demands, Kouprasith said: "This is not our business. It is up to Souvanna's coalition to handle this question."

NO BATTERY TO CHANGE IN NEW HEARING AID

Recent news stories tell of cut-back in production of transistors by leading manufacturers because of the new development of micro-molecular amplifers so small that two dozen or more can be laid on the face of a penny without completely covering it!

The first hearing aid to embody many of the new techniques has just been announced by Ernest J. Tryba, certified Hearing Aid Audiologist.

This is an aid so small that it not only fits all inside the ear but there are no batteries to change! A permanent battery good for a year . . . or even two . . . is embedded in the aid. A heat cell activated by body heat aids in recharging it. A separate charger is also furnished.

Photographs and information on this new invention will be given free of charge on request. Call in person or write Ernest J. Tryba, The Hearing Aid Center, 520 North Tejon. adv.

Cattle Sensed Coming Big Quake, Rancher Declares

EDITOR'S NOTE — As the dust settles after the most violent earthquake ever recorded in the northern hemisphere, the full picture of its enormity begins to emerge. Here two reporters who covered it now weave together the details of the panoramic convulsion and its path of human terror.

By SAUL PETT and JULES LOH

His 200 head of cattle were grazing quietly at his ranch on Narrow Cape, a lovely finger of land washed by the Gulf of Alaska, about 50 miles southeast of here on the Gulf of Kodiak.

About three o'clock that afternoon, the cattle turned and began to move away from their low-lying grazing land to higher ground. They had never done this before so early in the day.

Louis Beaty frowned. The sky was sunny and blue. The mountains behind him stood serenely in their skirts of snow. The wind blowing in from the turquoise sea was gentle.

Beaty vaguely sensed that the cattle had sensed something. But what?

What, indeed. The mood of Alaska on this Good Friday, March 27, 1964, was benign. Spring was coming, the temperature was rising. People were already betting on when the ice would break up in the rivers. Even in this age of flight, the ice breakup remains symbolic to Alaskans. The winter feeling of isolation was about to yield to the friendliness of spring, like opening a window onto "the outside," onto the rest of the United States.

Down deep under the earth's crust, more than 50 miles down, in an eternal darkness without season, it is thought that a huge river of slowly swirling, boiling pitch-like substance rings the great iron core of the earth. Just what was happening down there on this Good Friday no man on earth could say with certainty and cows make unreliable seismologists. One theory is that this huge river by its constant and opposing currents wears and strains the earth's crust. Where the crust is weak, it may crack. Alaska is known to lie on a relative weak layer of crust.

At her tidy frame home in Anchorage, Joan Groom couldn't have cared less about the mysterious forces grinding and straining the earth beneath. Of more immediate concern were the visible forces that could at any moment wreck her living room and nervous system.

The children, at last, were in their places; the pink cake with its cover of coconut was on the table, her daughter Claudia had made her wish and was now ready to blow out the four pink candles. Ten young critics, four of them her brothers and sisters, were yelling she couldn't do it in one puff.

Downtown, Harry Groom, a photographer, was starting home. Recalling his daughter's party, he decided on one quick fortification against the inevitable chaos. He pulled up at the "Highland Fling," where they sell two drinks for the price of one between 5 and 6 o'clock, went inside and ordered bourbon.

Out in the quiet suburb called "Turnagain," a well-birched subdivision of ranch and split level houses, Esther McCreedy was finishing a ham with brown sugar and pineapple rings. Her husband was due home for supper in about 20 minutes.

Far to the south, 250 miles from Claudia Groom's birthday party and 50 miles northwest of Louis Beaty's curiously acting cattle, Bill Cuthbert, a leathery and grizzled fisherman, was sitting down to supper in the galley of his 86-foot scow, the "Selief." The boat was tied to its slip in Kodiak Harbor, a picturesque horseshoe at the foot of the mountains. In the hold were $3,000 worth of Alaska king crabs, ready to be unloaded next morning at the cannery.

Atop the hill above the harbor in the sanctuary of St. James the Fisherman Episcopal Church, carpenter Louis Horn was hanging a new cross above the altar. It was now 5:20 p.m. Horn selected two small eye bolts to suspend the heavy cross from the ceiling.

"Sure, Father."

"What if we have an earthquake," the father chuckled.

"Even in an earthquake," laughed the carpenter.

By Alaska standards, it was warm, about 35 degrees in Kodiak and Anchorage and the infrequent towns and remote villages in between. But 1,500 miles down the rim of the Great Pacific Basin, at Newport, Ore., it was much warmer and Monte and Rita McKenzie and their four children had gone to the shore on a camping trip.

They found a cozy spot for the night, a driftwood shelter on the beach north of Newport. The sea glowed in the light of a full moon. The McKenzie family clustered together, soon fell asleep. After seven months, the pain of their nine-year-old daughter's death had begun to ebb.

And in the serenity that bathed the moonlit beach in Oregon, the Kodiak Harbor and the quiet going home time in Anchorage, the earth crust under Alaska could no longer endure the strain of the inexorable forces below. It let go at 5:36 p.m. Anchorage time (10:36 Eastern Standard Time).

And across more than 600 miles of mountains and towns and spruce forests and icy streams and secluded coves and great expanses of snow broken only by animal tracks, the earth strained and groaned and shook.

And in untold hundreds of places it cracked open and in scores of places it buckled and toppled buildings and swayed trees and poles in wild dizzy arcs and heaved up pavement and snapped bridges and sheared avalanches of snow and dirt and stone from mountain tops. Out in the sea it raised a mighty wave.

In Anchorage, Joan Groom's house quivered, then shook with increasing force. The chimney crashed onto the roof and the birthday cake smashed on the floor. Screaming with fright, the children toppled over in their chairs. Joan Groom lost her balance and pitched to the floor in a litter of flying books and glass and overturned furniture.

Again and again the house shook, sometimes gently, sometimes violently. Then suddenly it ended. Somehow no one was injured. White with terror, Joan Groom began to sing a song the children had memorized.

Slowly, one by one, they stopped crying and began singing:

"The little book shelf
"Is wiggling itself
"And the books are falling down
"The fairy tales and fables
"Are tumbling over chairs and tables.
"Mother Goose is running loose,
"She is marching into town."

At the Highland Fling, Harry Groom felt the first tremor and smiled. "Oh," he said flippantly, "another earthquake." Others at the bar smiled. After many years of gentle tremors and no real quake, Alaskans had come to regard the subject with nonchalance.

But this tremor refused to stop, and the bar fell quiet and then the whole room rocked with new force. Bottles pitched to the floor, glasses smashed, women screamed. People tried to rush to the door but the floor was billowing like insane jello and they fell and they crawled. Harry Groom finally made it to the street, still holding, for no reason he remembered, the two-for-one glasses, unbroken. Like husbands everywhere in town, he was trying to get home to his family.

Outside, on Fourth Avenue, the pavement was billowing and people were falling and cars were bouncing and one whole block of stores sank—just sank —20 feet into a huge crack of the convulsed earth. The marquee of the Denali movie theater, which was to open in a half hour for the evening show, sank to the level of the sidewalk.

A block away, the five-story J. C. Penney building swayed out over the street, swayed back and then one end sank in a roar of crumbling masonry and glass. Elsewhere, a new six-story apartment, not yet occupied, collapsed in thunder and in many places earth fissures snaked right through living rooms.

At the 14-story Mt. McKinley apartment, one of Anchorage's two tallest buildings, Delphine Haley was riding the elevator near the eighth floor. The elevator quivered and stopped. Then it began bouncing up and down, up and down, and Delphine Haley screamed in terror. The whole world, it seemed to her, was screaming.

The elevator stopped bouncing momentarily between floors and she squeezed through a 10-inch opening in the doors and climbed to the floor above. She made her way to the stairwell and in the darkness, in the incredible shaking and swaying, she became hysterical. Crying, she pitched herself headlong down each flight, crawled across the landing, and pitching and crawling finally made her way to the ground floor and out. She looked back and saw others crawling groggily out of the building. Up the entire face of the structure the apartment was scarred by a series of zig-zagging cracks.

When Esther McCreedy's ham pitched from the stove she knew it was no ordinary tremor and hurried out. Near the door she was thrown down by a violent new shudder. And just outside the door, she turned and watched her home sink "as if in slow motion" up to the roof level in a huge crevasse.

Beyond, where 100 homes had stood, she saw an eerie expanse of ruin. The bluffs overlooking Cook Inlet had fallen away, 200 yards inland, taking with it houses snapped in two and three pieces into deep gorges. The area looked like a vast brown sea of motionless waves, peaked with pieces of homes and snapped trees. Esther McCreedy wept.

And suddenly it was over — some say after 90 seconds, others after five full minutes—and now all of Anchorage, it seems, was arrested in an unfamiliar, overwhelmingly complete silence.

And from far out in the agitated ocean came the wave rushing toward the shaken land. As the depth grew shallower, the wave grew higher. Where it hit the land in broad open areas it looked like a broad, suddenly rising tide. Where it had to pass through a narrow passage, as it did at Seward, 130 miles south of Anchorage, it gathered momentum and force and raced forward like a wall of water.

Texas Has About 120 One-Teacher Schools

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—Among its 650 small schools (those with average daily attendance less than 500), Texas has about 120 one-teacher schools. They averaage around 15 students in daily attendance. Educators regard them as a good thing in many ways—the dropout rate is low, their graduates usually do well in other levels of education and the schools are centers for community activities.

During the last school year the average cost of attending college was approximately $1.48 in public institutions and $2.240 in private schools, according to the U.S. Office of Education.

Happy Is Helping Hand for Hubby In Vote Drive

By BRUCE BIOSSAT

ALBANY, N.Y. (NEA) — "Happy" Rockefeller, due at a women's luncheon, could wait no longer for her husband to wind up his press conference. What she wanted to tell him she scribbled in a two-line note and shoved under his nose.

The governor read it, grinned, picked up her hand and kissed it. Then his wife, the former Margaretta Fitler Murphy, dashed off.

The incident was not unusual. On airplanes, in meeting halls, walking the streets, Rocky and Happy nearly always can be found holding hands — or sometimes just fingers.

Arriving in a southern New Hampshire town before the primary election, she was urged to take a rest before the night's campaigning. Responded Happy: "Oh, no! Where's Nelson?"

Minutes later she popped out of a car on the town's main street, discovered him shaking hands in a shop. As a friend tells it: "She slipped her arm around his, and she was in business."

When Happy was new on the campaign trail, her eye inevitably wandered in search of him when they became separated. She feels easier today:

"I've worked out a system. I know now that if we get separated, he'll swing around and we'll meet anway."

At 37, Happy Rockefeller is a tall, slender, long - striding woman with rich brown eyes, thick chestnut hair, and a warm smile that springs quickly into being. She hardly seems the type to be standing at the center of the political storm generated by her marriage to the governor a year ago.

Those who see her in public hand down the same verdict. "She's no femme fatale," was one early comment. "I don't think of her as a divorcee any more," was another. "Isn't she nice?" is a common response.

This naturalness clearly serves her well in the swirling settings of politics. Constantly animated, very much the participant, she willingly scrawls "Happy" on note pads and placards thrust her way, pumps hands vigorously, sings and claps when the occasion demands. She likes the excitement of travel, of new people.

But her friends say her main reason for going out with the governor is not so much to be a joint campaigner as simply to be with him. She picks those trips which will allow them most of the time together. Says Happy:

"I think of my husband as my husband, not as a presidential candidate."

Much of this campaign season she has stayed behind, one is told, to be with her four children by her earlier marriage: James 12; Margaretta, 10; Carol, 8, Malinda just turned 4.

The word is that, quietly, she is with her children a great deal. Many times she has borken off campaigning to get back to them — sometimes to the annoyance of expectant local politicians.

No more can be said of this most controversial aspect of marriage to the governor. Arrangements with her former husband, Dr. James Murphy, were designed to assure the children's privacy.

People who watch Happy in public remark about her almost instinctive attention to children she sees around her. Once when Rocky was on the verge of jabbing a dozing infant she said: "Oh, no, don't wake it up!" Often she will leave a group of adults to greet youngsters standing near.

Since the late December announcement that she is expecting a child in June, Happy has been deluged with gifts for the baby. Elderly folk climb aboard the campaign bus to offer bootees, tiny moccasins, blankets. One day the governor saw her unwrapping a package and asked: "What did you get, Sweetie?" It was a layette, and she was plainly touched.

Last year one acid appraisal sought to suggest that all this wholesomeness was part of a "political design" to ease the remarriage problem and help Rocky win the 1964 nomination. Yet Happy's whole history fits her present pattern. When a friend says "she's woodsy" she means she has always been so.

From childhood in the fashionable Philadelphia Main Line suburbs, through schooling in exclusive finishing schools Happy has been a woods-walker and still is.

In those days her costume was usually faded blue jeans and worn sneakers. Today she does have her Hattie Carnegie dresses, but her tastes remain very simple and clothes are a secondary thing. Hats she never wears. People who write for her old hats may get a veil or a scarf. Jewelry is sparingly used. Trotting through an air terminal, she once gave her hair a quick swipe while looking in the mirror of a candy vending machine.

Outgoing today, she once was almost introspective. She reads a lot, favoring history of varying periods, poetry, books about animals. The animal world holds special fascination for her. She reads first all the books intended for her children.

Her tastes in art are perhaps more traditional than the governor's. She is, however, learning to live with the modern art which adorns his walls.

"Nelson has opened up whole new worlds to me," says Happy, whom he consults, too, for reaction to his speeches and public appearances on the hustings.

She herself steers clear of political comment, avoiding all interviews for that reason. She thinks such talk would be presumptuous. At least one politician found this posture thoroughly charmnig. Said he:

"What a doll! No speeches!"

TWO-FACE COOKIES

Here are some extra - special cookies that are sure to please youngsters. Use your best sugar cooky recipe and cut the cookies at least three inches in size. Decorate both sides with faces. First frost one side with white icing and make hair from coconut that has been tinted yellow. Raisins can form the eyes and nose and a candied cherry will make a mouth. After this has hardened, turn the cooky over and frost the other side with chocolate. Use plain white coconut for the hair, blue gum drops for eyes and red for the nose and mouth.

YOUR DENTAL HEALTH

Loose Teeth Get Reprieve From Fate of Being Yanked

By WILLIAM LAWRENCE DDS
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Loose teeth that formerly were condemned can now be rehabilitated and saved for years — or indefinitely. Why do teeth become loose? Because the bone that supports them becomes absorbed.

This happens for one or more reasons: abnormal biting which puts severe pressure on a tooth or group of teeth, the relentless process of aging, diseases of gum tissue and bone, wasting diseases such as tuberculosis, diabetes, marked vitamin deficiency, poor or improper care of teeth and gums and sometimes continued use of drugs such as some steroids.

Years ago these causes often went unrecognized and unremedied. When teeth became loose they were extracted and replaced by removable dentures. It was not uncommon for patients to have all their remaining teeth taken out.

Now these teeth can be treated by curettage, by careful scraping and polishing neck and root surfaces. This removes debris that collects on these surfaces under the gums where even the most scrupulous brushing can't reach. To keep these teeth healthy and clean, loose gum tissue which forms pockets around them is surgically removed. Special instruments have been designed to allow this work to be done with perfection and minimum pain.

Biting surfaces of teeth are adjusted by slight grinding of high spots so that all teeth touch at the same time and no surfaces are put under extra pressure when teeth are brought together as in grinding and swallowing.

Proper nourishment and a balanced diet with regular eating habits that allow brushing after meals, is of continuing importance in this treatment.

This type of dentistry is called "periodontia," and has become a most important branch of dentistry.

Please send your questions about dental health to Dr. Lawrence in care of this paper. While he cannot answer each letter personally, letters of general interest will be answered in this column.

CREAM LADLE EARRING

APPENZELL, Switzerland (AP) — This remote part of Switzerland, Swiss since 1513, takes pride in preserving its traditional dress and jewelry. Women wear black or white lace kerchiefs, gold-leaf bodice ornaments, a silk smocked apron and a headdress resembling a giant black fan with a Mary Stuart peak on the forehead. Married women warn off attentions with a wide red ribbon flowing from the back of the cap.

Men's watch chains are usually decorated with old coins and charms and they wear solid silver shoe buckles engraved with cows. Pants are yellow or brown, stockings and shirts snow white and waistcoats crimson. On feast days every man wears a single drop earring on the right ear in a gold or brass cream ladel motif which is a status symbol meaning "I make my own cream and butter from the milk of my own cows."

CC Fraternity, Mayor Clean Up Boy's Ranch

[illegible] members took a day from their regular academic schedules and donate their time and services to a worthwhile project in the community. Early in February two members of the local chapter of the Fraternity, Dave Edwards and Dave Van Ness, consulted with Mayor Harry Hoth as to where the Fraternity could be most useful to the community. Mayor Hoth after investigating several possibilities suggested the Brockhurst Boys Ranch in Green Mountain Falls. The directors of the Ranch were contacted and they began making lists of the several things that needed to be done.

The work done Saturday by the Phi Delta Theta members was badly needed in several areas of the Ranch. They cleaned a site for an outdoor cooking area, cut old lumber and [illegible] for the dining [illegible] cleaned around [illegible] buildings and dug [illegible] a barn which is to be [illegible] shop building.

Mayor Hoth, who came out [illegible] with the work, congratulated [illegible] for doing [illegible] to the Brockhurst Boys Ranch. He stated [illegible] the Phi Delta Theta Fraternity members saw that the project was worthwhile they were willing to work hard and long until the work was finished. Mayor Hoth remarked that such a project not only improved the physical condition of the Ranch but was a good experience for the Fraternity in learning to serve the public.

When the Phi Delts and the boys at the ranch finished the work that was planned, the Ranch provided them with a bar-B-que dinner.

Denver Woman, Man Critical After Stabbings

Both victims, Mrs. Louise Espinoza, 21, and James H. Sage, 27, were reported on the danger list. Mrs. Espinoza underwent surgery and the last rites of the Roman Catholic Church were administered.

Police jailed Eli Salazar, 34, of Denver for investigation of aggravated assault in the stabbing of the woman.

Patrolman Charles McCormick said a neighbor of Mrs. Espinoza said he found her lying at his doorway with blood pouring from a wound in the abdomen. McCormick said Salazar was standing in the street with blood on his coat. He told the officer he had been dating the woman but denied stabbing her.

Mrs. Lydia Lee, 36, was jailed for investigation of aggravated assault in the stabbing of Sage. She told officers she had been living with him.

The police stopped to investigate a honking car horn and Sage staggered up to them with blood on his chest. Mrs. Lee was with him.

Officers found his house in disarray, with blood on the floor and a bloody 12-inch butcher knife in a waste basket. Mrs. Lee said she and Sage had been drinking and the only thing she could remember was seeing blood on his chest.

Federal Laws Will Nix State Dope Rackets

DENVER (UPI) — U.S. Atty. Lawrence Henry said Saturday the federal government would prevent a possible breakdown in enforcement of Colorado narcotics laws by strict enforcement of the federal laws.

The Colorado laws were cast in doubt this week by a decision of Boulder Dist. Judge William E. Buck. The judge dismissed 12 marijuana cases on grounds marijuana is not a true narcotic.

MacDonald will work with the U.S. Bureau of Narcotics so that all federal laws relating to such cases are militantly enforced, Henry said.

The federal statutes are adequate to prevent any breakdown in Colorado in this area of law enforcement.

House Member Explains View Of Prayer Ban

By JOHN BECKLER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court ban on official school prayers was seen today by a House member as part of "a deadly attempt to make our America officially a godless nation."

Rep. Robert L. F. Sikes, D-Fla., expressed that view in testimony prepared for the House Judiciary Committee and urged enactment of a constitutional amendment to reverse the court's decision.

Sikes said religion should not be confined only to the church and the home.

"I believe that religion exists everywhere, and that it should be recognized everywhere," he said. "And I consider it particularly important in these days when teaching in the home is so often neglected, that religious education be implemented in public schools and public places."

Sikes' testimony continued the barrage by House members in support of various proposed amendments to permit prayers and Bible reading in the schools.

Nearly two dozen have testified since the hearings began Wednesday and only one, Rep. [illegible] W. Davis, D-[illegible], expressed approval of the Supreme Court's prayer and Bible reading decisions.

Committee members who have raised numerous questions about the constitutional difficulties involved in the problem were chided Thursday by Rep. Craig Hosmer, R-Calif., for tilting at windmills.

Hosmer said all Congress [illegible] was [illegible] that may exist [illegible] and leave it to local authorities [illegible] any problems that may arise.

"But it's not as simple as that," said Chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y. "There are many different kinds of prayers and different versions of the Bible. A school board may prescribe a prayer or a Bible that are objectionable to some parents."

Another witness, Rep. Joel T. Broyhill, R-Va., urged the committee not to strain at this thing.

"Just go back to the situation as it was before the Supreme Court's 1962 decision," he said.

Celler, who had heard several [illegible] supporters of a new amendment make the same suggestion, said "there was great turbulence in this area.

"Twenty-one states were involved in court controversies over just these matters," he said. "The situation was not free from doubt."

Profumo Forgets Scandal, Does Social Work

By COLIN FROST

LONDON (AP) — John Profumo, his political career ended by scandal, has taken a new job as a social worker.

Nubia Citizens Leave Homeland To Aswan Dam

By ALY MAHMOUD

Sett el-Banat Konouz, a widow of [illegible], described her feelings.

"Strangers knocked at my door two months ago as I was feeding my child. Before they [illegible] and I [illegible] strangers told me that I had to leave my house [illegible] the last word [illegible] my breast."

The promise of a better life means little to these people. Their old farms were almost sacred. Their roots go back 5,000 years when Nubia was known as the Kingdom of Kush. [illegible] colonized many times, Nubians always preserved their identity and love of land. Nubians once ruled all of Egypt.

Nubia's hardy sons go [illegible] and easily find work in Cairo and Alexandria, but they almost invariably return home.

Officials found it difficult to convince people that the exodus was inevitable. They started by trying to convince the village boss, the omdah. They explained to village meetings. Then, in many cases, delegations went down river to inspect their "new world."

"The people of Debod left the village in tears," one villager recalled. "When the ships moved away they kept their eyes fixed on their houses and the cemetery, until they fell beneath the horizon."

Although each family has been promised a farm varying between two to five acres, in many cases they will have to wait until waters from the dam make reclamation of new lands possible. Meanwhile villagers without land will get the equivalent of about $7 monthly—a decent wage in this poor land. Others are getting jobs at the Aswan Dam and in related projects.

Souvanna Bows To Conditions Of Rebel Chiefs

By DON HUTH

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — Premier Souvanna Phouma announced today that he and his cabinet have agreed to conditions laid down by rightwing rebels for settlement of the Laotian crisis. But coup leaders said they would not relinquish control of Vientiane until formation of a government they approve.

The rightist military leaders who seized control of the capital Sunday and put Prince Souvanna under house arrest demanded that he enlarge his government. They demanded that [illegible] qualified personalities — meaning rightwingers — recommended by the rebels.

Prince Souvanna said the [illegible] cabinet of neutralists, rightists and pro-Communists adopted various points of the demands and therefore considers that there is a continuity in the exercise of its government powers.

"The cabinet has accepted all clauses included in our motion," Gen. Kouprasith Abhay, the leader of the coup, told a news conference. But his deputy, Gen. Siho Lamphouthakoul, said: "We will maintain military control of the city of Vientiane until formation of a government according to our wishes."

It was by no means certain that the agreement between Souvanna and the rightists would be approved by the pro-Communist Pathet Lao, an integral member of the coalition government. Its army controls a large part of Laos.

The decision must come from the Pathet Lao headquarters in Khang Khay where Prince Souphanouvong, Pathet Lao leader and deputy premier, has holed up since he began a boycott of the government 14 months ago.

Souphanouvong in the past has repudiated a number of cabinet decisions announced by Souvanna on the basis of agreement between him and his rightwing deputy premier, Gen. Phoumi Nosavan.

Asked whether the Pathet Lao had agreed to the rightwing demands, Kouprasith said: "This is not our business. It is up to Souvanna's coalition to handle this question."

Genteel Stripper Revives Burlesque Respectability

By WILLIAM GLOVER
Associated Press Drama Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The shapely shoulders of Ann Corio shrugged eloquently.

"I knew it had to be this way or not at all," she remarked with the soft satisfaction of a woman who has emphatically proved her point.

"I hate to think who else might have? I hate to think what someone else might have done."

Miss Corio, a pre-eminent practitioner of genteel striptease during that gentle art form's halcyon era, is the star, guiding power, chief censor and vigilant champion of "This Was Burlesque," one of New York's longest-running hit shows.

With $18,000 of capital, some homemade costumes salvaged from stage curtains, and a cooperatively silent partner, Miss Corio launched the nostalgic, mildly raffish revue at the Casino East Theater on March 6, 1962. It hasn't slowed since through several editions.

"What we did was bring burlesque back to respectability," says the star. "We haven't had to use a single gimmick to keep going, and you'd be surprised at the number of women in the audience. Parents bring their teenagers along because they want them to see a great old entertainment form before it vanishes forever."

There have been over 600 party groups, and one admirer has seen the show 113 times.

Miss Corio is haunted by the notion that "when we close it will be the end of burlesque." She fervently wishes that some foundation would ante the cost of recording it all on film for foundation would ante the cost the endowment of future generof recording it all on film for the endowment of future generations.

"Burlesque was America's contribution to the art of entertainment, and it wasn't what a lot of people today think of it as. Comedy was the big thing, and the flash girls were just a small part of it."

She has nothing but scorn for the vestiges of so-called burlesque which linger on in a dozen or so cities.

"The girls were strippers then — they call themselves exotics now," she declares. "There was a lot more animation then — it's all become a lot more suggestive today and the girls who work the circuit couldn't care less."

The emphasis is on comics in the Casino East show, dispensing a variety of tattered and rustic mirth.

"Why not?" retorts a straight man.

"Because he's dead," comes the punch line.

Why such corny badinage evokes audience delight is explained by some investigators as a kind of rebound humor — so ancient that it appeals to the sophisticated like a hamburger after too much caviar.

"We keep the pace furious," Miss Corio asserts. "I have three strippers, but the longest spot any one of them gets is seven minutes. The audience comes for the comics.

"I've got my own dressing room equipped with a loudspeaker to keep tabs on what goes on on stage. The people that come to this show will freeze instantly at anything suggestive—then it takes half an hour to get them back."

Two of the comics, Steve Mills and Mack Dennison—the animated repositories of several hundred ancient routines—have been with the show all the way. With them now is Harry Conley. Miss Corio on one occasion bought back a performer's contract when he couldn't adjust to respectability.

"It takes a week also to teach the girls the way things should be done. There's a long list of strippers who would like to come in, but they don't know the way we did things when burlesque was really burlesque."

Since the show opened, several rival ventures have opened and speedily vanished. This Miss Corio takes as a tribute to her own precise, possibly sentimental resuscitation of the way things were when she, Gypsy Rose Lee, Georgia Sothern, Margie Hart were eye-stoppers, Red Skelton, Bert Lahr and Bobby Clark were top bananas.

A critic once described Miss Corio as "a grave, ritualistic performer," and her own part in the show adheres to that determined decorum. A highlight skit, "Cleopotroast," ribs Richard Burton and Elizabeth Taylor. As the fabled Nile queen, Miss Corio, still graceful and handsome as ever, demurely cavorts in flesh-colored leotard.

The show, she expects, will continue in New York through the two seasons of the World's Fair. After that, "we may accept a lot of the bids we've had to tour, and perhaps even go to London."

RIALTO CASTING NOTES— Comes spring, comes change on Broadway in leading roles. Martha Scott has just moved into "Never Too Late" in place of Maureen O'Sullivan; Barry Nelson takes over from Robert Preston in "Nobody Loves an Albatross," June 1 . . . Set for return to Broadway next season is Hal March, last seen here in the long-run success, "Come Blow Your Horn." The new comedy, "The Wayward Stork" will have a long-distance warmup tour during the summer, starting in Westport, Conn. and jumping to Denver, Colo.

NEW LAB — This drawing shows the Joint Institute for Laboratory Astrophysics (JILA) building to be erected on the University of Colorado campus in Boulder at a cost of $1.8 million. JILA is a cooperative research and graduate education facility established in 1962 by the University and the National Bureau of Standards. The nine-story tower will contain offices and seminar rooms; the three-story wing behind it will contain laboratories and shops. Existing building to the left of the tower is the University Heating Plant. Architect is Harry Weese and Associates.

CU to Build $1.8 Million Physics Lab

The University of Colorado will build a new $1.8 million laboratory building to house the Joint Institute for Laboratory Astrophysics and its program of advanced research and graduate education.

The CU Board of Regents Friday authorized the building, approved preliminary sketches and gave the architect — Harry Weese and Associates of Chicago — authority to proceed with working drawings.

The institute, known as JILA, was established in 1962 as a cooperative venture of the University and the National Bureau of Standards. Its purpose is to provide a center for advanced research, study and graduate education in astrophysics, atomic physics, aerodynamics and other fields.

Participants are faculty members of the CU Department of Physics and Astrophysics and the Department of Aerospace Engineering Science.

JILA is now housed in the former State Armory Building just off the campus; in Woodbury building; and in Engineering I, a 45-year-old CU building. Construction of the new JILA building is scheduled to start next fall and to be completed early in 1966.

The building will be financed through federal grants and funds advanced by the state of Colorado under an arrangement authorized by the 1964 Colorado Legislature. These funds will be replaced from income from research programs of federal agencies, mainly the National Bureau of Standards and the Department of Defense.

The JILA building will be part of a new Physics Complex stretching along the south side of Pennsylvania Avenue southwest of Folsom Stadium.

JILA'S structure will run north and south in the area directly east of the university's service building and heating plant.

The only other structure in the Physics Complex nearing the construction stage is a Laboratory for Atmospheric and Space Physics (LASP) building, which will be just northeast of the JILA building.

Bids will be opened April 30 on the LASP building, which is being financed by a grant of $792,000 from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

The LASP and JILA buildings will be joined by a new physics building to house CU's regular program of teaching and research in physics, when state funds become available.

Scientists Solve Secret of Color Vision

By LYNN POOLE
The Johns Hopkins University

In 1802, physicist Thomas Young suggested that man's ability to see color is due to three visual pigments in the retinal cones of the eye which absorb different colors and transmit them to the nervous system. It was later postulated that each cone contains only one of the three pigments. In more than a century and a half of experimentation, this theory was not confirmed, although it has been the most commonly held belief.

Now, 162 years later, a group of Johns Hopkins University biophysicists, using ultra-sensitive electronic equipment of their own design, have demonstrated the existence of three separate kinds of color-sensitive cones in the retina of the human eye, confirming Thomas Young's theory.

Dr. William Marks and graduate student William Dobelle, working with Dr. Edward F. MacNichol, Jr., Professor of Biophysics at Johns Hopkins, have identified for the first time a blue receptor in the human eye.

Previous examination of the cone area of the retina by other investigators had disclosed the presence of only two light sensitive pigments and gave no information as to how they were distributed among the cones.

The light sensitive part of the eye is the layer of rods and cones in the retina. A human eye contains about a million cones and ten million rods. It is believed that only the cones are operative in light bright enough to see color.

Using a microspectrophotometer designed and constructed by Doctors MacNichol and Marks, the Hopkins investigators first passed a beam of bright light through a retinal cone which is about two twenty-five thousandths of an inch in diameter. Then the spectra from several different groups were plotted; they fell into three groups. There appeared, along with the known red and green sensitive pigments, the long missing blue sensitive one — thus confirming Young's theory.

A similar study has been undertaken at Harvard University by Mr. Paul K. Brown, under the direction of Professor George Wald. They have arrived at the same conclusion, separately but simultaneously.

Dr. MacNichol points out that while the spectrophotometer is a relatively common laboratory instrument for measuring the intensity of light, only recent advances in electronics have made possible equipment sufficiently sophisticated to be used with an object as small as a retinal cone. "The primary reason the blue receptor has remained unidentified is that no one has had the equipment sensitive enough to experiment with individual cones until now," he said.

Dr. MacNichol further indicates that it will be necessary to record spectra from many more units "for us to be certain of the number of receptor types and obtain more precise spectra. The data suggests the possibility that the red receptors may contain red and green pigments coexisting in a single cone. More experiments will be necessary to resolve this question."

Dr. MacNichol's research has been generally concerned with the function of the nervous system. He is trying to determine how information is encoded for transmission through the optic nerve, and how characteristic nerve responses occur when the retina is stimulated. The confirmation of the color vision theory puts him one step closer to determining these responses.

In addition, it is expected that the technique of measuring pigments in a single cone will provide an explanation of defective color vision or color blindness, thus proving useful to ophthalmologists in their studies of vision defects and diseases.

Dr. Marks has done earlier studies of color vision in goldfish, which have much larger retinal cones and are therefore easier to study.

He and his wife have recently embarked on a project to record simultaneously from a large number of optic nerve fibers in order to determine how a large number of units cooperate in forming a complete picture of the outside world through the eye.

Faculty Lectures Planned for Palmer Next Year

As a result of the enthusiastic student response to the faculty lecture series at Palmer High School this semester, a similar program is planned for next year, according to Virgil I. Hoff, Palmer English teacher, who organized the series.

Nearly 1,600 students attended the lectures to hear their teachers talk about such widely different subjects as Buddhism and limnology, Shakespeare and satellites. Attendance ranged from 84 to 283 persons at the 13 lecture sessions.

Original plans called for a lecture to be given once, but the large turn-out for the first lecture caused a change in plans, Hoff said. The remaining six lectures were delivered on Monday afternoons and repeated Tuesday mornings for the benefit of students with late afternoon classes.

Although attendance was completely voluntary, a number of students heard all seven lectures. Hoff added that audiences also included a few persons from outside the school community.

For the 1964-65 school year, Hoff has already arranged a program of 11 lectures. The first, scheduled for September, is entitled "Football From the Spectator's Point-of-View."

Civic Groups Asked to Aid Speaking Course

The speech department at Roy J. Wasson High School is seeking help from local civic organizations in getting the speech students from Wasson High some community speaking experience.

Speech is a required subject at Wasson High School and is taught in correlation with English and American history. In the senior year the course is correlated with American history and the students are required to do an extensive research speech on some aspect of American history.

Many of these youngsters are prepared now to deliver these speeches before any adult group that wishes to hear them. Some of the topics available now are D-Day, The Mountain Men, General Billy Mitchell, The Tabor Family, Postal Service, Broadmoor, Ghost Towns of Western Colorado, and many others.

Lee Higgins, chairman of the speech department at Wasson High, has pointed out that the best possible speaking experience for these seniors will be before community groups of adults.

The advanced speech class at Wasson High, which is made up primarily of high school debaters, is now prepared to organize and set up programs for any group on any number of topics with one week's notice.

If any program chairmen want to help give these youngsters a chance to speak, they are asked to call Higgins at Wasson High School.

To Visit in Alaska

NEW YORK (AP) — Former President Harry S. Truman said Saturday he has an unfulfilled ambition—to visit Alaska.

"I've been in all of the 49 other states and I hope some day to get to Alaska—then I'll have seen them all," he told newsmen during his morning stroll.

Cattle Sensed Coming Big Quake, Rancher Declares

EDITOR'S NOTE — As the dust settles after the most violent earthquake ever recorded in the northern hemisphere, the full picture of its enormity begins to emerge. Here two reporters who covered it now weave together the details of the panoramic convulsion and its path of human terror.

By SAUL PETT and JULES LOH

His 200 head of cattle were grazing quietly at his ranch on Narrow Cape, a lovely finger of land washed by the Gulf of Alaska about 50 miles southeast of here on the Gulf of Kodiak.

About three o'clock that afternoon the cattle turned and began to move away from their low-lying grazing land to higher ground. They had never done this before so early in the day.

Louis Beaty frowned. The sky was sunny and blue. The mountains behind him stood serenely in their skirts of snow. The wind blowing in from the turquoise sea was gentle.

Beaty vaguely sensed that the cattle had sensed something. But what?

What indeed. The mood of Alaska on this Good Friday, March 27, 1964, was benign. Spring was coming, the temperature was rising. People were already betting on when the ice would break up in the rivers. Even in this age of flight, the ice breakup remains symbolic to Alaskans. The winter feeling of isolation was about to yield to the friendliness of spring, like opening a window onto the outside — onto the rest of the United States.

Down deep under the earth's crust, more than 50 miles down in an eternal darkness without season, it is thought that a huge river of slowly swirling, boiling pitch-like substance rings the great iron core of the earth. Just what was happening down there on this Good Friday no man on earth could say with certainty and cows make unreliable seismologists. One theory is that this huge river by its constant and opposing currents wears and strains the earth's crust. Where the crust is weak, it may crack. Alaska is known to lie on a relative weak layer of crust.

At her tidy frame home in Anchorage, Joan Groom couldn't have cared less about the mysterious forces grinding and straining the earth beneath. Of more immediate concern were the visible forces that could at any moment wreck her living room and nervous system.

The children, at last, were in their places, the pink cake with its cover of coconut was on the table, her daughter Claudia had made her wish and was now ready to blow out the four pink candles. Ten young critics, four of them her brothers and sisters, were yelling she couldn't do it in one puff.

Downtown, Harry Groom, a photographer, was starting home. Recalling his daughter's party, he decided on one quick fortification against the inevitable chaos. He pulled up at the "Highland Fling," where they sell two drinks for the price of one between 5 and 6 o'clock, went inside and ordered bourbon.

Out in the quiet suburb called Turnagain, a well-[illegible] subdivision of ranch and split-level houses, Esther McCreedy was finishing a ham with brown sugar and pineapple rings. Her husband was due home for supper in about 20 minutes.

Far to the south, 250 miles from Claudia Groom's birthday party and 50 miles northwest of Louis Beaty's curiously acting cattle, Bill Cuthbert, a leathery and grizzled fisherman, was sitting down to supper in the galley of his 86-foot scow, the "Se[illegible]lief." The boat was tied to its slip in Kodiak Harbor, a picturesque horseshoe at the foot of the mountains. In the hold were $3,000 worth of Alaska king crabs, ready to be unloaded next morning at the cannery.

Atop the hill above the harbor in the sanctuary of St. James the Fisherman Episcopal Church, carpenter Louis Horn was hanging a new cross above the altar. It was now 5:20 p.m. Horn selected two small eye bolts to suspend the heavy cross from the ceiling.

"Sure, Father."

"What if we have an earthquake?" the father chuckled.

"Even in an earthquake," laughed the carpenter.

By Alaska standards, it was warm, about 35 degrees in Kodiak and Anchorage and the infrequent towns and remote villages in between. But 1,500 miles down the rim of the Great Pacific Basin, at Newport, Ore., it was much warmer and Monte and Rita McKenzie and their four children had gone to the shore on a camping trip.

They found a cozy spot for the night, a driftwood shelter on the beach north of Newport. The sea glowed in the light of a full moon. The McKenzie family clustered together, soon fell asleep. After seven months, the pain of their nine-year-old daughter's death had begun to ebb.

And in the serenity that bathed the moonlit beach in Oregon, the Kodiak Harbor and the quiet going home time in Anchorage, the earth crust under Alaska could no longer endure the strain of the inexorable forces below. It let go at 5:36 p.m. Anchorage time (10:36 Eastern Standard Time).

And across more than 600 miles of mountains and towns and spruce forests and icy streams and secluded coves and great expanses of snow broken only by animal tracks, the earth strained and groaned and shook.

And in untold hundreds of places it cracked open and in scores of places it buckled and tipped buildings and swayed trees and poles in wild dizzy arcs and heaved up pavement and snapped bridges and started avalanches of snow and dirt and stone from mountain tops. Out in the sea it raised a mighty wave.

In Anchorage, the Grooms' house quivered, then shook with increasing force. The chimney crashed onto the roof and the birthday cake smashed on the floor. Screaming with fright, the children toppled over in their chairs. Joan Groom lost her balance and pitched to the floor in a litter of flying books and glass and overturned furniture.

Again and again the house shook, sometimes gently, sometimes violently. Then suddenly it ended. Somehow no one was injured. White with terror, Joan Groom began to sing a song the children had memorized.

Slowly, one by one, they stopped crying and began singing:

"The little book shelf
"Is wiggling itself
"And the books are [illegible]
"The fairy tales and fables
"Are tumbling over chairs and tables
"Mother Goose is running loose,
"She is marching into town."

At the Highland Fling, Harry Groom felt the first tremor and smiled. "Oh," he said flippantly, "another earthquake." Others at the bar smiled. After many years of gentle tremors and no real quake, Alaskans had come to regard the subject with nonchalance.

But this tremor refused to stop and the bar fell quiet and then the whole room rocked with new force. Bottles pitched to the floor, glasses smashed, women screamed. People tried to rush to the door but the floor was billowing like insane jello and they fell and they crawled. Harry Groom finally made it to the street, still holding, for no reason he remembered, the two-for-one glasses unbroken. Like husbands everywhere in town, he was trying to get home to his family.

Outside, on Fourth Avenue, the pavement was billowing and people were falling and cars were bouncing and one whole block of stores sank, just sank — 20 feet into a huge crack of the convulsed earth. The marquee of the Denali movie theater, which was to open in a half hour for the evening show, sank to the level of the sidewalk.

A block away, the five-story J. C. Penney building swayed out over the street, swayed back and then one end sank in a roar of crumbling masonry and glass. Elsewhere a new six-story apartment, not yet occupied, collapsed in thunder and in many places earth fissures snaked right through living rooms.

At the 14-story Mt. McKinley apartment, one of Anchorage's two tallest buildings, Deprime Haley was riding the elevator near the eighth floor. The elevator quivered and stopped. Then it began bouncing up and down, up and down, and Deprime Haley screamed in terror. The whole world, it seemed to her, was screaming.

The elevator stopped bouncing momentarily between floors and she squeezed through a 10-inch opening in the doors and climbed to the floor above. She made her way to the stairwell and in the darkness, in the incredible shaking and swaying, she became hysterical. Crying, she pitched herself headlong down each flight, crawled across the landing, and pitching and crawling finally made her way to the ground floor and out. She looked back and saw others crawling groggily out of the building. Up the entire face of the structure the apartment was scarred by a series of zig-zagging cracks.

When Esther McCreedy's ham pitched from the stove she knew it was no ordinary tremor and hurried out. Near the door she was thrown down by a violent new shudder. And just outside the door she turned and watched her home sink as if in slow motion into the earth [illegible].

Beyond where 100 homes had stood she saw an eerie expanse of ruin. The bluffs overlooking Cook Inlet had fallen away, 200 yards inland, taking with it houses snapped in two and three pieces into deep gorges. The area looked like a vast brown sea of motionless waves peaked with pieces of homes and snapped trees. Esther McCreedy wept.

And suddenly it was over — some say after 90 seconds, others after five full minutes — and now all of Anchorage, it seems, was arrested in an unfamiliar, overwhelmingly complete silence.

And from far out in the agitated ocean came the wave rushing toward the shaken land. As the depth grew shallower the wave grew higher. Where it hit the land in broad open areas it looked like a broad, suddenly rising tide. Where it had to pass through a narrow passage as it did at Seward, 130 miles south of Anchorage, it gathered momentum and force and raced forward like a wall of water.

Texas Has About 120 One-Teacher Schools

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Among its 650 small schools (those with average daily attendance less than 500), Texas has about 120 one-teacher schools. They averaage around 15 students in daily attendance. Educators regard them as a good thing in many ways—the dropout rate is low, their graduates usually do well in other levels of education and the schools are centers for community activities.

During the last school year the average cost of attending college was approximately $1,480 in public institutions and $2,240 in private schools, according to the U.S. Office of Education.

Happy Is Helping Hand for Hubby In Vote Drive

By BRUCE BIOSSAT

ALBANY, N.Y. (NEA) — Happy Rockefeller, due at a women's [illegible], could wait no longer for her husband to wind up his press conference. What she wanted to tell him she jotted on a [illegible] and shoved under his nose.

The governor read it, grinned, picked up her hand and kissed it. Then his wife, the former Margaretta Fitler Murphy, dashed off.

The incident was not unusual. On airplanes, in meeting halls, walking the streets, Rocky and Happy nearly always can be found holding hands — or sometimes just fingers.

Arriving in a southern New Hampshire town before the primary, she was urged to take a rest before the night's campaigning. Responded Happy: "Oh, [illegible]. Where's Nelson?"

Minutes later she popped out of a car on the town's main street, discovered him shaking hands in a shop. As a friend tells it: "She slipped her arm around his and she was in business."

[illegible] Happy was new to the [illegible] wandered in search of him when they became separated. She feels easier today.

"We've worked out a system. I know now that if we get separated, he'll swing around and we'll meet anyway."

At 37, Happy Rockefeller is a tall, slender, long-striding woman with rich brown eyes, thick chestnut hair and a warm smile that springs quickly into being. She hardly seems the type to be standing at the center of the political storm generated by her marriage to the governor a year ago.

Those who see her in public hand down the same verdict. "She's no femme fatale," was one early comment. "I don't think of her as a divorcee any more," was another. "Isn't she nice?" is a common response.

This naturalness clearly serves her well in the swirling settings of politics. Constantly animated, very much the participant, she willingly scrawls "Happy" on note pads and placards thrust her way, pumps hands vigorously, sings and claps when the occasion demands. She likes the excitement of travel, of new people.

But her friends say her main reason for going out with the governor is not so much to be a joint campaigner as simply to be with him. She picks those trips which will allow them most of the time together. Says Happy:

"I think of my husband as my husband, not as a presidential candidate."

Much of this campaign season she has stayed behind, one is told, to be with her four children by her earlier marriage: James 12, Margaretta 10, Car-[illegible] S. Ma[illegible]

No more can be said [illegible] most controversial aspect [illegible] marriage to the governor. Arrangements with her former husband, Dr. James Murphy, were designed to assure the children's privacy.

People who watch Happy [illegible] public remark about her almost instinctive attention to children she sees around her. Once when Rocky was on the verge of [illegible] standing [illegible].

Since the late [illegible] announcement that she is expecting a child in June, Happy has been deluged with gifts for the baby. Elderly folk [illegible] the campaign [illegible] One day [illegible] asked [illegible] she was [illegible].

Last year one [illegible] sought to suggest that all this wholesomeness was part of a "political design" to ease the remarriage problem and help Rocky win the 1964 nomination. Yet Happy's whole history fits her present pattern. When a friend says she's wholesome, she means she has always been.

From childhood [illegible] fashionable Philadelphia Main Line suburbs through [illegible] exclusive finishing school, Happy has been a woodsy [illegible] and still is.

In those days her costume was usually faded blue jeans and worn sneakers. Today she does have her Hattie Carnegie dresses, but her tastes remain very simple and clothes are a secondary thing. Hats she never wears. People [illegible] her old hats may [illegible] a scarf. Jewelry [illegible] used. Trotting [illegible] air terminal she [illegible]

Her tastes in art are far more traditional than the governor's. She is, however, learning [illegible] with the modern art [illegible] walls.

TWO-FACE COOKIES

Here are some [illegible] cookies that are [illegible] youngsters. Use [illegible] cooky recipe and [illegible] at least three [illegible]. Decorate both sides [illegible]. First frost one side with white icing and make hair from cocoanut that has been tinted yellow. Raisins can form the eyes and nose and a candied cherry will make a mouth. After this has hardened, turn the cooky over and frost the other side with chocolate. Use plain white cocoanut for the hair, blue gum drops for eyes and red for the nose and mouth.

LBJ Confident About Future Of His Girls

By TOM NOLAN

WASHINGTON (NEA) — President Lyndon B. Johnson has his own ideas about his two daughters.

"I'll never have to worry about either girl," the President is fond of drawling.

"Lynda Bird is so smart that she will always be able to make a living for herself.

"And Luci Baines is so appealing and feminine that there will always be some man around wanting to make a living for her."

But even the President might have been fooled, since Lynda — who is 20 this month (March 19) — is the one who is engaged to be married at the White House in June.

An accepted fact about the two girls, is that they both have shown unusual poise and charm at official White House functions over the last seven weeks. Lynda and her 19-year-old "roomie," Warrie Lynn Smith of San Antonio, Tex., moved into the dormitory at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue Jan. 27.

Both Johnson girls go about their duties in a friendly, informal manner — whether they're making polite conversation with the Queen of Greece, or trying to soothe a badly ruffled 13-year-old son of a congressman who has just garbled his carefully prepared speech at the climax of a White House receiving line.

"It's very nice to meet you," Lynda says with a friendly smile in the latter instance, gracefully offering her hand.

"That's all right. Don't let it bother you," adds the 16-year-old Luci encouragingly, giving the hand an old-fashioned Texas pump.

Both girls have managed to keep up with their studies despite the heavy White House social schedule. Lynda, taking three classes at nearby George Washington University, also manages to cope with two correspondence courses in Latin from the University of Texas, where she spent a year and half.

"School work has to come first," she says emphatically. "How can Daddy sign the Education Bill if I don't get my school work done?"

Luci, who recently changed the spelling of her name from Lucy, is a junior at Washington's National Cathedral School. She likes to study but participates fully in all school activities, too. She dates several different boys but does not go steady.

"Luci," her mother once said, "is pure female."

A family friend notes that the difference between the two girls is illustrated by the canopy with organdy ruffles over Luci's bed in the White House. Lynda's bed is conventional.

Lynda Bird, tall like her father, has a dimple in each cheek when she smiles. Her hair and eyes are brown. She has the drive of her father and the sentiment of her mother. Although she loves a good time, she ruled out a debutante party for herself in 1962.

She loves to discuss politics and history with her father, who does nothing to discourage this habit.

Luci Baines, petite like her mother, is the athlete in the family. She taught the 13-year-old twin sons of presidential aide Walter Jenkins all kinds of swimming feats in the family pool at the LBJ ranch in Texas.

Luci's blue eyes are seldom still.

She has had sewing lessons and enjoys making clothes. A good cook, she makes excellent pies.

Both girls have the family gift of self-expression. And both are friendly, outgoing talkers.

Accompanying her parents on a trip to Greece last year, Lynda was introduced after her father had finished a speech. Stepping up to the microphone, she told a large Athens crowd:

"I feel like Alexander the Great, who feared his father would leave nothing for him to conquer."

And three years ago in San Francisco, Luci delivered an impromptu talk before a large audience on the ticklish civil rights theme.

"I don't know what to say to you folks," the 13-year-old said. "But I often think of my mother who has dark hair and brown eyes. My daddy and my sister do, too, while I have blonde hair and blue eyes.

"But we all get along together fine. If we do in the same family, why can't everybody, without thinking of the color of people's skin or hair or eyes or even how they worship God?"

One of the few instances when the girls were taken aback was in 1961 when they received their first invitation to the White House. Their parents were out of town when First Lady Jacqueline Kennedy invited the girls to a formal dinner for the president of Sudan.

They responded that they would love to come, but that they felt obligated to disclose their true ages. Mrs. Kennedy herself wrote back that she knew the girls' ages and that the invitations were really meant for them.

The sisters excitedly discussed White House deportment with their mother via long distance telephone. Mrs. Johnson's advice:

"Read all you can find in the encyclopedia about the Sudan and don't drink any of the wine at dinner."

Woman's Fright Costs Would-Be Bandit $10

DETROIT (AP)— A woman's fright cost a would-be bandit $10 Thursday.

Ordering a pound of baloney and offering a $10 bill, the man tricked grocery store operator Madeline Aluia into opening the cash register. Then he pointed a gun.

Mrs. Aluia, 57, screamed and ran out holding his $10 bill.

The man fled, too, leaving the baloney.

SKOKIE, Ill. (AP) — Skin and scuba divers are going to school to learn the technique of underwater nagivating.

The 67-member club trained 25 students.

In classroom work, the students learn their equipment—what it does, how to use it, and the dangers in misuse. They also study the basic physiology in learning the effects of diving pressure on the body and the essentials of decompression.

They are taught how to wear a face mask and breathe out of a snorkle. Then they learn how to swim only with fins. They also learn how to clear the face mask of water without panicking.

"There's no danger if you know how to handle it," said Louis Cass, an officer in the group.

Boulder Resident Criticizes Sale Of Red Products

BOULDER, Colo. (UPI) — John A. Gay of Boulder said Saturday the Colorado Department of the American Legion had failed to stop his efforts to curb the sale or use of Communist-made merchandise in the state.

"The Department of Colorado has tried to keep me quiet through threats of ouster, censure and reprimand, but has failed to do so," Gay said in a news release. "They have been unable to carry out any of their threats. I claim victory by their default."

Gay has carried on a one-man campaign to expose the sale in Boulder stores of merchandise made by Iron Curtain countries. He also has opposed use of Yugoslavian-made cable at missile sites east of Denver.

He said the Colorado Legion had shown that it did not support the Legion's national policy of a strong voice against Communism.

"As an American Legionnaire, I will continue to support actively the mandates of the National American Legion with all means at my command and I shall continue to speak out on national policy," Gay said. "It is high time that more individual Legionnaires spoke out on issues."

Chief of Swaziland Faces Many Problems

By DENNIS LEE ROYLE

He has so many wives, sons, daughters and grandchildren that he can't remember all their names. And with the country's first Legislative Council (Parliament) elections only a few months off, he wants to be sure they will be voting the Conservative estimates place hundreds of royal children and ever [illegible] to enumerate the right way.

Sobhuza II is the traditional tribal King of the Swazis, and his 270,000 tribespeople refer to him as the "Ngwenyama" (Lion). He has ruled this land-locked, Connecticut-sized British Protectorate in Southern Africa since 1922.

Steeped in tribalism, 95 per cent of the Swazi people will accept the King's candidates for the coming national elections and abide by any of his recommendations as the country takes its first major step toward self-determination.

With hundreds of royal relatives scattered throughout every town and village in Swaziland, the King's political party seems assured of victory.

Many of the King's sons and daughters are still referred to as Prince and Princess but are relegated in status depending on whether they are born to the King's senior wife or one of his lesser wives.

The aged and infirm and those who have fallen from royal favour are well cared for by the king, who is a wealthy man by African standards, with substantial private income. They live together in mud - hutted royal kraals (villages) in various parts of the country.

The royal compounds are financed by Sobhuza, who also pays for the education and upkeep of his numerous children.

Though Swaziland is emerging from the backwoods of Africa, Western influence has yet to penetrate many of the remote tribal areas.

Much of Sobhuza's power lies with thetribal chiefs and headmen, all of whom are appointed by the king.

He is careful not to plunge the tribal areas into the hurly burly of modern politics — an insurance against disrupting the tribal way of life and the possible infiltration into positions of anti-royalist agitators.

He continues to wear on tribal ceremonial occasions Swazi native dress, complete with monkey skin loincloth and bird feathers in his hair.

At many white functions, however, he dresses in British-style formal morning clothes, with striped trousers, an old Churchillian type hat and British decorations.

The widespread practice of polygamy in this protectorate raises another problem among the royal clan and tribal families. Because only one wife will be allowed to vote in the elections, many a Swazi husband will have to decide which he considers to be his senior spouse.

The new constitution proposed by Britain, and which provides for the recognition of Queen Elizabeth II as the sovereign head of state, is not acceptable to King Sobhuza, who continues to oppose it. Such recognition would lower his status in the eyes of the Swazi people, who look upon him as the undisputed King of Swaziland. It would limit his powers and reaffirm Swaziland as a British Protectorate.

Britain's latest ultimatum to Sobhuza, couched in diplomatic terms, suggests that if he fails to sign the agreement recognizing the new constitution Britain would push the constitution through regardless of the King's opposition.

Meanwhile Sobhuza's sons are touring the country seeking more tribal support for their father.

Prince Masitsela Dlamini, a labor leader in his father's political party, said: "We are a nation of laborers — we own nothing and half the Swazi land belongs to foreigners. We are a country of illiterates who needed British help to prepare us for self-determination — but it has come too late.

"If my father signs the newly proposed constitutional agreement he will become king in name only. This is unacceptable to the Swazi people."

Sobhuza is well liked by the majority of the 8,000 whites who see advantages in cooperating with the king in order to safeguard white rights in a predominantly black country.

One white farmer commented: "I'd say that 90 per cent of the Swazi people are Royalists at heart, which is not remarkable when you look at the size of the kings' family."

Amendment To Rights Bill Sparks New Hope

By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — A leadership-sponsored jury trial amendment to the civil rights bill sparked hopes today of cracking the Senate's impasse over the measure.

Sens. Mike Mansfield and Everett M. Dirksen, the Democratic and Republican leaders, prepared to introduce the amendment as the Senate debate entered its 39th day.

They planned to present it as a substitute for one offered earlier by Sen. Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., acting for Southern foes of the legislation.

The efforts to resolve the jury trial issue were only part of the moves afoot to work out compromises and get the civil rights bill off dead center.

But growing signs of optimism were evident, and were noted by the bipartisan floor managers for the bill—Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., and Thomas H. Kuchel, R-Calif.

Kuchel told newsmen that he is beginning to have hopes that the whole matter may be resolved within 30 days.

And Humphrey said in a separate interview, "As a matter of fact, gentlemen, things are looking great."

While details were not disclosed in advance, indications were that the Mansfield-Dirksen proposal would be along the lines of a compromise provision that helped win passage of the 1957 Civil Rights Act.

Under the 1957 act, a person convicted of contempt for violating an injunction against discriminatory denial of voting rights can obtain a retrail before a jury if sentenced by a judge to more than 45 days or fined more than $300.

Dirksen told newsmen that once his and Mansfield's substitute for Talmadge's amendment is called up, he thought the jury trial issue could be disposed of quickly.

But he said no vote would be sought before the first the week.

JILA is now housed in the former State Armory Building just off the campus, in Woodbury building and in Engineering I, a 45-year-old CU building. Construction of the new JILA building is scheduled to start next fall and to be completed early in 1966.

The building will be financed through federal grants and funds advanced by the state of Colorado under an arrangement authorized by the 1964 Colorado Legislature. These funds will be replaced from income from research programs of federal agencies, mainly the National Bureau of Standards and the Department of Defense.

The JILA building will be part of a new Physics Complex stretching along the south side of Pennsylvania Avenue southwest of Folsom Stadium.

JILA's structure will run north and south in the area directly east of the university's service building and heating plant.

The only other structure in the Physics Complex nearing the construction stage is a Laboratory for Atmospheric and Space Physics (LASP) building, which will be just northeast of the JILA building.

Bids will be opened April 30 on the LASP building, which is being financed by a grant of $792,000 from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

The LASP and JILA buildings will be joined by a new physics building to house CU's regular program of teaching and research in physics when state funds become available.

Faculty Lectures Planned for Palmer Next Year

As a result of the enthusiastic student response to the faculty lecture series at Palmer High School this semester, a similar program is planned for next year, according to Virgil I. Hoff, Palmer English teacher who organized the series.

Nearly 1,600 students attended the lectures to hear their teachers talk about such widely different subjects as Buddhism and limnology, Shakespeare and satellites. Attendance ranged from 84 to 283 persons at the 13 lecture sessions.

Original plans called for a lecture to be given once, but the large turn-out for the first lecture caused a change in plans, Hoff said. The remaining six lectures were delivered on Monday afternoons and repeated Tuesday mornings for the benefit of students with late afternoon classes.

Although attendance was completely voluntary, a number of students heard all seven lectures. Hoff added that audiences also included a few persons from outside the school community.

For the 1964-65 school year Hoff has already arranged a program of 11 lectures. The first, scheduled for September, is entitled "Football From the Spectator's Point-of-View."

Mrs. Johnson Can't Forget Kentucky Child

By FRANCES LEWINE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson says she won't soon forget the little boy in the tiny Kentucky mountain town who breathlessly told her husband: "Mr. President, no one ever comes to Inez."

And she still seems astonished at the sign held up in a crowd: "Tell 'Him' and 'Her' Hello," a greeting for the Johnsons' pet Beagle dogs.

Like everyone else, Mrs. Johnson went on Friday's four-state poverty swing "on short notice." She'd planned to return to Washington after attending a Democratic fund-raising dinner in Chicago with him Thursday night. But "Lyndon just thought I really ought to go and he wanted me to."

Not only did Mrs. Johnson go, she shook hands in the crowds, was crushed in the friendly but jostling throngs and made speeches everywhere Johnson did.

In a departing speech at the Huntington, W.Va., airport, Friday night, the First Lady said:

"We have seen a big slice of America, and although we have seen economic problems, we have also seen initiative and determination, and just a lot of ways of attacking things."

She said this "type of trip was like a dose of adrenalin to Johnson. It was the sort of a day that makes Lyndon feel like going back and working harder to live up to the faith that he has found people having in him today."

At Huntington, while she waited in the presidential plane for Johnson to conclude his governors' conference before heading home, Mrs. Johnson said in an interview she thought it did her husband good "to get out of Washington to meet the people."

"I don't think Washington is a reliable thermometer to test the political temperature or a barometer of the way the wind is blowing," she said.

Mrs. Johnson said she really likes to go on such trips with the President "except that I don't get to take in as much as I like to. I'm not as fast acting, fast thinking and fast walking as he is."

She had to admit "I don't really feel easy talking around my husband," referring to making speeches with him on the same platform.

The 51-year-old First Lady finished her long day admittedly a big weary and the first thing she did was to daub her aching right hand with hand cream. The President had fared worse, his right hand was scratched and hurting from handshaking.

Human Error Number One Killer on Roads

More than eight out of every 10 casualties on the nation's highways in 1963 were caused by human error and lack of judgment. And the speedster still ranks as the number-one killer on the road.

These and other grim reminders were disclosed in a report issued by The Travelers Insurance Companies. The report is compiled annually from information provided by state motor vehicle departments.

Of the 42,700 persons who lost their lives in traffic accidents last year, 34,700 died in accidents caused by driver error and traffic law violations. Moreover, according to the report, nearly 3,000,000 persons were injured in auto mishaps caused by driver error.

The fast driver continued to be the greatest menace on the highways. More than 14,000 deaths and 1,223,000 injuries were directly attributable to excessive speeding.

A Travelers spokesman pointed out that - like the majority of accidents in other categories - most highway casualties could have been avoided. They were caused by human rather than mechanical failure, he said, and stressed the importance of getting this message across to the American public.

"If we can do this effectively," he added, "we have an opportunity to make dramatic improvements in the field of traffic safety."

D.C. WASH

By G. VAN DER HEUVEL

WASHINGTON — A little something for everyone is the underlying theme of most political conventions, but it took the Women's National Press Club to come up with an "all-purpose" nominating speech, bi-partisan platforms, and spontaneuos demonstrations — choreographed and set to music.

The girl reporters' free-wheeling preview of the conventions coming up was held for the benefit of their bosses, the members of the American Society of Newspaper Editors meeting here this week.

Fletcher Knebel, co-author of "Seven Days in May" and "Convention," gave the all-purpose nominating speech.

"Fellow delegates," he began in the bellowing, hog-calling tones of the convention speaker, "we are gathered here tonight to nominate a President of the United States. The question is why? Do we really need a new President? Why don't we just keep the one we've got and give him a course in driver training?"

But if a candidate must be nominated, he suggested, it would be well to consider the manner of man.

"Do we want a man who stands for motherhood? Ah, my friends, before we give a hasty answer to that question, consider the plight of Governor Rockefeller. He may be the first politican in history to make a liability of motherhood."

Knebel then topped everything off with this howler:

"My candiate will choose his running mate without regard to petty regionalism.

"He will pick a vice-president with broad national appeal to all segments — preferably a Catholic Negro named Mrs. Shapiro."

FINDS POLITICS CAUSES FOOT-IN-MOUTH DISEASE

The U. S. surgeon general Dr. L. Terry predicted that there will be no smoked-filled rooms at this year's conventions — thanks to his recent report on the cigaret hazard. And he issued a new report declaring politics a health menace, too.

"The political virus seems to follow a cyclinical pattern," he said. "It occurs in epidemic form every four years, with localized outbreaks in between."

He said there is "strong statical and clinical evidence that politics is a major cause of foot-in-mouth disease" and that it is a "significant factor in the causation of strain of larynx, otherwise known as the hoarse laugh."

It also produces a serious vision defect defined medically as TV stars, he said, along with a chronic condition known as fence-sitting, which produces extreme tenderness in the seat of government.

A REPUBLICAN PROPOSES A DEMOCRATIC SLOGAN

Being truly bipartisan, the Democratic platform was presented by a Republican, Sen. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania. He proposed a new slogan for the Democrats because "the 'butter' deal sounds a bit slippery and the war on poverty has already been won by those who thought it up." His suggestion was: "Ask not — we've already promised it to you."

A whole bevy of top foreign statesmen will be flocking to the New York World's Fair this summer. But they aren't just interested in getting a look at the Pieta.

For some of them, at least, the fair is just an excuse to get into the country and to take a little side trip down to Washington to see President Johnson. So the front door of the White House will be really swinging.

Whenever there's a change in U. S. Presidents, every foreign leader likes to size up the new man. And a casual call, while in the country on other business is a lot easier than trying to set up a state visit.

MEETINGS WITH JOHNSON ARE REQUESTED BY VIPs

Among the big shots headed for the fair — and Washington — are the prime minister of Trinidad, the King of Burundi, the Shah of Iran, and the prime minister of Denmark.

Also headed for the U. S. are the prime ministers of Italy and Australia, the presidents of Ireland, Uganda, and Indonesia; the chancellor of Germany, and the mayor of West Berlin.

All of this has prompted the uncharitable speculation that Johnson might be using foreign visitors to boost his image as a statesman for the election campaign. Not so, officials insist. Practically every meeting is at the request of the foreign leader — not Johnson.

BAKER CASE DISTURBS CONGRESSIONAL PAGES

The 78 teen-agers who are Congressional page boys have

Bobby Baker
"His best companions"

* * *

House page boy Douglas Bosco brings the painful subject out into the open in an article defending the page boy system written for his home town newspaper, the Sunnyvale, Calif., Standard.

Young Bosco lamented that the "outstanding record" through the years of the page boy system "has been suddenly damaged, in the eyes of many Americans and in Congress, by the actions of one former page."

Baker started to learn what made the inner wheels of the Senate go around back in 1942, when he was appointed a page by his home state senator, the late Burnet Maybank (D-S. C.).

At the time Bobby was 14. He graduated from the page boy school in 1945, moving up to Democratic cloak room clerk.

BOBBY'S QUOTATION FROM OLIVER GOLDSMITH

Page boy Bosco dug up the old book and reported that Bobby Baker chose a quotation from Oliver Goldsmith's "The Deserted Village."

So below Bobby's picture when he was 17, there is this lofty bit of self-appraisal:

"His best companions, innocence and health.

"And his best riches, ignorance of wealth."

Patton Says Shuman Selling Out Farmers

Patton said Shuman was selling out American farmers, and was associated with powerful elements in the food industry.

Patton said he was commenting on Shuman's role with the National Food Conference and his failure to testify on President Johnson's proposed National Commission on Food Marketing.

The NFU leader also released a fact sheet which he said "links Shuman with some of the most powerful groups in the food industry who profit from buying farm commodities as cheaply as possible and selling them in processed form as expensively as possible. . ."

"(This) proves Shuman is still up to his old tricks of keeping family farmers on their knees in the interest of food barons," Patton charged.

Figures over a 16-year period, Patton said, show farmers today are receiving 12 per cent less for their food, consumers are paying 29 per cent more, and 88.5 per cent of the increase in retail store cost of food went to processors.

"It is apparent we no longer have free enterprise in effect in the food industry," Patton said.

"Farmers and ranchers are subjected to prices which are deliberately set and manipulated by the giant food chains and we now find that the president of the Farm Bureau is siding with those who are getting rich off the farmer," he said.

Patton said Shuman disscused nutrition rather than the 29 per cent decrease in net farm income at the meeting of the National Food Conference.

"I ask the farmers of America how these antics of Mr. Shuman help them," Patton said. "But keeping commodity prices to farmers low, which the AFBF seems unconcerned with, will certainly help many of the processors who sponsor the National Food Conference Association."

Woman's Fright Costs Would-Be Bandit $10

DETROIT (AP) — A woman's fright cost a would-be bandit $10 Thursday.

Ordering a pound of baloney and offering a $10 bill, the man tricked grocery store operator Madeline Alua into opening the cash register. Then he pointed a gun.

Mrs. Alua, 57, screamed and ran out holding his $10 bill.

The man fled, leaving the baloney.

SKOKIE, Ill. (AP) — Skin and scuba divers are going to school to learn the technique of underwater navigating.

The 67-member club trained 25 students.

In classroom work, the students learn their equipment—what it does, how to use it, and the dangers in misuse. They also study the basic physiology in learning the effects of diving pressure on the body and the essentials of decompression.

They are taught how to wear a face mask and breathe out of a snorkle. Then they learn how to swim only with fins. They also learn how to clear the face mask of water without panicking.

"There's no danger if you know how to handle it," said Louis Cass, an officer in the group.

The Catskill Mountains in southeastern New York are about 3,000 feet above sea level, with two summits exceeding 4,000 feet.

Power Shifts Underway In World-Wide Struggle

EDITOR'S NOTE — The United States is battling for men's minds in three great areas of the world — Africa, Southeast Asia and Latin America. But there have been vast and recent changes in world alignments. In the era of the cold war ending, is a new historical era opening, are the old policies outmoded?

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Since he moved into the White House five months ago, President Johnson has dealt with half a dozen international crises, from Panama to Viet Nam.

The most striking fact about changing conditions in today's world is that not one of these crises involved a direct conflict between the United States and the Soviet Union.

Revolutionary shifts are under way in the global power struggle between the Communist and non-Communist nations. Foreign policies of the great powers are subject to strains that were only dimly seen as late as a year ago. Johnson seems to be confronted not only with the problems of a new president but also those of a new historical era.

The reason is plain enough. The cold war battlefronts that developed after World War II no longer hold. Old friends are quarreling and old enemies are talking peace. New nations are jockeyin gfor position and power.

Russians eat American wheat. Cubans drive British buses. Chinese leader Mao Tze-tung turns a more cordial face to French President Charles de Gaulle than to Soviet Premier Khrushchev. De Gaulle, recognizing the Peking regime, deals a blow to the policies of both Khrushchev and Johnson.

The world is at a crossroads in history, and no one in Washington or any other major capital seems sure where it will head next.

"We are in a period of change," Secretary of State Dean Rusk said some days ago. "Things are in motion."

"We are confronted with a complex and fluid world situation," declared the chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Sen. J. William Fulbright, "and we are not adapting ourselves to it."

Hostility between Washington and Moscow primarily supplied the tensions that for years maintained the familiar pattern of cold war relations. When John F. Kennedy became president he deliberately began to soft-pedal insult and invective in exchanges with Khrushchev. Secretary Rusk initiated a probing operation to seek points of possible East-West agreement.

But it was not until after the crisis of the Berlin wall in 1961 and, finally, the confrontation with the Soviet Union over Cuba in October 1962 that tensions between Moscow and Washington began to decline. The relaxation was both confirmed and accelerated last July by the agreement among the United States, the Soviet Union and Britain on a treaty limiting the testing of nuclear weapons. Since then the old world of the cold war has been ripping apart.

President Johnson and Premier Khrushchev now both seem to be groping cautiously for ways to stabilize a great power stalemate that could endure indefinitely.

The retreat from the edge of nuclear disaster that began after the Cuban confrontation — and was dramatized in the test-ban treaty — has not obviously turned into a massive surge toward peace and a stable international order. Instead it has encouraged the breakup of the old power systems centered on Washington and Moscow and favored the spread of new rivalries.

The policy moves by De Gaulle in Europe and the Far East have extended and hardened differences among the NATO allies with his quest for a "third world" under French leadership. He has paralyzed if not destroyed the American-sponsored dream of building Western unity into a new North American - European Atlantic community.

Britain has pulled apart from the United States over issues of trade with Cuba and long-term credits for the Soviet Union. Visiting Washington in February, Prime Minister Sir Alex Douglas - Home told Johnson bluntly that Britain could not go aloug with U.S. trade policies toward the Communist bloc.

Peking's Mao Tze - tung has broken the Communist bloc with his campaign to wrest power from the Kremlin. Latin America and Africa have become increasingly arenas of Communist ambition, both Chinese and Soviet. Western leaders, for their part, as Rusk has told Congress, look to growing nationalism in the Communist countries of Eastern Europe to curb Soviet power and control there.

Basic to all these developments is the decline of war fears resulting from the nuclear standoff between the United States and the Soviet Union.

Johnson feels this state of affairs is harder on Khrushchev than on himself. The reason, he has explained, is simply that the Western system of alliances has always been looser and more flexible and therefore more tolerant of disagreement than the highly centralized Communist system.

In a national television interview on his first 100 days in the White House, Johnson confessed that he has had to deal with some problems abroad that caused discouragement and irritation. But he said that on balance a world of several political systems, less dependent on two great blocs, is in his view a safer world — even though it limits American power. Americans have to understand, Johnson argued, that the world is changing.

Johnson first began talking publicly in February about his conviction that the United States could not run a push-button diplomacy. The alternative he has so far talked about is logical persuasion.

Reasoned agreement seems to be what he has tried to use on the problems that have come up to him for action—when he had the choice of talking softly rather than wielding a big stick. These problems all had one thing in common—they could not be stalled off.

The importance of the point is that Johnson is reported to have decided in his first days in the White House that he would move slowly in foreign affairs and would be content to give primary attention to domestic issues in this election year.

By rough estimate of one of his close associates, the President has spent somewhat less than 50 per cent of his working time on foreign affairs. He relies more than President John F. Kennedy did on Secretary Rusk and on his special assistant for security afafirs, McGeorge Bundy, to collect the facts and lay out the alternatives for action. Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara plays a key role in all matters involving military questions; he has a decisive influence on policy toward Viet Nam.

Johnson meets with McNamara, Rusk and Bundy at lunch once a week, usually on Tuesday. The three men arrive with questions and recommendations and they go away with decisions. Johnson also talks with Rusk and other top foreign policy officials, including Undersecretary George Ball, on the telephone several times a day.

He likes the telephone contact, likes talking out problems and is impatient with paper work. Nevertheless he does his homework in foreign policy, reading through each night a big stack of policy documents which Bundy prepares for him on the problems of the day.

When the Panama crisis erupted suddenly in January Johnson telephoned President Roberto Chiari and made arrangements to send a planeload of investigators and negotiators to Panama immediately to restore "neighborly relations."

Johnson's phone call looked like an impulsive act. But in fact it was not. It was recommended to him by Rusk and Bundy along with possible alternative courses of action. He chose the speediest and most direct means which he thought would get results.

"The main difference between President Johnson's approach to foreign policy and President Kennedy's," one top authority said recently, "is the point at which Johnson gets into a problem. Kennedy had a deep interest in details of all foreign situations. He would sometimes call a desk officer early in the morning and ask, what are we doing about some situation reported in news dispatches? Naturally the pressure in such cases was to find something to do.

"President Johnson relies on the chief officials in the State Department. He expects them to sort out the facts of a crisis and recommend whether there is anything the United States colud or should do about it."

Dentist Pulls Teeth, Plants Them Elsewhere

By STAN BENJAMIN

PHILADELPHIA, (AP) — "Well, I had a youngster who was losing teeth, and another youngster who had too many teeth. I had to remove one for orthodontic reasons. It seemed a shame to just throw it out."

So, Dr. Ralph R. Mezrow, 43, a Philadelphia dentist, decided to plant the left-over tooth from one patient in the mouth of the other patient who needed it. The transplant worked.

That was five years ago. Since then Mezrow has planted another five teeth in the mouth of that first patient.

He and his associates at Philadelphia's Albert Einstein Medical Center have planted some 95 teeth in a total of about 70 patients. Only a few of the transplants have failed.

"The worst that can happen is that the tooth just comes loose. The funny thing is that if that happens, the people who had the transplant always want to try again," Mezrow says.

Three types of persons usually write asking for transplants: Persons who were, through some quirk of nature, born without teeth and never had any, persons who lost teeth in auto accidents, and persons who can't tolerate dentures.

The technique still is considered experimental and there are many unanswered questions.

Last June, the National Institutes of Health supplied a grant of $61,280 to continue the studies. About half the transplants have been done in the past nine months.

Science has found that the human body has a natural defense, called the immune reaction, with which the body rejects foreign substances. This reaction rejects healthy tissue used in a graft or transplant.

Certain specific materials low in blood vessels, such as bone and the cornea of the eye, seem to arouse little reaction and have been successfully transplanted for years.

Along with his transplants Mezrow has performed a few "autografts", transplanting a tooth to a new location in the same mouth. This eliminates any immune reaction. In both cases the transplants have been generally successful.

For the patient, a transplant presents few problems. It is performed under local anesthetic, usually takes about 45 minutes, and the patient usually can go about his normal activities the next day.

Donor teeth are stored in a cool saline solution for up to a month until needed. After anesthetic, the dentist opens the gum. Then he fits the tooth into the empty socket, shaping the socket with a drill until the tooth fits snugly.

The tooth is inserted and the gum is sewn together. Sometimes a plastic splint is added, which braces the new tooth for several weeks.

Anchorage's Torn Buildings Coming Down

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — The buildings are coming down on Anchorage's Fourth Avenue, where a four - block stretch of the business district was jumbled by the March 27 earthquake.

A pile of rubble is about all that remains as demolition crews remove the wreckage.

The powerful quake caused a giant earthslide along the avenue, dropping bars, penny arcades and shops 11 feet into a wide fissure.

It was one of the most widely-pictured scenes immediately after the quake.

Now contractors working for the Army Engineers are demolishing the buildings and hauling away the pieces.

The future of the sunken area remains uncertain, pending further soil foundation tests.

A downtown urban renewal proposal, approved tentatively by the city council, would convert the area into a park—possibly as an earthquake tourist attraction.

Geologists have termed the area hazardous for buildings because of possible future slides.

In spite of the problems of Fourth Avenue, about 90 per cent of Anchorage's business district is functioning normally.

A REPUBLICAN PROPOSES A DEMOCRATIC SLOGAN

Being truly bipartisan, the Democratic platform was presented by a Republican, Sen. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania. He proposed a new slogan for the Democrats because "the butter deal sounds a bit slippery and the war on poverty has already been won by those who thought it up." His suggestion was: "Ask not — we've already promised it to you."

A whole bevy of top foreign statesmen will be flocking to the New York World's Fair this summer. But they aren't just interested in getting a look at the Fair.

For some of them, at least, the fair is just an excuse to get into the country and to take a little side trip down to Washington to see President Johnson. So the front door of the White House will be really swinging.

Whenever there's a change in U.S. Presidents, every foreign leader likes to size up the new man. And a casual call while in the country on other business is a lot easier than trying to set up a state visit.

MEETINGS WITH JOHNSON ARE REQUESTED BY VIPs

Among the big shots headed for the fair — and Washington — are the prime minister of Trinidad, the King of Burundi, the Shah of Iran and the prime minister of Denmark.

Also headed for the U.S. are the prime ministers of Italy and Australia, the presidents of Ireland, Uganda, and Indonesia, the chancellor of Germany, and the mayor of West Berlin.

All of this has prompted the uncharitable speculation that Johnson might be using foreign visitors to boost his image as a statesman for the election campaign. Not so, officials insist. Practically every meeting is at the request of the foreign leader — not Johnson.

Human Error Number One Killer on Roads

More than eight out of every 10 casualties on the nation's highways in 1963 were caused by human error and lack of judgment. And the speedster still ranks as the number-one killer on the road.

These and other grim reminders were disclosed in a report issued by The Travelers Insurance Companies. The report is compiled annually from information provided by state motor vehicle departments.

Of the 42,700 persons who lost their lives in traffic accidents last year, 34,700 died in accidents caused by driver error and traffic law violations. Moreover, according to the report, nearly 3,000,000 persons were injured in auto mishaps caused by driver error.

The fast driver continued to be the greatest menace on the highways. More than 14,000 deaths and 1,223,000 injuries were directly attributable to excessive speeding.

A Travelers spokesman pointed out that - like the majority of accidents in other categories - most highway casualties could have been avoided. They were caused by human rather than mechanical failure, he said, and stressed the importance of getting this message across to the American public.

"If we can do this effectively," he added, "we have an opportunity to make dramatic improvements in the field of traffic safety."

Patton Says Shuman Selling Out Farmers

DENVER (UPI) — National Farmers Union President James Patton Friday launched a bitter attack on [illegible] Shuman, president of the American Farm Bureau.

Patton said Shuman was selling out American farmers and was associated with powerful elements in the food industry.

Patton said he was commenting on Shuman's role with the National Food Conference and his failure to testify on President Johnson's proposed National Commission on Food Marketing.

The NFU leader also released a fact sheet which he said links Shuman with some of the most powerful groups in the food industry who profit from buying farm commodities as cheaply as possible and selling them in processed form as expensively as possible.

"This proves Shuman is still up to his old tricks of keeping family farmers on their knees in the interest of food barons," Patton charged.

Figures over a 16-year period, Patton said, show farmers today are receiving 12 per cent less for their food, consumers are paying 29 per cent more and 88.5 per cent [illegible] went to processors.

"It is apparent we no longer have free enterprise in effect in the food industry," Patton said. "Farmers and ranchers are subjected to prices which are deliberately set and manipulated by the giant food chains and we now find that the president of the Farm Bureau is siding with those who are getting rich off the farmer," he said.

Patton said Shuman discussed nutrition rather than the 29 per cent decrease in net farm income at the meeting of the National Food Conference.

"I ask the farmers of America how these antics of Mr. Shuman help them," Patton said. "But keeping commodity prices to farmers low, which the AFBF seems unconcerned with, will certainly help many of the processors who sponsor the National Food Conference Association."

Opening lead: King of ♠

Disregarding partner's request in the defense of a hand can be excusable only if you are quite sure you can best the hand your own way. And even then it is doubtful unless there is some feature about your hand that your partner could not possibly know. How many times have we heard "I saw your signal, partner, but I couldn't see how it would do any good to lead a spade." For nonsense such as this there is no excuse. Such a player would be better advised to say "Sorry, partner. I just didn't notice your signal." Just because you cannot see why your partner wants a certain thing done is no excuse for failing to do so. He knows why. That should be enough. Today's hand provides a splendid illustration of just that sort of thing.

The final contract was four hearts. West opened with one diamond and North made a very doubtful overcall of two clubs. South was unwilling to play the hand for less than game and quite properly jumped in hearts. A mere bid of two hearts would not have obliged North to speak again since he did not open the bidding. North was undecided between three notrump and four hearts, but elected to make the latter call because of the weak spade holding.

The king of spades was opened and East followed with the eight. West continued with the ace and East completed his echo by playing the four. West knew that East could not be out of spades because that would give declarer six to the Q-J-10, and something surely would have been heard about that suit. So West decided to shift to the king of diamonds to build up a trick in that suit. That was the end of the party. Declarer won and led a low club to the queen in dummy. The heart finesse cleared up the trumps and the king of clubs was overtaken and all losers disposed of on dummy's good suit.

West actually should have realized why East wanted a spade continuation, but even if he didn't, he should have taken partner's word for it. The third spade lead forces dummy to ruff and the king of trumps cannot be picked up. When East gets in with the king of trumps, he can cash a good spade before discards are taken. If declarer tries to circumvent this scheme by refusing to ruff the third spade, East wins and leads the fourth spade. This will be ruffed by West and dummy will be forced to overruff. Partner knows best.

Ideas on Culture Differ Slightly, Mr. Battle Finds

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Hon. John J. Rooney is a New York Democrat who serves as chairman of the House subcommittee on State Department appropriations.

The Hon. Lucius D. Battle is the assistant secretary of state for educational and cultural affairs.

Battle recently appeared before Rooney's subcommittee with a request to use $12 million to government-owned foreign currencies for a program that was labeled "preservation of ancient Nubian monuments."

As the transcript of the hearing makes clear, Rooney's ideas of what is educational and cultural do not always coincide with those of the State Department.

Seeks Explanation

"Now we ask you to tell us in language we all understand exactly what this is all about," Rooney began in his customary disarming manner.

"Mr. Chairman, this is a proposal to preserve one of the great monuments of mankind, the great temples of Abu Simbel," Battle replied.

He went on to explain that the two ancient temples of Abu Simbel in Egyptian Nubia were in danger of being flooded by rising waters in the reservoir of Egypt's new Aswan Dam.

The $12 million would be America's contribution to a $36 million United Nations project to save the monuments by moving them to higher ground.

"Who is Abu Simbel?" Rooney inquired.

Myrtle's No Girl

I submit that Rooney, being from Brooklyn, could hardly be expected to have known that. After all, how many Egyptians know that Myrtle Avenue in Brooklyn is a street rather than a girl.

Battle replied that a number of Americans, including the late President John F. Kennedy, became concerned when it was learned that the temples, built some 3,200 years ago, would be below the water line of the Aswan reservoir.

He said the temples were part of the "universal heritage of man" and that their preservation would be to the benefit of all mankind.

I don't know whether Rooney was convinced, but at least he suggested an alternate plan. He said "we might use Castro in connection with this and have him cut the water off."

Goldwater Raps LBJ's Plans to Brief Candidates

By WALTER R. MEARS

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's offer of intelligence briefings to avert a campaign "knock-down, drag-out" on foreign affairs has drawn a sharp rejection from Sen. Barry Goldwater.

Two other Republicans said they would accept the President's invitation.

The rest of the men on Johnson's guest list of potential Republican nominees remained silent.

Johnson first announced the invitation last Monday. He expanded it at a news conference Thursday, saying "I would like to confer with them and have their suggestions from time to time on what the wise course to pursue is."

And Secretary of State Dean Rusk wrote six Republicans and a Democrat, formally asking them to hear intelligence reports from him, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and Director John A. McCone of the Central Intelligence Agency.

The names on Johnson's list: Goldwater, New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton, Harold E. Stassen and Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace.

"I do want all the men in the opposition party to know all the facts that dictate the decisions that involve national interests," the President said.

Through a spokesman, Sen. Smith said she would accept the invitation and added she would be "delighted to confer with the President anytime he calls, on anything."

Scranton said the offer doesn't apply to him—"I'm not a presidential aspirant." But he added he would attend the briefings because "I like to be informed about everything in our government."

Goldwater turned down Rusk's formal invitation—"for the time being."

"If the Republican convention nominates me I will, of course, expect that the regular briefings made available to other candidates in the past will be discussed by us as a separate matter," he said.

But at this point in the campaign, he said the proposal is unwise.

"Members of the Congress and the Senate are not without information," Goldwater said. "Much of the top secret material that the Pentagon has been releasing for political purposes recently has been known to us too—but we have not tried to or wanted to violate secrecy by throwing the data around as freely as this administration has been."

Dear Abby--

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Notice to Immigrants!

DEAR ABBY: My daughter is writing this letter for me because I cannot read or write English. My dream of becoming an American citizen will soon come true, although I speak and write only Spanish. I just learned that it is possible for foreign-born people to take American citizenship tests in their native language, and I hope you will tell others who cannot read, write or speak English that this is so—AN OLD BUT NEW AMERICAN

DEAR AMERICAN: Thank you for your letter. It is with much pleasure that I share the following information with all interested readers. "According to immigration law, persons born before December 24th, 1902, and have resided in the United States at least 20 years, can take their citizenship tests in their native tongue." Immigrants who came to America after the turn of the century and who never learned English, should know that this opportunity is available to them.

DEAR ABBY: Every time we go to my brother's home my husband embarrasses me to death. He wrestles with my twin nieces, who are 19 years old.

He just can't leave them alone for five minutes. He has to be grabbing one of them by her legs, pulling her out of her chair onto the floor, and trying to pin her arms down. When we leave there he always has the buttons torn off his shirt or his pockets torn. I know it's all in fun, but I think he ought to know better. Am I being overly critical? I am 24, my husband is 25, and I am not jealous. —WRESTLER'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: It's time YOU went to the mat with your husband and pinned HIS ears back. Tell him to keep his hands off the girls, and then have a long talk with the girls about how young ladies should conduct themselves.

DEAR ABBY: I am very fond of my brother's wife and we get along well, but whenever she gets anything new she rushes over, expecting me to collapse with excitement. I always "rave" over everything new she gets and she eats up the praise. But she never compliments me on a thing. I can't figure it out. She will stand, all dolled up, waiting for my approval, and completely ignore MY new outfit. Even a new car she ignores. She has nothing to be jealous of. Our husbands are equal partners. My husband says I should give her the same treatment, but I am not that way. Should I take my husband's advice, or continue to be —THE DOPE

DEAR DOPE: If your compliments are sincere don't withhold them. Perhaps her silence is easier to endure than her insincere compliments would be. There is only one reason praise sticks in one's throat—jealousy.

DEAR ABBY: To the unhappy young bride who is living with her in-laws, I say, "Leave now, and don't wait. If your husband tries to talk you into staying, go without him. If he loves you, he will follow. The longer you wait the harder it will be to get away. There will be one baby after another." Abby, my husband told me when we were first married that we would live with his parents for three years. It turned out to be ten times three, plus four. Yes, after 34 years, I am still living with my in-laws, and it hasn't been easy. Sign me —SORRY

Hate to write letters? Send one dollar to ABBY, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif., 90212, for Abby's new booklet, "HOW TO WRITE LETTERS FOR ALL OCCASIONS."

Senate Okays Woman For AE Commission

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Saturday approved President Johnson's nomination of Dr. Mary I. Bunting to the Atomic Energy Commission — the first woman to serve on the commission.

Dr. Bunting is president of Atomic Energy Commission — the first woman to serve on the commission.

Dr. Bunting is president of Radcliffe College. She succeeds Robert E. Wilson., who resigned.

Undersecretary Cites Limits of Cuban Policy

ROANOKE, Va. (AP)—Undersecretary of State George W. Ball says U.S. policy toward Communist Cuba must fall within a narrow limit—between war, which Washington rejects, and Negotiation, which is out of the question.

This means, Ball said Thursday night, the U.S. government must pursue its present line of action: (1) Strengthen Latin-American nations to resist Red subversion and (2) Reduce Havana's power to advance communism through means short of war.

Ball chose the Omicron Delta Kappa Society convention for what amounted to a ringing endorsement of present Cuban policy and a spirited defense of the efficacy of the embargo the United States has mounted against the island.

He said his objective was to clear up "misapprehensions" and "confusion" that have been apparent in public debate over the United State's Cuban poelicy.

Last month, Chairman J. W. Fulbright of the Senate Foreign Relations Committe charged in a Senate speech that the American boycott of Cuba has failed. "It is simply not within our power to compel our allies to cut off their trade," The Arkansas Democrat said, "unless we are prepared to take drastic sanctions."

Ball contended, however, that "we have obtained considerable although not complete, cooperation" from the North Atlantic Treaty Organization allies in clamping down on shipping to Cuba and the sale of industrial goods, transport equipment and critical materials.

Along this line, he cautioned against the sale of locomotives to Cuba, saying they would bolster the island's economy even more than did the recent sale of 450 British buses.

Cuba's western transportation equipment is falling apart rapidly, he said, and it is important that the West not provide spare parts and replacements.

Ball did not specify what prospective deal he had in mind, although there have been reports that France is considering selling locomotives to the Castro government.

In his much-discussed address Fulbright said the United States has three options with regard to Cuba: (1) invasion and occupation, (2) political and economic boycott and (3) acceptance. He said the first was tried and failed, the second is failing and that Washington, therefore, should take the initiative and agree to negotiate.

Ball, on the other hand, flatly ruled out negotiation as well as invasion and maintained the United States "must rely, as our major instrument, on a systematic program of economic denial."

Negotiation with Prime Minister Fidel Castro is impossible under present circumstances, he said.

An invasion, or an enforced blockade, would be an act of war, Ball declared.

Thus, he theorized, U.S. policy must fall within the narrow limits already charted. However, he expressed conviction that the policy is having its desired effect.

Power Shifts Underway In World-Wide Struggle

EDITOR'S NOTE — The United States is battling for men's minds in three great areas of the world — Africa, Southeast Asia and Latin America. But there have been vast and recent changes in world alignments. In the era of the cold war ending is a new historical era opening, are the old policies outmoded?

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Since he moved into the White House five months ago, President Johnson has dealt with half a dozen international crises from Panama to Viet Nam.

The most striking fact about changing conditions in today's world is that not one of these crises involved a direct conflict between the United States and the Soviet Union.

Revolutionary shifts are under way in the [illegible] power struggle between the Communist and non-Communist nations. Foreign policies of the great powers are subject to strains that were only dimly seen as late as a year ago. Johnson seems to be confronted not only with the problems of a new president but also those of a new historical era.

The reason is [illegible]. The cold war [illegible] developed after World War II [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] years made [illegible] the familiar pattern of [illegible] war relations. When John [illegible] Kennedy became president [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] Washington and Moscow [illegible]

Britain has pulled apart from the United States over issues of trade with Cuba and long-term credits for the Soviet Union. Visiting Washington in February, Prime Minister Sir Alex Douglas-Home told Johnson bluntly that Britain could not go along with U.S. trade policies toward the Communist bloc.

Peking's Mao Tze-tung has broken the Communist bloc with his campaign to wrest power from the Kremlin. Latin America and Africa have become increasingly arenas of Communist ambition, both Chinese and Soviet. Western leaders for their part, as Rusk has told Congress, look to growing nationalism in the Communist countries of Eastern Europe to curb Soviet power and [illegible] there.

Basic to all these developments is the decline of war fears resulting from the nuclear standoff between the United States and the Soviet Union.

Johnson feels this state of affairs is harder on Khrushchev than on himself. The reason, he has explained, is simply that the Western system of alliances has always been looser and more flexible and therefore more tolerant of disagreement than the [illegible] Communist system.

[illegible]

[illegible] it was recommended to him by Rusk and [illegible] along with possible alternative courses of action. He chose the steeliest and most [illegible] would get results.

The main difference between President Johnson's approach [illegible] and President Kennedy's [illegible] top authority [illegible] is the point at [illegible]. Kennedy had a deep interest in details of a foreign situation. He would sometimes call a desk officer early in the morning and ask, what are we doing about some situation reported in news dispatches? Naturally the pressure in such cases was to find something to do.

President Johnson relies on the chief officials in the State Department. He expects them to sort out the facts of a crisis and recommend whether there is anything the United States could or should do about it.

Dentist Pulls Teeth, Plants Them Elsewhere

By STAN BENJAMIN

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — "When I had a youngster who was missing teeth and another youngster who had too many teeth, I had to remove one for orthodontic reasons. It seemed a shame to just throw it out."

So Dr. Ralph R. Mezrow, 43, a Philadelphia dentist, decided to transplant the extra tooth from [illegible] the mouth of the [illegible] who needed it. The transplant worked.

That was [illegible] years ago. Since then Mezrow has planted another [illegible] the mouth of [illegible] patient.

He and his associates at Philadelphia's Albert Einstein Medical Center have planted some [illegible] in about 70 patients [illegible] a few of the transplants have failed.

"The worst that can happen is that the teeth just comes out. The funny thing is that [illegible] the people who [illegible] transplant always want [illegible]," Mezrow says.

Anchorage's Torn Buildings Coming Down

A pile of rubble is about all that remains as demolition crews remove the wreckage.

The powerful quake caused a giant earthslide along the avenue, dropping bars, penny arcades and shops 11 feet into a wide fissure.

It was one of the most widely-pictured scenes immediately after the quake.

Now contractors working for the Army Engineers are demolishing the buildings and hauling away the pieces.

The future of the sunken area remains uncertain, pending further soil foundation tests.

A downtown urban renewal proposal, approved tentatively by the city council, would convert the area into a park—possibly as an earthquake tourist attraction.

Geologists have termed the area hazardous for buildings because of possible future slides.

In spite of the problems of Fourth Avenue, about 90 per cent of Anchorage's business district is functioning normally.

One Sahara Desert oasis, called the "Street of Palms," stretches for 500 miles in a thin, green ribbon.

Colorado College Sets Up Parents' Weekend

More than 300 parents of Colorado College students from 20 states throughout the country will gather on the college campus here Thursday for "Parents' Weekend."

"It will be the largest turnout for Parents' Weekend we ever have had," said William Greeley, chairman of the weekend committee.

Activities for the four-day weekend were planned by a committee of 11 students at the independent liberal arts college.

The committee, under the direction of Greeley, includes Don Bradbury, Mary Bardone, Kathy Symmns, William Marchek, William Thompson, Ellen Meis, Palmer Challela, Besty Crockett, Sharon Shackleford and Robert Ward.

Parents from throughout the country will arrive on the campus Thursday. All classes will be open to parents on Friday and Saturday morning.

From 1 to 4 p.m. Friday they will tour the college's new $1,250,000 Charles Leaming Tutt Library, and the $1,500,000 Olin Hall of Science. Students have planned a song fest at 8 p.m. Friday in Shove Chapel.

President Lloyd E. Worner will welcome parents in Shove Chapel at 11 a.m. Saturday. On Saturday afternoon they will attend a bicycle tournament at Memorial Park, a varsity baseball game against Western State College in Memorial Park, and visit fraternity and sorority houses.

Parents will attend a Parent-Student-Faculty dinner Saturday night to be followed by a student-faculty production of Christopher Marloew's tragedy "Dr. Faustus," in Shove Chapel.

Scheduled for Sunday morning are a chuck wagon breakfast at the Garden of the Gods and a non-denominational church service in Shove Chapel at 11 o'clock.

Let Other Cars Run Interference AAA Club Advises

Don't be in such a hurry to pass the car ahead, the Rocky Mountain AAA Club today advised motorists, who were told that in city traffic the car at the head of any platoon is the one most likely to get involved in an intersection collision.

So said the auto club: instead of resenting a "pushy" driver who wants to get out in front, other drivers should be thankful for such "leaders."

Suggesting a similarity between city streets and football fields, the AAA club pointed out that running blockers are as significant in spring traffic as in spring training. The smart driver, as with the clever halfback, takes advantage of all the interference he can find.

Especially at signalized intersections, stressed the auto club, the first car to enter is often in jeopardy, for cross traffic might not yet have come to a stop. Following cars, on the other hand, seldom have to worry about a vehicle on the cross street running a red light.

If every driver took this AAA advice to "follow the leader," who would be first? Would everyone wait for everyone else?

No need for concern here, comments the auto club, for there will never be a lack of volunteers for head driver in a traffic platoon. Some drivers, feeling "penned in" if a car is in front, will pass such a car as soon as it is possible to do so.

In exchange for the freedom of action he gets in the front position, the lead driver assumes the risks involved with being first through each intersection.

Four Young Britons Go Separate Ways

NEW YORK (AP) — The four young Britons who wrote and enacted "Beyond the Fringe" on Broadway for more than a year have disbanded to pursue separate interests. A replacement cast is now onstage at the Golden Theater.

Peter Cook is busy on several production ventures; Jonathan Miller is writing a history of neurology; Dudley Moore is composing a score for O'Neill's "The Emperor Jones;" and Alan Bennett has gone off on a holiday.

Between 1950 and 1960, more women than men were added to the nation's working force. A total of 4.8 million women found employment during that period compared with 3.8 million men.

DEAR ABBY: To the unhappy young bride who is living with her in-laws I say, "Leave now and don't wait. If your husband tries to talk you into staying, go without him. If he loves you he will follow. The longer you wait the harder it will be to get away. There will be one baby after another." Abby, my husband told me when we were first married that we would live with his parents for three years. Ideas on Culture Differ Slightly, Mr. Battle Finds

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Hon. John J. Rooney is a New York Democrat who serves as chairman of the House subcommittee on State Department appropriations.

The Hon. Lucius D. Battle is the assistant secretary of state for educational and cultural affairs.

Battle recently appeared before Rooney's subcommittee with a request for $12 million [illegible] program that was [illegible] preservation of ancient Nubian monuments.

As the transcript [illegible] Rooney [illegible] ideas [illegible] and cultural [illegible] inside [illegible] the State Department.

Seeks Explanation

"Now we ask you to tell us in language we all understand exactly what this is all about," Rooney began in his usual disarming manner.

"Mr. Chairman, this is a proposal to preserve one of the great monuments [illegible] the great temples of Abu Simbel," Battle replied.

He went on to explain that the two ancient temples of Abu Simbel in Egyptian Nubia were in danger of being flooded by rising waters in the reservoir of Egypt's new Aswan Dam.

The $12 million would be America's contribution to a $36 million United Nations project to save the monuments by moving them to higher ground.

"Who is Abu Simbel?" Rooney inquired.

Myrtle's No Girl

I submit that Rooney, being from Brooklyn, could hardly be expected to have known that. After all, how many Egyptians know that Myrtle Avenue in Brooklyn is a street rather than a girl.

Battle replied that a number of Americans, including the late President John F. Kennedy, became concerned when it was learned that the temples, built some 3,200 years ago, would be below the water line of the Aswan reservoir.

He said the temples were part of the "universal heritage of man" and that their preservation would be to the benefit of all mankind.

I don't know whether Rooney was convinced, but at least he suggested an alternate plan. He said "we might use Castro in connection with this and have him cut the water off."

Goldwater Raps LBJ's Plans to Brief Candidates

By WALTER R. MEARS

WASHINGTON (AP) — [illegible] dential briefings [illegible] campaign [illegible] Barry [illegible]

The [illegible] Republicans said they would accept the President's invitation.

[illegible]

Johnson first announced the invitation last Monday. He expanded it at a news conference Thursday, saying: "I would like to confer with them and have their suggestions from time to time [illegible]

[illegible] Secretary of State Dean Rusk [illegible] Republicans and [illegible] Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and Director John A. McCone of the Central Intelligence Agency.

The names on Johnson's list: Goldwater, New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton, Harold E. Stassen and Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace.

"I do want all the men in the opposition party to know all the facts that dictate the decisions that involve national interests," the President said.

Through a spokesman, Sen. Smith said she would accept the invitation and added she would be "delighted to confer with the President anytime he calls, on anything."

Scranton said the offer doesn't apply to him—"I'm not a presidential aspirant." But he added he would attend the briefings because "I like to be informed about everything in our government."

Goldwater turned down Rusk's formal invitation— for the time being.

"If the Republican convention nominates me I will, of course, expect that the regular briefings made available to other candidates in the past will be discussed by us as a separate matter," he said.

But at this point in the campaign, he said the proposal is unwise.

"Members of the Congress and the Senate are not without information," Goldwater said. "Much of the top secret material that the Pentagon has been releasing for political purposes recently has been known to us too—but we have not tried to or wanted to violate secrecy by throwing the data around as freely as this administration has been."

Senate Okays Woman For AE Commission

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Saturday approved President Johnson's nomination of Dr. Mary I. Bunting to the Atomic Energy Commission — the first woman to serve on the commission.

Dr. Bunting is president of Atomic Energy Commission — the first woman to serve on the commission.

Dr. Bunting is president of Radcliffe College. She succeeds Robert E. Wilson, who resigned.

Undersecretary Cites Limits of Cuban Policy

ROANOKE, Va. (AP)—Undersecretary of State George W. Ball says U.S. policy toward Communist Cuba must fall within a narrow limit—between war, which Washington rejects, and Negotiation, which is out of the question.

This means, Ball said Thursday night, the U.S. government must pursue its present line of action: 1. Strengthen Latin-American nations to resist Red subversion and 2. Reduce Havana's power to advance communism through means short of war.

Ball chose the Omicron Delta Kappa Society convention for what amounted to a ringing endorsement of present Cuban policy and a [illegible] defense of the [illegible] embargo the United States has mounted against the island.

He said his objective was to clear up "misapprehensions" and "confusion" that have been apparent in public debate over the United State's Cuban poelicy.

Last month, Chairman J. W. Fulbright of the Senate Foreign Relations Committe charged in a Senate speech that the American boycott of Cuba has failed. "It is simply not within our power to compel our allies to cut off their trade," The Arkansas Democrat said, "unless we are prepared to take drastic sanctions."

Ball contended, however, that "we have obtained considerable although not complete, cooperation" from the North Atlantic Treaty Organization allies in clamping down on shipping to Cuba and the sale of industrial goods, transport equipment and critical materials.

Along this line, he cautioned against the sale of locomotives to Cuba, saying they would bolster the island's economy even more than did the recent sale of 450 British buses.

Cuba's western transportation equipment is falling apart rapidly, he said, and it is important that the West not provide spare parts and replacements.

Ball did not specify what prospective deal he had in mind, although there have been reports that France is considering selling locomotives to the Castro government.

In his much-discussed address Fulbright said the United States has three options with regard to Cuba: (1) invasion and occupation, (2) political and economic boycott and (3) acceptance. He said the first was tried and failed, the second is failing and that Washington, therefore, should take the initiative and agree to negotiate.

Ball, on the other hand, flatly ruled out negotiation as well as invasion and maintained the United States "must rely as our major instrument on a systematic program of economic denial."

Negotiation with Prime Minister Fidel Castro is impossible under present circumstances, he said.

An invasion or an enforced blockade would be an act of war, Ball declared.

Thus, he theorized, U.S. policy must fall within the narrow limits already charted. However, he expressed conviction that the policy is having its desired effect.

Wasson High School News

By CAROL JENSEN

The returns of Wasson High School student body elections for cabinet officers for next year on Friday, April 17, are: President, Doug Ancona; vice president, Cathy McPherson; secretary of morale, Paul McClintock, secretary of records, Jean Hagius; secretary of publicity, Betty Jane Upshaw; secretary of treasury, Terry Schaberg, secretary of assemblies, Mark Fleming; secretary of safety, Gaye Busbee; Secretary of social, Ruth Anderson; and secretary of courtesy, Jean Goettl.

The Inaugural Ball, held from 8:30 to 11:30 p.m. Saturday in the boys' gym, was in honor of these new cabinet members and presented them as such. This semi-formal dance was the last dance of the year for the present secretary of social, Scott Brown, and the first dance for the new secretary of social, Ruth Anderson.

The play chosen for Wasson's senior production and final dramatic effort of the year is "Arsenic and Old Lace." This play, written by Joseph Kesselring, appeared on Broadway in 1941 and was awarded an Emmy for a television version. The story, about two maiden aunts and their troubles with elderberry wine, was later made into a movie with Peter Lorre. It will be presented in its original form for the student body and public the nights of April 30 and May 1 beginning at 8:15 in the Wasson auditorium.

A National Honor Society college bowl was the order of business at the meeting Wednesday. The meeting began at 4 so that all members would be able to attend. Four students composed two teams, one designated the "west" team and the other, the "east" team. Each team was composed of two seniors and two juniors — one boy and one girl from each class. The "west" team included Mona Baumgartel, Steve Dyer, Rosalyn Israel, and William Joachim. Diane Palmer, Scott Dyer, Karen Loptein, and Andrew Crawford constituted the "east" team. Scored according to the television version of the college bowl, the game consisted of toss-out questions and then bonus questions to whichever team answered the first one. The "west" team acquired the most points to win.

Besides this college bowl quiz, members present at the meeting were given a chance to vote for the society's next year's officers. The students named for offices were nominated during a meeting of only junior members last Monday. These nominees include: president, Carol Roodhouse and Kathy King; vice president, Mike Martin and Brad Smith; secretary, Betty Christamn and Claudia Matthews; treasurer, Sherrie Noonan, Mary Anne Davitt, and Jackie Pick; and I. C. C. representative, Diane Palmer, Brad Kolman, and Nita Britton. Those members not at the meeting had a chance to vote during the day on the 23rd by seeing Miss Wallingford, the Society's sponsor, and obtaining a ballot from her.

Parents attending the Wasson PTA meeting on Tuesday night, in the auditorium were treated to a tour of the industrial arts departments and a display of student projects. Officers for the new year were also introduced to the parents during this meeting.

As part of its Shakespearean celebration last week, Wasson's advanced placement program held an early breakfast for participating students in the course at 7 a.m. Thursday. This breakfast was held in the student center room and food was provided by Wasson cooking classes.

Pep club girls wishing to earn a gold bar for the year were advised to count the number of points on their point cards and turn them into the club's officers by Friday. Those girls with the correct number of points are entitled to wear a special gold-colored bar; the points are obtained from attending sports events in full pep club uniform.

Those girls interested in trying out for Wasson A and B squad cheerleaders are practicing the school's yells and songs during the cheer clinics. These clinics meet twice weekly and are designed to teach the proper actions and words to school cheers to the prospective cheerleaders. The present cheerleaders are doing the instructing for the Tuesday and Thursday night lessons.

Medical Society Provides Home Accident Checklist

By THE COLORADO MEDICAL SOCIETY

Such things as heart disease, cancer, strokes and infections get most of the medical attention, but the plain fact is that one of the leading causes of death in Colorado also is the simple, ordinary matter of home accidents.

During 1962, the State Bureau of Vital Statistics reports, 247 Coloradans died in home accidents, most of them preventable. This was a few more deaths than occurred from congenital malformations, the 10th leading cause of death in the state.

And if home mishaps are combined with the motor vehicle toll and industrial accidents, the result is the No. 4 cause of death in Colorado.

Fatal accidents obviously are epidemic in Colorado, and much needs to be done, medically and educationally, in seeking causes and remedies.

A good inventory of hazards and safety factors in each home perhaps would be a way to begin on the big job ahead.

Old Doc Experience, with the assistance of the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults, offers a simple checklist. Make a survey of your home, answering "Yes" or "No" to each question. The safety awareness you could acquire in making the inventory might save the life of a member of your family, or yourself.

1. Are there strong bannisters or rails along each stairway?

8. Are electrical circuits overloaded?

9. Are areas such as basements and attic stairs well lighted?

10. Are pennies or nails used to replace fuses?

11. Are open fires always screened?

12. Are lighted candles kept away from walls and curtains?

13. Is your stepladder a sturdy one?

14. Are pan handles turned toward the back of the stove?

15. Are corners on cabinets, counters and furniture well rounded or protected?

16. Are drawers and cupboard doors kept closed?

17. Are cooking ranges located away from curtained windows?

18. Is there a light over the stove and sink?

19. Is a match lighted before the gas stove is turned on?

20. Are short or close-fitting sleeves worn when cooking?

21. Are grease and liquids wiped up immediately after spilling?

22. Are electrical appliances disconnected when not in use?

23. Are wringers equipped with safety releases?

24. Are cleaning fluids, polishes, bleaches, detergents and all poisons stored separately and clearly marked?

30. Are medicines clearly labeled?

31. Are medicines ever taken in the dark without reading the label first?

32. Are prescription medicines discarded when the illness for which they were prescribed is over?

33. Are electrical cords ever allowed to get wet?

34. Is there a light located within easy bedside reach?

35. Are cigarettes smoked in bed?

36. Are room heaters turned off at bedtime?

37. Is the room always well ventilated when heaters are operating?

38. Are hazardous tools and firearms kept locked?

39. Are kerosene, gasoline or other explosive fluids used to start fires?

40. Are furnace, chimney and flues inspected and cleaned regularly?

41. Are porch railings secure?

42. Are holes such as cisterns and drains kept covered?

43. Are clotheslines strung above head height?

44. Do you know first aid?

45. Do you know where to get medical help quickly?

46. Do you know the quickest route to the nearest hospital?

Your answers should be "Yes" to all questions except 5, 8, 10, 31, 35, and 39. If your score is not a high one, your home needs some safety conditioning.

SECTION C COLORADO SPRINGS—SUNDAY, APRIL 26, 1964 SECTION C

Symphony Guild Stages First Annual Tournament-of-Tables

One of the most ambitious — as well as delightful — city-wide benefit projects ever undertaken in Colorado Springs was the Tournament-of-Tables staged Wednesday and Thursday, by the Symphony Guild in cooperation with a large number of women's clubs, civic groups and commercial firms.

The many tables were beautifully arranged in the spacious main dining room of the Antlers Hotel, and a sumptuous table of gourmet foods in an adjoining room featured special recipes by prominent Colorado Springs women, who also supplied their cherished recipes, sold along with the food. Every bit of the food was sold by early afternoon Wednesday, and more was contributed for Thursday's sale.

Judges who selected the prize table were Marshal Morin, Gernot Heinrichsdorff, and Guy Burgess.

The Hobby Garden Club's table, "Mushroom Hunters Gleaning," was awarded first prize. Tied for second were the Junior League Mexican table, "Una Merienda Mexicana," and "Platter Chatter," by Girl Scout Troop 289.

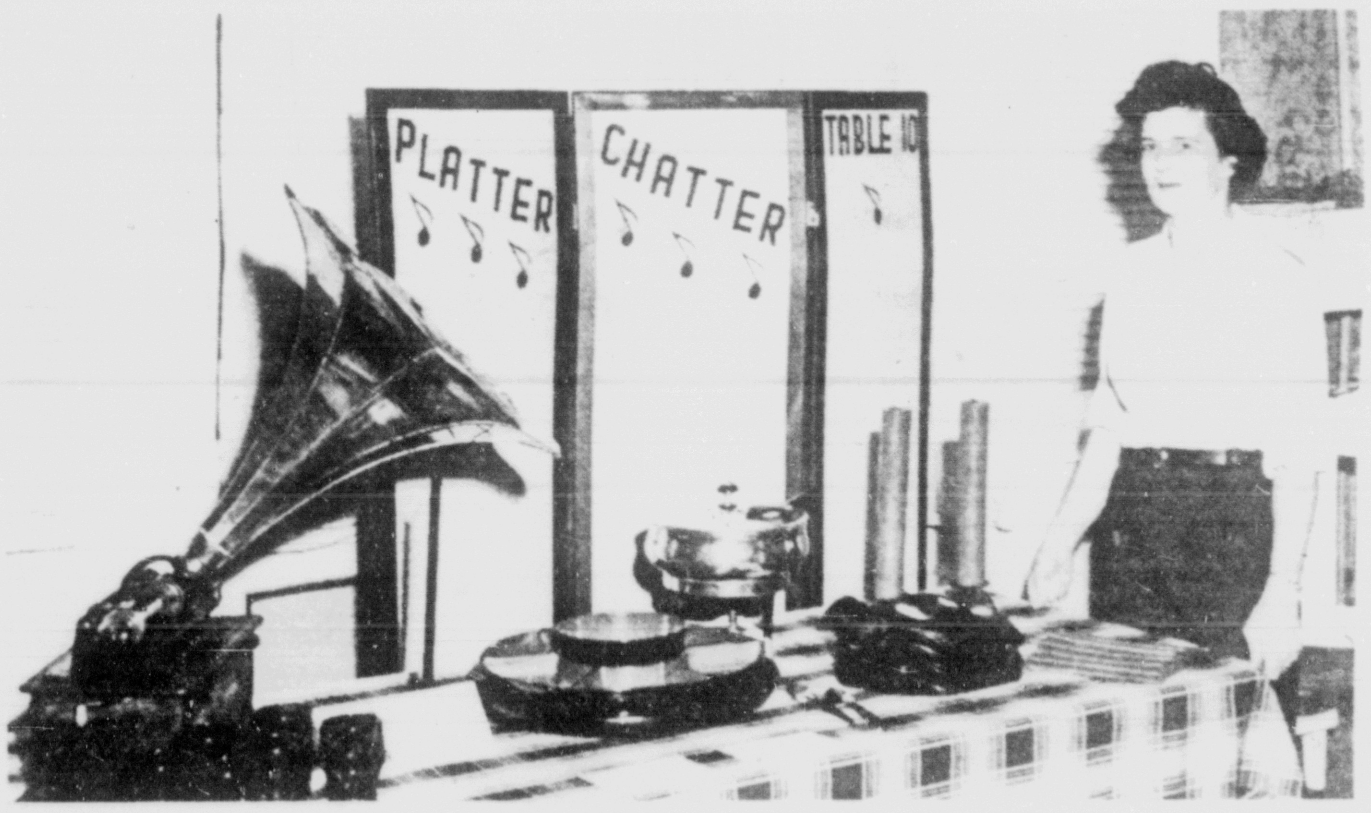
Mrs. John Kanas of the Junior League smiles with pride as she is told that her Mexican table arrangement tied for second place. She called it "Una Mereinda Mexicano," which means a "light supper on the patio." The cloth is a vivid print, the dishes are real Mexicana, and the glasses are Mexican bubble glass. The cat ornament is of paper mache, and the centerpiece is of star flowers in small separate clumps placed in tiny open drawers of a miniature cabinet. Mrs. Peter King was chairman of the Junior League's committee for the Tournament of Tables.



Girl Scout Troop 289 designed this unique table arrangement in black and white, and called it "Platter Chatter." The members of the troop made the plaid cloth, and the unique black plates were made from old phonograph records artistically shaped—hence the morning glory phonograph at left. Pictured admiring the table is Mrs. Maynard Cox. Members of the Troop are from East and North Junior High Schools. "Platter Chatter" tied for second place with the Junior League Mexican table arrangement.

Mrs. Samuel Brown, left, a past president of the Colonial Dames, and Mrs. Polly Ruhtenberg, public relations chairman for the Colonial Dames, proudly exhibit the table set with priceless antique silver and cut glass from McAllister House, historic early Colorado Springs residence restored to its original elegance by the Dames a few years ago. The cloth is an heirloom of the Charles Tutt family. The centerpiece, an antique candelabra, circa 1870, is filled in with yellow tulips, roses, smilax and forsythia. The table was arranged by Mrs. Albert Horn and Mrs. Robert Baskerville.

Cherished Gourmet Recipes Gleaned At Symphony Guild Tournament of Tables

The food committee of the Symphony Guild's Tournament of Tables generously allowed us to offer a few of the delightful recipes which helped make the food sale such a complete success Wednesday and Thursday at the Antlers Hotel.

Mrs. Charles S. Morrison is responsible for this recipe for meringues.

NEVER-FAIL MERINGUES

3 egg whites
3 teaspoons baking powder
1¼ cups of sugar
½ teaspoon of vanilla

Beat the egg whites until they are stiff and add gradually 2-3 of the sugar and whip the mixture until it holds its shape. Add the remaining sugar that has been sifted with the baking powder and add the vanilla.

Drop the mix on an unglazed paper by teaspoons and then on a cookie sheet.

Bake in 225 degree oven for 30 minutes and then turn the oven off and let the meringues dry out for 15 minutes. Makes 35 cookies.

Mrs. Edwin Hays gave this recipe for chocolate cake:

CHOCOLATE CAKE

½ cup butter
1½ cup sugar (scant)
4 eggs —separated
1 cup buttermilk
2 square chocolate (melted)

'CUTTING' SESSION — The dietary staff of Penrose hospital is pictured here during a "cutting session," in which various kinds of canned goods are tasted by the panel. Pictured here at a sampling session are, from left, Miss Lana Felland, Sister Helene, Mrs. Broun Mayall, Mrs. Lawrence Dooley and Mrs. Audrey Kean. (Gazette Telegraph Photo)

* * *

Dietary Staff Holds 'Cutting' Session

Every year Penrose dietitians cooks, salad girls and a purchasing agent form a taste panel to study the quality of canned goods used in their menus in order to select the best product for their use.

Samples of the various products are requested from a certain number of representative companies by the purchasing agent. When the samples have been received the following procedure is followed:

1) Each can receives a number.

2) Labels are removed and numbered with the same number as the can from which they have been removed.

3) All cans are opened and the contents of each can is placed in a shallow inset.

4) For items usually served hot, a small portion of the sample is heated.

The members of the taste panel use a pre-printed score sheet for scoring the following points: uniformity of size, flavor, texture, color, degree of syrup, measure and absence of defects.

When the scoring has been completed and tabulated, the purchasing agent places the brand name, company and price in their respective columns. Products which have been found to be unacceptable are ruled out first and a first, second, and third choice are made from those remaining. In most instances the first choice is purchased unless the price is substantially higher than the other.

Dietary Staff Holds 'Cutting' Session

Every year Penrose dietitians, cooks, salad girls and a purchasing agent form a taste panel to study the quality of canned goods used in their menus in order to select the best product for their use.

Samples of the various products are requested from a certain number of representative companies by the purchasing agent. When the samples have been received the following procedure is followed:

1) Each can receives a number.

2) Labels are removed and numbered with the same number as the can from which they have been removed.

3) All cans are opened and the contents of each can is placed in a shallow inset.

4) For items usually served hot, a small portion of the sample is heated.

The members of the taste panel use a pre-printed score sheet for scoring the following points: uniformity of size, flavor, texture, color, degree of syrup, measure and absence of defects.

When the scoring has been completed and tabulated, the purchasing agent places the brand name, company and price in their respective columns. Products which have been found to be unacceptable are ruled out first and a first, second, and third choice are made from those remaining. In most instances the first choice is purchased unless the price is substantially higher than the other.

Sen. Dominick to Discuss Oil Shale Mining Claims

Colorado Sen. Peter H. Dominick, who recently accused a federal legal office of using delay tactics against more than 200 oil shale mining claims in Colorado, Wyoming and Utah, will speak here May 8 at theh Alamo Hotel.

Sen. Dominick is scheduled to be featured speaker at a dinner at 6:30 p.m. in the Crystal Room of the Alamo. The Pikes Peak Republican Women's Roundtable is sponsoring his appearance here.

The dinner is open to the public at a cost of $5 per plate. Tickets may be obtained at Maxwell Food Market, 1010 W. Colorado Ave., Kirchner's Health Foods, 20 E. Colorado Ave., or from members of the committee in charge of dinner arrangements.

The committee includes Mrs. A. B. Armstrong, Mrs. Donald E. La Mora, Mrs. Spencer Allen, Mrs. Robert W. Johnson, Mrs. Merlin Lyons, Mrs. George Kinzler, Mrs. Roy W. Long and Mrs. Paul Borchert.

In the accusation leveled at the legal office, Sen. Dominick referred to an opinion by Frank J. Barry, solicitor for the Interior Department. Barry held that most of the claimants had forfeited their interests by failing to appeal a ruling made against them by the department in the early 1930s.

Dominick said Barry's ruling was "one more difficulty placed in the way of developing oil reserves. It is a delaying tactic that will not solve the basic question as to whether or not the patents are valid," he said.

The claims involve nearly 40,000 acres.

Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall said Barry's decision helped clear the way to development of a program to use the oil shale resources of the three states.

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

Please, my child left crayons in the pocket of his blue jeans and I put them in the dryer.

What can I do? —Mother

Dear Folks:

We have had so many letters like this that we have written to an excellent home economist and here is her answer:

Dear Heloise:

On the crayon question, which is a fairly common one . . . we sometimes despair. However, there are certain things that can be done. As you undoubtedly know, crayons are much like lipstick. They contain grease, wax and dye.

The grease and wax can be easily removed by cleaning the clothes in any good dry cleaning solvent, but sometimes the dye remains. This dye may be taken out if the clothes are cleaned with a dry cleaning fluid immediately and, of course, a good non-flammable solvent will remove the stains from the dryer.

If any color remains in the dryer itself, you can use a good diluted chlorine bleach to dissolve the color. Many times if the clothing is white, a short soaking in well-diluted chlorine bleach (if applicable to the material) will remove the dye stain from the material itself.

Another suggestion — sometimes a safe, all-purpose, all-fabric sodium perborate bleach (this is powdered and is sold under various names) will help.

For persistent stains such as this dye from the crayons, I make a sort of paste of the powdered perborate bleach (be sure it is not a chlorine bleach) and put this on the moistened fabric where the stain is. Keep it moist and give it time. Often the dye comes out.

As a last resort, your professional cleaner has spotting agents for removal of dye, but I don't trust myself to use these. I think a professional on spotting is needed.

Jessie Cartwright,
Director of Home Economics

Dear Heloise:

As a food chemist I should like to recommend that only glass, earthenware, or stainless steel containers be used to make tea in. If one intends to re-use the teabag, always leave just enough liquid on it to completely cover the bag, thus "excluding" it from the oxygen in the air. —F. W. Sawyer

Benefit Concerts Planned By Junior Music Club

The Fine Arts Center Music Room will be the scene of the first of the annual benefit concerts presented by the Colorado Springs Junior Music Club at 2 p.m. Saturday. The concerts will be given to provide a yearly scholarship to a graduating high school student for future musical studies. An exciting and strong program will be offered by the three winners of the recent Future Artists Auditions. The fine background of the Young Artists will assure an evening of pleasure for any music minded person.

Elizabeth Borgen, first place winner, is a panio student of Dr. Max Lanner. She is 17 years old and a senior at Widefield High School. Before moving to Colorado Springs three years ago, she appeared as soloist with the Honolulu Symphony Orchestra. More recently she was selected by the Colorado State Music Teachers Association to take part in the Regional Competition in Kansas City. She has studied 8½ years and plays with imagination and clarity. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Borgen.

James Boitos, clarinetist, is a senior at Wasson High School and an excellent student. He displays a rich and well controlled tone on the clarinet, and is equally proficient with the tenor and alto saxaphone. He began his studies of reed instruments with Allen Uhles. He served as concert master of the Wasson High School Band this year and was one of ten students chosen to sit in with the U. S. Navy Band at their recent concert here. He has had his own dance band for four years. The most current honor to come to him is a full tuition music Scholarship to Arizona State University. He is presently studying with Mr. Raymond De Witt, soloist wit the Air Force Academy Band. His mother, Myra Boitos, is well known in music circles here.

Joan Zimbelman, age 12, is also a piano student of Dr. Lanner. At age 6 she began her work in piano. Colorado State Teachers Association awarded her 3rd place in the Junior High Division. She shows remarkable development and maturity in her music for one so young. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Zimbelman.

James Boitos will be accompanied at the piano by Don Patterson for the concert. Don was given first honorable mention by the judges for his surprising musical ability on both piano and trombone. He is 16 and an honor student at Cheyenne Mountain High School. He studies piano with Mrs. Evelyn Hamilton. The All State Band selected him for first chair trombone for this year. He will tour Europe this summer as a member of the Band of America which is under the direction of Edward G. Harn. He has found time to serve as president of Junior Music Club for this season and held the office of treasurer last year. His other activities include Student Council member at his school and Assistant Organist at First Evangelical United Brethren Church. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Patterson.

It is hoped that with community help, the Junior Music Club will be able to offer a scholarship of not less than $250 to a talented young musician in recognition of his ability and perserverance. Except in the field of music education, there are no grants nor awards eminating locally to advance music study.

This scholarship will begin to fill the void, and perhaps will encourage interest from other organizations in beginning similar projects. The great cultural growth simultaneous with growth in population in Colorado Springs, must be commended. The scholarship is only one path to be taken to assure that our cultural needs are supplied for future community expansion.

Other cities offer similar opportunities to their youth. However, since Colorado Springs is unique for its size in that it supports civic companies of every phase of artistic endeavor, symphony, opera, ballet, legitimate theater, as well as the lighter art forms, our demands are greater. Newcomers are constantly amazed by the activity and high cultural standards of our city.

Tickets for the Concert are available through any Junior Music Club member, or Mrs. Robert Kushnir, 632-4429, for a $1 donation.

Plane Crashers Failed Thursday; Will Try Again

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — A Phoenix research organization which has had its troubles in getting a planned airplane crash off the ground planned to give it another try today.

Gusty winds up to 25 miles per hour buffeted the test area north of Phoenix Thursday and caused a second delay in the crash of the four-engine DC7 airliner purchased by the Federal Aviation Agency for $20,000 for use in the experiment.

Object of the project is to measure the forces involved in survivable accidents, test new and standard equipment and study fuel-tank designs and fuel spray patterns.

Benefit Concerts Planned By Junior Music Club

The Fine Arts Center Music Room will be the scene of the first of the annual benefit concerts presented by the Colorado Springs Junior Music Club at 2 p.m. Saturday. The concerts will be given to provide a yearly scholarship to a graduating high school student for future musical studies. An exciting and strong program will be offered by the three winners of the recent Future Artists Auditions. The fine background of the Young Artists will assure an evening of pleasure for any music minded person.

Elizabeth Borgen, first place winner, is a piano student of Dr. Max Lanner. She is 17 years old and a senior at Widefield High School. Before moving to Colorado Springs three years ago she appeared as soloist with the Honolulu Symphony Orchestra. Most recently she was selected by the Colorado State Music Teachers Association to take part in the Regional Competition in Kansas City. She has studied 8½ years and plays with imagination and clarity. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Borgen.

James Boitos, clarinetist, is a senior at Wasson High School and an excellent student. He displays a rich and well controlled tone on the clarinet and is equally proficient with the tenor and alto saxaphone. He began his studies of reed instruments with Allen Uhles. He served as concert master of the Wasson High School Band this year and was one of ten students chosen to sit in with the U.S. Navy Band at their recent concert here. He has had his own dance band for four years. The most recent honor to come to him is a full tuition music scholarship to Arizona State University. He is presently studying with Mr. Raymond De Witt, soloist wit the Air Force Academy Band. His mother, Myra Boitos, is well known in music circles here.

Joan Zimbelman, age 12, is also a piano student of Dr. Lanner. At age 6 she began her work in piano. Colorado State Teachers Association awarded her 3rd place in the Junior High Division. She shows remarkable development and maturity in her music for one so young. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Zimbelman.

James Boitos will be accompanied at the piano by Don Patterson for the concert. Don was given first honorable mention by the judges for his surprising musical ability on both piano and trombone. He is 16 and an honor student at Cheyenne Mountain High School. He studies piano with Mrs. Evelyn Hamilton. The All State Band selected him for first chair trombone for this year. He will tour Europe this summer as a member of the Band of America which is under the direction of Edward G. Harr. He has found time to serve as president of Junior Music Club for this season and held the office of treasurer last year. His other activities include Student Council member at his school and Assistant Organist at First Evangelical United Brethren Church. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Patterson.

It is hoped that with community help the Junior Music Club will be able to offer a scholarship of not less than $250 to a talented young musician in recognition of his ability and perserverance. Except in the field of music education there are no grants nor awards emanating locally to advance music study.

This scholarship will begin to fill the void and perhaps will encourage interest from other organizations in beginning similar projects. The great cultural growth simultaneous with growth in population in Colorado Springs must be commended. The scholarship is only one path to be taken to assure that our cultural needs are supplied for future community expansion.

Other cities offer similar opportunities to their youth. However, since Colorado Springs is unique for its size in that it supports civic companies of every phase of artistic endeavor, symphony, opera, ballet, legitimate theater as well as the lighter art forms, our demands are greater. Newcomers are constantly amazed by the activity and high cultural standards of our city.

Washington Really Was Windy City at One Time

By TOM NOLAN

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Unlike the traditional one-man filibuster shows in the past, this year's talkathon by southern Democratic senators in a smoothly organized, determined team effort by a group of professionals who would turn a past master such as Huey Long green with envy. But it is doubtful if any present politicians could match the old masters, man for man.

This year's may turn out to be the longest filibuster in the chamber's history.

Four years ago the southerners talked for 37 days, including nine days of around-the-clock sessions on a comparatively simple bill to perfect the 1957 measure of voting rights. This year's bill is much more complex—enough to keep the southerners going for months.

The first senator to practice the art of talking to obstruct legislation to any great degree was John Randolph of Virginia.

Elected to the Senate in 1825 to fill an unexpired term, Randolph was a staunch anti-administration man. He consistently referred to President John Quincy Adams in terms of contempt, and often showed up in riding boots and breeches, toting pearl-handled pistols.

One of the greatest filibusterers in Senate history was Robert M. La Follette Sr., of Wisconsin. in 1908 he spoke for 18 hours, 23 minutes in an attempt to defeat a bill allowing banks to issue currency on security other than government bonds. His record stood for three decades.

The modern image of a Senate filibuster stems from the legendary one-man stands of Benjamin R. "Pitchfork Ben" Tillman, of South Carolina, and Louisiana's Huey "Kingfish" Long.

Pitchfork Ben in 1903 made the Senate capitulate and include in an appropriation bill a South Carolina claim of $47,000 for expenses incurred in the War of 1812 by threatening to read Lord Byron's poetry until adjournment the next day.

The banner year for the Kingfish was 1935. In April of that year he launched a talkathon to prevent a joint session of Congress from hearing President Roosevelt read his bonus veto.

In the course of his tirade against FDR, Long mentioned Tennessee, causing Sen. Kenneth McKellar, D-Tenn., to jump up and shout:

"I think the senator had better let Tennessee alone!"

The galleries roared their approval and were promptly admonished by the presiding officer. This caused Sen. Alben Barkley, D-Ky., to interrupt:

"I appeal to the Chair not to be too harsh. When people go to the circus they ought to be allowed to laugh at the monkey."

One month later Long was at it again, speaking against an amendment to extend the National Industrial Recovery Act.

For 15½ hours, the Senate—once described by John C. Calhoun as incomparable in the history of legislature for its "dignity and decorum" of debate—listened to the Kingfish's theories on the frying of oysters and the making of "pot likker."

At one point Long interrupted himself to request that every senator be made to stay and listen to him. Vice President John Nance Garner, presiding, almost turned purple as he roared:

"In the opinion of the chair, that would be cruel and unusual punishment, as forbidden in the Bill of Rights."

Long finally surrendered when he was denied a "gentleman's" quorum call to go visit the toilette.

Today's crops of senators is noted for several champion talkers: Allen Ellender, D-La., who spoke for 12 hours, 19 minutes in 1949 against a limitation on Senate debate; Wayne Morse, D-Ore., who stood on his feet for 22 hours, 26 minutes to argue against a pending offshore oil bill, and Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., who walked off with the record of 24 hours, 18 minutes against civil rights in 1957.

Chances are slim that the backers of this, the present rights bill, will be able to invoke cloture—a device preventing unlimited talk. Voting in the Senate is needed for cloture.

Cloture was demanded, and secured, in 1917 by any angry President Woodrow Wilson after "12 willful men" led by Senator La Follette Sr. filibustered his bill to arm merchant ships against German submarines.

There have been 25 cloture votes since. Only five were carried.

It is not likely that the southerners will be worn down by physical exhaustion this time. The 18 southerners have been organized into three platoons by their leader, Sen. Richard Russell, of Georgia.

Lennox Questions If State Should Pay Consultant

DENVER (UPI) — Rep. William O. Lennox, R - Colorado Springs, chairman of an interim committee on institutions, has questioned whether the state should pay $1,800 a month for a consultant on juvenile delinquency.

Lennox raised the question Friday when Ruben Gurule of Denver appeared before the committee to report on his work developing a statewide program to assist local agencies to prevent and control delinquency. Gurule was hired by the Department of Institutions.

Lennox asked him why such work is needed, and Gurule replied: "To give direction. We're the ones (the state government) who finally wind up with them (the delinquents)—we finally pay the tab. We ought to be the ones to give direction."

The representative later remarked that he considers delinquency "primarily a Denver problem—not a statewide problem."

By TOM NOLAN

WASHINGTON (NEA) — [illegible] the traditional [illegible] filibuster shows in the past this year's talkathon by southern Democratic senators in a smooth, organized [illegible] effort by a group of [illegible] who would turn a past master such as Huey Long green with envy. But it is doubtful if any present politicians could match the old masters man for man.

This year's may turn [illegible] the longest filibuster in the chamber's history.

Four years ago the southerners talked for [illegible] days, including nine days of around-the-clock sessions [illegible] simple [illegible] the 1957 measure [illegible] This year's [illegible] complex—enough to keep the southerners going for months.

The first senator to use the art of talking [illegible] legislation [illegible] was [illegible]

[illegible] Randolph was a staunch anti-administration man. He [illegible] referred to President John Quincy Adams in terms of contempt and often showed up in riding boots and [illegible] handled pistols.

One of the greatest filibusterers in Senate history was Robert M. La Follette Sr. of Wisconsin. In 1908 he spoke for 18 hours 23 minutes in an attempt to defeat a bill allowing banks to issue currency on security other than government bonds. His record stood for three decades.

The modern image of a Senate filibuster stems from the legendary one-man stands of Benjamin R. "Pitchfork Ben" Tillman, of South Carolina, and Louisiana's Huey "Kingfish" Long.

Pitchfork Ben in 1903 made the Senate capitulate and include in an appropriation bill a South Carolina claim of $47,000 for expenses incurred in the War of 1812 by threatening to read Lord Byron's poetry until adjournment the next day.

The banner year for the Kingfish was 1935. In April of that year he launched a talkathon to prevent a joint session of Congress from hearing President Roosevelt read his bonus veto.

In the course of his tirade against FDR, Long mentioned Tennessee, causing Sen. Kenneth McKellar, D-Tenn., to jump up and shout:

"I think the senator had better let Tennessee alone."

The galleries roared their approval and were promptly admonished by the presiding officer. This caused Sen. Alben Barkley, D-Ky., to interrupt:

"I appeal to the Chair not to be too harsh. When people go to the circus they ought to be allowed to laugh at the monkey."

One month later Long was at it again, speaking against an amendment to extend the National Industrial Recovery Act.

For 15½ hours, the Senate—once described by John C. Calhoun as incomparable in the history of legislature for its dignity and decorum of debate—[illegible]

[illegible] he was denied a gentleman's [illegible]

[illegible] Senate debate Wayne Morse [illegible]

Charges [illegible] that the bankers [illegible] the present [illegible] able to [illegible] [illegible] Senate [illegible]

There have been 25 cloture [illegible] were carried.

[illegible] the southerners will be worn down by [illegible] this time. The 18 southerners have been organized into three platoons by their leader, Sen. Richard Russell of Georgia.

Birkes Funeral Rites To Be Held Monday

Funeral services for John Richard "Ricky" Birkes, 2854 N. Institute St., will be held at 1 p.m. Monday at the First Presbyterian Church. The Rev. Dr. Howard E. Hansen will officiate. Burial will be in Evergreen Cemetery.

The Birkes boy, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Birkes, died Thursday after a long illness. He was born in Cody, Wyo., and had lived here since 1957. He attended the Rocky Mountain Rehabilitation Center and was a member of the Sunday School of the First Presbyterian Church. He also belonged to Cub Scout Pack 46.

Survivors are his parents, maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. LeClere of Colorado Springs and several aunts and uncles.

Pallbearers will be Jack R. Traxler, Fred Aurand Jr., Andrew L. Andersen and Joe R. Brytus. The Swan Funeral Home is in charge of arrangements.

Lennox Questions If State Should Pay Consultant

DENVER (UPI) — Rep. William [illegible] Lennox, R-Colorado Springs, chairman of an interim committee on institutions, has questioned whether the state should pay $[illegible] a month for a consultant on juvenile delinquency.

Lennox raised the question Friday when Rupert Gurule of Denver appeared before the committee to report on his work developing a statewide program to assist local agencies to prevent and control delinquency. Gurule was hired by the Department of Institutions.

Lennox asked him why such work is needed, and Gurule replied: "To give direction. We're the ones, the state government, who finally wind up with them, the delinquents — we finally pay the tab. We ought to be the ones to give direction."

The representative later remarked that he considers delinquency "primarily a Denver problem—not a statewide problem."

Cities Discover Conventions Are Big Business

By JACK LEFLER

AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Conventions are big business and the scramble to get them is becoming fiercer.

New York City last year played host to 800 conventions which spent an estimated $250 million.

Competition to attract conventions is seen among cities which recognize the potential financial rewards from housing and entertaining convention delegates.

Many cities have organized special visitors and convention bureaus to meet the competition and assist in promoting this lucrative trade.

A city must offer first-rate accommodations, facilities to handle big crowds such as adequate transportation, banquet halls, restaurants and an easily accessible location.

For example, New York City in the last four years has added 12,000 new rooms to its already numerous housing accommodations.

Other cities such as Atlantic City, Chicago, Philadelphia and Los Angeles have not stood still. Construction of large capacity convention halls, additional housing and eating facilities have helped promote them as convention locations.

Hotel rooms, 30 per cent; restaurants, 24 per cent; beverages, 5 per cent; retail stores, 18 per cent; local transportation, 4 per cent; night clubs, 5 per cent; gasoline, oil and automobile service, 1 per cent; theaters, movies and sightseeing, 13 per cent.

While only a relatively few cities are able to take care of huge conventions which draw thousands of delegates, many smaller cities are adding to their business firms' revenues by actively going after regional gatherings.

Virgil Proctor Joins Weidman & Co. Staff

Virgil. Proctor. Realtor now associated with Weidman and Co. 123 E. Bijou St., as a salesman of residential and commercial real estate and insurance.

Proctor is a member of the Board of Realtors, serving as a director for several years and as president in 1958. He also served four years as a director is of the Colorado Association of Real Estate Boards and as a regional vice president of the Southern District in 1961. He received the designation of "Realtor of the Year" from the Colorado Springs board in 1959, and is currently a member of the board's procedure committee. He is also a member of the city adjustment board.

Burlington Sets Up Fair Tours

Folks from the east have been visiting western attractions on Burlington excursions for several generations. Now, however, the railroad is throwing a switch, (no pun intended) to give folks along its line an opportunity to see the east's current attraction, the New York World's Fair.

Burlington has devised tours directly to the fair, returning by way of Washington D. C., New England, Canada, the Kentucky blue grass country or southern mountain areas.

Three-to-eighty-day tours are offered. Fair goers may travel singly, leaving any day of the week, or with escorted groups.

Prices start at $19.95, plus rail fare. Included are a three days-and-two-nights stay at a New York hotel, admission to the fair, sightseeing in Manhattan, a theater performance, the United Nations, joining the audience at televised shows, plus participation in many other New York attractions.

The Fair will remain open until Oct. 18. Local Burlington agents have tour information, and will make all travel arrangements.

Roundtrip rail fare (coach) to New York is $128.43. First-class and Pullman accommodations are also available.

Springs Accountants Named to Institute

Two Colorado Springs certified public accountants have been elected members of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants. They are Robert W. Choate, associated with the accounting firm of Kingsolver, White, Griffis and Johnson, and Leo R. Smentowski, associated with R. H. Lester and Co.

RECEIVES AWARD — Darrel A. Rhodes of 1923 Alpine Dr. has been named to receive the President's Citation by Prudential Insurance Co., one of the highest awards made by the company. Rhodes is an agent here for the Pueblo district agency of the firm. The award is presented for outstanding sales and serivce.

Maytag Sales And Earnings Set Records

Both sales and earnings of the Maytag Company during the first quarter of 1964 set new records for any quarter in company history, according to E. G. Higdon, president.

Net sales totaled $33,651,711, an increase of 9.1 per cent over sales of $30,849,011 in the first quarter of 1963. Earnings rose 16.4 per cent to $4,416,605, compared to $3,793,990 during the first three months of last year.

Earnings represented 66 cents a common share on 6,655,319 shares outstanding, compared to 57 cents a share on 6,645,304 shares in the same period a year ago.

"This gets the year off to an excellent start," Higdon said, "and even though the next quarter may not reach this peak, our forecast for an improvement for the year as a whole over a very good 1963 seems sound."

Regular quarterly dividends of 35 cents a share were paid in the first quarters of both 1963 and 1964.

NEW YORK (AP) — Yearly high-low, weekly sales high, low, closing price and net change of the five most active leaders for the week.

CIG Debentures Offered; Due April 1, 1984

An offering of $35 million Colorado Interstate Gas Company 4.75 per cent debentures due April 1, 1984, is being made by an underwriting group headed by Dillon, Reed and Co. Inc. The debentures are priced at 99.25 per cent to yield 4.81 per cent.

Approximately $19 million of the net proceeds to the company from the sale of the debentures will be used to pay short-term notes currently outstanding under the company's revolving credit agreement. The balance will be added to the general funds of the company and will be used together with other funds from the operation of its business, in part for the expansion of its natural gas pipeline system and in part for the investment in its subsidiary Colorado Oil and Gas Corporation.

The semi-annual sinking fund beginning April 1, 1966, will retire approximately 95 per cent of the debentures prior to maturity. For a period of five years, the debentures are not refundable at an interest cost to the company of 4.81 per cent or less, but are otherwise redeemable at the option of the company at prices scaling from 104 per cent during the 12-month period ending March 31, 1965, downward to 100 per cent in 1984.

The company's principal business is the ownership and operation of a system for the production, purchase, gathering, transportation and sale of natural gas. The company's pipeline system at Dec. 31, 1963 consisted of 3,701 miles of pipeline, 10 transmission line compressor stations and various field compressor stations related facilities.

The offer is being handled here through Boettcher and Co., Antlers Hotel, and Newman and Co., Mining Exchange Bldg., and in Denver by Bosworth, Sullivan and Co. Inc., 660 17th St.

Cities Discover Conventions Are Big Business

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Conventions are big business and the scramble to get them is becoming fiercer.

New York City last year played host to 800 conventions which spent an estimated $250 million.

Competition to attract conventions is seen among cities which recognize the potential financial rewards from housing and entertaining convention delegates.

Many cities have organized special visitors and convention bureaus to meet the competition and assist in promoting this lucrative trade.

A city must offer first-rate accommodations, facilities to handle big crowds such as adequate transportation, banquet halls, restaurants and an easily accessible location.

For example, New York city in the last four years has added 12,000 new rooms to its already numerous housing accommodations.

Other cities such as Atlantic City, Chicago, Philadelphia and Los Angeles have not stood still. Construction of large capacity convention halls, additional housing and eating facilities have helped promote them as convention locations.

Hotel rooms 30 per cent; restaurants 24 per cent; beverages 5 per cent; retail stores 18 per cent; local transportation 4 per cent; night clubs 3 per cent; gas, oil and automobile service 3 per cent; theaters, movies and sightseeing 13 per cent.

While only a relatively few cities are able to take care of huge conventions which draw thousands of delegates, many smaller cities are adding to their business firms' revenues by actively going after regional gatherings.

Retail Prices to Remain High in Livestock Trade

By SUSAN K. POLLOCK

CHICAGO (UPI) — Beef on the hoof has been flooding wholesale channels and cattle prices have dwindled to the lowest points in years. But you couldn't prove it by Mrs. Housewife. She is paying about the same for steaks and chops.

The farmer has taken about a $10 slash on the hundredweight price of his cattle since the skid started in November, 1962. The highs at that time reflected several weeks of organized withholding action on the part of Iowa farmers. Ever since then prices have slipped.

Cattlemen are having difficulty liquidating supplies because any attempts to withhold cattle to get higher prices at a future date only result in increased numbers of heavyweights crowding the market. Imports have also been a problem.

A government agreement, in which Australia and New Zealand promised to hold back on their meat exports to the United States, succeeded only in adding to the farmer's troubles. Charles B. Shuman, American Farm Bureau president, said the deal merely assures foreign competitors that they soon will be able to increase exports in return for a relatively small temporary cutback.

The average choice steer at Chicago dropped from $30.47 15 months ago to a six-year low of $21.10 last week. In the wholesale trade, since November, 1962, prices slipped from $47 per 100 pounds on a choice 600 - 700 pound carcass to $35 today.

But these dramatic price cuts mean relatively little on the retail level. According to government figures, sirloin steak averaged $1.15 per pound in late 1962 and is now down around $1.05, a fair drop. But hamburger meat slipped only two cents from the 53 cent high. These figures include sale prices.

Supermarkets say they'd rather not change their list prices every time there is a quiver in the wholesale cost of beef. Dwight Schoeffler of the Independent Grocers' Alliance said most stores try to maintain a constant price, whether the wholesale cost is up or down.

If a store were to lower the price of meat with every significant drop in the wholesale trade, Schoeffler said, the consumer would stop buying when it became necessary to raise prices again.

Bill Tongue, economist for the Jewel Tea chain, said Jewel prices its merchandise with an eye on the actions of its competitors. He said that the company tries to price meat in relation to supply, but that it must also figure on overhead costs which have been rising steadily through the years.

Both retail men agree that the way most markets pass some of their savings on to the consumer is through the "special." This method enables the store to maintain its normal list price with the movement of the wholesale market.

Livestock dealers look for a continuation of the current low prices for cattle until spring, when the market probably will have absorbed most of the heavyweights now plaguing farmers.

With summer they expect a gradual improvement in the market. Despite these predictions the retail trade refuses comment on its short - range price plans.

New Subdivision Slated for Widefield Area

A new $6 million subdivision to be known as "Southmoore" will be constructed near Widefield.

Rancher John Ceresa said the development would be constructed on a 110-acre site between U.S. 85-87 and Fountain Creek. The development is to include houses, apartments and a shopping center.

Ceresa said that the area would have plenty of water and had received FHA approval.

Career and Hair Of Youth Saved By Hair Net

CAERPHILLY, Wales (AP) — The career and coiffure of 16-year-old Ron Treherne were saved today by a hair net.

His hair reaches to his shoulders.

"Get it cut or be fired," said the boss.

"Never," replied Ron.

The youth complained to his union that the managerial attack on his hair style was an unwarranted intrusion on his civil liberties.

The Transport and General Workers Union agreed, however, with factory manager David Golton—who makes garage doors—that Ron risked scalping every time he got near a machine.

Union and management agree Treherne's hair could stay long if he wore a hair net at the plant.

"Right," said Ron, "and now I'm going to grow a beard."

TOO MANY VOTERS

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (UPI) — The New Mexico Republican organization has charged there are more registered voters in 13 New Mexico counties than there are persons of voting age.

Its official publication, "The Republican," said a comparison of the 1960 census figures with registration lists showed that dead persons had been included on the lists. "More than a third of the counties in New Mexico have more than 100 per cent registration," the article said.

There are more than 2,400 chapters of the Order of DeMolay throughout the world serving three million youths. The organization is sponsored by Masonic lodges.

Great Depression Placed Mumford on Right Track

By ROGER LANE

NEW YORK (AP) — If there hadn't been a depression on, Milton C. Mumford probably would have hired on as a newspaperman when he graduated from the University of Illinois in 1935.

But news jobs were scarce, and he started—for $15 a week—on a merchandising road that 29 years later left him in full executive sway at Lever Bros., a giant in the soap-detergent-toiletries-food products field.

Mumford, 51, president since 1959, this week assumed the additional duties of board chairman with retirement of William H. Burkhart from that post.

In an interview, Mumford defended the advertising industry, a handmaiden in Lever's steep profit climb in the late 1950s and continuing prosperity.

"There's been a lot of rather careless criticism of the advertising profession in late years. It's become almost the smart thing to do," he said.

"To my mind, advertising has contributed susbtantially to the success of this company and to the welfare of the economy as a whole."

Last year, Lever Bros. spent about $100 million on advertising and sales promotion to rank among the top 10. Procter & Gamble, a head-on rival, led the list. Another competitor, Colgate-Palmolive Co., also was in the top 10.

Tall, bespectacled and mild of mein like his Methodist minister father, Mumford is referred to as "Milt" in the annual "letter" Lever issues to the 7,800 employes who make and sell its products—$415 million last year.

Mumford recalled that a brother 15 years old, Manly Mumford, had made his mark in Chicago newspapering. Milton, thinking to follow suit, studied English and history at Illinois.

But the first opening was in the wholesaling end at Marshall Field & Co. leading Chicago-based department store. Soon he shifted to the corporate side at Field's.

Progress up the ladder was interrupted by 4½ years in World War II Navy service, mostly in personnel work.

For two years after his return in 1946, Mumford served at the company's suggestion as Chicago's housing and redevelopment coordinator, and then was sent by the Field firm to New York to look after its textile operations.

He switched to Lever Bros. in 1954 as a vice president, and advanced to president five years later.

His prime serious interest outside business is in education. He is a former trustee of Northwestern University, former chairman of the school board in his home town of Darien, Conn. and now is trustee and president of Educational Facilities Laboratories, a Ford Foundation-supported endeavor dedicated to raising physical standards of schools.

Mumford has three children, a boy, 19, and girls 14 and 10.

Review of Rail Tax Promised, Spokesman Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Railroad spokesman said Friday that President Johnson has promised the industry "fair and reasonable" review of its request for federal tax relief following settlement of the five-year-old work rules dispute.

But, emphasized J.E. Wolfe, Johnson's promise was not given in exchange for the railroads' acceptance of Wednesday's settlement in the labor dispute.

Wolfe was chief negotiator for nearly 200 railroads in the White House talks that led to settlement of the dispute over jobs, wages and working conditions of train operating employes.

Wolfe brought up the matter of tax relief several hours before the railroads accepted the labor settlement drafted by federal mediators, but he said his talk with Johnson "wasn't a trade and barter session."

"I did call on the President as reported and I did emphasize the impact o fany settlement, particularly on any railroads financially in the red or bordering on the red," he said.

"I did talk about tax relief and the President, in the most honorable and dignified way, said those matters were being considered and if the industry's proposals were reasonable and fair, they would receive fair and reasonable consideration."

There has been no official estimate of what the work rules settlement will cost either the railroads or the unions. It was, in effect, a trade giving union members financial gains and allowing the railroads to reduce some employment.

Some railroad sources have estimated the package agreement will cost the industry around $70 million a year in money items won by the unions. There is no ready estimate of how much they might save in reduced employment.

The tax review the railroads asked involves the question of depreciation on their $4-million investment in tunnels and grading.

The Internal Revenue Service has ruled that tunnels last forever so they are not depreciable, and that railroad grading is essentially land, which also is not depreciable.

Steelworkers Union to Hold Talks in Pueblo

PUEBLO (AP) — The western district of the United Steelworkers of America (AFL-CIO) will hold its sixth biennial conference in this steel city Wednesday through Friday.

David J. McDonald, president of the million-member union, will address the conference Wednesday afternoon. Charles J. Smith of Los Angeles, district director, will give a report on the union's growth since the last meeting two years ago.

About 300 delegates will represent 60,000 union members in 11 western states. More than 200 resolutions will be submitted to the convention.

Lt. Gov. Robert Knous will attend the opening day session.

Great Depression Placed Mumford on Right Track

By ROGER LANE

NEW YORK (AP) — If there hadn't been a depression on, Milton C. Mumford probably would have hired on as a newspaperman when he graduated from the University of Illinois in 1935.

But news jobs were scarce, and he started—for $15 a week—on a merchandising road that 29 years later left him in full executive sway at Lever Bros., a giant in the soap-detergent-toiletries-food products field.

Mumford, 51, president since 1959, this week assumed the additional duties of board chairman with retirement of William H. Burkhart from that post.

In an interview, Mumford defended the advertising industry, a handmaiden in Lever's steep profit climb in the late 1950s and continuing prosperity.

"There's been a lot of rather careless criticism of the advertising profession in late years. It's become almost the smart thing to do," he said.

"To my mind, advertising has contributed susbtantially to the success of this company and to the welfare of the economy as a whole."

Last year, Lever Bros. spent about $100 million on advertising and sales promotion to rank among the top 10. Procter & Gamble, a head-on rival, led the list. Another competitor, Colgate-Palmolive Co., also was in the top 10.

Tall, bespectacled and mild of mein like his Methodist minister father, Mumford is referred to as "Milt" in the annual "letter" Lever issues to the 7,800 employes who make and sell its products—$415 million last year.

Mumford recalled that a brother 15 years old, Manly Mumford, had made his mark in Chicago newspapering. Milton, thinking to follow suit, studied English and history at Illinois.

But the first opening was in the wholesaling end at Marshall Field & Co., leading Chicago-based department store. Soon he shifted to the corporate side at Field's.

Progress up the ladder was interrupted by 4½ years in World War II Navy service, mostly in personnel work.

For two years after his return in 1946, Mumford served at the company's suggestion as Chicago's housing and redevelopment coordinator, and then was sent by the Field firm to New York to look after its textile operations.

He switched to Lever Bros. in 1954 as a vice president, and advanced to president five years later.

His prime serious interest outside business is in education. He is a former trustee of Northwestern University, former chairman of the school board in his home town of Darien, Conn., and now is trustee and president of Educational Facilities Laboratories, a Ford Foundation-supported endeavor dedicated to raising physical standards of schools.

Mumford has three children, a boy, 19, and girls 14 and 1[illegible]

Review of Rail Tax Promised, Spokesman Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Railroad spokesman said Friday that President Johnson has promised the industry "fair and reasonable" review of its request for federal tax relief following settlement of the five-year-old work rules dispute.

But, emphasized J. E. Wolfe, Johnson's promise was not given in exchange for the railroads' acceptance of Wednesday's settlement in the labor dispute.

Wolfe was chief negotiator for nearly 200 railroads in the White House talks that led to settlement of the dispute over jobs, wages and working conditions of train operating employes.

Wolfe brought up the matter of tax relief several hours before the railroads accepted the labor settlement drafted by federal mediators, but he said his [illegible] with Johnson "wasn't a trade and barter session."

"I did call on the President as reported and I did emphasize the impact of this settlement, particularly on any railroads [illegible] in the red or bordering on the red," he said.

The tax review the railroads asked involves the question of depreciation on their $4-million investment in tunnels and grading.

David J. McDonald, president of the million-member union, will address the conference Wednesday afternoon. Charles J. Smith of Los Angeles, district director, will give a report on the union's growth since the last meeting two years ago.

About 300 delegates will represent 60,000 union members in 11 western states. More than 200 resolutions will be submitted to the convention.

Lt. Gov. Robert Knous will attend the opening day session.

Your Freedom Newspaper
Ever striving for the Pikes Peak Region to be an even better place to live

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is self-control, no more, no less. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Truth Is Not A Half-Way Place

It has been truly noted that when one is capable of dismissing error from one's own life he is half way on the road to truth. However, a half-way point is not a whole journey. And this bit of philosophic whimsy is peculiarly applicable when we are in the midst of trying to understand the nature of freedom.

Freedom, as has been almost universally recognized, has as a necessary and basic part of its vital ingredient the condition of non-restraint. [illegible] The man who is free is not the same man who is controlled by others.

But if a stop is made here on the assumption that a full knowledge of freedom has now been obtained, the traveler will find that he is but at a half-way point. To dismiss the constraint is not to be free. It is to be non-constrained. And freedom has a positive side as well as the negative dimension of [illegible].

When the [illegible] of freedom is first espied by the truth seeker, the most inspiring moment comes when he realizes that controls imposed upon him by others, whether for purposes of compelling him or preventing him, are contrary to his basic rights as a human being.

This thought is so exhilarating in itself that many a person who professes to be seeking liberty, disengages his mind at this point. He is then, as it were, coasting down hill.

And the breeze blowing through his hair, the marvelous vistas opening before his speeding conceptualizing, captivate his attention so thoroughly that he disregards the fact that a new hill rises before him, far more steep and hazardous than the slope down which he has sped.

But freedom is not the valley between two mountains. It can only be gained when the second summit is reached. And the toil up that forbidding and dangerous slope is a far cry from the joyful plunge from the heights of compulsion, restraint and coercion.

To understand what is implied by a real search for truth respecting freedom, we can perhaps best approach the matter through a study of the control of human energy. We know of no one who has done a better job of analyzing this quality of freedom than Rose Wilder Lane. And we pay tribute to her and her writing in "Discovery of Freedom" in what we say here.

Each human being controls his own energy. The fact is patently apparent. You and you alone can command your own muscles, your own thought processes.

But this world we live in is one that requires a larger release of human energy than any one person possesses. To live at all, and to live well and constructively, requires that human energy under your control be harnessed to human energy which is under the control of other individuals.

In short, you can't do it by yourself.

Thus, beginning in remote antiquity, men learned that they needed each other. Job specializations were developed making it possible for each person to do what he does best so that others who have diverse and different talents and abilities may be free to do what they can do best.

And at a very early age compulsion was introduced so as to compel people to unify and harmonize their energies. The unification which was needed was deemed so important that conformity and obedience to a central planner was considered the single most vital [illegible] continuing [illegible].

This process worked [illegible] destructive of freedom [illegible] produce a certain amount of goods and services that human beings must have if they are to survive.

And this reliance upon the compulsive processes continued thru the ages. It is in essence the mountain upon which we stand today. We are not free. But we are alive.

continued below

Risk

Change should not be lightly undertaken, but there has never been a great gain made without a corresponding degree of risk.

To Seek the Second Summit

To continue our analogy, we come alive into the age, to find ourselves near the top of a mountain of compulsion.

Government is enormous, pervasive.

Our cities are government run. We are born in government hospitals; are taken to government clinics, educated in government schools; trained and conditioned to love and worship the state.

We emerge with government license in hand, perform our daily chores in government approved, permitted or sponsored endeavors, are in theory protected by the government, march off to war to protect our government; are married under government auspices; are taxed to provide for our government; obtain a new job through the courtesy of our government and, in the end, are licensed again as dead and are buried in a government approved cemetery.

This is so normal a condition that whenever a question is raised as to its necessity, the questioner is adjudged to be either stupid or a dangerous radical.

But the fact is that we are not free by this process. And deeply within the heart of each man and woman is a yearning to be free. This yearning is expressed in our religious convictions; our philosophic utterings; our hopes for a better tomorrow.

The difficulty is that from the top of this mountain of compulsion we occupy, there are a hundred roads down hill. Almost any of them can be taken. But there is only one road that leads toward the second mountain that can dimly be seen from our summit. We cannot jump from our summit to the next. But in our haste to leave the summit we are on, we are all too prone to confuse our direction of exit.

Communists, for instance, have a road down hill. So do socialists. So do fascists and imperialists and others. But the highways they offer, although they are almost always wide and attractive, do not lead to the second summit. Yet, each one carries the broad sign: "Toward freedom."

But each one terminates abruptly, either at a cliff or in a valley of despond.

The road that truly leads toward the distant mountain of freedom is as attractive as any other road at the beginning. Almost any point of departure appears good at the outset.

But the road that leads upward again from the valley between our two summits, is neither broad nor well-paved. It is but a rocky lane. Only a few have traveled the route. And as the slope starts upwards again, there is a sign that says: "Travel this route only on your own responsibility." Beyond the valley you are on your own.

To revert to our discussion relating to energy, when a person decides that he does not want the government or some other agency controlling him in his goings and comings, his first reaction is one of rebellion. And it must be. He can never scale the heights of freedom by refusing to move from the summit of government protectionism and government control.

But here is the point. Freedom, in its positive aspect, is not a vehicle rolling freely down hill. It is a vehicle, operating under its own power, that is painfully and slowly progressing upwards along a narrow lane toward a new summit. Thus, freedom is not your energy out of control. It is your energy operating under your control rather than under the control of an external force.

This is the difference between freedom and license. Freedom is self-control. License is a lack of self-control. But on the downward slope away from centralized compulsion, freedom and license can readily be confused.

As the slope begins to rise once more, freedom and license cannot be confused. To gain the free heights requires enormous self-discipline. And this does not mean a discipline imposed upon others to prevent them from interfering with you. It means a self-imposed restraint to prevent you from interfering with others.

The fact is that your energy will always be controlled by someone. We are not saying this because we necessarily want it that way. That is the way it is.

To be free in a positive sense means your own control of yourself and all that you think and do. If you fail to impose these controls on yourself, it will follow inevitably that others will impose their controls on you, or will seek to do so.

Energy always operates under control. Individual human energy always operates under individual human control. To be free is not to be out of control, it is to be under your own control.

The American Way

World's Fair a Must

By RAYMOND C. BAKER

To most people American free enterprise is a nebulous thing because so few know what it is, how it operates or the vast contributions it makes to their own small world of luxury living.

During the next two years some 70 to 80 million people will learn for the first time how our profit-and-loss business system really works and why it is responsible for advancing the United States to the greatest nation on earth, with the highest standard of living known to man.

The opportunity to understand why Americans have more money in their jeans and enjoy more of the finer things of life is now afforded everyone at the greatest show ever —the New York World's Fair. On a staggering square mile of showmanship, private industry has outdone even its former self in bringing to the world the story of business' greatness, the fabulous contributions it has made to a better life and the many things it has in store for the future.

Dominated by the 140-foot high Unisphere, donated by United States Steel Corporation as the fair's symbol, are the 175 separate pavilions, structures, towers, domes, pylons and other startling fantasies of architectural boldness. Many, housing exhibits of American enterprise, not only express the nation's industrial foresight on the outside, but on the inside tell in sound, visuals, color and design the story of its progress such as never before.

There's the dramatic Electric Light and Power exhibit with its staggered prisms and 120-foot towers; the rounded dome Eastman Kodak pavilion; the International Business Machine's egg.

General Motors, which literally stole the 1939-40 World's Fair, is back again with another Futurama, the largest and most elaborate exhibit ever constructed by one company or nation, which again promises to be a "show stopper."

Then there are the Ford Motor Company pavilion with its 64 towering pylons and great glass rotunda; the familiar red umbrella of Travelers Insurance Company which appears [illegible] a fountain of water; the [illegible] Bell Telephone Company's [illegible] pavilion with a Fiberglass wing that seems to rest on air; the Festival of Gas pavilion, its roof hovering high above glass walls; General Electric's [illegible]-foot wide dome crowned with 1,000 lights that make it appear to spin in space; and many, many others.

If the visitor's eyes become exhausted from looking, his hearing dulled by listening, or if his feet just plain give out, there is the Hall of Free Enterprise. Its sponsors, the American Economic Foundation and others, say it is designed to give a clearer, better coordinated total conception of economic life under the free enterprise system than is gained from a four-year college course.

More than $1 billion have been poured into the fair to create a true-to-life picture of the past, present and future. Here on a 646-acre tract in Flushing Meadow, every American can learn what free enterprise means to him and his country.

Growing Money Crisis In Viet Nam

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — An explosive fiscal problem directly affecting the conduct of the war in South Viet Nam is being virtually ignored by the Johnson administration.

Inherited from the Kennedy administration, the growing money crisis involves the soaring exchange rate of the local currency in that strife-torn country's black market and the international money markets.

The piaster, officially pegged at 72 to the dollar by the South Viet Nam government, is being exchanged through official banking channels in Hong Kong at the inflated rate of 140 to the dollar — nearly a 100 per cent increase.

In the Saigon black market, which now involves everyone from the corner shoeshine boy to the covert money operator, the piaster is being exchanged at rates upward of 100 to the dollar.

Communist North Viet Nam authorities, quick to take advantage of the inflated exchange rates, are purchasing millions of dollars' worth of the piasters through the Chinese Communist Bank in Hong Kong and using them to finance the Viet Cong guerrilla operations against the pro-U.S. South Viet Nam troops.

Once the piasters are smuggled into South Viet Nam, the money is used to pay informers, buy rice and arms from South Viet Nam peasants, and finance other costs of spreading guerrilla warfare against the government of that strategic Southeast Asian nation.

An estimated 50 per cent of this smuggled currency is being re-exchanged within South Viet Nam for dollars at the lower pegged level, with the sound U.S. currency then being routed to Hong Kong for more purchases of the piasters at the more favorable rate.

VICIOUS CIRCLE

This round-robin money circle, which some U.S. officials believe is getting out of hand, is growing like Topsy as the U.S. increases its financial help to step up the war effort against the Communist Viet Cong.

One Agency for International Development report, covering completely different fields, warns that as high as 50 per cent of the additional U.S. air funds being pumped into South Viet Nam could be wasted unless this mounting money crisis is solved.

The AID report stresses that no government agency or official in the Johnson administration is working on this problem or pressuring the military junta in South Viet Nam to take action to control this leaping inflation.

Neither Defense Secretary McNamara nor Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge mentioned this fiscal crisis in their report on conditions in that country and recommendations on bringing that war to a successful conclusion.

Intelligence estimates now gathering dust in the Central Intelligence Agency reveal that the late President Diem was considering devaluating the piaster to check the inflation, but he was assassinated and his duly-elected government was violently overthrown before these fiscal reforms could be carried out.

Since that fateful day in the fall of 1963, neither of the two succeeding military strongmen have felt they had the popular support to make such a drastic fiscal change.

Efforts of lower-level AID authorities to get any higher-echelon action are being stymied by a dispute between State Department and Treasury officials over whose responsibility it is to bring the money crisis to the attention of the White House.

As this problem grows and rumors of new coups increase in Saigon, President Johnson again appears to be approaching another moment of truth in the war that our policy will not let us win or lose.

FOREIGN FLASHES

Algerian Premier Ben Bella will soon show his true Marxist colors. He is scheduled to be the honored guest of Soviet leaders at their big May Day celebration in Moscow. He follows Cuba's Communist Dictator Castro, who was honored in 1963. . . Fidel Castro is outflanking the U.S. trade embargo by establishing a new trade mission in Brussels. Intelligence authorities say Castro is erecting a big trade headquarters in the European Common Market "capital" as a base not only for trade with the Common Market countries, but also with Switzerland and the Scandinavian nations. West Germany has refused Castro permission for a trade mission in that country and opposed his Brussels ploy. In 1963, Castro established diplomatic relations with Communist East Germany and Bonn retaliated at once by rupturing relations with Cuba and bringing its trade to a halt. The Bonn government is backing the U.S. embargo both in reprisal for Castro's recognition of East Germany and as a matter of Western unity. . . American flagships are receiving government assistance in a new promotional effort to increase their traffic. The government is giving its blessing to "mobile trade fairs" which shipping lines are using to promote U.S. foreign trade in hopes of generating more cargo for American bottoms. The "trade fair" usually is housed on a specially outfitted ship that travels from port to port. The Commerce Department now plans to help defray some of the operating costs of the fairs. . . Alaska Senators E. L. Bartlett and Ernest Gruening have warned the White House that unless emergency aid is given Kodiak, that coastal city could be severely damaged by high tides on June 11. At that time, the tides will reach their peak — an estimated six feet above the coastline, which sank five feet during that recent earthquake. A federally-financed dike is needed to keep billions of tons of water from pouring into the city.

THE WHITEWASH

A major effort is being made by a group of State Department and Central Intelligence Agency authorities to whitewash, cover up and ridicule the disclosures made by Polish defector Colonel Michael Goleniewski, since they involve treason in both agencies. It is a well-organized campaign, with CIA officials making personal contact with members of Congress and newsmen, and telling them Goleniewski is under heavy nervous tension. Representative Michael Feighan, D-O., one of the few members of Congress who have talked to Goleniewski, reports that the Polish defector is in good health and mind, although worried that the Russians may try to kill him. A high-ranking KGB intelligence officer in Poland, Goleniewski has a "thank-you" note from former CIA Director Allen Dulles, who used considerable information supplied by the defector in his book "The Craft of Intelligence."

Latest information being "leaked" to Washington columnists by CIA officials involves the Russians' appraisal of President Johnson. It goes like this: Top Soviet officials (no names) say they do not plan to arrive at any firm judgments on the nature and intentions of President Johnson until after the American elections. The Soviets say Mr. Johnson's public pronouncements are now pointed entirely at the election and that a clear picture of him cannot be secured now."

In extending General Curtis LeMay's tenure as Air Force chief of staff until the end of the year, President Johnson turned down a recommendation by Defense Secretary Robert McNamara to replace that tough, frank-speaking general. LeMay is one of the few top military officers in the Pentagon not afraid to speak out publicly in opposing McNamara's defense decisions. . . . Early readers of this column were not startled by the late General Douglas MacArthur's reported appraisal of General Matthew Ridgway ("way at the bottom, a chameleon"). In 1952 this column published inside details of how MacArthur tried to block General Ridgway's fourth star during the Korean war. When the story was published, then-President Truman ordered a full-scale FBI investigation of how the information was obtained. According to an aide of General Omar Bradley, then chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, the investigation was concluded with a report stating "source unknown."

The Word Is Compassion

From Rocky Mountain News

What is happening to us?

Who among us is ready to respond instinctively to the need of a fellow human being caught up in desperation?

Consider these recent news stories:

Only last week, an Albany, N.Y., crowd stared from the lawn of the state capitol at a youth named Richard Reinemann pacing the narrow ledge of a hotel roof, 11 stories above.

A man offered to bet $10 that "the kid isn't faking." Another said: "I hope he jumps on this side. We couldn't see him if he jumped over there."

A woman complained she was missing her favorite television show and couldn't "wait all night. I just wish he'd get it over with."

Finally, Richard Reinemann was pulled to safety, and the crowd, disappointed, melted away.

A few weeks ago, in a respectable residential neighborhood on Long Island, Kitty Genovese, a decent woman of 28, was stalked through the streets and stabbed again and again by a man who took nearly half an hour to kill her.

During her long agony, she screamed repeatedly for help and was heard.

Later, police found 38 neighbors of Miss Genovese who admitted they witnessed the horror. Peeking from windows, they could describe the killer. But no one tried to help her or defend her. Only one person shouted a protest from a window: "Let that girl alone."

Questioned a few days later, most of the neighbors simply said they didn't want to become "involved."

That is the way Kitty Genovese died while 38 people who might have helped her, went back to bed and to sleep.

We spend our easy money on "welfare," collect statistics on prosperity and jobs, and talk about social security. What good is welfare and security in a jungle? In what direction is our civilization going, when utmost human need evokes no more response than the slaughterhouse poleax among brutish cattle in the pen?

If humankind forgets the sacredness of the individual, if we cannot see him, see that he is all of us in sudden desperate straits, needing the help of his brothers, if we huddle away from becoming "involved," we have abdicated our right to grace of being only a little lower than the angels.

We deserve no better than the worst that can come to us, and the bell has tolled for us all.

The Republicans should have thought of this long ago. But "Lyndon" beat them to it. The chief throws a fast ball when it comes to publicity. Of course, being on the mound gives him a distinct advantage. But he certainly fanned out some opposition with those headlines about junking the draft. That's what we want to hear. And, coming from the President, a statement like that should mean something. But it didn't mean a thing to me after I got past the headline reading the article.

The idea, as of now, is to have McNamara study it for a year and then maybe do away with the lousy thing in 10 years. Puh. Does the government have to resort to force in its quest for manpower? The military does not need such favors in its competition with private enterprise.

Personally, I argued vehemently against conscription when Woodrow Wilson put it in and again when F.D.R. revived it. I figured those rascals were not much less than traitors to step on my civil rights that way. The loss of those wars has not changed my opinion much yet. Of course, it's too late now to argue how things would have been without them.

'Economical' Government

By GEORGE BOARDMAN PhD

One of the standard socialist procedures involves building an argument on a statement which is invalid in the first place. For instance, you'll have to admit that an economically operated government could accomplish certain things cheaper than private enterprise which seeks a profit. If you do admit a belief in this big lie, your understanding of economics needs a powerful shot in the arm because there is nothing about government which can be classified as economical, logically.

To begin with, government has nothing. The most economical government would spend no more than it could collect from those it governed to create the facility involved and would then operate the facility on the revenue received from those using it. At first glance this seems to be a logical possibility but take another look. Since government pays no taxes, the government achieves no income from taxes on a facility which would yield an income if operated by private enterprise.

At this point, you may decide that under such circumstances, government will be able to provide a service for a cheaper price than would be possible in a private enterprise operation but at this point let's get back to the absolute fact that government has nothing to begin with. The primary function of Congress is legislative. It creates laws, levies taxes and appropriates money which belonged to the taxpayers.

Buried in my files, I have data which indicated that the cost of each bill passed was more than $50,000 not counting land and buildings or elections, without which no one would be in Congress. The cost of operating the government has risen sharply during the past couple of years. Included in the rising costs are the costs involved in collecting the money which the Congress appropriates and all of the ramifications thereof.

The next time you see a sign advertising federal government involvement in a four-mile stretch of highway, remember that the amount of money indicated bears no relationship to the total cost to the taxpayers, for reasons which I hope I have made clear.

In this connection, please notice that I am discussing a government operation designed to give the taxpayers the best possible run for their money and not the operation of the federal government as it presently exists. I contend that the best possible government operation would result in a more costly product or service than an average private enterprise operation in the same field.

At this point, the socialist conglomerate insists that the giant buying power of a properly operated government takes advantage of the theory of volume production. There is no truth in this because the red tape involved in dealing with government increases the cost to begin with. If the red tape could be reduced to nothing, volume, per se, does not necessarily reduce costs. As an absolute matter of fact, an increase in volume may, in many cases, actually increase the costs.

If government could be operated efficiently, with an absolute minimum of waste and red tape, costs would just about equal the costs of operating a private business in the same field except that all of the other costs of government, elections and so on, would be far greater than the profits generally achieved in a business operation. Even under fairly competitive conditions, this would mean that the total costs of any product or service would always be higher even in a government operation of relative efficiency.

We find, then, that the apparent cost of a product or service may seem relatively lower ONLY because the actual cost is spread over the entire taxpaying population, including those who neither want nor use the products available. If you believe people should be compelled to pay for products or services they don't want or do not use, you probably think everything is just fine and dandy because more people are paying more money for products and services they do not want and do not use than at any other time in the history of this country. If you believe, as I do, that people should pay only for services and products they want and use, we are in trouble.

Good luck and good health to you, in Freedom.

Summer: The season when children slam the doors they left open all winter.

Question Box

(We invite questions on economics and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.)

Question No. 487: "What is the estimated wealth of the United States above ground and how does it compare with our national debt?"

Answer: Value is appraised in a number of ways for specific purposes. Tax assessors employ elaborate formulas. Insurance companies often use replacement costs. But the tack this answer will take is a convenient tool of the market place — the return on real estate.

When the experienced real estate investor buys property for rental purposes, he expects to recover the purchase price plus costs in 100 months.

On an annual basis, that means he hopes to have his money back in 8 and 1-3 years if upkeep and taxes were not increased. It is this anticipation that causes him to part with his money for a period. In other words, he gauges what he is willing to pay by what the property in question will return after costs.

WHAT DOES IT RETURN?

So in estimating the value of the United States, we can examine what it returns annually in the way of goods and services. This figure is called the Gross National Product (GNP). After certain cost items are deducted, it becomes the National Income.

The National Income of the United States now is running at about $500 billion a year. A mythical investor interested "in buying the United States" — if he expected to get his money back in 8 and 1-3 years — would be willing to bid $4.2 trillion.

Now, how does this value compare with the national debt?

The national debt of the United States is given by the federal government as in the neighborhood of $306 billion. That the debt actually is much greater can easily be demonstrated.

SOCIAL SECURITY GAP

For instance, the published debt of the United States omits the vast Society Security gap of $320 billion. This gap is the difference between what is due those presently covered by Social Security ($624 billion) and the amount that the present tax level will bring in the pay toward that obligation.

Probably no person in the world has a complete idea of what the national debt totals. In 1960, National Budget Director Maurice H. Stans undertook to add up all the debts and liabilities of the federal government. He finally conceded that he could not do a complete job, but the partial list came to more than one trillion dollars (Congressional Record, Sept. 17, 1963, pages A-5831-32).

BYRD'S CALCULATION

Perhaps the person in the best position to know is Senator Harry Byrd, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee. His documented statement released on May 30, 1962, set the obligation and commitments of the federal government alone at $1.242 trillion.

This figure does not include the $74 billion in KNOWN state and local debt nor the incalculable obligations from state and local revenue bonds, unfunded state pensions, and similar obligations.

At any rate, allowing conservatively for the state and local unknowns and for the subsequent increases in the federal debt since the Byrd calculation two years ago, it seems not unreasonable to set the grand total of the national debt at not less than $1.4 trillion.

INDIVIDUAL IMPACT

Thus, the ascertainable debt of the United States is equal to one-third or 33 and 1-3 per cent of the marketable value of the country as determined by the conventional rule of thumb.

The foregoing computation necessarily is general and probably its chief value is curiosity. The real meaning of the national debt comes in the fact that the overt suffering from it is borne by those on fixed incomes. While the disruption and distortion of the economy deprives all of wealth that otherwise may have been created, the really punitive burden from the mismanagement falls on the invalids, the widows, and the orphans — those who cannot increase their dollar income during a period of inflation. The real meaning of the national debt is how it falls on the individual.

Questions are limited to general human relations questions that will improve the well-being of all mankind on this earth.

To Seek the Second Summit

To continue our analogy, we come alive into the age [illegible] find ourselves near the top [illegible] of a mountain of compulsion.

Government is enormous, pervasive.

Our cities are government run. We are born in government hospitals, are taken to government [illegible], educated in government schools, trained and conditioned to [illegible] and worship the state.

We emerge with government license in hand [illegible] daily chores in government approved, permitted or sponsored endeavors [illegible] protected [illegible] government [illegible] government [illegible] and are married under government auspices, are taxed to provide for the government, obtain a new [illegible] the courtesy of our government, and in the end are pronounced again as dead and are buried in a government approved cemetery.

This is so normal a condition that whenever a question is raised as to its necessity the questioner is adjudged to be either stupid or a dangerous radical.

But the fact is that we are not free by this process. And deeply within the heart of each man and woman is a yearning to be free. This yearning is expressed in our religious convictions, our philosophic utterings, our hopes for a better tomorrow.

The difficulty is that from the top of this mountain of compulsion we occupy there are a hundred roads down hill. Almost any of them can be taken. But there is only one road that leads toward the second mountain that can dimly be seen from our summit. We cannot jump from [illegible] summit to the next. But [illegible] have the summit [illegible] we are at [illegible] of expulsion [illegible]

[illegible] are [illegible] and others [illegible] that are [illegible] attractive [illegible] the second summit [illegible] freedom.

But [illegible] terminate abruptly either at a cliff or in a valley of despond.

The road that truly leads toward the distant mountain of freedom is as attractive as any other road at the beginning. Almost any point of departure [illegible] But the road that leads upward again from the valley [illegible] between our two summits [illegible] a rocky lane. Only a few have traveled the route. And as the slope starts upwards again there is a sign that says: "Travel this route only on your own responsibility." Beyond this valley you are on your own.

To revert to our discussion relating to energy: when a person decides that he does not want the government or some other agency controlling him in his goings and comings, his first reaction is one of rebellion. And it must be. He can never scale the heights of freedom by refusing to move from the summit of government protectionism and government control.

But here is the point. Freedom in its positive aspect is not a vehicle moving freely down hill. It is a vehicle, operating under its own power [illegible]

[illegible] impose [illegible] yourself. It [illegible] and do [illegible]. If you fail to impose these controls on yourself, it will follow inevitably that others will impose their controls on you, or will seek to do so.

Energy always operates under control. Individual human energy always operates under individual human control. The free is not to be [illegible] of control; it is to be under self control.

Father on Trial For Starving His Daughter

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — "She was just skin and bones. You could see the entire body structure — all the ribs and cheekbones. The extremities were nothing but bones," the nurse testified.

On trial, charged with involuntary manslaughter, was Donald E. Sullins, 41, accused of putting his 7-year-old daughter, Rhea Diane, on a near-starvation diet to cure a fever and cold.

The girl died March 9, 1963, of bronchial pneumonia with malnutrition listed as a contributing cause.

Sullins, a graduate engineer, is a member and former executive of the American Natural Hygiene Society, which, the prosecutor said, opposes eating anything of animal origin and considers fasting a proper treatment for childhood diseases.

An underlying principle of criminal law at issue in the case was outlined last November at a hearing by judge William Mahedy, who said:

"It touched on the basic and fundamental rights of an individual to control the life of himself and his family —whether the individual can be compelled against his will to seek medical attention which he conscientiously objects to."

Sullins' attorney argued there is no law requiring a person to seek medical attention for himself or his family.

Sullins, however, knew the danger of his acts, Dep. Dist. Atty. William H. Kennedy said at an earlier hearing, and "conducted a sadistic experiment with his daughter."

Sullins allegedly placed young Rhea Diane on a fasting diet of water and natural juices during 29 days of her 44-day illness, an autopsy surgeon, Dr. L.H. Fairchild, testified.

The nurse who described the girl's condition at the trial Thursday was Marjorie Strassburger, assistant director of nurses at the Palomar Memorial Hospital in nearby Escondido.

William L. Steinleitner, a Redondo Beach, Calif., undertaker who prepared the body for shipment to Tulsa, Okla., for burial, testified that the child was so emaciated that he had to use wax to close her lips.

Fairchild testified he believed the fasting hastened Rhea Diane's death, saying "it was quite apparent that this child had an advanced state of malnutrition — an advanced state of starvation."

Ancient Cheese Shop Is Famed Paris Sight

By TOM A. CULLEN

PARIS (NEA)—Shortly after being elected president for a fourth term, Franklin D. Roosevelt was asked what he would like to do when he retired. "I would like to open a cheese shop in Hyde Park like that kept by my friend Monsieur Adrouet in Paris," he replied.

To Pierre Androuet, proprietor of the cheese shop in question, it seems only natural that an American president should aspire to such a lofty goal. "What higher calling could a man have but to run a cheese shop?"

"Homer wrote about cheese in the Iliand," he explains. "Virgil also praised it. In fact, poets have sung the merits of cheese throughout the ages. It is no accident that Apollo, who was the god of music, was also the protector of shepherds. Naturally, we claim Apollo as our patron."

At Androuet's tiny shop near Montmartre the visitor will find a spread of cheeses fit for the gods. There are from 150 to 200 different varieties, depending upon the season.

La Maison Androuet has been a mecca for pilrims since it first opened in 1909. The late Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt seldom stopped in Paris without paying Androuet's a visit. Her autograph in the guest book is one of the shop's most treasured possessions.

Other regular customers include Queen Frederika of Greece, the Duke and Duchess of Windsor, the Prince of Bourbon-Parma, and William Bullitt, the former American ambassador to France.

Honored guests are taken down into the dank cellars below the shop where the cheeses are kept at a constant humidity. Here, enthroned on their straw mats, are the runny Camemberts from Normandy, the moldy Rouqueforts, the Bries looking like enormous tarts.

There are cheeses from sunny Provence which are delicately scented with rosemary and other herbs. And there are the Reblochons which are dark red, almost chestnut in color, which come 6,000 feet down from the Alps. In a convent in the south of France, the nuns roll the cheese in the ashes of burnt vine leaves to give their product the delicate flavor prized by Androuet's customers.

Androuet, a tubby man with rosy cheeks, would like to share these delights with Americans. Unfortunately, he is prevented from doing so by U.S. pure food laws which forbid the importation of non-pastuerized milk products as unhygienic. Exception: cheeses such as Roquefort and Swiss cheese which have been ripened for more than 60 days.

Androuet wrinkles up his nose in disgust at the mere mention of pasteurization. "Cheese that comes from pasteurized milk loses all its personality and its taste," he declares. "It's the pasteurizing wine." Most of Androuet's cheeses are made from milk.

The American ban on imported cheese did not prevent President Roosevelt from keeping the White House larders well-stocked from la Maison Androuet all during his term of office. Androuet, however, denies that the cheese as flown to Roosevelt via diplomatic pouch.

Some of France's finest cheeses were discovered by accident. Camembert, for example, was invented by a Norman peasant woman, Marie Harel, who has since become something of a national heroine.

According to legeno, Roquefort was discovered by a shepherd, who went away, leaving some bread and cheese wrapped together. When he returned weeks later to the spot where he had lunched he found that some of the spores from the mouldy bread had worked their way into the cheese. The result, he found was delicious.

'Useless' Eiffel Tower Gathers Many Honors

By ROSETTE HARGROVE

PARIS (NEA) — The "princess" of Paris, labeled useless and monstrous at her birth, is celebrating her 75th birthday literally crawling with honors.

The "princess" is, of course, the Eiffel Tower, that spidery iron structure that spells "Paris" to millions around the world as surely as the Statue of Liberty spells "New York."

On the day the tricolor first flew from her mast, March 31, 1889, a 21-gun salute was fired, the same honor given a princess. But it was some time before the 984-ft. tower won the affection of Parisians. Such famous contemporaries as Alexandre Dumas, Guy de Maupassant and Georges Clemenceau attacked her as of no use and ugly.

Today, the tower can boast of its value as a wireless and television broadcast tower and as an aid to air safety. She is also the most visited monument in France (more than 2 million persons in 1963) and a good money earner (more than $1½ million last year).

The 18,000 pieces in the tower were put together with 2½ million rivets. Designed by Gustave Eiffel, the avant-garde engineer of the third Republic, it was completed in a little more than 21 months.

First Venture Of Romantic Computer a Hit

STORRS, Conn. (AP) — Oswald, the romantic computer, did O.K. on his first venture as a matchmaker at the University of Connecticut.

He was best by difficulties — such as the girls who said they didn't want "sexually aggressive" partners and boys who did not want girls who were likely to "get serious."

But, with the help of a few humans, everything went smoothly at the dance Friday night despite a surplus of a score of males.

It was all part of an experiment by the psychology department. Questionnaires with 60 questions were offered to the student body. They were filled out by some 550 students.

Oswald—an IBM 7040 computer—then essayed to provide each student with three suitable partners for the dance.

Came the big night, the chosen students congregated in the student union ballroom and were quickly tagged and arranged by number.

"Hey, look at 427 over there. What a doll!" was a typical comment.

Jack Carlson, a senior majoring in English, was paired with 333 — a brunette graduate student also studying English literature — and 167 and 13, two blonde sophomores.

"If I could remember 333's name . . ." Carlson mused afterward. "She's older than I am —but so what!"

There were some who were hard to match in terms of the qualifications they had listed for their prospective partners. They drew zeroes for one of their three partners and had to go to a "problem desk" staffed by humans to fill out their cards, which were IBM cards punched by Oswald.

Oswald generally was successful despite requests from most males for partners better looking than they rated themselves. He was helped considerably by the ladies, 85 per cent of whom described themselves as above average in appearance.

The gallant electronic host of the evening acknowledged that he was not infallible. He signed each dance card: "Good luck—Oswald."

Soviet Says Red China Preaching Racial Prejudice

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union accused Communist China Saturday of preaching yellow racial supremacy in Asia and Africa.

The Kremlin's latest propaganda blast was aimed at Chinese Defense Minister Chen Yi who tried to bar the Soviets from a recent Afro-Asian organizational conference in Jakarta on grounds it is not an Asian nation.

"The Chinese leaders, as evident from the actions of Chen Yi, are sliding down to positions of racism which are alien to Marxism - Leninism," the Communist party newspaper Pravda said.

It pointed out that two-thirds of Soviet territory lies in Asia.

Patrol Checks Three Accidents With Injuries

Three accidents all involving injuries were reported by the state patrol Saturday.

The first happened on Colorado Highway 25 when a car driven by Primitivo Crisostomo, 63, of Denver went out of control and came to rest on its top after skidding 187 feet and rolling two and a half times.

According to State Patrolman Ken Shiflet, Crisostomo was trying to pass a truck when he lost control. The patrolman said a strong cross-wind was also partially responsible for the accident.

Doris May Whitely, 28, of Denver, a passenger, received bruises and abrasions and Lloyd Lee Whitely, two, a cut mouth while Mary Lou Whitely received a possible concusion.

All four were taken to Penrose Hospital. The car, a 1962 model, was a complete loss.

State Patrolman J. D. Morrissey said Wise was going south when he ran off the road for 117 feet as he was trying to take a right-hand curve. The vehicle came to rest on its top. Wise was transported to the Air Force Academy Hospital.

The final accident happened to Keily E. Lucas, 20, 2322 Lockhaven Rd. who was driving a tank truck containing 800 gallons of gasoline.

According to the report, he was going east on a county road about one mile east from Four Corners when he got too close to the side of the ditch on the left side. He went down into it, skidded back 210 feet across the road, did a half roll and came to rest on his top.

Gasoline was spilled all over the road and Lucas was taken to Penrose Hospital suffering from a left shoulder separation.

Malicious Mischief Reports Made

Two cases of malicious mischief were reported to the sheriff's office Friday.

The first happened at Circle Lanes, 999 N. Circle Dr., where Joel Zimmerschied, 1005 Florence Ave., had the right side and windshield of his car smashed causing $68 damage.

He told Deputy Sheriffs Bob Walters and Ray Carey that he left it at approximately 5 p.m. and discovered the damage when he returned six hours later.

The second incident was reported by Mrs. John L. McDonald, 124 Mayhurst St., who told Deputy Sheriff Larry Holien that one of the windows in her glass sliding door had been broken with what seemed to be a BB gun.

There are more than 1,970 Federal savings and loan associations.

Plaque Unveiled Named CC's New Swimming Pool

General L. Schlessman, prominent Denver businessman, Saturday night unveiled a large bronze plaque naming Colorado College's new olympic-size swimming pool the Schlessman Pool.

On hand for the ceremonies were Schlessman and members of his family who have contributed generously to the pool and the glass and brick building that houses it.

Sharing honors with Schlessman were his wife, Mrs. Florence Fabling Schlessman, his daughter, Mrs. Susan Schlessman Fredericks, and his son, Lee E. Schlessman. All four are alumni of Colorado College.

Presiding at the ceremonies was Armin B. Barney, chairman of the Board of trustees of the independent liberal arts college. Dr. Lloyd E. Worner, president of the college, spoke briefly.

The four members of the immediate Schlessman family and Mrs. Lee Schlessman were presented "lifetime passes" to the tiled pool. Gerald L. Schlessman is vice chairman of the college's Board of Trustees.

Members of the college varsity swimming team, the Palmer High School Girls Swimming Club and the high school varsity swiming team demonstrated synchronized swimming, life saving techniques, comedy diving and fancy diving.

Invocation and benediction were given by the Rev. Kenneth Burton, assistant professor of religion and minister at Shove Chapel.

Russell Nixes Compromise Jury Trial Amendment

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Richard B. Russell Saturday turned thumbs down on a compromise jury trial amendment proposed by Senate leaders to the pending civil rights bill. He said the leadership proposal is "just a mustard plaster on a cancer."

The Georgia Democrat, strategy chief for the bill's opponents, also said he thinks it "highly unlikely" that the proposal can be voted upon next week. The amendment would apply to all sections of the bill which would outlaw discrimination in voting, schools, employment, unions and public facilities.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., had been hoping for a vote on the jury trial amendment by the middle of next week. The amendment worked out by Mansfield and GOP Leader Everett M. Dirksen would guarantee a jury trial in cases of criminal contempt of court when penalties exceed a $300 fine or 30 days in jail.

Mansfield and Dirksen offered the amendment Friday as a substitute for a broader guarantee of jury trials proposed by Sen. Herman E. Talmadge, Ga. The Mansfield - Dirksen proposal was a compromise designed to meet a major objection to the bill.

Kiwanis to Lead In Canada-U.S. Goodwill Week

Members of the Kiwanis Club of Pikes Peak will play a leading role in the observance of Canada - U.S. Goodwill Week this week according to Del Toll, club president.

The local Kiwanis Club will host a group of our Canadian members of NORAD at their meeting, Thursday, for lunch.

Group Capt. Mitchell will be the speaker with a current topic and Air Vice-Marshall Lister will be an honored guest.

Toll went on to say that this will be the 41st annual celebration of the event, which is designed to focus attention on the century and a half that Canada and the United States have lived together in peace with their 3,000 miles of undefended border a constant reminder of the friendship that exists between them. Canada-U.S. Goodwill Week was originated by Kiwanis and now enjoys wide participation in both countries.

In 1923 U.S. President Warren G. Harding spoke at Stanley Park, Vancouver, British Columbia, the first American President to visit Canada while in office. The President, A Kiwanian, spoke on the friendship that both countries enjoyed.

Two years after his death, fellow Kiwanians from both sides of the border erected the Harding International Goodwill Memorial at Stanley Park. This memorial was the inspiration for thirty-four Kiwanis peace markers built in later years, all but three of which are located at principal ports of entry between the two nations.

The first of these was erected on Jan. 22, 1935 at the Ambassador Bridge between Detroit and Windsor. The three peace markers not on the border are located at Milepost 1220 on the Alaska Highway, at Mount Eisenhower in the Canadian Rockies, and in Washington, D.C.

Each bears the following inscription: "This unfortified Boundary Line between the Dominion of Canada and the United States of America should quicken the remembrance of the more than a century old friendship between these two countries - a lesson of peace to all nations."

This year Canada - U.S. Goodwill Week begins today, the anniversary of the signing of the Rush-Bagot agreement in 1817.

This agreement is the sole legal basis for 3,000 miles of unfortified boundary. It virtually demilitarizes the boundary between the United States and Canada by calling for a limitation of naval vessels on the waterways between the countries and instructing those vessels which are deemed necessary to interfere in no way with the peaceful passage of merchant ships of either country.

This agreement can be terminated by a simple six months' notice on the part of either signer.

Canada-U.S. Goodwill Week observances are designed to reaffirm and to further build upon the friendships that exist between the two great countries.

Tips May Help to Ease Trials During Moving

NEW YORK (UPI) — Getting set to change home, sweet home sites? If you are, you're among the 41 million persons who will move sometime this year.

This estimate comes from industry sources who say the peak moving months are May through October. The peak month is August.

The most important step to painless moving begins when the sales - estimator from the moving company knocks at the door, say experts for one major carrier, Atlas Van - Lines Inc.

The estimator comes not only to give the family an idea of how much it will cost to move, but to offer suggestions for making the job easier.

There is no obligation for an estimate. In fact, says the carrier, invite at least two moving companies to send representatives to your house, so you can compare prices.

First objective of the estimator is to survey the house to determine what moving involves. Accompany him on the tour, say the experts. Show him everything you plan to move whether it is in the basement, garage or closets.

In case of a long distance move, the cost estimate will be based on weight of household goods and the mileage. The basic tariff rate formula for long distance moves is governed by the Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC) and does not vary among major carriers. ICC regulates the method of computing estimates and even the costs of services such as packing and insurance.

Atlas said failure to present the estimator with all the facts on what is to be moved is the most common cause of inaccurate estimates.

Ask the estimator's advice on questionable items. The cost of moving an old trunk or furniture no longer used may be more than it is worth. Clear out old books, magazines and odds and ends which have collected over the years. Ask about charges for professional packing of breakables — china, glassware, lamps — and of clothing. The pros pack suits and dresses in specially constructed wardrobes at a saving in cleaning and pressing bills later.

Save money by packing linens, beddings, books and other non-breakables yourself. If you insist on doing any or all of the packing, the mover will rent or sell you special cartons.

Leave in dresser drawers the things normally kept in them except jewelry and unprotected breakables. But don't store in drawers heavy items which normally do not belong there.

About insurance. If you do not know the value of household goods and personal effects, one typical guide is to figure $1.50 per pound. The estimator may advise special insurance to cover heirlooms, art objects and irreplaceable glassware, china and sterling. Remember, the mover's liability for cargo is limited by law.

Should you require storage in a long distance move, the sales estimator can tell whether it's better to store the goods at the point of origin or destination pending acquisition of a new house. Transit insurance automatically covers household goods for 60 days in storage in addition to hauling time.

Moving locally — across the street or across town — is a different estimating story. Then the estimate will depend on the number of hours it will take the moving men. Or, some local movers may quote a flat charge covering moving time and mileage.

Weight Alone Does Not Make Blanket Warm

JOLIET, Ill. (UPI) — Weight does not make a blanket warm, says Mrs. Anne Sterling, director of consumer relations, the American Institute of Laundering.

A good blanket is relatively light, she said, and prevents the escape of body heat by means of insulating air cells in the nap.

When buying blankets examine the nap because excessive napping will weaken the yarn and lessen the blanket's durability. Choose one of good depth which is even and springy to the touch and does not shed when brushed with a hand.

Blankets of all virgin wool will retain their warm qualities and high nap resiliency through the years. A cotton and wool blend will be warm if the nap is made largely of wool.

Some of the newer blankets are made of rayon combined with wool or cotton. This combination adds softness and luster to the blanket, but after a number of launderings, the warmth retaining qualities will decrease, she said.

Gen. Stilwell Chief of Staff In Viet Nam

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department said Thursday night that Maj. Gen. Richard G. Stilwell has been named chief of staff of the U.S. Military Assistance Command in South Viet Nam.

Stilwell succeeds Marine Maj. Gen. Richard G. Weede, who will return to Washington next month for duty at Marine Corps headquarters.

Stilwell, 47, has been assistant chief of staff or operations in the military assistance command in South Viet Nam since April 1963. He is not related to the late Gen. Joseph (Vinegar Joe) Stilwell, World War II commander in Burma. Gen. Joseph Stilwell's son, Brig. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell, also is in Viet Nam as head of the U.S. Army support command.

Staff at White House Is Being Blended by LBJ

By BRUCE BIOSSAT

WASHINGTON (NEA) —President Lyndon B. Johnson's determined effort to weave together his own staff and the major White House holdovers from the John F. Kennedy regime is yielding imperfect results. But the blend works surprisingly well in a time of changing power and personalities.

First-hand inquiry among key members of the White House circle discloses this to be the situation a third of a year after Johnson took over from the assassinated president.

The White House is not a place of warring Johnson and Kennedy camps, despite recurring reports to the contrary.

"The people who spread these stories never come and ask me what I think," says one highly respected Kennedy holdover.

The four top Johnson insiders —alter Jenkins, Bill Moyers, George Reedy and Jack Valenti —enjoy the high regard of the first-rank Kennedy men, who credit them with exemplary behavior toward the holdovers.

"If there is any firing at us," adds another of the latter, "I'm convinced it does not come from those fellows."

The high - echelon holdovers, with very limited exception, feel they are being used effectively and fully and are being drawn candidly into the new President's inner councils on a continuing basis.

As far as can be judged, the attempted blend begins to falter at middle-echelon level. From here come the complaints of poor communication with the President, of the need to "negotiate" entry into his presence, of crippling ignorance as to Johnson's thinking from day to day.

"Johnson does not play on the big console of the many minds around the White House as Kennedy did," says a middle-echelon staff man.

This group's feeling of not being used to capacity, of being left in the dark to the detriment of its effort, accounts in part for the reports of "low White House morale."

Some close - in sources, including an administration official with good lines into the presidential establishment, believe it is highly misleading, however, to say that morale is low generally among the Kennedy men.

They prefer to say simply that an inevitable letdown has occurred as result of the young president's death. Even today, it is said, moods of severe depression now and then afflict some in the Kennedy circle.

In one man's view, the sudden wrench of last November's tragedy has bred in some of these men a "sense of alienation" which makes it difficult for them to embrace wholly the new president and his different ways.

"It's no one's fault," says an official. "It has nothing to do with liking or not liking Johnson. It's just that things are not the same."

Johnson himself appears keenly aware of this circumstance. He has not rested with telling former Kennedy aides, convincingly and often, that he needs their help. He has brought many of them into presidential social life with a fullheartedness they evidently welcome.

The late John Kennedy drew a much sharper line between his public and private existence. Few of his associates ever saw him after hours.

O'Donnell has turned from appointments work to heavy stress on politics. The President has charged him with crucial groundwork in the big California political battleground. Otherwise, the work of these men goes on mostly as before. Despite Johnson's celebrated telephone marathons, O'Brien labors harder than ever at congressional liaison.

Talk that the "Johnson men are really taking over" is put down as foolishness by White House people. Generally, both holdovers and newcomers are doing what they were doing back in December and January. For White House work, the limited in background and range.

The President recently named to his staff Horace Busby, one of his long-time "outside" consultants, and a Negro attorney, Hobard Taylor of Detroit. The latter will work with Feldman as associate special counsel. Busby will handle a variety of chores, but not necessarily his specialty—speech-writing.

Johnson badly needs a skilled speech writer and idea man to replace Theodore Sorenson, the one really damaging loss among the four "Kennedy departures" thus far. Speech work has been farmed out to a variety of persons, with somewhat unsatisfactory results.

Johnson clearly looks most to the "big boys" in the Kennedy White House group, to cabinet veterans like Defense Secretary McNamara, Secretary of State Rusk, Treasury Secretary Dillon, to such trusted, experienced outsiders as Abe Fortas, James Rowe, Clark Clifford, Economic adviser Walter Heller and Budget Director Kermit Gordon command perhaps more of his time than they did of John Kennedy's.

But is is this very emphasis on the leading lights that produces discontent at the middle echelon. Men in this category try to close their "information gap" by pumping the first-rank officials. Yet these latter resist the process.

As one puts it, "after you have been in a long, candid chat with the President, you don't feel easy about categorizing for others what he has said."

The "out - of - touch" insiders sometimes broaden their complaint. One says the White House is at once losing tone and narrowing its focus—actually doing less. He explains:

"No forward - looking programs beyond present legislation are being developed. And there are no 'anchor men' such as Kennedy used to give direction to the departments and agencies, and to settle their disputes."

Such discontents as these may produce more White House resignations. Nevertheless, the basic Kennedy - Johnson amalgam seems destined to withstand the hard strains of transition for some time to come.

Nerve Gas Like Atomic Bomb; Produced by U.S.

By JAMES R. POLK

NEWPORT, Ind. (AP)—In a cloistered complex of buildings on a hill in western Indiana, the United States brews and bottles one of war's deadliest weapons.

It is nerve gas, a stealthy assassin that is odorless, tasteless and virtually invisible. A drop, breathed or soaked into the skin, can kill.

At the end of an assembly line laced with 40 miles of pipes, the liquefied gas is poured into rockets, land mines and artillery shells—destination secret.

The facility, housed in a former atomic energy installation now known as the Newport Chemical Plant, is the nation's major supply center for nerve gas. It has been in operation 24 hours a day for three years.

Details on the gas are secret, but a plant official describes it as "hundreds of times more toxic" than any commercial chemical.

An Army publication says only that the gas can "cause death within four minutes." A congressional report says less than a minute's exposure can kill.

The Army handbook says the nerve gas is so potent that, delivered even only on a small scale, its effect can approach that of nuclear weapons.

"This stuff here was originally developed as an insecticide," says a vice president of the FMC Corporation which operates the plant under a government contract.

The chemicals which from the nerve gas are mixed and boiled in a plumber's nightmare of pipes, furnaces, pumping towers and reaction vats. At one point the product looks like frozen milk.

In a separate building, the gas is pumped into rockets and other munitions by automatic equipment in a sealed compartment.

The equipment fills the rocket, X-rays it to measure the contents, rinses and dries it, and checks for leaks.

From Newport, the rockets and artillery shells are shipped in "normal Army supply channels," says Lt. Col. William J. Tisdale, officer in charge at the plant. He will say no more.

"Everything we have here we would like for the public to know, but we don't want the Russians to know," Tisdale explains.

The nerve gas is dispersed in a spray when its carrier explodes. It kills by attacking the body's cholinesterase, substance transmitting nerve signals for muscles to expand.

When this fluid is crippled, muscles continue to constrict and the body strangles its own vital organs. There is an antidote, atropine, but it must be injected quickly, and the gas gives no warning.

Manufacture is inexpensive. The Newport operation spends about $3½ million annually—less than the cost of one jet bomber.

The United States operates other chemical production facilities at Edgewood, Md., Pine Bluff, Ark. and Denver. Technicians are working on psychochemicals, which can cause panic or complete uncoordination of the senses without killing.

The 300 civilian FMC employes who make the nerve gas come largely from towns and cities in a 30-mile radius north of Terre Haute, Ind. The site was chosen in part because "there are more skilled and unskilled workers in this area than there are jobs," says Tisdale.

Workers must survive a battery of tests ranging from FBI inquiries to psychological exams. Probably the toughest test is the medical examination—workers must be almost perfect physically, Tisdale says.

From Route 63, three miles south of Newport, the plant looks like an abandoned infantry camp with aging yellow, wooden barracks near the fences. The jungle of pipes looks like a giant children's playground maze.

Inside the 10-story concrete tower where the final stage of the chemical process takes place, workers don gas masks and airtight suits to check equipment and take samples every 90 minutes.

When they come out, the testers must pass through three showers. They undergo blood checks periodically to detect any minute exposure.

Most of the waste gases are burned. The rest is buried in a granite-lined natural reservoir more than a mile underground.

The plant includes a complete hospital. Ten per cent of the operating budget is spent on safety. There has never been a plant fatality.

Contrary to popular belief, the United States is not bound by any treaties forbidding the use of nerve gas.

Tisdale describes the Newport operation simply as "a race to stay ahead of any aggressor so he won't be tempted."

IT'S OFF TO GRETNA GREEN

GRETNA GREEN, Scotland (AP) — When Robert Hastings, registrar at Gretna Green, performed his 2000th marriage in five years, it was no runaway couple that exchanged vows before him. It was his own niece who lives only 35 miles from Gretna.

Pretty brunette Audrey Scott, 19-year-old shop assistant, stood on the spot where thousands of runaways from all over the world have found happiness when she wed 20-year-old Robert Murphie, also a shop assistant.

But they had arranged to be married there so that her uncle could perform the ceremony, and 30 relatives and friends were there, too.

After the register was signed, Hastings gave Audrey a golden replica of the famous blacksmith's anvil over which Gretna marriages formerly were solemnized.

Said Hastings, one of Britain's busiest registrars: "I was very honored to be asked to conduct this wedding. She is the first relation I have ever married."

Sarah Tripped Into Success on Two Left Feet

By DICK KLEINER

NEW YORK (NEA) — The secret of success—get yourself kicked out of schools, fail to everything you attempt, be awkward and then try acting.

That is the road to the top which has been taken by Sarah Miles. She has become a big star in England and is on the way to that status here, on the wings of her chillingly sexy portrayal in "The Servant."

"I'm from a reasonably wealthy family," Miss Miles says. "But I was rebellious as a child. I got kicked out of the best schools. I don't know how my mother stood me—I was so bad.

"I never thought about acting. Actually I was never good at anything. Whatever I tried, I failed. When I was 14, after all those schools, I thought perhaps I could be a ballet dancer. But I was awkward—my feet were mis-shaped or something.

"The ballet school also had a drama school, so I tried that. Nobody else was any good, so I won all the medals. And that's how I became an actress."

Her lithe figure and saucily provocative face propelled her into sexy parts. Now she would like to drop them, at least for a time.

"I don't want to be typecast," she says. "But I don't want to play a lady or an ingunue—that would be dracky."

(She uses English slang, such as "dracky," which means "duller than dull," and words like "poofy" and "camp," which she won't define and could very easily be nasty.

"Now I'm known as England's new sex symbol," Sarah says. "Isn't that a giggle?"

Canadian television is better than U.S. television if you judge by quantity of original dramatic programs. Donald Davis, the fine Canadian actor who has appeared on both, is the authority for the comparison.

Davis is now on Broadway in "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" But he still has time for an occasional television date, such as appearance on The Defenders and The Nurses.

"Canadian television has more drama and better drama than U.S. television," Davis says.

"We have 30 - minute, one-hour and 1½ - hour shows. All or most of them are originals. I think one reason for them is that television in Canada operates with a government subsidy. They don't have to worry about high ratings."

Davis is a Canadian, the son of a wealthy Newmarket tanner and a Romany gypsy mother. Although his mother died when he was a month old, he still keeps up with some of his gypsy relatives. Among these is great-aunt Flossie, who is called Madame Curl, and runs a fortune-telling booth on the boardwalk at Blackpool, England.

He knew his gypsy grandmother well, throughout his childhood. But one thing she would never do was tell his fortune, although she was reputed to be a whiz.

"The only thing she would tell me," Davis recalls, "is that I was going to grow up to be prime minister, or else that she could see in the cards that I was going upstairs to wash my hands. Gypsies won't tell the fortunes of anyone they are related to. They call it 'reading blood,' and they just won't do it."

The first musical harps were played in Syria. The instrument was later found in England and Wales as early as the 10th century.

Beatles Begin to Shoot First Feature Movie

By TOM A CULLEN

LONDON (NEA) — "People tell me I can put the Beatles in a cornball film and still make a million dollars. But, honestly, I wouldn't sleep nights."

The scene is the interior of a derelict London theater, where the Beatles are shooting sequences for their first feature-length film. Walter Shenson, California born producer, is explaining why he is taking so much trouble to make this movie a success.

"It would be sacrilege to give the Beatles anything but the best," says Shenson. "Sacrilege," he repeats.

Outside, a gaggle of girls—none of whom looks more than 14—press their faces against the glass doors of the theater. No Greek chorus of demented furies ever howled more convincingly.

"We want the Beatles," they scream, as they beat on the doors.

On-stage, and mercifully cut off from the howls and screams, two of the Beatles—Ringo and Paul — are getting ready to do a scene for the film. Chorus girls, whose attire consists chiefly of ostrich plumes in their hair, hover in the background. The director shouts "Silence" and the cameras begin to turn.

In the half-darkened auditorium the remaining two Beatles watch the filmmaking with bored expressions on their faces.

"They find out where we are by smell," John Lennon, the oldest of the Beatles (he is 23), comments after the scene has been shot. He is trying to explain how it is that half of London's schoolgirl population knows where the Beatles will be almost before the boys know themselves.

"No, they use radar," George Harrison, the soulful-looking Beatle, chimes in. "They have special wristwatch radar sets tuned to our wave band."

Both of the boys look tired, as though they could use a little of the Miami sunshine which they enjoyed briefly in February.

Even though the Beatles are temporarily out of the public eye while they make their film, they are still virtually prisoners of their fame. They are smuggled into and out of the theater by back passages in order to avoid being mobbed. They cannot dine in public or go to a movie for fear of being recognized and creating riots.

Instead, a private theater has been turned over to them for their use. Here in the evenings they sit around with friends watching such films as "Tom Jones" and "From Russia With Love."

This enforced seclusion has produced one unexpected bonus. The Beatles start work at 8:30 every morning.

"Getting the Beatles out of bed was one of our major problems," producer Shenson explains. "The boys are used to working or frolicking most of the night, and then sleeping until two o'clock in the afternoon. The 8:30 routine has meant a complete revolution in their lives."

Carson Chemists Prepare Program For Pupils

Sixth graders in Franklin School, North Circle Drive, learned about science in the Army in a program especially prepared for them by the Ft. Carson Chemical Office.

Maj. John E. Stenger, post and division chemical officer, and three of his experts, talked to the sixth grade science classes studying chemistry Monday on "Science in the Army," how science is working with the Army and how the Army is assisting in scientific pursuits.

Maj. Stenger in his introduction, told how Army scientific discoveries have been utilized in improving civilian life, especially in such areas as protection against chemical warfare.

Staff Sgt. Ronald Baranowski talked on "What's All This Jazz About Fallout?" in a speech telling about the instruments available for radiation measurement.

Capt. Joseph Mason, assistant chemical officer, spoke on "Don't Bug Me", telling the application of biology to the armed forces. He showed the Walt Disney film, "Defense Against Invasion", depicting the functions of vaccination and inoculation against disease and infection.

Lt. Johnny Rudd, commander of the 33rd Chemical Detachment, discussed chemistry and the armed services in a speech called "Mustard Not For Hot Dogs."

A program similar to this was presented recently for the Ft. Carson Junior High School. Maj. Stenger also gave talks on crucial Civil War campaigns before Fountain - Ft. Carson High School history classes.

Snyder Exhibit To Open at Art Center

An exhibition of 12 works of sculpture and relief painting by Herman Snyder, instructor in art at Colorado College, will open May 3 at the Colorado Springs Fine Arts Center.

The one-man show, open to the public without charge, will remain on view until June 1. A reception for the artist will be held at 4 p.m. Sunday in the Fine arts Center.

This marks the fifth one-man show the Colorado College artist has held in the past year. His most recent show was in March at Doane College in Nebraska, where he also lectured.

Snyder, who says he is "especially interested in those forms which reveal to me elemental and primeval feelings," has been a member of the faculty at Colorado College since September of 1961. He previously taught at Arizona state University.

The sculptor's work is held in high regard by his colleagues at the independent liberal arts college.

"Snyder's sculpture does not simply stand passively in a room, but displays itself prominently," says Gerald Eager, assistant professor of art history at Colorado College.

"The works all taller or wider than life size, and so in stature are somewhat like people that we have admired or feared — like a mother or father as they might appear to a child," says Professor Eager.

"Moreover, the elements within the works are all larger than our hand can comfortably grasp," the art historian says.

Professor Eager goes on to say that Snyder's "sculpture seems to stand exposed before us, both in that the making procedure has been kept unconcealed, and in that an effect of transparency has been variously created."

Among the works of sculpture to be included in the exhibition are the Egg Tree, Cube Tree, Anatomical, Brain Tree, Ball Tree and Cube Tree II.

Morton Says LBJ Spending, Not Saving

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson administration is talking economy and spending lavishly, Sen. Thruston B. Morton, R-Ky., said Friday.

Morton, chairman of the senatorial Republican Campaign Committee, joined Sen. Gordon Allott, R-Colo., in a program recorded for Colorado television stations.

Asked to name the main issues in the coming political campaigns, Morton said, "This economy talk will have to be shown up and we will have to make an issue of it."

". . . Very few Americans," Morton said, "realize that President Johnson is spending more than $2 million a day more than President Kennedy spent.

"We, as a party, must bring this sharply into focus and to the attention of the American people."

Morton said other issues include the farm situation, beef imports, unemployment and foreign relations.

"In spite of all the talk of war on poverty and this, that and the other," Morton said, "we must remember that there are more unemployed than ever . . . it seems to be still mostly talk."

Allott said "the American people were led down a primrose path in the 1960 election, led to believe that the United States had lost prestige in the last three years in our foreign affairs than we've ever lost in any previous 100 or 150 years of our existence."

Water-Ski Boat Scores Success as Manila Bus

By R. E. STANNARD JR.

MANILA (UPI) — The hydrofoil has come to the Philippines and the latest thing in commuter travel is to catch the bus that water-skis across Manila Bay.

Every 50 minutes from sunrise until after midnight the 75-seat "flying fish" glides away from its town terminal, rises five feet and skims across the bay at 35 miles an hour like a gigantic water bug.

This hydrofoil is a 56 - ton passenger craft that combines the speed of a racer with the padded comfort of an airline cabin. It rides on subsurface fins which lift the flat-bottomed aluminum hull clear out of the water when it picks up speed.

Planing across the surface with a minimum of drag, the hydrofoil cuts water travel time 75 per cent below conventional voyages.

Hydrofoil commuter service was introduced in Manila by the Tourist Hotels and Travel Corporation and now ferries about 1,800 passengers a day between Manila and outlying communities around Manila's 30-mile wide bay.

Most of the traffic is on the 22 daily runs to Sangley Point Naval Base and the neighboring town of Cavite. The trip, which used to take 45 minutes to an hour by land or navy ferry, now is made in less than 15 minutes.

THTC spokesman Jose A. Calvo, assistant executive director, says many of his regular customers leave their cars parked at the terminal so they can step into them and drive away when they get back.

The Sangley Point run costs about 30 cents. The twice-a-day run to Limay, on the Bataan Peninsula, is $1.40.

The longest and most expensive trip is a half-day jaunt to the island fortress at Corregidor at the entrance to Manila Bay, 29 miles away. For $6.25 the sightseer gets 50 minutes on the water each way and a guided tour of the historic rock where more than 13,000 Americans and Filipinos held off the Japanese for five months after Pearl Harbor.

The Corregidor tour, which leaves after breakfast every morning, draws capacity crowds on weekends but runs half-empty during the week.

Calvo estimates between 100 and 150 persons use the Limay service every day, and 1,600 travel daily between Manila, Sangley Point and Cavite.

The hydrofoils used here are $280,000 vessels powered by 1350 horsepower Mercedes-Benz diesel engines. They are 68 feet long, draw nine feet of water at rest, cruise at 35 mph with a range of 200 miles, are equipped with ship-to-shore radio. One has radar for night travel.

They are operated by a captain, an engineer, four sailors and, on the tourist tour to Corregidor, a comely stewardess in uniform.

The main attractions are speed and comfort. Rates are two or three times the bus or ferryboat fare, but the hydrofoil is about four times as fast.

The safety factor is also good. Two tons of foam plastic padding lining the light hull makes the unconventional craft virtually unsinkable. If the water gets too rough (waves over five feet), the ship slows down and plows along like any other ship in the bay.

Long term plans for the water-skiing bus look to linking other island areas in Mindanao in the far south, and Mindoro Island just south of Luzon. It's the answer to the sea - going commuter's prayer.

Sarah Tripped Into Success on Two Left Feet

By DICK KLEINER

NEW YORK (NEA) — The secret of success—get yourself kicked out of schools, fail to everything you attempt, be awkward and then try acting.

That is the road to the top which has been taken by Sarah Miles. She has become a big star in England and is on the way to that status [illegible] wings [illegible] sexy portrayal in "The Servant."

"I'm from a reasonably wealthy family," Miss Miles says. "But I was rebellious as a child. I got kicked out of the best schools. I don't know how my mother stood me—I was so bad.

"I never thought about acting. Actually I was never good at anything. Whatever I tried I failed. When I was 14, after all those schools, I thought perhaps I could be a ballet dancer. But I was awkward, my feet were mis-shaped or something.

"The ballet school also had a drama school, so I tried that. Nobody else was any good, so I won all the medals. And that's how I became an actress."

Her lithe figure and saucy provocative face [illegible] into sexy parts. Now she would like to [illegible] them, at least for a time.

"I don't want to be typecast," she says. "But I don't want to play a lady or an ingenue—that would be dracky."

(She uses English slang such as "dracky," which means "duller than dull," and words like "poofy" and [illegible] which she won't define and [illegible] easily [illegible].)

"Now I'm known as England's new sex symbol," Sarah says. "Isn't that a giggle?"

Canadian [illegible] better than U.S. [illegible] if you judge by quality [illegible] dramatic programs. Donald Davis, the fine Canadian actor who has appeared in both, is the authority for the comparison.

Davis is now on Broadway in "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf." But he still has time for an occasional television date, such as appearance on The Defenders and The Nurses.

"Canadian television has more drama and better drama than U.S. television," Davis says. "We have [illegible] minute [illegible] hour and [illegible] shows. A [illegible] for most of them are [illegible]. I think one reason for this is that television in Canada operates with a government subsidy. They don't have to worry about high ratings."

Davis is a Canadian, the son of a wealthy Newmarket farmer and a Romany gypsy mother. Although his mother died when he was a month old, he still keeps up with some of his gypsy relatives. Among these is great-aunt Plossie, who is called Madame Curl, and runs a fortune-telling booth on the boardwalk at Blackpool, England.

He knew his gypsy grandmother well throughout his childhood. But one thing she would never do was tell his fortune, although she was reputed to be a witch.

APRIL: CANCER
DETECTION MONTH

Cancers originate as a rule on the surface of some tissue, such as the skin, or in the lining of the mouth, stomach, intestine, or bronchial tube. Other examples include the lining of the uterus or a duct in the breast or prostate gland.

Only one cell is involved at first but it reproduces itself by dividing into two cells, then into four, eight, etc. No one knows how the cell becomes malignant, although a virus may enter it and change the chromosomes.

Initially, the lesion is too small to see except with a microscope. In time, a mass or tumor forms that is large enough to see or feel. The disease is curable so long as it remains confined to the source. The chance of survival is lessened when cancer cells extend into the neighboring areas or become detached and reach other parts of the body. It is surprising how few of these cells survive in the blood after leaving the original tumor. They need nourishment to live and must attach themsllves to other tissues.

Cancer cells may drop off the outer surface of the tumor and mix with the secretions of the involved organ. Those in the uterus, for example, are shed into the cervical and vaginal secretions. This is the rationale behind the annual Pap smear done on women. The secretions are studied under the microscope; when cancer cells are noted, the test is positive.

The mortality rate of uterine cancer has declined 50 per cent during the last 25 years and it is believed many more lives could be saved if the Pap smear were done routinely.

The cure rate of cancer of the skin is 97 per cent. Malignancies of the stomach are not as easy to recognize. The majority are not detected until it is too late. This explains why the death rate is so high in this type of cancer.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self - addressed envelope accompanies request.

Small Boy

Mrs. A. H. writes: My son in grade school, is small for his age. I'm afraid this will keep him from getting a job. Is there a pill I can give him?

Reply

Let nsture takes its course, if your son is otherwise healthy. Most boys have their growth spurt in high school. Furthermore, the only job that requires great height is professional basketball.

Upturned Lobes

Mrs. O. writes: My 4-month-old daughter was born with turned up ear lobes. Can this condition be cured by minor surgery?

Reply

Possibly, but your physician is in a better position to say whether a major or minor procedure is necessary to correct this defect.

Heredity and Diabetes

F. D. writes: My sister is pregnant. She has been a diabetic since the age of 18 and fears the baby will inherit the disease. What are the chances?

Reply

One in four, if her husband does not have diabetes. But why worry? Your sister seems to be doing well in controling the disease.

Proteins and Liver

M. G. writes: Can eating too much protein affect the liver adversely?

Reply

No. The liver thrives on protein and carbohydrates.

'Round and 'Round

All-Purpose Party Honors Active Son

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — There was plenty to celebrate at the party Mr. and Mrs. Lauer Mather gave at the Portage Country Club—a wedding, two birthdays and a retirement.

The affair honored the Mathers' son John and his recent bride, and it also marked the elder Mather's birthday the day before, and his son's birthday, which fell the day after the party. In addition, Mather was celebrating his retirement as manager of a Wall Street firm's local branch.

Computer Course Students Finish At Ent Air Base

A class of 17 students recently completed a four-week course in programming for the IBM 705 III Computer at Ent Air Force Base. The students were personnel assigned to the directorate of Data Processing in Headquarters Air Defense Command.

The intensified course of training conducted by Hal Colby, ADC; IBM representative, consisted of basis programming procedures for the ADC computer with emphasis on COBOL (Common Business Oriented Language).

Upon completion of the course the students were immediately put to work writing programs for the computer under the supervision of experienced programmers.

The recent programming school was the third class of its kind conducted locally in the past six months. This class joins 45 earlier graduates who received the same training.

Prior to establishing the training locally it was necessary to send trainees to either computer manufacturers courses or to Air Force schools. Conducting the training locally has proved most successful, with a significant savings in temporary duty and travel funds.

The estimated savings in training some 60 programmers and computer operators in the past six months is approximately $27,000. Besides the conservation of funds, the students like the local school which causes no separation of family and resultant inconveniences.

The students who completed the program are Airman 2. C. Gordon C. Johnson, Airman 2. C. Leo U. McMann, M.Sgt. Eugene H. Read, Airman 1.C. Roger I. Bastian, SM.Sgt Vincent P. Cordoza, Airman 2.C. Richard D. Boise, Mrs. Julia Wollenweber, Airman 3.C. King R. Stults, Airman 2.C. Robert E. Lucas, Airman 3.C. James M. Bennes, M.Sgt Wesley D. Rolfe, Airman 2.C. Harvey J. Buss, S. Sgt Robert J. Swetavage, Airman 3.C. Remmel M. Wilson, S. Sgt. Frank Fuentes, Airman 1.C. Winston B. Cope, and Airman 1.C. Martin Kaplan.

Good Listener Failed To Listen Closely

MEMPHIS (AP) — This exchange between two friends who attended a party together at a Memphis home recently helps affirm the opinion that nobody really hears what's said at a reception:

"My," said one of the guest of honor, "Isn't she a brilliant conversationalist?"

"No doubt," replied her friend dryly. "In her own language. Didn't you know she can't speak a word of English?"

Bacteria Classified By Special Teams

DELAWARE, Ohio (AP) — Samples of moldlike streptomycete bacteria, used in antibiotic are being received at Ohio Wesleyan University, freeze - dried and distributed to laboratories in 18 nations.

The project, centered here under a $50,500 National Science Foundation grant, is aimed at having independent scientific teams—using the same methods—reclassify the approximately 600 species of bacteria, many of which basically are the same.

College and University Enrollment Rise Seen

NEW YORK (UPI) — American college and university enrollment, which hit a record 4.5 million in the fall of 1963, is expected to reach 8.6 million by 1975, a 91 per cent increase, according to the National Industrial Conference Board.

Veteran Group Operate Urban Treatment Sites

In line with the President's mental health program and with recent legislation, the Veterans Administration is operating centers in urban areas that offer a wide range of treatment and services to meet the needs of psychiatric patients.

The VA made this announcement as the country's observance of National Mental Health Week, gets underway this week.

Just about every practical tool developed in psychiatric research has been incorporated into some phase of the combined hospital-outpatient services program, according to Dr Paul M. Ireland, Director of the VA hospital in Denver.

In the hospitals are intensive treatment in-patient areas. Here the full hospital regimen is available, with the treatment programs being enhanced by research and clinical support of medical schools.

In the out-patient service are supporting programs, some of them by law restricted to veterans whose mental illness resulted directly from military service.

There are Mental Hygiene Clinics with services available to veterans with service-connected disabilities.

Several hospitals have a Day Treatment Center to which veterans may come while bridging the gap between hospitalization and return to community life.

For the non - service - connected veteran, a form of out-patient service has been developed within some hospitals known as Continued Bed Occupancy Care. The veteran quits the hospital but returns periodically for a period of treatment limited to one year for medication or psychotherapy.

An integral part of the program is the Social Work Service, which must counsel and supervise the veteran once he leaves his hospital bed.

Many former patients require continued medication and receive prescriptions during the year. These prescriptions are filled at the out-patient pharmacy or in the veterans' home towns and paid for by VA.

In this way, VA has kept veterans on the job, restored them to their families as competent members of the community, and made more hospital beds available for intensive treatment.

The Day Treatment Centers which the VA has developed in recent years assist former mental patients in making the often difficult transition from hospital to community life.

Newly discharged patients sometimes have difficulty with strangers or members of their own family. Insecure, they cannot accept jobs or even approach employers. Too often, they return to home situations where conflicts which had contributed to their breakdown still exist.

To counteract this, the VA developed the Day Treatment Center where former mental patients may join in social activities, take part in workshop programs in woodworking, watch and radio-TV repair, etc., or benefit from art and painting therapy or music.

Twenty four such VA Day Treatment Centers are now in operation in urban locations.

It all adds up to a modern approach to mental illness which is helping to empty hospital wards and return the patients to their communities.

LBJ Greeted By Noise, Color In Chicago

By FRANCES LWEINE

Six-thousand applauding guests joined the President and his wife Thursday night at a $100 a plate filet mignon feast expected to bring the party one-half million dollars.

When the dinner was over, Johnson's departing motorcade got a fireworks sendoff.

Mayor Richard J. Daley and his Cook County Democrats had whipped up the welcome with gaily colored printed signs that followed the Johnsons wherever they stopped, with such sentiments as "All the way with LBJ" and "Chicago welcomes Mr. Johnson," and "Thanks Mr. President."

Johnson declared it was the biggest democratic dinner he had ever attended. And, from the signs, he predicted Chicago and Illinois would lead the nation in "a decisive victory" for the party.

Johnson and his wife, Lady Bird who joined him in speechmaking and politicking, were jammed in a friendly, excited crowd as they arrived at the Conrad Hilton Hotel early Thursday night.

Handshaking and waving, Johnson pushed happily through the throng. He signed an autograph for one woman, who promptly burst into tears of joy.

In all the friendliness, the President hardly noticed some 15 civil rights pickets who paraded in front of McCormick Place. Police put wooden street barriers around the marchers and patrolmen ringed the pickets. There was no trouble.

Johnson already had prepared to make an appeal for equal rights, a part of his dinner speech.

"The America we want," he said, "is an America where every citizen, whatever his race or religion, is treated with equal respect and enjoys equal opportunities."

Lady Bird, wearing a long gown of American Beauty red, got into the subject too in her brief speech disclosing some of the things her husband held "closest to his heart."

Mainly, she said, he wanted every child in this country to grow up with "a fair chance."

Her biggest applause came when she said "in a country as free and rich as America, no one should be held back because he was born to a poor family or in a poor neighborhood or because of the color of his skin."

Long a team in politics, Lyndon and Lady Bird were playing one of their biggest togetherness roles on this trip.

They even made some of the same points in their speeches. Both declared Mayor Daley, a powerhouse in Illinois politics, as one of their warmest and closest friends."

Daley responded in kind. He even pinned a new label on Lady Bird, introducing her as: "The vice president to the President."

Eichmann's Pals Slated to Go On Trial Monday

FRANKFURT, Germany (UPI) — Adolf Eichmann's closest aides go on trial Monday, 20 years after they helped their late master wipe out the last Jewish refuge in Adolf Hitler's Europe.

Hitler hunted his "arch enemies" from one end of the Continent to the other. But the million Jews of Hungary escaped his prisons until the German army occupied that country in March, 1944.

Eichmann, hanged by Israel in 1962, was sent to Budapest on the heels of the German army to remove this thorn in Hitler's side.

With him came his deputy, Hermann Krumey, and his legal adviser, Otto Hunsche, now charged with complicity in the murder of more than 400,000 Hungarian Jews.

The prosecution said the two former SS officers also were involved in the abortive Nazi attempt to trade Hungarian Jews for 10,000 Allied trucks.

When that deal fell through, they helped Eichmann round up all Jews outside Budapest and shipped them to the gates of the Auschwitz extermination camp within six weeks in May and June of 1944, according to the indictment.

LBJ Greeted By Noise, Color In Chicago

By FRANCES LWEINE

Six-thousand applauding guests joined the President and his wife Thursday night at a $100 a plate filet mignon feast expected to bring the party one-half million dollars.

When the dinner was over, Johnson's departing [illegible] made [illegible] a fireworks sendoff.

Mayor Richard J Daley and [illegible] Cook County Democrats had whooped up the welcome with [illegible] colored printed signs that [illegible] the Johnsons wherever they stopped with such sentiments as "All the way with LBJ" and "Chicago welcomes Mrs. Johnson" and "Thanks Mr. President."

Johnson declared it was the [illegible] democratic dinner he [illegible] attended. And [illegible] the signs he predicted Chicago and [illegible] would lead the nation [illegible] decisive victory [illegible]

Johnson and his wife Lady [illegible] red him in speech [illegible] politicking were [illegible] a friendly excited [illegible] as they arrived at the [illegible] Hilton Hotel early [illegible]

[illegible]

The America we want [illegible] is an America where [illegible] whatever his race [illegible] is treated with equal [illegible] and enjoys equal opportunity [illegible]

Lady Bird, wearing a long [illegible] American Beauty [illegible] husband [illegible]

Mainly she said, he wanted every child in this country to grow up with a fair chance.

Her biggest applause came when she said "in a country as free and rich as America, no one should be held back because he was born to a poor family or in a poor neighborhood or because of the color of his skin."

Long a team in politics, Lyndon and Lady Bird were playing one of their biggest togetherness roles on this trip.

They even made some of the same points in their speeches. Both declared Mayor Daley, a powerhouse in Illinois politics, as one of their warmest and closest friends.

Daley responded in kind. He even pinned a new label on Lady Bird, introducing her as "The vice president to the President."

Eichmann's Pals Slated to Go On Trial Monday

FRANKFURT, Germany (UPI) — Adolf Eichmann's closest aides go on trial Monday 20 years after they helped their late master wipe out the last Jewish refuge in Adolf Hitler's Europe.

Hitler hunted his "arch enemies" from one end of the Continent to the other. But the million Jews of Hungary escaped his prisons until the German army occupied that country in March, 1944.

Eichmann, hanged by Israel in 1962, was sent to Budapest on the heels of the German army to remove this thorn in Hitler's side.

With him came his deputy Hermann Krumey and his legal adviser, Otto Hunsche now charged with complicity in the murder of more than 400,000 Hungarian Jews.

The prosecution said the two former SS officers also were involved in the abortive Nazi attempt to trade Hungarian Jews for 10,000 Allied trucks.

When that deal fell through, they helped Eichmann round up all Jews outside Budapest and shipped them to the gates of the Auschwitz extermination camp within six weeks in May and June of 1944, according to the indictment.

Merry-Go-Round House Finds No New Investors

By HENRI SCHOUP

He has tried everything, including a hunger strike, to try to induce the government to finance his dream of making his house that goes 'round available to everyone.

Massau has been convinced since 1952 that he has invented the house of the future. To prove it, he built one for himself in 1958 and has inhabited it ever since — "comfortably," he insists — with his wife and three sons.

Massau's house, built 10 mile southeast of Brussels on the main highway to Luxembourg, has stopped many a passing driver — probably including some who have wondered if they had one too many back at the last pub. It moves in a circle.

On a sunny morning in winter, the seven windows of the spacious living room may be turned toward the road. But two hours later, the same windows may be looking out upon the pine wood at the back of the house while two of the home's four bedrooms are facing the road.

Massau, you see, turns his house with the sun, or as the fancy takes him. If the sun's shining on the front of the house visitors usually will find the doorbell where it belongs. But if the sun is at the back, that's where the front door is apt to be.

Massau says he first thought of building a turning house in 1952. He quit a fairly prosperous coal business to do it. When the prototype was finished he and his family moved in.

"But I was also out 3.5 million francs ($70,000), and now I have reached the end of the road," he said in an interview.

"I need an extra 4 million ($80,000) to do further research, build four more prototypes of varying sizes, and work out a proper cost system. Only then can I offer my invention for commercial exploitation."

The government, however, turned down his request for a development loan—even though Massau once went on a hunger strike, drinking only coffee.

He has received dozens of letters from various parts of the world asking for information. Builders in the South of France wrote that they were particularly interested. Others, from tropical countries, said the turning house would be the answer to keeping the sun away from inhabited rooms.

"With my house," said Massau, "you can take in every minute of sunshine.

But you can also avoid the sun as much as you like. It makes fixed houses look like products of a primitive age," he said.

Reaching behind him, the inventor pushed a green button and with a slight sound the living room, four bedrooms, kitchen and entrance lobby began to turn.

"For power I use an electric motor of one-tenth horsepower, stationed in the cellar," he said. "The rooms turn around a stationary central unit which houses the bathroom, lavatory, water mains and the main cable for the electricity supply."

The roof and cellar as well as the center of the house, remain stationary.

"If you want the bathroom now, while we sit here," he explained, "you will find it just opposite one of the bedrooms. But in about half an hour you will find it facing the living room.

"With my new prototype where everything can turn and the power supplies will be installed in the cellar, all rooms in the house will keep their places in relation to each other."

"When we moved into this house in February, 1958," he recalled, "the temperature outside was 14 degrees. By some judicious juggling which kept the sun shining into the living room I managed an inside temperature of 71 degrees without using any heating."

But Massau admits that even all the sun he can catch won't make him solvent.

"Three months ago," he said, "we had to sell some jewelry and I am doing odd jobs to pay my bills. My wife has gone back to work as a schoolteacher.

"But I refuse to give up now. In the end, the government must see that I am worth helping."

On that defiant note, Massau finished his cup of coffee and pushed the button to stop the house. It had turned full circle in just one hour and 20 minutes.

BOSTON (UPI) — The New England Citizens Crime Commission has issued a folder titled "Laws Teen-Agers Should Know" to aid the campaign to reduce the growing crime rate.

It lists laws of special interest to juveniles, covering such items as registering a bicycle, buying liquor, attending public dances, disorderly conduct, bomb hoaxes, guns and drag racing.

Bantam Hens Get Monumental Hatching Task

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two bantam hens which have to strain to make the weight at a pound apiece have been given what for them is a monumental task. Sit on two eggs about half their size until a couple of whooping cranes crack through.

This calls for fortitude, and that's what Patience and Petulance have been showing since Easter morning—and may have to show for another week—at the government's Lafayette, La. Wild Life Research substation.

Whooping cranes just seem to want to disappear—there are only 39 left— but the government won't let them. The use of Patience and Petulance shows that Washington will try anything to keep the tallest of American water birs—five-footers with seven-foot wing spans —on the American scene.

Frug, Slop and Wobble New in Dance World

By PATI DAVIS

NEW YORK (UPI) — What! You're still dancing the Twist? For shame; you're way behind the times. The word is out that if you want to be accepted on the dance floors of America, you have to do the Frug, Slop, Wobble or Uncle Willy.

So says "Killer Joe" Piro, and he should know. A noted authority on modern social dances, Joe is one of New York's favorite "Dancing Masters." (His nickname came from his reputation for wearing out dance partners.)

From a humble beginning in East Harlem dance halls, Joe Piro rose to fame teaching such luminaries of the dance world as Dame Margot Fonteyn and Alicia Markova and hoofer Ray Bolger to dance—socially.

But professional dancers are not his only students. He has given lessons to the Duke and Duchess of Bedford, Adlai Stevenson, Judy Garland, Ann Southern, Joan Fontaine and Sybil (the former Mrs. Richard) Burton. He once taught dancing at the Old Stage Door Canteen.

Joe teaches the intricacies of these modern "dance" steps (actually, you don't STEP at all — just wilt, wave your arms, shuffle your feet, wiggle your hips and look as if you're embarrassed about the whole thing, as well you may be) in a tiny walk-up studio in midtown Manhattan which has been his headquarters for 30 years.

Joe and his staff of four instructors give lessons on a variety of dances from the Waltz to the Mambo (which he introduced at New York's Palladium dance hall). Recently they have been called on to teach people the current "in" dances which evolved from the Twist.

These dances (Surf, Fish, Wobble, Mashed Potato, Bug, Heat Wave, Frankenstein, Monkey, Watusi, Slop, Bird and the Push, among others) began in France, where, as Joe explained, there wasn't enough room in the crowded clubs and bistros for people to do the fast-moving Twist, so a dance imitating the Twist but without foot movements had to be invented.

These dances follow their names. If you want to dance the Surf, pretend you're balancing on a surfboard, but don't fall off or you're liable to be trampled by another person doing a wild type of African war dance—that's the Watusi.

Whatever happened to the Waltz and the Fox-trot?

The way Joe sees it, back in the days of World War II people danced close together, cheek-to-cheek, because they never knew when their partners might be shipped overseas to fight. Now, he explained, no major wars are going on and, as people don't worry about their dancing partners going off to war the next morning, they prefer to dance more as individuals than couples.

Debate Designed To Stimulate Active Minds

It is easy to find out what your local high school standing is in any specific sports activity. One has only to look to the sport's page which through a natural American demand has become an integral part of your daily newspaper.

There is another competitive activity within the public schools designed to stimulate active minds, to develop skills in argument and analytical thinking that has become very popular with modern day high school students. This is the activity known as competitive debate.

The public school system in Colorado Springs has long seen the value of debate training and has supported it through many active years. Both high schools in district 11 are quite active in debate with their teams traveling throughout Colorado to an assortment of tournaments.

Debate is not designed primarily to train youngsters in argumentation. Its primary function is to offer a competitive game to the type of young person who can enjoy it. Certainly the enjoyment comes through improvement and so the techniques of argumentation and the training in argumentation and logic naturally follow. It is a prime example of learning while doing and while enjoying.

Barry Morse Hasn't Caught Janssen

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Have you caught him yet?" Barry Morse hears that question everywhere from here to Toronto, which is his home.

Morse is the policeman who plays Javert to David Janssen's Jean Valjean in television's modern "Les Miserables"— "The Fugitive."

"I am amazedath ow literally the viewers take the show," Morse said during a break in filming.

"I am amazed at how literal- naivete of the question. Obviously if I would catch him, the basis for the series would be destroyed."

Morse seems destined to continue his quest for Janssen for another season and probably longer. That means that Morse also will continue one of television's most extensive commuting schedules.

During the first season of "The Fugitive," Morse made 10 round trips here from Toronto, plus journeys to New York for other shows. He has no plans to move.

"I have a wife and two children and Toronto is our home" he said. "The nature of an actor's work nowadays is travel and it is better for me to do so than to uproot my family."

Morse was born in London and for his first 15 years talked Cockney, as does his brother, now a London bobby. Morse's accent is softy British off-stage but there is no trace of it when he assumes his "Fugitive" role.

The actor graduated from the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art to repertory and then to BBC television in 1937-39.

T-Birds Top Cats To Keep SCL Lead

By DICK FOSTER

PUEBLO — Wasson's South Central League leading Thunderbirds had to work some to pick up their sixth loop victory over fourth place Central's frisky Wildcats Saturday at Runyon Field.

Errors were one thing that plagued the Wilcats; Bob Kochis was another. And had they not, Wasson would likely be picking up pieces now. Only four Thunderbird runs were earned; the other three came as the result of six Centennial errors.

The Wildcats outhit Wasson nine to eight, and would likely have rapped Chambers for more, but Kochi relieved Chambers 1-3 of the way through the fifth frame and pitched 2 2-3 innings of no hit, shut out ball, fanning five in the process. It was Kochis, perhaps most of all, who saved the 'Birds from being downed by Central.

Gib Funk's squad was faced with a two point deficit after the Wildcats first time at bat, but managed to work out of it after one run in the second inning and another three in the third. But the Wildcats, who were being slowly pushed out of the contest rallied for three runs in the fifth inning to tie the game at 5-5, after Wasson scored their fifth run in the top of the same fifth frame.

Wasson went down one, two, three in the first inning, and the first Central batter, pitcher Dan Smith, singled. He was followed by Don Robson who also singled. Marv Scherman sacrificed to send Smith home and Bruce Heath batted in Robson to make the score 2-0 Central.

The T-Birds got on the scoreboard in the second inning when Hal Meller doubled and then scored on John Scales's single. Central was sputtering after the first inning, and were shut out with just one hit per inning for the second, third and fourth frames. Wasson picked up the lead in the third inning with three runs.

Teague started the inning with a walk. On an attempted pickoff, firstbaseman Rick Martinez errored and Teague got to third, scoring on John Wickham's single. Chambers followed with a walk and John Scales then added two more runs to Wasson's cause with his single which scored Wickham and Chambers. The 'Birds got their fifth run in the fifth inning when Jim Smith made first on a fielder's choice went to third on double errors and scored on the same.

Central's Wildcats then uncaged for three runs in their half of the fifth frame to tie the contest up at 5-5. Dan Smith made first on a bad throw from third by Teague, and Don Robson then sacrificed to move Smith to second. Marv Schuerman doubled to score Smith and Bruce Heath then singled in Schuerman, and scored on Dan Kochevar's double.

It was a new contest when Wasson came to bat in the sixth inning, and the Thunderbirds made little headway, but neither did Central who had to face fresh relief pitching from Bob Kochis. Wasson's crack hurler fanned three straight in that inning, giving the 'Birds one more chance at cracking the tie.

Jim Smith started Wasson's last and successful effort with a walk. Bob Kochis followed Smith with a single and Frank Baird doubled to send both home for the Bird's winning runs.

Making the most of an 11-hit barrage against three Brigham Young University pitchers, the Air Force Academy started a new winning string Saturday by gaining revenge over the same club which ended the region's longest streak on Friday.

Both the Falcons and BYU pounded out an equal number of safeties in Saturday's game, but the AFA made better use of their hits and breezed to a 9-5 victory with six of them coming in a big fifth inning.

Friday the visiting Cougars halted the Cadets winning skein at 10 straight with a 12-7 defeat which was called after eight innings because of darkness. But it was the Air Force Academy's turn on Saturday and they backed up lefty Fred Olmsted with two home runs and three doubles in another base running circus.

The victory ran the Academy' seasonal record to 11-2 as they lost their opener on the road and then banged their way through the 10 consecutive victories. This afternoon in a 1 p.m. game the AFA will be back in action for another home contest by playing host to the University of Wyoming in a return battle. Earlier in the season the Cadets won a slug-fest against the Pokes, 12-5, to open the home slate.

For the touring Cougars from Provo, Utah, their record now stands at 11-12 and this was only their third loss in the last 11 games.

Going into the fifth inning, it was still a close game and the visitors held a 3-2 edge on the strength of a three-run homer by catcher Bob Baker in the second and a single run in the third. But the Fliers finally found the range against starter Doug Wardell and the hard-throwing lefty was chased to the showers after five straight hits.

The roof didn't fall in on Wardell until two were out in the fifth, but once the rafters started to crumble there was no stopping the AFA. Third baseman Jim Steed got the first of the hit series with a double following an error which allowed Darryl Bloodworth to reach first. And then center fielder Frank Packer smashed a three-run homer over the left field fence to pull the AFA into the lead at 5-4.

This was followed by a single from Bruce Huneke, Larry Tollstam's double and a single by pitcher Olmsted and that brought in right hander Val Snow from the bullpen.

Snow was rushed on his warmup pitches, though, and it was obvious he lacked control as he entered the game. He hit the first three batters he faced, for what must be some sort of collegiate record, and as the dust cleared from the Academy's diamond the Falcons had six more runs.

That all but put the verdict out of reach and Olmsted went on to record the AFA's 11th complete game by a pitcher, although he was tagged for just as many hits as the Air Force collected.

The other homer for the winners came in the first inning as Bloodworth tagged Wardell's pitch and sent it over the left-center fence with no one aboard. The Cadets scored another in that frame with Steed just missing the top of the fence with a double and then coming home on Huneke's bounding single over the third baseman's head.

The Air Force added to the margin in the seventh with another hit batter (Snow's fourth of the game), a walk and catcher Al McArtor's single to right. They threatened to make it another big inning, but finally left three stranded for a second time in the game.

BYU was well out of it by the sixth, but they kept slim hopes alive with a single run on a single, two-base error and sacrifice fly that brought home left fielder Jerry Scheurn, who was taking the place of regular outfielder Jim Barry. Barry was injured on Friday chasing a fly up against the fence and couldn't play.

The game was spiced by three double plays despite the heavy hitting from both squads, with the Academy getting two of them. One was on a brilliant play by Steed, the AFA's great hitting third baseman, who grabbed a hot liner from the bat of pinch-hitter Jim Hatch in the eighth and then threw to first for the twin killing.

Another defensive gem was turned in by catcher McArtor, who in the third inning made a diving catch of Baker's pop-up and then tumbled into the Brigham Young dugout with the ball in his mitt.

This was Olmsted's fourth victory against no defeats this season and it was his fourth complete game in five starts. Expected to take the mound against the improved Wyoming nine today will be right hander Pete Bracci, who owns a 4-1 mark for the season and the best earned-run average of the staff.

Toronto Captures NHL Crown, 4-0

TORONTO (AP)—The Toronto Maple Leafs won their third straight Stanley Cup whipping the Detroit Red Wings 4-0 Saturday night.

The Leafs, who had trailed in the best-of-seven series 3-2, won it with a three-goal flurry in the third period after goalie Johnny Bower had made Andy Bathgate's unassisted first period goal stand up for more than two periods.

Dave Keon and Red Kelly beat Detroit goalie Terry Sawchuk within a minute and 27-second span of the third period to increase the lead to 3-0. George Armstrong got the final Toronto goal at 15:26 to ice the game for the Leafs.

A crowd of 14,571, largest of the season here, applauded every move made by Toronto in the final period as the Maple Leafs set up a tight defense around Bower and preserved his shutout.

AMSTERDAM (UPI) —Dr. L. Dijkstra, 55, father of world, Olympic and European figure skating champion Sjoukje Dijkstra, was killed Friday night in a freak automobile accident, police said Saturday.

Saidam Wins Grey Lag Race

NEW YORK (AP) — Saidam, making his first start this year, gave the championship hopes of Mongo and Gun Bow a severe shock Saturday when he scored a four-length triumph in the $82,350 Grey Lag Handicap at Aqueduct.

Under Manuel Ycaza's powerful ride, the 5-year-old son of Never Say Die took a narrow lead five-eighths of a mile from the finish of the 1⅛-mile race and pulled away in the stretch.

Mongo came up from fourth place in the field of seven for second money, one-half length in front of Bonjour. Gun Bow, who went off the favorite of the crowd of 52,118, weakened and dropped back to fifth after battling the winner and Red Gar for the early lead.

Okla. State Nips Kansas

STILLWATER, Okla (AP)—Mile Miller singled in the 14th inning to drive in the wining run as Oklahoma State University defeated Kansas 4-3 Saturday in Big Eight Conference baseball.

Gordon Watson., who came on in the 14th inning, received credit for the victory.

Kansas now stands 6-3 in conference play, Oklahoma State 3-4.

Halfback Manning Stars In Falcon's Scrimmage

Halfback Bill Manning, a newcomer to the varsity and a junior-to-be from Paul, Idaho, scored twice in a standout performance as the Air Force Academy ran through a game-type scrimmage in Falcon Stadium in one of the last drills of the spring football practice session Saturday.

Manning, a 6-2, 185-pound wingback, was working with the top offensive unit and alternating with veteran Dick Czarnota as Coach Ben Martin sent his best combination against the remainder of the squad in a five-quarter drill.

The No. 1 offensive and defensive units held a 6-1 margin in touchdowns over the rest of the squad at the conclusion of the practice.

Manning's 70-yard pass and run play from quarterback Howie Burkart was the longest of the afternoon and the highlight of the scrimmage. Burkart, a senior from Coral Gables, Fla., was also outstanding although a brisk wind held down all the passing.

The only touchdown for the White team was a short plunge by fullback Dick Wolfe, a sophomore from Pueblo Central High who has grown into a 194-pounder and one of the other promising newcomers to the squad.

Martin said he was pleased with the progress of the squad and Saturday's scrimmage, especially since this was the first game-type practice using the new rules of substitution and passing under game conditions. The Falcons carried out all game situations except kickoffs.

This was the 17th of the allotted 20 practice sessions of the spring and the AFA coach said the drills will wind up with more scrimmage on Tuesday and Thursday of this next week and then the annual intra-squad game in Falcon Stadium next Saturday. The Silver-Blue game next Saturday is scheduled for 2 p.m. and will be open to the public, as usual.

Martin also singled out a few other players from Saturday's scrimmage. They were defenders end Joe O'Gorman, tackle Gary Fausti and center Wendy Hardleroad in the line and halfback Lloyd Duncan who intercepted two enemy passes in the defensive backfield.

Several of the 19 returning lettermen were absent from Saturday's workout in the stadium with fullback Larry Tollstam playing with the AFA baseball team and ends John Puster and Fritz Greenlee both with the Falcon track team at the Drake Relays. All are expected to be in uniform next Saturday.

Miller Leads Buffs in CU Relays; Academy High Third in Prep Class

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

BOULDER — Colorado's Buffaloes, with jet Jim Miller pouring through three swift anchor legs, made a shambles of the college division of the 40th annual Colorado University Relays at Folsum Field here Saturday.

The slick Buff quintets were hardly extended in winning five of the six relay events as one of the poorer collegiate fields to vie at Boulder in several years floundered far behind. C.U. finished with 25 points while runner-up Wyoming managed only 10. The Air Force Academy, represented by only a partial squad, wound up third with eight points and posted the lone relay victory not gobbled up by Frank Potts' classy Buffaloes.

TEAM SCORES
College Division

1. Colorado U., 25. 2. Wyoming, 10. 3. Air Force Academy, 8. 4. Fort Hays State, 7. 5. Utah, 5. 6. Denver, 4. 7. Kansas State and Colorado State U., 3. 9. Southern Colorado State College, 1.

High School AAA Division

1. East Denver, 16. 2. Wheat Ridge, 11. 3. Denver Manual, 9. 4. Lakewood, 5. 5. Boulder, 4. 6. Arvada and Aurora Central, 3. 8. Wasson and Denver Washington, 2.

High School AA Division

1. Brighton, 10. 2. Lafayette, 9. 3. Air Academy High, 8. 4. Mapleton and Fairview, 7. 6. Julesburg, 5. 7. Machebeuf, 4. 8. Del Norte, 3. 9. Broomfield, 2.

While the college champion was a foregone conclusion from the first few strides of competition, two high school classifications dueled brilliantly down to the final event to decide a winner. East Denver's powerful Angels thundered to victory in the mile relay to clinch the AAA title with 16 points. Brighton's third place finish in the AA version of the same event allowed that school to slip through to the lower-classification crown.

Colorado Springs was well represented in all classes. Aside from the Falcons' third place finish in the college division, Air Force Academy High churned to a third place in the AA classification. The Kadets won the 880 yard relay and picked up a second in the 440 event, to total eight points. Brighton's winning total was just 10. Lafayette finished second with nine.

Wasson's two-mile relay team, powered by a tremendous anchor leg by distance star, Jeff Berven, picked up a third place in that event during Friday afternoon's opening session. Although the Thunderbirds did not add to the total Saturday, the two points were sufficient to give the team a tie for eighth place in the final AAA standings.

Palmer was shut out in the AAA team scoring but the Terrors had impressive performances from a pair of stars in the individual events. Pole-vaulter Bob McCoy registered a career high when he soared over the 13-0 level, a feat that gave him a second place behind Denver Washington's Chuck Rogers. Rogers won the event with a record-setting vault of 14-1.

The Terrors also were treated to a second place in the open high hurdle event. Bobby Joe Williams, with a fine finishing kick, legged it home as runner-up to East Denver's Dave Stevens, who was another of the meet's frequent record-setters. Stevens logged a 14.5 in the Friday preliminaries to set the standard and then was content to sail over the barriers in 14.7 during Saturday's finals.

* * *

The local area was also represented by teams from St. Mary's and Widefield in the AA division. Both schools had teams make the finale in the mile relay, but neither was among the top four finishers. Only four places are awarded in any of the divisions.

Miller, who first gained fame as a record-breaking phenom for Bill Westbay at Palmer High, was up to his old tricks Saturday despite a sore muscle in his right leg which had threatened to sideline him. The brilliant Colorado junior tuned-up for his relay work by knifing over the college high hurdles in 14.3 to capture that event in the open competition.

* * *

During his anchor stints on the relays, Miller's teammates made certain he would not have to overexercise. Fine legs by former Denver Manual star, Chuck Morton, opened up wide margins for the C.U. sprint teams and Miller was not pressed in flying through the final yards. The same was true in the mile relay where he had a wide advantage over the remainder of the field by the time he picked off the baton.

The Buffs also won the mile team race and the distance medley in recording their near sweep. The breakthrough came in the two-mile relay where the Air Force team of Henry Armstrong, Dennis Sultany, Jim Lawson, and Tad Oelstrom breezed to an easy triumph. The Falcons' other points came from a third place finish in the mile team race and a fourth in the mile relay.

* * *

The Falcons had several excellent performances in the open events. Jim Erickson matched the winning heighth of 14-7 in the pole vault but first place went to Rick Preston of Colorado on the basis of fewer misses. Tom Brandon recorded a second in the triple jump, Greg Hildebrandt a third in the javelin, Ken Clark a second in the shot put with a heave of 53-6¾, and Henry Hamby a fourth in the discus.

Record breaking was most frequent in the high school division. Wheat Ridge's Mike Sandberg toppled the shot put mark with a toss of 60.8 to join Rogers and Stevens as new standard-holders. On the track East Denver shattered the distance medley mark and Lakewood easily broke the old two-mile relay record.

One feat that won't show up in the record-book was the phenominal anchor leg turned in by Wasson's Berven Friday afternoon. The Thunderbird flash pulled his team to a third place finish with an unofficial clocking of 1:56.6 for the half mile distance.

Academy High's third place was engineered by the Kadets' fine sprint team of Brink Spear, John Luksic, Scott Haney, and Rob Stockhouse. The quartet was edged by Brighton in the 440 event but came back to edge the same team on Stockhouse's excellent anchor leg in the 880 relay. Stockhouse also roared in third in the open 100 yard dash which was won by Rich Fowler of Arvada.

Terrors Go Wild With Miners, 19-2

By LOY HOLMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Editor

All season long Palmer High has had to figure ways to get by on a minimum of base hits while relying on tight pitching and usually careful base-running to keep a winning record and a top spot in the South Central League standings.

But Saturday, the Terrors were a different team and to their own delight Coach Jerry Hughes' crew paraded around the base paths like juiced-up Irishmen on St. Patrick's Day. They ended up with a top-heavy 19-2 victory over visiting Trinidad and remained in a tie for second place in the SCL standings.

Keeping pace behind league-leading Wasson was Pueblo Centennial which bested Pueblo South in an intra-city battle in the only action Saturday besides the Palmer win and Wasson's narrow 7-5 decision over Central. Both Palmer and Centennial have 6-2 league marks, trailing by a half game behind the 6-1 T-Birds.

This was officially the last home game on the SCL schedule for the Terrors, although they will return to Memorial Park for their second meeting with Wasson a week from this Tuesday. But the rest of the league games will be played in Pueblo meeting South, Central and East before the season's wind-up.

Thus it must have been a happy Hughes who saw his Tribe finally start demolishing the ball on Saturday for they undoubtedly will need that kind of support the rest of the way if Palmer is to stay in a contending position for South Central honors.

Tom Medlicott was credited with the victory after working the first four innings of the seven-frame contest, and sophomore Phil Johnson came on in relief and shutout the Miners the rest of the way while giving up only two of their five safeties.

Biggest hitters for the winners were second baseman Chuck Reinking and catcher Larry Williams, who each had four hits in five trips. One of Reinking's was a triple while all of Williams were singles.

The Terrors built up a steady lead in the first three innings and were ahead by 5-1 before Trinidad made threatening motions with another single run in the top of the fourth. That must have made the Tribe a little perturbed, however, for they banged out five hits and scored as many runs in the bottom half of the inning to just about sew up the contest.

SATURDAY'S RESULTS

Palmer 19, Trinidad 2
Wasson 7, Pueblo Central 5
Pueblo Centennial 9, Pueblo South 4

They added nine more in a wild sixth frame on a half-dozen hits and two of Trinidad's six errors, and it turned the game into a farce at the finish.

Two errors also helped the Palmer cause in the big fourth inning as the Terrors had three straight hits and then Les Tapia opened the door wide with a bobble in left field that allowed shortstop Ollie West to go all the way around the bases on a single with two scoring ahead of him.

The Terrors scored three more times on a walk, two singles and an infield out to turn the game into a rout.

Then in the sixth, two singles, a double and walk finally chased starter Rich Martinez after he had already suffered through 16 hits and 14 runs, but reliever John Ellenberger could do little better and he allowed five more to score before finally getting the side retired.

Trinidad's runs came in the second on Jim Stadjuhar's lead-off triple to right-center, followed by an RBI single from Tapia, and then in the fourth walking Ed Pfalmer advanced to second on an error and came home on catcher Gary Solano's single to right.

Through most of the morning, however, Trinidad was waving at empty air as Medlicott struck out 10 and Johnson followed up with five more whiffs. That made 15 of the 21 outs via strikes and the Terrors had only two assists — one by West at shortstop and the other by Medlicott on a roller to the mound. Outside of the five hits, only one other ball left the infield.

This week the Terrors will have a rest of league play until next Saturday when they travel to Pueblo for a game with South. But on Wednesday they will try to keep in tune with a non-league contest at Erps Field against the Pikes Peak League leader, Air Academy High, in a game postponed from earlier in the season.

Bears Drop Opening PCL Game to Portland, 7-6

DENVER (AP) — The smallest opening day baseball crowd here in 16 years, 3,322, saw the Denver Bears drop a Pacific Coast League game to Portland 7-6 Saturday.

It was the fourth loss of the season, all by one run, for the Bears who tied the score in the fourth but never led. The Bears unleashed a four-run ninth inning rally but it only matched a four-run ninth by the Portland club.

A key bit of strategy in the second inning by Portland manager Johnny Lipon produced a run that proved all-important in the late stages.

With Tommy Agee on third base with a triple, two out, and pitcher Steve Bailey at bat, Lipon sent Agee sprinting for home. Denver rookie Clay Carroll, on the mound, balked after winding up and the Beavers had the run for a 2-0 lead.

Chico Salmon's two singles drove in three runs for the Beavers, including two in the ninth. Willie Tasby opened the ninth for Portland with a homer.

T-Birds Top Cats To Keep SCL Lead

By DICK FOSTER

PUEBLO — Wasson's South Central League leading Thunderbirds had to work some to pick up their sixth loop victory over fourth place Central's frisky Wildcats Saturday at Runyon Field.

Errors were one thing that plagued the Wilcats; Bob Kochis was another. And had they not, Wasson would likely be picking up pieces now. Only four Thunderbird runs were earned; the other three came as the result of six Centennial errors.

The Wildcats outhit Wasson nine to eight, and would likely have rapped Chambers for more, but Kochis relieved Chambers 1-3 of the way through the fifth frame and pitched 2 2-3 innings of no hit shut out ball, fanning five in the process. It was Kochis perhaps most of all, who saved the 'Birds from being downed by Central.

Gib Funk's squad was faced with a two point deficit after the Wildcats first time at bat but managed to work out of it after one run in the second inning and another three in the third. But the Wildcats, who were being slowly pushed out of the contest rallied for three runs in the fifth inning to tie the game at 5-5, after Wasson scored their fifth run in the top of the same fifth frame.

Wasson went down one, two, three in the first inning, and the first Central batter, pitcher Dan Smith, singled. He was followed by Don Robson who also singled. Marv Scherman sacrificed to send Smith home and Bruce Heath batted in Robson to make the score 2-0 Central.

The T-Birds got on the scoreboard in the second inning when Hal Meller doubled and then scored on John Scales's single. Central was sputtering after the first inning and were shut out with just one hit per inning for the second, third and fourth frames. Wasson picked up the lead in the third inning with three runs.

Teague started the inning with a walk. On an attempted pickoff, firstbaseman Rick Martinez errored and Teague got to third, scoring on John Wickham's single. Chambers followed with a walk and John Scales then added two more runs to Wasson's cause with his single which scored Wickham and Chambers. The 'Birds got their fifth run in the fifth inning when Jim Smith made first on a fielder's choice, went to third on double errors and scored on the same.

Central's Wildcats then [illegible] for three runs in their half of the fifth frame to tie the contest up at 5-5. Dan Smith made first on a bad throw from third by Teague and Don Robson then sacrificed to move Smith to second. Marv Schuerman doubled to score Smith and Bruce Heath then singled in Schuerman, and scored on Dan Kochevar's double.

It was a new contest when Wasson came to bat in the sixth inning, and the Thunderbirds made little headway, but neither did Central who had to face fresh relief pitching from Bob Kochis. Wasson's crack hurler fanned three straight in that inning, giving the 'Birds one more chance at cracking the tie.

Jim Smith started Wasson's last and successful effort with a walk. Bob Kochis followed Smith with a single and Frank Baird doubled to send both home for the Bird's winning runs.

Falcons Topple BYU

By LOY HOLMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Editor

Making the most of an 11-hit barrage against three Brigham Young University pitchers, the Air Force Academy started a new winning string Saturday by gaining revenge over the same club which ended the region's longest streak on Friday.

Both the Falcons and BYU pounded out an equal number of safeties in Saturday's game but the AFA made better use of their hits and breezed to a 9-5 victory with six of them coming in a big fifth inning.

Friday the visiting Cougars halted the Cadets winning skein at 10 straight with a 12-7 defeat which was called after eight innings because of darkness. But it was the Air Force Academy's turn on Saturday and they backed up lefty Fred Olmsted with two home runs and three doubles in another base-running circus.

The victory ran the Academy's seasonal record to 11-2 as they lost their opener on the road and then banged their way through the 10 consecutive victories. This afternoon in a 1 p.m. game the AFA will be back in action for another home contest by playing host to the University of Wyoming in a return battle. Earlier in the season the Cadets won a slug-fest against the Pokes 12-5 to open the home slate.

For the touring Cougars from Provo, Utah their record now stands at 11-12 and this was only their third loss in the last 11 games.

Going [illegible] fifth inning it was still a close game and the visitors held a 3-2 edge on the strength of a three-run homer by catcher Bob Baker in the second and a single run in the third. But the Fliers finally found the range against starter Doug Wardell and the hard-throwing lefty was chased to the showers after [illegible] straight hits.

The roof didn't fall in on Wardell until two were out in the fifth, but once the rafters started to crumble there was no stopping the AFA. Third baseman Jim Steed got the first of the hit series with a double following an error which allowed Darryl Bloodworth to reach first. And then center fielder Frank Packer smashed a three-run homer over the left field fence to pull the AFA into the lead at 5-4.

This was followed by a single from Bruce Hatcke, Larry Tolstam's double and a single by pitcher Olmsted and that brought in right hander Val Snow from the bullpen.

Snow was rushed on his warmup pitches though, and it was obvious he lacked control as he entered the game. He hit the first three batters he faced for what must be some sort of collegiate record and as the dust cleared from the Academy's diamond the Falcons had six more runs.

That all but put the verdict out of reach and Olmsted went on to record the AFA's 11th complete game by a pitcher, although he was tagged for just as many hits as the Air Force collected.

The other homer for the winners came in the first inning as Bloodworth tagged Wardell's pitch and sent it over the left center fence with no one aboard. The Cadets scored another in that frame with Steed just missing the [illegible] of the fence with a double and then coming home on [illegible] bounding single over the third baseman's head.

The Air Force added to the margin in the seventh with another [illegible] Snow's fourth [illegible] of the game [illegible] walk and [illegible] M. Arthur's single to right. [illegible] to make it an [illegible] second [illegible] game.

BYU was [illegible] by [illegible] slim hopes alive with a single run on a single, two-base error and sacrifice fly that brought home left fielder [illegible] who was taking the place of regular [illegible] was injured in Friday's [illegible] ing a fly up against the fence and couldn't play.

The game was spiced by three double plays despite the heavy hitting from both squads, with the Academy getting two of them. One was on a brilliant play by Steed, the AFA's great hitting third baseman who grabbed a hot liner from the bat of pinch-hitter Jim Hatch in the eighth and then threw to first for the twin killing.

Another defensive gem was turned in by catcher M. Arthur who in the third inning made a diving catch of Baker's [illegible] and then tumbled into the Brigham Young dugout with the ball in his mitt.

This was Olmsted's fourth victory against no defeats this season and it was his fourth complete game in five starts. [illegible] Wyoming [illegible] who owns a 4-1 mark for the season and the best earned run average on the staff.

Miller Leads Buffs in CU Relays; Academy High Third in Prep Class

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

BOULDER — Colorado's Buffaloes, with jet Jim Miller pouring through three swift anchor legs, made a shambles of the college division of the 40th annual Colorado University Relays at Folsum Field here Saturday.

The slick Buff quintets were hardly extended in winning five of the six relay events as one of the poorer collegiate fields to vie at Boulder in several years floundered far behind. C.U. finished with 25 points while runner-up Wyoming managed only 10. The Air Force Academy, represented by only a partial squad, wound up third with eight points and posted the lone relay victory not gobbled up by Frank Potts' classy Buffaloes.

While the college champion was a foregone conclusion from the first few strides of competition, two high school classifications dueled brilliantly down to the final event to decide a winner. East Denver's powerful Angels thundered to victory in the mile relay to clinch the AAA title with 16 points. Brighton's third place finish in the AA version of the same event allowed that school to slip through to the lower-classification crown.

Colorado Springs was well represented in all classes. Aside from the Falcons' third place finish in the college division, Air Force Academy High churned to a third place in the AA classification. The Kadets won the 880 yard relay and picked up a second in the 440 event, to total eight points. Brighton's winning total was just 10. Lafayette finished second with nine.

Wasson's two-mile relay team, powered by a tremendous anchor leg by distance star, Jeff Berven, picked up a third place in that event during Friday afternoon's opening session. Although the Thunderbirds did not add to the total Saturday, the two points were sufficient to give the team a tie for eighth place in the final AAA standings.

* * *

Palmer was shut out in the AAA team scoring but the Terrors had impressive performances from a pair of stars in the individual events. Pole-vaulter Bob McCoy registered a career high when he soared over the 13-0 level, a feat that gave him a second place behind Denver Washington's Chuck Rogers. Rogers won the event with a record-setting vault of 14-1.

The Terrors also were treated to a second place in the open high hurdle event. Bobby Joe Williams with a fine finishing kick legged it home as runner-up to East Denver's Dave Stevens, who was another of the meet's frequent record-setters. Stevens logged a 14.5 in the Friday preliminaries to set the standard and then was content to sail over the barriers in 14.7 during Saturday's finals.

The local area was also represented by teams from St. Mary's and Widefield in the AA division. Both schools had teams make the finale in the mile relay but neither was among the top four finishers. Only four places are awarded in any of the divisions.

Miller, who first gained fame as a record-breaking performer for Bill Westray at Palmer High, was up to his old tricks Saturday despite a sore muscle in his right leg which had threatened to sideline him. [illegible] over the college high hurdles in 14.3 to capture that event in the open competition.

* * *

During his anchor stints on the relays, Miller's teammates made certain he would not have to overexert. Fine legs by former Denver Manual star Chuck Morton opened up wide margins for the CU sprint teams, and Miller was not pressed in flying through the final yards. The same was true in the mile relay where he had a wide advantage over the remainder of the field by the time he picked off the baton.

The Buffs also won the mile team race and the distance medley [illegible] Air Force [illegible] Henry Armstrong, Dennis Sultany, Jim Lawson and Tad Oelstrom [illegible] The Falcons' other points came from a third place finish in the mile team race and a fourth in the mile relay.

The Falcons had several excellent performances in the open events. Jim Erickson matched the winning height of [illegible] in the pole vault but first place went to Rick Preston of Colorado on the basis of fewer misses. Tom Brandon recorded a second in the triple jump, Greg Hildebrandt a third in the javelin, Ken Clark a second in the shot put with a heave of 53-6 [illegible], and Henry Hamby a fourth in the discus.

Record breaking was most frequent in the high school division. Wheat Ridge's Mike Sandberg topped the shot put mark with a toss of [illegible] and Stevens as new standard holders. On the track East Denver shattered the distance medley mark and Lakewood easily broke the old two-mile relay record.

One feat that won't show up in the record books was the phenomenal anchor leg turned in by Wasson's Berven Friday afternoon. The Thunderbird flash pulled his team to a third place finish with an unofficial clocking of 1:56.6 for the half mile distance.

Academy High's third place was engineered by the Kadets' fine sprint team of Brink Spear, John Luksic, Scott Haney, and Rob Stockhouse. The quartet was edged by Brighton in the 440 event but came back to edge the same team on Stockhouse's excellent anchor leg in the 880 relay. Stockhouse also roared in third in the open 100 yard dash which was won by Rich Fowler of Arvada.

Bears Drop Opening PCL Game to Portland, 7-6

DENVER (AP) — The smallest opening day baseball crowd here in 16 years, 3,322, saw the Denver Bears drop a Pacific Coast League game to Portland 7-6 Saturday.

It was the fourth loss of the season, all by one run, for the Bears who tied the score in the fourth but never led. The Bears also [illegible] a four-run ninth inning rally but it only matched a four-run ninth by the Portland club.

A key bit of strategy in the second inning by Portland manager Johnny Lipon produced a run that proved all important in the late stages.

With Tommy Agee on third base with a triple, two out, and pitcher Steve Bailey at bat, Lipon sent Agee sprinting for home. Denver rookie Clay Carroll, on the mound, balked after winding up and the Beavers had the run for a 2-0 lead.

Chico Salmon's two singles drove in three runs for the Bears, including two in the ninth. [illegible] Tasby opened the ninth for Portland with a homer.

Kadets Top Huskies To Lead PPL Chase

By CHARLIE DREUX

Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

The Air Academy High big bats struck out Saturday as the Big Blue crew displayed power at the plate which may break the "bridesmaids" jinx in the Pikes Peak League pennant chase.

In four seasons past, the Kadets have finished in the runner-up slot. But against visiting Florence, the Academy High aggregation knocked out the Huskies hopes as PPL title seekers with an 18-4 league victory Saturday morning at the Big Blue diamond.

Russ Lyon's Academy High club racked two Florence pitchers to accumulate 19 hits to put the game on ice. All that stands in the way of the Kadets in their search for the PPL flag is six-time league champion, Cheyenne Mountain.

The Academy High-Cheyenne showdown is slated for Tuesday, May 5 at the Indians' home field. In a previous non-league outing, the Kadets nipped the PPL perennial champs, 1-0. But the Big Blue will have to face Cheyenne on foreign territory this time.

Although the Kadets' ace hurler, John Gannon, was tabbed for nine hits during the seven-inning venture on the mound, the portside chucker managed to record the victory despite the fact that the Florence squad left 14 men on base. However, it was Gannon's fast ball and breaking stuff that enabled the Academy High crew to post the crucial win.

Center fielder Bob Basham provided the stick power for the Kadets as he collected seven RBIs on four hits. Basham had a perfect day at the plate collecting four hits for that many times at bat including three singles and a double.

Gannon also proved successful at the plate as the pitching ace picked up three hits for that many times at bat and two RBIs.

Bill Culver parked his first four bagger as the converted shortstop blasted a full count pitch over the 360-foot center field fence in the second stanza. Culver climaxed the Kadets second biggest scoring frame to highlight the six runs tallied in that inning.

The Big Blue batsmen only required one and two-thirds innings to dispose of Florence's starter, Paul Hardrick. The Huskies pilot, Gene Stone, called on his ole reliable Darrell (the Whip) Browning to cool down the Kadet bombers. But Browning was tabbed for an additional 10 runs.

Wasson Defeats Harrison

The Wasson "B" team struck in the fifth inning as the junior T-Birds collected six runs which resulted in a 13-6 victory over Harrison at the latter's home field.

Behind the strong arm of Dave Richardson, the Thunderbirds handed the Panthers their seventh setback this season. The Harrison crew is now 5-7 in overall play.

The Wasson club belted the Panthers' starting hurler for three runs in the opening frame and struck again for a single tally in the fourth frame. Bill Johnson was tabbed the loser and received help from reliever Erwin Sielentopp in the fifth stanza.

This Tuesday the Panthers are scheduled to resume a make-up game with Fountain Valley. That outing will be a one-inning affair with the score 1-1 which resulted from a game last week being called because of darkness. Then both teams will play a regular seven-inning contest immediately following the one-inning game on Tuesday at the Fountain Valley diamond.

Harrison Takes Lead In Texas Golf Tourney

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, the ageless wonder, fired a four-under par 66 for a 202 third-round total Saturday to take the lead in the $40,000 Texas Open golf tournament.

Harrison, the oldest regular player on the professional golf tour at 54, nosed out unheralded Gordon Jones of Orlando, Fla., who had a 65 Saturday that was good for second place seven-under par 203 through 54 holes.

Harrison has won the Texas Open twice.

If Harrison should win this tourney in Sunday's final round, he would be the oldest player ever to win a PGA tourney.

That record is held by John Barnum who won the 1962 Cajun Classic at the age of 51.

Holding down third place at six-under 204 after Saturday's round were Ken Venturi (69-67—68) and Dan Sikes (69-66-69).

Next at 205 were Gene Littler, who tied with Terry Dill after Friday's round, Juan Rodriguez and Don January.

Harrison, of St. Louis, took the lead on the 18th green with a sensational 60-foot putt for a birdie two.

Harrison got birdies on the 5th, 8th, and 16th holes Saturday, but took a bogey on No. 11 when he three-putted.

Durango Tops at Fountain

By DICK FOSTER

All records were left shattered in the wake of fierce competition at the Second Annual Fountain Relays, held at Fountain Fort Carson High School Saturday afternoon. Local teams were forced to take rear seats as teams from Durango and Alamosa ran away with a good deal of the glitter of victory.

The Durango squad finished with 87 points to top the meet, and Alamosa, the Defending Class AA track team was second with 72½ points. Some local competition was able to figure into the third and fourth place finishes though, as Cheyenne Mountain's touted thinclads finished third with 46½ points and Fountain's efforts netted them 45 points.

Locals were responsible for the setting of four records; three were from Cheyenne Mountain, and the other was by Fountain's Rick Dor, who cleared 11-3 in the pole vault. Durango racked up six first, and in this meet every first was a record. Alamosa gained three records.

Cheyenne's Rick Stowell heaved the shot 55-8 for a new record, replacing the old mark of 47-11. The local school's Ron Graham also set two records, one in the high jump with his jump of 5-8 which replaced the old mark of 5-6, and the other in the broad jump where he went 20 feet 4½ inches to displace the old, 19-3¾ record.

Durango's relay teams won the 440 relay, the distance medley, the 880 relay and the sprint medley. Relaymen Fred Schmier, Dave Bartelt, Dan Patterson, Jim Hatfield, Joe Wilson, and John Glass formed various combinations, to establish four meet records in relay races for Durango.

The former 880 relay mark was 1:39.5 and was broken with a 1:34.2. The 440 relay time was a record breaking 44.7 replacing the 47.9 turned in by Cheyenne last year. Fountain's old sprint medley mark of 1:44.1 was broken with a 1:39.9. Finally, Durango's relayers toppled Crowley County's distance medley mark of 4:04.1 with a new 3:48.1.

Other firsts posted by Durango were the 120 yard high hurdles by Rusty Akins, and Jim Hatfield's 100 yard dash which was a steaming 9.9 effort.

Alamosa placed first in the discus with Butch Jones's toss of 159-4¼ which was more than 20 feet better than Jim Galvin's record setting 133-10 toss for Air Academy High last year. Besides the discus, Alamosa's relay team captured two firsts, one in the two mile relay with 8:54.8 displacing the old Fountain record of 9:25.8, and the mile relay also at the expense of a Fountain record, with 3:39.2 replacing the old time of 3:49.0.

Houston Defeats Cardinals

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—The Houston Colts, using four pinchhitters in the ninth inning including Mike White who tripled, scored four runs and defeated the St. Louis Cardinals 4-2 Saturday night.

Tim McCarver's two run homer in the seventh inning had put the Cardinals ahead, and a near victory for Roger Craig, who was taken out in the ninth after Bob Aspromonte singled.

Relief pitcher Bob Shantz was charged with the defeat. Shantz walked pinchhitter Ed Kasko and ex-Cardinals Jim Beauchamp singled scoring Aspromonte with the first run.

Ron Taylor replaced Shantz and pinchhitter Al Spangler sacrificed before White delivered his three-base hit scoring Kasko and Beauchamp. White scored on a squeeze play.

Craig ran into trouble on four occasions, starting with the second inning when Walter Bond fouled. But Craig got the next three batsmen.

Smith Leads Titleholders Golf Tourney

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI) —Defending champion Marilynn Smith skied to a 77 in the rain-swept, cold third round of the women's Titleholders golf tournament Saturday but still held onto a three-stroke lead over pre-tournament favorite Mickey Wright.

After two consecutive days of brilliant sunshine and summer temperatures, the ladies were forced to play in a constant drizzle and the mercury dropped to 65—25 degrees cooler than Friday.

Villanova Paces Penn Relays

By BOB GREEN

Associated Press Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Villanova dominated the premier relay events as they haven't been in 19 years, but North Carolina College's Norman Tate swept individual honors in the windup of the Penn Relays Saturday.

Villanova became the third team in the 70 year history of the event to win four relays and the first since Michigan in 1945. Pitt did it in 1939.

Tate, from East Orange, N.J., scored two individual victories, anchored two winning North Carolina College relay teams and was voted the meet's outstanding collegian.

He took the broad jump at 24-11 in opening day activity Friday, then added the triple jump with a hop, step and jump of 50-8¼ Saturday before a crowd of 39,142.

He also anchored the North Carolina College relay teams that won the 440, in 41 seconds flat and the 880, in 1:25.6.

The Wildcats ran third in the half-mile and fifth in the mile. North Carolina College won the first and Morgan State the latter, edging St. John's. Each was timed in 3:15.3.

O'Hare Sets Mark At Drake Relays

By JERRY LISKA

Associated Press Sports Writer

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Olympic hopeful Tom O'Hara of Chicago Loyola and Gayle Hopkins of Arizona led a wholesale record-smashing attack in the 55th Drake Relays Saturday.

Miler O'Hara, making his first outdoor start after a sensational indoor campaign, uncorked a typical, arm-flapping stretch drive to win a special Drake mile in 4:01, slashing more than four seconds from the meet record.

Hopkins' 51-8 was almost two feet better than the former Drake record of 49-9 set by Houston's Jack Smyth in 1958.

Although O'Hara entered the meet with dim hopes of cracking the four-minute barrier, he rose to the challenge of early pacesetters in the special mile.

O'Hara, who had complained of aches and pains last week, caught John Camien of Emporia, Kan. State coming off the final turn and sprinted to a four-yard victory.

Camien also broke the old meet mark of 4:05.4 set last year by Dyrol Burleson, with a 4:01.6 clocking.

"I was just running to win," said O'Hara. "I didn't care about the time, but I didn't seem to have the zip I did indoors."

Hopkins was in brilliant form as the Davenport, Iowa, high school product went all out for the home folk.

He topped 50 feet on all six of his triple jumps.

Triple jump—1. Gaylor Hopkins, Arizona, 51-8 (record; old record 49-9, Jack Smyth, Houston, 1958); 2. Bob Daugherty, Tulsa, 49-3; 3. Vic Brooks, Nebraska, 49-2¼; 4. Scott Elayre, Air Force, 47-8½; 5. Bill Chambers, Kansas, 47-5¼.

Knightly Manner Wins Race At Laurel

The finish line for the 1 1-16 mile Chesapeake had been moved 1-16th of a mile down track from the regular wire to enable the seven-horse field to start from the mile chute.

Owner William Haggin Perry said Knightly Manner, ridden by Donald Pierce, will not be entered in the Kentucky Derby despite his brilliant performance and time of 1:43 2-5, just 1-5 off the track record.

Trainer Jimmy Jones said he still was uncertain about shipping Kentucky Jug to the Derby.

W. C. MacMillen's Zurich was third, 2½ lengths behind Kentucky Jug.

Durango Tops at Fountain

By DICK FOSTER

All records were left shattered in the wake of fierce competition at the Second Annual Fountain Relays held at Fountain Fort Carson High School Saturday afternoon. Local teams were forced to take rear seats as teams from Durango and Alamosa ran away with a good deal of the glitter of victory.

The Durango squad finished with 87 points to top the meet and Alamosa the Defending Class AA track team was second with 72½ points. Some local competition was able to figure into the third and fourth place finishes though, as Cheyenne Mountain's touted thinclads finished third with 46½ points and Fountain's efforts netted them 45 points.

Locals were responsible for the setting of four records, three were from Cheyenne Mountain and the other was by Fountain's Rick Dor[illegible] who cleared 11-3 in the pole vault.

Durango racked up six firsts and in this meet every first was a record. Alamosa gained three records.

Cheyenne's Rick Stowell heaved the shot 55-8 for a new record, replacing the old mark of 47-11. The local school's Ron Graham also set two records, one in the high jump with his jump of 5-8 which replaced the old mark of 5-6, and the other in the broad jump where he went 20 feet 4½ inches to displace the old 19-3¼ record.

Durango's relay teams won the 440 relay, the distance medley, the 880 relay and the sprint medley. Relaymen Fred Sommer, Dave Barter, Dan Hatterson, Jim Hatfield, Joe Wilson and John Glass formed various combinations to establish four meet records in relay races for Durango.

The former 880 relay mark was 1:39.5 and was broken with a 1:34.2. The 440 relay time was a record breaking 44.7 replacing the 47.9 turned in by [illegible] last year. Fountain's sprint medley mark of 1:44.1 was broken with a 1:39.9. Finally, Durango's relayers toppled Crowley County's distance medley mark of 4:04.1 with a new 3:48.1.

Other firsts posted by Durango were the 120 yard high hurdles by Rusty Akins, and Jim Hatfield's 100 yard dash which was a steaming 9.9 effort.

Alamosa placed first in the discus with Butch Jones's toss of 156-4 which was more than 20 feet better than Jim Gavin's record-setting 133-10 toss for Air Academy High last year. Besides the discus, Alamosa's relay team captured two firsts, one in the two mile relay with 8:34.6, displacing the old Fountain record of 9:25.8, and the mile relay also at the expense of a Fountain record, with [illegible] replacing the old time of [illegible]

Villanova Paces Penn Relays

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Villanova dominated the premier relay events as they haven't been in 24 years but North Carolina College's Norman Tate swept individual honors in the windup of the Penn Relays Saturday.

Villanova became the third team in the 70 year history of the event to win four relays and the first since Michigan in 1945. Pitt did it in 1939.

Tate from East Orange, N.J., scored two individual victories, anchored two winning North Carolina College relay teams and was voted the meet's outstanding collegian.

He took the broad jump at 24-11 in opening day activity Friday, then added the triple jump with a hop, step and jump of 50-8 Saturday before a crowd of 19,142.

He also anchored the North Carolina College relay teams that won the 440 in 41 seconds flat and the 880 in 1:25.6.

The Wildcats ran third in the half mile and fifth in the mile. North Carolina College won the first and Morgan State the latter edging St. John's. Each was timed in 3:15.3.

O'Hare Sets Mark At Drake Relays

By JERRY LISKA
Associated Press Sports Writer

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — [illegible] Tom O'Hara of Chicago Loyola and Gayle Hopkins of Arizona led a wholesale record-smashing attack in the [illegible] Drake Relays Saturday.

Miler O'Hara, making his first outdoor start after a sensational indoor campaign, uncorked a typical arm-flapping stretch drive to win a special Drake mile in 4:01, slashing more than four seconds from the meet record.

Hopkins' 51-8 was [illegible] feet better than the former Drake record [illegible] Houston's [illegible]

Although O'Hara entered the meet with dim hopes of cracking the four-minute barrier, he rose to the challenge of early pacesetters in the special mile.

O'Hara, who had complained of aches and pains [illegible] caught [illegible] Emporia Kan. State [illegible] the final turn and sprinted to a [illegible] yard victory.

Camien also broke the old meet mark of 4:0[illegible] set last year by [illegible] with a 4:01.6 clocking.

"I was just running," said O'Hara. "I didn't care about the time but I didn't seem to have the zip I did indoors."

Hopkins was in brilliant form as the Davenport, Iowa, high school product went all out in the home park.

He topped 50 feet [illegible] of his triple jumps.

Knightly Manner Wins Race At Laurel

The finish line for the 1 1-16 mile Chesapeake had been moved 1-16th of a mile down track from the regular wire to enable the seven-horse field to start from the mile chute.

Owner William Haggin Perry said Knightly Manner, ridden by Donald Pierce, will not be entered in the Kentucky Derby despite his brilliant performance and time of 1:43 2-5, just 1-5 off the track record.

Trainer Jimmy Jones said he still was uncertain about shipping Kentucky Jug to the Derby.

W. C. MacMillen's Zurich was third, 2½ lengths behind Kentucky Jug.

Cubs Dump Philly In Eight Frame, 3-1

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Andre Rodgers' two-run homer in the eighth broke up a pitching duel and gave the Chicago Cubs a 4-1 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies Saturday night.

The Cubs' Larry Jackson and Phils' Dennis Bennett were engaged in a 2-1 duel going into the eighth. Then Ron Santo singled and Rodgers homered to settle the loosely played game in which the losers made four errors.

The Phils threatened in the ninth when they loaded the bases with one out on singles by Tony Gonzalez and Wes Covington and a walk to John Herrnstein.

Reliever Lindy McDaniel replaced Jackson at this point and retired Clay Dalrymple on a force at home and Bobby Wine on strikes to end the game.

Tresh Paces Yankees 4-1 Win

NEW YORK (UPI) —Switch-hitting Tom Tresh drove in three runs for the New York Yankees with a home run and a single Saturday and Jim Bouton pitched hitless ball until the sixth inning for a 4-1 victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

Bouton subsequently allowed three hits and was credited with his first victory of the year although he tired in the ninth inning and was relieved by southpaw Steve Hamilton.

Hamilton, who came on following Bouton's lead-off walk to Luis Aparicio, was greeted by Norm Siebern's single, but then struck out the next two batters and induced Sam Bowens to pop up for the final out.

Bouton, a 21-game winner last year, had a no-hitter until Jackie Brandt singled up the middle with two out in the sixth. Before leaving, the 25-year-old Yankee righthander was tagged for Siebern's first homer of the season with the bases empty in the seventh.

Tigers Squelch Twins' Rally to Post Victory

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI) — Larry Sherry squelched an eighth inning Minnesota rally Saturday and nailed down a 5-2 Detroit victory for Dave Wickersham, who retired 20 of 23 hitters over a seven inning stretch.

A double by Rich Rollins, a single by Tony Oliva and a run scoring single by Jimmie Hall forced Wickersham's departure in the eighth.

Sherry struck out Harmon Killebrew and got Don Mincher to fly out to end the threat. Wickersham, who beat the Twins in Detroit in his only other start, is now 2-1.

The loser was Camilo Pascual, 1-1, who gave up all six Detroit hits.

SPORTS FANS!

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

By Bob Foss

Here's an oddity . . . Babe Ruth played one season of minor league baseball before he was brought up to the majors and in that one season, he hit only ONE home run! . . . It's true that Ruth was a pitcher as well as an outfielder in those days but isn't it still surprising that the man who became the greatest home run hitter of all-time was in his entire first year of able to belt only one homer professional baseball?

* * *

We have not seen a .400 batter in big league baseball in the past 23 years . . . Do you know who was the last man to hit over .400 in a season? . . . He was Ted Williams . . . who smashed out a .406 average in 1941 . . . Who do you think will be the next .400 hitter?

* * *

What year did Man O' War win the Kentucky Derby? . . . Strangely enough, Man O' War, regarded as the greatest race horse of all-time, never raced in the Derby!

I bet you didn't know that you could own a new 1964 Mercury Comet for only $1,984.00, with only $198 down. We finance $1,786.00 at $58.75 per month. Remember, sales or service, you never take a loss when you trade with Bob Foss.

Green Sparks A's Triumph Over Senators

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—Rookie Dick Green's two-run homer, combined with the 8-hit pitching of right handers Moe Drabowsky and Johnny Wyatt, sparked the Kansas City Athletics to a 3-1 victory Saturday night over the Washington Senators.

With the score deadlocked 1-1 in the bottom of the fourth, Green hit a 450 foot home run over the left field fence with two out and Rocky Colavito on base.

Green's homer, his first of the year, came off righthander Tom Cheney, the first of three Washington pitchers.

Drabowsky, now 1-0, worked the first seven innings. He yielded six hits, struck out nine and walked only one.

Broadmoor Cancels Senior Skate Meet

The Broadmoor Skating Club has cancelled its world invitational senior figure skating championships scheduled in August, it was reported Saturday.

The cancellation was attributed to lack of interest of international figure skating stars, whose entry was a condition of a $25,000 national television contract. The meet had been scheduled Aug. 8-9.

White Sox Slip Past Boston for 4-2 Win

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Chicago White Sox, aided by 10 walks, defeated the Boston Red Sox 4-2 Saturday behind John Buzhardt to move into a fourth place tie with the Minnesota Twins.

Buzhardt, who was touched for nine hits, recorded his second straight victory of the season, both over the Red Sox. The White Sox scored three runs in the third inning off loser Ed Connolly.

The big blow was a two-run triple by Ron Hansen. Boston scored twice in its half of the sixth on doubles by Ed Bressoud and Frank Malzone and a single by Dick Stuart.

The White Sox got an insurance run in the seventh on a walk to Hansen and a triple by Al Weis.

Mr. Brick Cops Stepping Stone Purse

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Mr. Brick, a strong second to Quadrangle in the Wood Memorial last week, defeated four other Kentucky Derby eligibles in the Stepping Stone Purse at Churchill Downs Saturday.

The Stepping Stone, next to last prep for the May 2 Derby, saw the rank outsider Geology lead for the first ¾-mile in the 7-furlong sprint.

But jockey Milo Valenzuela had Mr. Brick moving after the leader as they rounded the Mr. Brick, owned by Roy Sturgis, had to survive a foul claim by jockey Larry Gilligan aboard the Scoundrel. Gilligan claimed Mr. Brick interferred with him in the stretch drive. The Scoundrel finished second.

Dandy K., who stumbled coming out of the starting gate and dropped about 12 lengths off the pace, finished third.

Reds Snap Giants Four-Game Streak

CINCINNATI, Ohio (UPI) — Jim Maloney pitched six-hit ball and drove in two tie-breaking runs himself with a single Saturday to lead the Cincinnati Reds to a 3-1 victory over the San Francisco Giants and snap the Giants' four-game winning streak.

It was the second win of the season for Maloney, who beat the Dodgers in his last appearance after losing on opening day. He struck out eight batters and walked four.

All the scoring in the game was packed into the fifth inning. First the Giants picked up what proved their only run of the game when Chuck Hiller singled with two out, moved to second as Duke Snider walked, and came home on Willie Mays' single.

But then the Reds, held in check for four innings by Jack Sanford, struck for all their runs. Sanford walked both Gordie Coleman and John Edwards and Chico Cardenas doubled to right to score Coleman with the tying run. Sanford retired Tommy Harper on a fielder's choice, but Maloney won his own game with a single through the middle that scored both Edwards and Cardenas.

The victory was the Reds' first in four meetings with the Giants this season.

Cubs Dump Philly In Eight Frame, 3-1

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) -- Andre Rodgers' two-run homer in the eighth broke up a pitching duel and gave the Chicago Cubs a 4-1 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies Saturday night.

The Cubs' Larry Jackson and Phils' Dennis Bennett were engaged in a 2-1 duel going into the eighth. Then Ron Santo singled and Rodgers homered to settle the loosely played game in which the losers made four errors.

The Phils threatened in the ninth when they loaded the bases with one out on singles by Tony Gonzalez and Wes Covington and a walk to John Herrnstein.

Reliever Lindy McDaniel replaced Jackson at this point and retired Clay Dalrymple on a [illegible] at home and Bobby Wine [illegible] to end the game.

FELLS FINE NOW — Pitcher Warren Spahn of the Milwaukee Braves shows where he was hit by a drive by John Werhas of the Los Angeles Dodgers in the fifth inning at Milwaukee, Saturday. Braves Down Dodgers; Spahn Posts 351st Win

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Milwaukee southpaw Warren Spahn fired a four-hitter for his first victory of the season and No. 351 of his career Saturday as the Braves dealt the staggering Los Angeles Dodgers another setback, 5-1.

The Dodgers, who have won only two of 11 games in defense of the National League pennant, suffered another crushing blow when southpaw Johnny Podres was hit on the left elbow by a Spahn pitch in the third inning.

Earlier this week, the Dodgers lost their ace southpaw, Sandy Koufax, for an undetermined length of time, when he suffered an injury to his pitching arm.

Spahn himself, shook off the effects of a line smash off the bat of John Werhas in the fifth inning. The 43-year-old great was hit on the left wrist.

Spahn struck out four and walked only one. He lost a bid for his 63rd lifetime shutout when Werhas walked and scored on Lee Walls' pinch double with two out in the seventh.

Fearless Fraley's Fact and Figures

By OSCAR FRALEY
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI)—Fearless Fraley's facts and figures:

If this corner had to guess, Yankee pride aside, Yogi Berra is front-running as the major league manager who has the best chance of being fired first this year.

Berra was hired to counteract Casey Stengel, what with Yankee Stadium attendance on the wane and the Mets having a new ball park hypoed by the World Fair. If the Yanks aren't winning, Berra's deadline is July 1 . . . .

You want some more. I'll give you Harry Craft at Houston, Sam Mele at Minnesota, if they don't make their big run and Johnny Pesky at Boston. Somebody upstairs doesn't like Pesky and Mele is the only major league manager who took a cut this season . . . on top of that, Danny Murtaugh of the Pirates privately has confided that this is his last time around . . . .

Crystal balling further: Walter Alston of the Los Angeles Dodgers is about due to be "fired" again because of the team's slow start. This dismissal, however, is only by some of my sports-writing pals and I'll give you a bit of odds that quiet Walter will still be at the helm at year's end . . . and next year, too . . . .

Golf is big business these days so shed a tear for Gene Littler that the poker-faced anonymity from California will be missing from next weekend's $65,000 Tournament of Champions in Las Vegas.

He hasn't won a tournament in the last year, so he doesn't qualify after a record 10 straight appearances. This makes Arnold Palmer the "king" this time around with nine appearances in a row . . . if you ever doubted, for a minute, that he was "The King."

Looking into the future. It would have to be guessed in this closet that Sam Huff will play football this fall for the Washington Redskins. Sam is a very proud feller who feels that the Giants gave him a very bad shake by peddling him off . . . his greatest games next fall will be against those very same Giants.

The biggest suckers in sports have to be the guys who bet place and show at the race track. The answer is that once a horse is beaten in the stretch the jockey is under instructions, 90 per cent of the time, not to ride him out or flail his mount all the way to the finish line.

This has to be a license to steal from the customers who figured the nag would be driven all out to save their two buck bet . . . so eventually comes the revolution.

Casey Stengel says that, if he had his baseball life to live all over, he would join the Mets. Considering that he did, at the end of the rope, you might figure that this is a lot of hit and run hogwash.

But figure it out and you'll see that the man from K. C. may be talking from his heart. There are guys busting their waistbands trying to make the Yankees and the Dodgers. But when a club is in last place and trying to get ninth, at any cost, the odds are that any kid can do better.

Jockey Still Riding At Age 57

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

ALBANY, Calif. (AP)—John Longden, wealthy and a grandfather, slips on his bifocals to read the paper, yet the world's winningest jockey isn't even thinking of retiring because, "I don't know what else I'd do that I'd like."

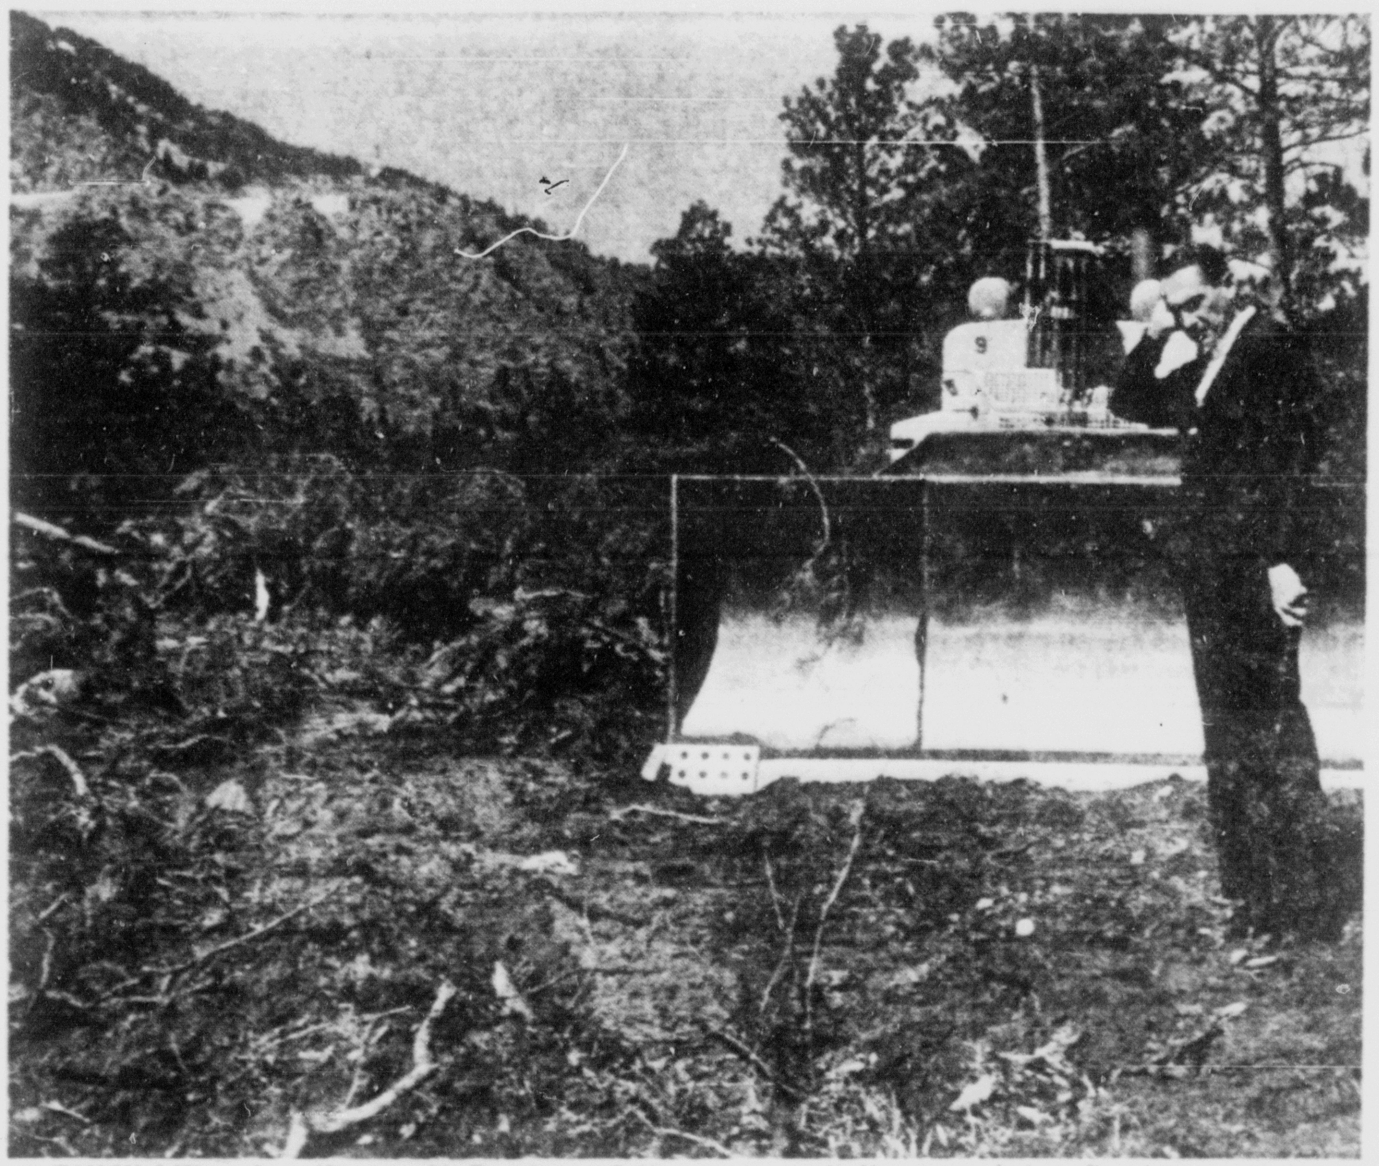
He also finds a definite riding advantage in being 57, explaining, "for some reason I'm not having any trouble making weight. For 25 yars I had to go into the sweat room just about every day. No more.

"I guess I'm getting dried up . . . no trouble making 112 pounds."

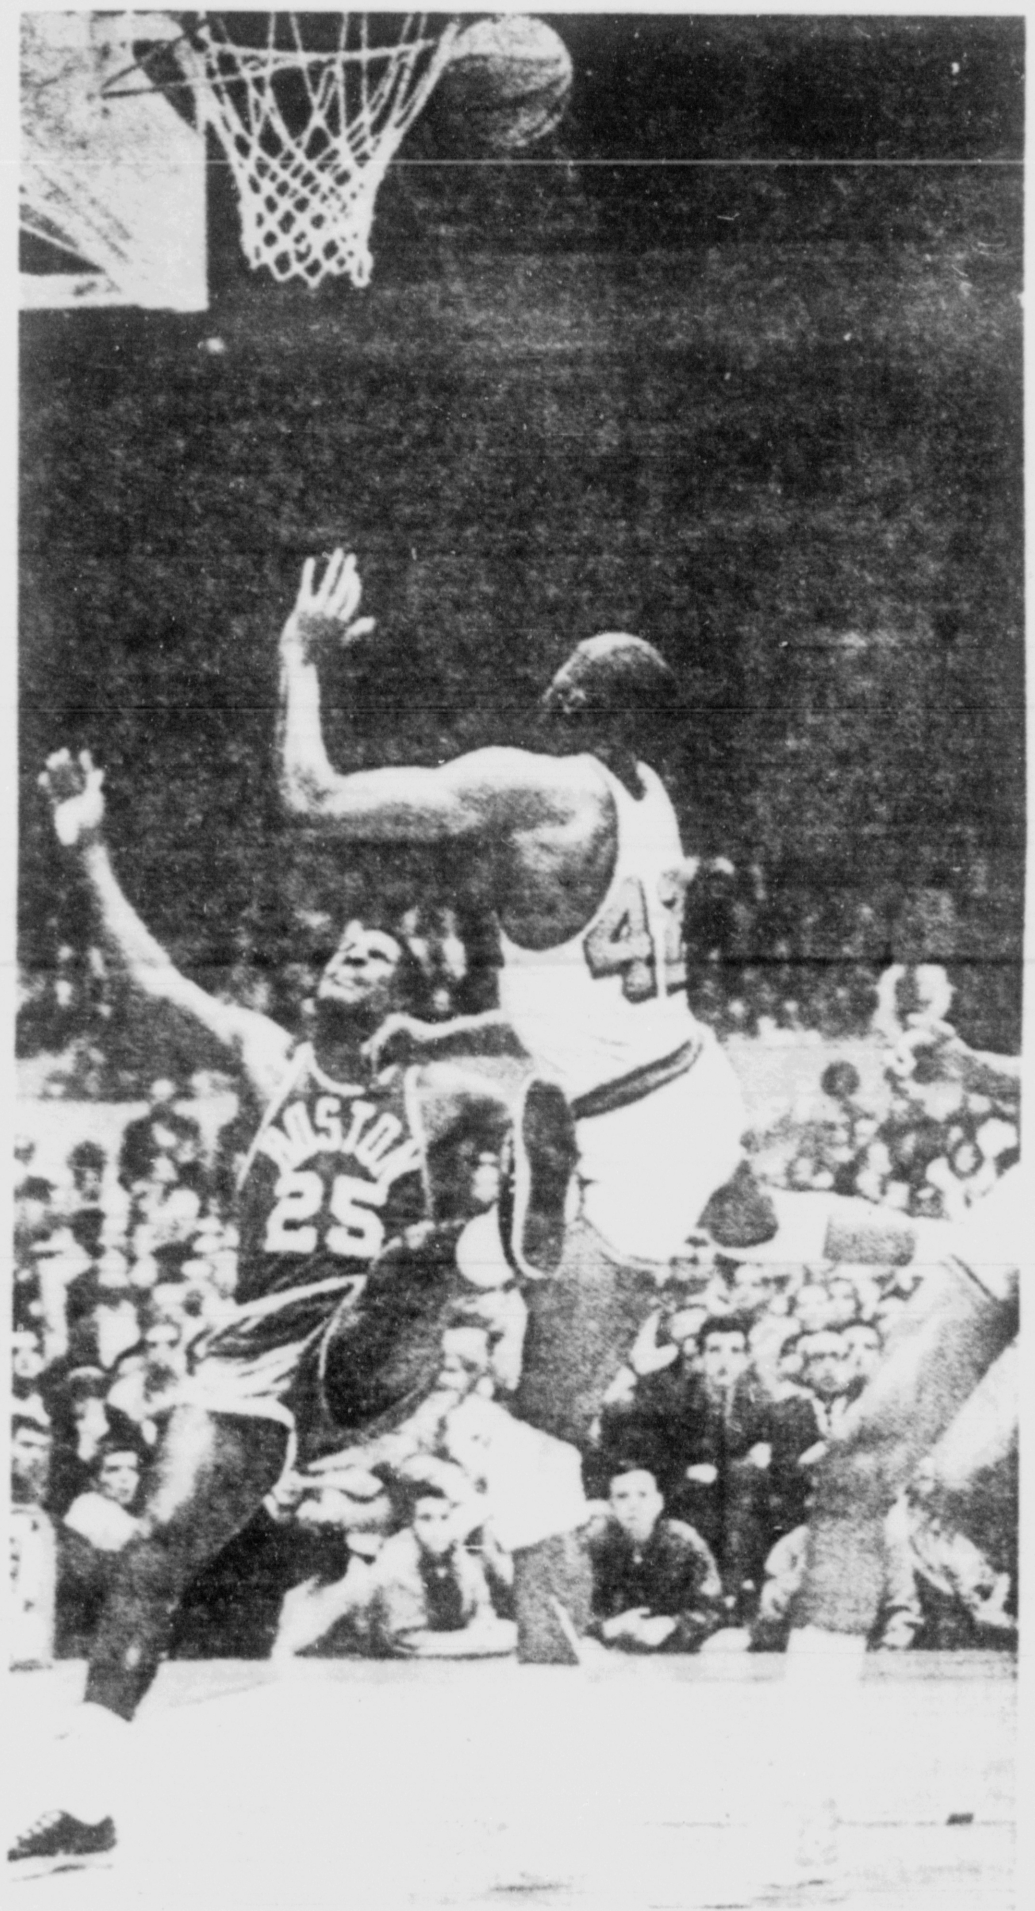
Last Saturday Longden proved again his mettle as he piloted Real Good Deal to victory in the $59,900 California Derby and won $37,400 for the owners. The customary 10 per cent for the jockey earned Longden $3,740.

He doesn't need the money. Already a millionaire, Johnny owns a lovely home in Arcadia near Santa Anita in southern California. He goes there each weekend, then returns to Golden Gate Fields near San Francisco where the current California meeting is being held. He goes to bed early and arises at 6:30 by habit.

He defers to his age in accepting only three or four mounts a day instead of the six or seven when he was younger.



A TOUGH LIE — Dow Finsterwald, Broadmoor Golf Club professional, finds the work on the new 18 hole course coming along rapidly, but hardly finished. Regular play is expected to begin in the spring of 1965, but play on Broadmoor's present 27 holes is not being interrupted. Upon completion, Broadmoor will have the only 36 hole course in the state and will have such modern facilities as an electronically controlled underground water system. (Photo by Bob McIntyre)



JONES MAKES THE COLLEGE TRY — K. C. Jones (25) of the Boston Celtics makes his shot and goes over backwards in the second half of action Friday night against the San Francisco Warriors in the San Francisco's Cow Palace. Warrior Nate Thurmond (42) is at the right. The Celtics edged San Francisco, 98-95, to take a three to one bulge in the best of seven National Basketball Association championship playoff. Kentucky Derby Set Saturday

By KELSO STURGEON
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Hill Rise and Northern Dancer have buried the opposition from coast to coast but it looks as if at least 14 three-year-olds will challenge them Saturday in the Kentucky Derby.

In the past, outstanding horses as Hill Rise, the 8-5 Derby choice, and Northern Dancer, the 2-1 second choice, would scare off the opposition. But it didn't happen this year.

And if recent Derbies means anything, those who decided to tackle the big two in the $125,000-added Derby have made the right decision. Carry Back and Tomy Lee are the only favorites in the past seven years to win the Derby.

Hill Rise, a California campaigner, and Northern Dancer, the richest horse in Canadian history, are perfect pictures of contrast in physical structure. Hill Rise, owned by El Peco Ranch, which sent Decidedly to victory in the Derby two years ago, is a big strong colt. Northern Dancer, owned by J.P. Taylor's Windfields Farm of Toronto is a little colt. His biggest asset is his heart. He just doesn't know when to quit.

Other horses given a good chance of knocking down the top two are Rex Ellsworth's The Scoundrel, Rokeby Stable's Quadrangle, Cecil Carmis' Dandy K., Harbor View Farm's Roman Brother, Roy Sturgis' Mr. Brick and Mrs. Magruder Dent's Mr. Moonlight.

Others considered probable starters are Grand Garcon, Big Brigarde, Clem Pac, Ishkoodah, Royal Chuch, He's a Gem, Extra Swell and Admiral Heart.

Listed as doubtful are Prince Davelle, the Arkansas Derby winner; Calumet Farm's Kentucky Jug, Dixiana Farm's Allen Adair, Dor-Mat-Pat Stable's Dunfee and Darby Dan Farm's Saltville.

Indianapolis Speedway Opens Season, Friday

By DALE BURGESS
Associated Press Sports Writer

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The Indianapolis Speedway will open for its 54th season Friday with the bumps gone from the backstretch, the seating capacity expanded to 140,000, and the front-engine versus rear-engine argument headed for a showdown.

Jimmy Clark of Scotland, who dominated world road racing last year, also shook up American closed courses—notably by finishing a close second to Parnelli Jones in the Indianapolis 500 on Memorial Day.

The reliable old four-cylinder Offenhauser rear-engines have been put in a dozen American-built cars this year. Two have been driven at fantastic practice speeds by A. J. Foyt and Len Sutton.

Ten rear-engine cars will carry a new Ford engine, including a couple of Colin Chapman's Lotuses from London with Clark and Dan Gurney as the drivers.

There also is a rear-engine Chevrolet, along with a couple of front-engine Studebaker-Novis, one with a four-wheel-drive.

There still are 34 conventional Indianapolis roadsters, with Offenhauser engines up front, among the 60 entries which will be permitted to start practice and drivers' tests Friday.

One PGA Tourney Site Is Solution

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (AP)—Now that the Professional Golfers Association has moved into its luxurious new quarters here, speculation grows that a second Masters Tournament may rise among Florida's palms.

"It's time we quit making a road show of the PGA Championship and move it to one course," a prominent PGA official said recently. "The ideal place would be the PGA National Golf Club.

"Everybody knows that the reason for the great success o the Masters is that it is held in the same place every year on a wonderful course. We could do the same with the PGA here—and the fact it is an official championship would give it even greater stature."

The PGA, launched in 1916 as a match play event and converted in 1958 to a 72-hole medal competition, never has managed to climb to the prestige of the U.S. Open or, in recent years, to the Masters. One of the reasons was that it often was played on inferior courses.

Transfer of the PGA headquarters to this lush, palm-studded area on the Florida east coast has made this situation no longer necessary.

Two beautiful, demanding 18-hole courses, designed by the well-known architect Dick Wilson, have been carved out of 450 acres, lined by stately palms more than 50 years old.

The courses were built at a cost of $2 million by real estate developer John D. MacArthur and turned over to the PGA, which only had to pay the $1.5 million necessary for the club house. They have been involved in legal problems, but these have been ironed away.

The East Course measures 6,600 yards and plays a testing par 36-36—72. The West Course stretches 6,310 yards and also has a par 36-36—72. Both can be lengthened for tournament play.

There are numerous water hazards and large, gaping sand traps. Some of the extreme doglegs are designed to favor neither the hooker nor slicer.

The 565-yard, par 5 17th hole on the East Course goes with the prevailing southeast wind. The par 4 18th is dead against the wind.

The two courses drain into a wandering stream which widens into lakes. The stream makes hazard for 13 holes on the East Course and 11 on the West.

"These courses are as tough as any in the country," says Strong, the director of golf at the PGA's new home.

Fearless Fraley's Fact and Figures

By OSCAR FRALEY
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI)—Fearless Fraley's facts and figures:

If this corner had to guess, Yankee pride aside, Yogi Berra is front-running as the major league manager who has the best chance of being fired first this year.

Berra was hired to counteract Casey Stengel, what with Yankee Stadium attendance on the wane and the Mets having a new ball park hypoed by the World Fair. If the Yanks aren't winning, Berra's deadline is July 1 [illegible]

You want some more? I'll give you Harry Craft at Houston, Sam Mele at Minnesota if they don't make their big run and Johnny Pesky at Boston. Somebody upstairs doesn't like Pesky and Mele is the only major league manager who took a cut this season [illegible] on top of that, Danny Murtaugh of the Pirates privately has confided that this is his last time around.

Crystal balling further: Walter Alston of the Los Angeles Dodgers is about due to be fired again because of the team's slow start. This dismissal, however, is [illegible] by some of my sports-writing pals and [illegible] a bit of odds that quiet Walter will still be at the helm at [illegible] and next year [illegible]

[illegible] these days [illegible] that the [illegible] from California will be missing from next weekend's $65,000 Tournament of Champions in Las Vegas.

He [illegible] won a tournament in the last year so he doesn't qualify after a record 10 straight appearances. This makes Arnold Palmer the [illegible] with nine appearances in a row [illegible] The [illegible] would have [illegible] guessed this [illegible] that Sam Huff would be playing this fall for the Washington Redskins. Sam [illegible] very proud [illegible] who feels that the Giants gave him a very bad shake by peddling him off [illegible] his greatest games next fall will be against [illegible] same Giants.

[illegible] place and [illegible] There are guys busting their [illegible] to make the Yankees and the Dodgers [illegible] but when [illegible] place and [illegible] [illegible]

Jockey Still Riding At Age 57

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

ALBANY, Calif. (AP)—Johnny Longden, wealthy and a grandfather, slips on his bifocals to read the paper. But the world's winningest jockey isn't even thinking of retiring because "I don't know what else I'd do that I'd like."

He also finds a definite riding advantage in being 57, explaining [illegible] "I'm not having any trouble making weight. For 27 years I had to go into the sweat [illegible] just about every day. No more.

"I guess I'm getting dried up [illegible] making 112 pounds."

Last Saturday [illegible] Longden proved again [illegible] as he piloted [illegible] to victory in the $[illegible] California Derby and won $[illegible] for the owners. The [illegible] 10 per cent for the jockey earned Longden $3,740.

He doesn't need the money. Already a millionaire, Johnny owns a [illegible] near Santa Anita in southern California. He goes there each weekend, then [illegible] Golden Gate Fields near San Francisco where the current California meeting is being held. He goes to bed early and arises at 6:30 by habit.

He defers to his age in accepting only three or four mounts a day instead of the six or seven when he was younger.

Indianapolis Speedway Opens Season, Friday

By DALE BURGESS
Associated Press Sports Writer

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The Indianapolis Speedway will open [illegible] season Friday with [illegible] from the backstretch [illegible] seating capacity expanded to 140,000 and the front-engine versus rear-engine argument headed for a showdown.

Jimmy Clark of Scotland, who dominated world road racing last year, also shook up American closed courses—notably by finishing a close second to Parnelli Jones in the Indianapolis 500 on Memorial Day.

The reliable old four-cylinder Offenhauser rear-engines have been put in a dozen American-built cars this year. Two have been driven at fantastic practice speeds by A. J. Foyt and Len Sutton.

Ten rear-engine cars will carry a new Ford engine, including a couple of Colin Chapman's Lotuses from London with Clark and Dan Gurney as the drivers.

There also is a rear-engine Chevrolet along with a couple of front-engine Studebaker-Novis, one with a four-wheel-drive.

There still are 34 conventional Indianapolis roadsters with Offenhauser engines up front among the 60 entries which will be permitted to start practice and drivers tests Friday.

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (AP)—Now that the Professional Golfers Association has moved into its luxurious new quarters here, speculation grows that a second Masters Tournament may rise among Florida's palms.

Rube Goldberg Draws His Last Cartoon Today

NEW YORK (AP) — Rube Goldberg draws his last cartoon today. He's 81 now and thinks it's time to start a new career.

"I didn't want to wait until I was dead to stop cartooning, or until someone didn't want me any more," said Goldberg, who will devote full time to being a sculptor.

His last cartoon for the New York Journal-American, and 43 other newspapers, will end a 59-year career.

Goldberg's first job as a cartoonist was with the Chronicle in his native San Francisco. About 10 years later, by 1916, he was in New York earning $100,000 a year as the author of "Boob McNutt" and "Mike and Ike—They Look Alike."

His comic strips, featuring weird inventions, were enjoyed by millions.

A typical one depicted how to zip a woman's dress:

A bird on a shelf pecks birdseed on the tip of a match, setting fire to a box of matches, which falls on the tail of a turtle sitting on the edge of a bathtub.

The turtle jumps into the tub and a string tied around its neck tightens on a pulley. The other end of the string is attached to the zipper and, as the turtle sinks, the zipper is pulled up.

Goldberg began political cartooning in 1938, when he signed with the old New York Sun. After the Sun was merged with the World-Telegram in 1950 he went to King Features, where he has been drawing three editorial cartoons per week. He was awarded a Pulitzer Prize in 1948.

Goldberg became interested in sculpture about a year ago, and already his studio on East 61st street in Manhattan is lined with his work.

Currently he's working on a head of Premier Khrushchev — not a passive work, since the Soviet leader's mouth is wide open.

Goldberg, saying he wants to get back to humor in his sculpting, added: "My stuff will be funny—funny because it's supposed to be, not unintentionally funny like some of this abstract stuff."

One of his sculptures shows two somnalent boxers in a clinch. A brass plate affixed to its base reads: "It's a terrific fight; there's a left to the jaw and a right to the head."

Local Men Will Be Tried in Denver Court

DENVER (AP) — Two Colorado Springs men will be tried separately in Denver District Court — in July for robbery and in September for murder.

They are Gary Dewane Adamson, 23, and S. 5 Joel J. Whitman, 21, Ft. Carson soldier.

They are accused of murder in the death of Walter F. Hamilton, 47, of Littleton in a collision March 16 while being chased by police.

Dist. Atty. Bert Keating said the men were fleeing from a $76 holdup of a creamery at the time of the crash.

Keating said he would ask for the death penalty because the fatal accident occurred during commission of a felony.

Nowadays some sponge-cake type recipes call for whole eggs beaten until stiff. If you are using a recipe of this sort, have the eggs at room temperature so they'll beat up to the best volume.

Square Dance Group Gets 23 Charter Members

Twenty-three youngsters became the "charter members" of Pikes Peak Promenaders Square Dance Club at a graduation party held Saturday night at the Skyline Club at Ent AF Base.

Pikes Peak Promenaders was the name chosen by these youngsters, ages 10 to 15, for their club.

The group, which is under the direction of Lee and Geri Barnes was originally formed as a square dance class, but after 15 lessons decided to form a regular square dance club.

Many of the children in Pikes Peak Promenaders are offspring of members of Skyline Squares, the Square Dance club sponsored by Skyline Club, Ent AF Base.

The Pikes Peak Promenaders invited their parents and friends to a chuck wagon dinner. Following the dinner Lee and Geri Barnes presented each member with a diploma, "Bachelor of Square Dancing" and the club badge.

After the ceremony, the children presented an exhibition dance. Their costumes were authentic Western style with Gambler pants and white shirts for the boys and Fiesta dresses and pantaloons for the girls.

The rest of the evening was spent square dancing. Lee Barnes and Fred Staeben were the callers.

The members of Pikes Peak Promenaders are:

Hundreds of Youths Want to See Beatles

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The first tickets went on sale Saturday for the August appearance of the British entertainers, the Beatles. And guess what? Hundreds of teen-agers were waiting—after an all-night vigil — for the first chance to buy the ducats.

The crowd was orderly and many of the youngsters had their parents along as chaperones.

Square Dance Group Gets 23 Charter Members

Twenty-three youngsters became the "charter members" of Pikes Peak Promenaders Square Dance Club at a graduation party held Saturday night at the Skyline Club at Ent AF Base.

Pikes Peak Promenaders was the name chosen by these youngsters, ages 10 to 15, for their club.

The group, which is under the direction of Lee and Geri Barnes, was originally formed as a square dance class, but after 15 lessons decided to form a regular square dance club.

Many of the children in Pikes Peak Promenaders are offspring of members of Skyline Squares, the Square Dance club sponsored by Skyline Club, Ent AF Base.

The Pikes Peak Promenaders invited their parents and friends to a chuck wagon dinner. Following the dinner Lee and Geri Barnes presented each member with a diploma, "Bachelor of Square Dancing," and the club badge.

After the ceremony, the children presented an exhibition dance. Their costumes were authentic Western style with Gambler pants and white shirts for the boys and Fiesta dresses and pantaloons for the girls.

The rest of the evening was spent square dancing. Lee Barnes and Fred Staeben were the callers.

The members of Pikes Peak Promenaders are:

Hal Barnes, Randy Barnes, Barry Berven, Cecily Campbell, Colin Campbell, Mimi Campbell, Skip Campbell, Jimmy Copsey, Debby Engle, Lynn Gibson, Laura Harman, John Harman, Diane Kerr-Wilson, Bruce Kolisek, Flavia Lynn, Timmy Lynn, Denise LaRue, Irene LaRue, Debbie Salisbury, Heidi Snobble, Leslie Sollee, Shannon Taylor, Jane Winter.

Oranges were grown for many years in China before being introduced to Europe by the Crusaders.

Hundreds of Youths Want to See Beatles

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The first tickets went on sale Saturday for the August appearance of the British entertainers, the Beatles. And guess what? Hundreds of teen-agers were waiting—after an all-night vigil — for the first chance to buy the ducats.

The crowd was orderly and many of the youngsters had their parents along as chaperones.

WASHINGTON — Special to Gazette Telegraph — The long expected review of military retirement by the Department of Defense is now under way. As previously anticipated in this column the Pentagon is taking a new approach this time by going to the grass root levels to ascertain just what the officers and men think of military retirement.

This column has several times reported on the pros and cons of the 20-year retirement for active duty personnel. It's main value, other than as an out for active duty Reserve officers, is the morale value to the career regulars who reach their peak after 20 years. Few Regular officers actually apply for retirement at that time.

Personnel planners are hopeful that the survey will include comments on full time pay longevity for non-active duty time. Since 1942 Reserve officers and National Guard officers have been credited with full longevity for this non-active duty time on the same basis accorded full time active duty.

Reliable Budget planning sources say this treating nonactive duty on a par with full active duty time is one of the basic causes for inflation in the retirement budget. Earlier retirements of active duty Reserve officers based on 20 years of active duty and 10 in the Reserve is costing the taxpayers approximately $7,984,000 per year. Regular officers receive only 50 per cent retired pay for 20 years of active duty.

The retirement survey may also go into the equity of active duty Reserve retirement in the ROPA grade with no active duty in the ROPA grade. These budget planners say that this "special retirement bonus" for active duty Reserve officers is costing the taxpayers $62,262,000 a year. This combined with what is paid the "20 and 10" retired Reservists comes to $70,246,000 a year for the 86,465 retired Reserves over and above what is paid for their normal 50 per cent retired pay based on 20 years of active duty and the actual grade in which they are serving at time of retirement.

The feeling is growing in Washington circles that active duty retirement for the military should be only in the grade in which the Reservist is serving at the time of his retirement.

The Army may get a proposal that would give officers and men of active units "go by air" special hazard pay. If this proposal receives approval it would be payable to personnel of the 11th Air Assault Division, Ft Benning.

The Defense Supply Association has initiated a special employment office to assist retiring military personnel secure civilian employment. Each interested individual should send ten copies of a one-page summary to the Washington office of the association.

The Air Force Association is on record as saying to Congress that the next military pay raise (expected to be in 1965) should include all active duty personnel including those with less than 2 years of active duty.

A fight is brewing between top level civilian officials of the Government and uniformed leaders over bombers vs. missiles. It is expected to be exploded when the Air Force Association holds an annual Aerospace Panorama in Washington Sept. 9-12 if not sooner. Defense Secretary McNamara has a "secret weapon" that he may use to defeat the reported pressure from the air industry.

The Armed Forces may pay military pay and allowances and sick and annual leave benefits concurrently to hospitalized National Guardsmen and Reservists of the Army, according to a new ruling of the Comptroller General.

One of the major veterans organization is seeking support in Congress to reopen "GI" insurance benefits, especially to the disabled veterans who are finding it difficult to obtain regular commercial insurance. If Congress enacts the necessary legislation it will include personnel now on active duty.

Clothing manufacturers are protesting to the Secretary of Defense over a proposal to drop Army summer tans within the next few years. Under the proposal military men will wear the Army "Greens" year around. The summer wear type will be of lighter weight than that worn in the winter months. The clothing industry with huge stickpiles of the khaki cloth, is fearful of losses running into the millions. Best word at the Pentagon says that if the changeover should be approved, it would be a gradual changeover in a 5-year period.

For those planning after retirement to settle in Florida near MacDill AFB the word is that the hospital facilities at the base are unable to continue to take care of retirees and their dependents.

Postmasters' Lives Full of Challenges

"Postmasters' lives are full of the challenges and satisfactions which come from helping the public," says Postmaster R. H. Wardwell. "But there are also occasional times of frustration and disappointment when the patron doesn't understand or when he makes a request which must be denied."

The cashing of personal checks on the one hand, or the inability to accept them on the other, is a constant source of either pleasure or pain.

Postmaster Wardwell is most anxious for it to be understood that his office does not do one or the other simply to help a certain patron or make it difficult for another, but because of the well-known fact that some checks are as good as the money they represent while others are of less value than the paper and ink used in their preparation.

Where the post office receives a good check, everyone is happy; but where the post office receives a bad check, the transaction is especially sad for the accepting employee, for he has to make it up.

The general rule is that if the postmaster is willing to guarantee payment, and if negotiations can be completed without expense to the Postal Service, both ordinary and certified checks may be accepted in payment for goods and services. Otherwise, "a corporate indemnity bond covering the acceptance of such checks in amounts specified by the patron" or "a check guarantee executed by the patrons' bank" must be filed with the postmaster.

Further information about use of checks for transacting postal business can be had by calling 632-8841.

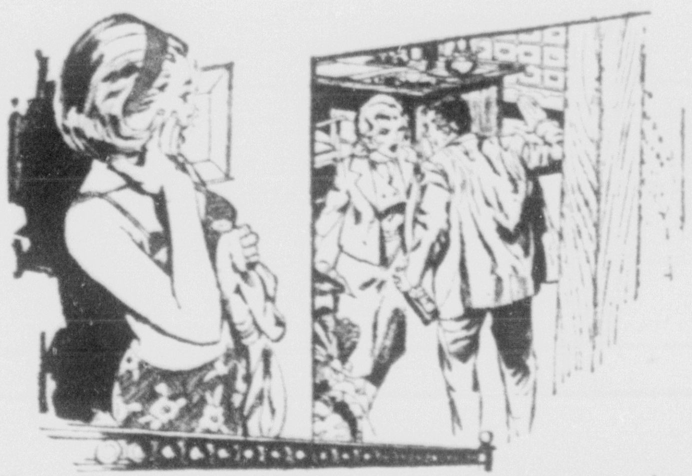
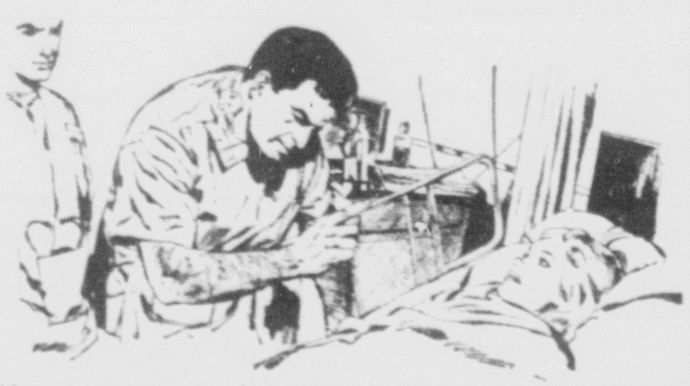
Cause...

This exciting new BEN CASEY story starts Monday in the Gazette Telegraph.



Marcy Fitzroy was deeply shocked by what she saw — her mother and father, known as the most idyllic couple in show business, in a violent argument. And then it happened: Her mother struck her father. Her father retaliated. Marcy was thrown into an agony of doubt and despair . . .

...and Effect!



Marcy's reaction to her parents' angry encounter takes a dramatic turn—hysterical blindness. Dr. Ben Casey suspects what her trouble is and tracks down its cause. The rest is up to Marcy—and to Diane and Paul Fitzroy, whose love and attention Marcy so desperately needs.

More Tony Voters Appointed by Wing

NEW YORK (AP) — A new procedure for picking winners of Broadway's annual Tony citation has been adopted by the American Theater Wing.

Show producers and all critics, writers and editors regularly covering theatrical events are to cast ballots along with the Wing's officers and subscribers. The organization also is deferring awards until the end of May — a month later than formerly — so that late season arrivals may be eligible.

The silver medallions are awarded for "outstanding achievement" in various performing and technical categories.

Mexican Movies Bought

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Ten Mexican movies have been purchased for a theater chain in West Africa. A spokesman said it will be the first showing of such films in Spanish in Nigeria, Liberia, Ghana, Sierra Leone and Gambia.

Playwright's First Work Eliminates Scenery

NEW YORK (AP) — James Baldwin's first stage work, "Blues for Mr. Charlie," is eliminating scenery in the interests of artistic effectiveness plus economy.

Cheryl Crawford, executive producer for the Actors Studio Theater, felt the drama would play better without settings and special costuming, instead rely on lighting to underscore episodes.

As a result, the production budget was set at $60,000, compared with a probable cost of about $100,000 if scenery had been used.

The giant fruit-eating bat of India ranks as the largest bat on earth. It attains a wingspread of five feet and, because of its long, slender muzzle, is called a flying fox.

WASHINGTON — Special to Gazette Telegraph — The long expected review of military retirement by the Department of Defense is now under way. As previously anticipated in this column the Pentagon is taking a new approach this time by going to the grass root levels to ascertain just what the officers and men think of military retirement.

This column has several times reported on the pros and cons of the 20-year retirement for active duty personnel. It's main value, other than as an out for active duty Reserve officers, is the morale value to the career regulars who reach their peak after 20 years. Few Regular officers actually apply for retirement at that time.

Personnel planners are hopeful that the survey will include comments on full time pay longevity for non-active duty time. Since 1942 Reserve officers and National Guard officers have been credited with longevity for this non-active duty time on the same basis as rated full time active duty.

Reliable Budget [illegible] sources say this treating non-active duty on a par with active duty time [illegible] raises [illegible] retirement [illegible] retirements of active duty Reserve officers based on [illegible] of active duty and [illegible] Reserve is costing the taxpayers [illegible] per year. Regulars [illegible] receive only 50 per cent retired pay for 20 years of active duty.

The retirement survey may also go into the [illegible] of active duty Reserve retirement in the ROPA grade with no active duty in the ROPA grade. These budget planners say that this special retirement [illegible] active duty Reserve [illegible] is costing the taxpayers $2,242,000 a year. This [illegible] what is paid the [illegible] retired Reservists comes to $70,246,000 a year for the 86,465 retired Reservists over and above what is paid for their normal 50 per cent retired pay based on 20 years of active duty and the actual grade in which they are serving at time of retirement.

The feeling [illegible] in Washington [illegible] that active duty retirement for the military should be only in the grade in which the Reservist is serving at the time of his retirement.

The Army may get a proposal that would [illegible] men of active [illegible] special [illegible] 11th Air Assault Division, Ft. Benning.

The Defense Supply Association has initiated a special employment office to assist retiring military personnel secure civilian employment. Each interested individual should send ten copies of a one-page summary to the Washington office of the association.

The Air Force Association is on record as saying to Congress that the next military pay raise expected to be in 1965 should include all active duty personnel including those with less than 2 years of active duty.

A fight is brewing between top level civilian officials of the Government and uniformed leaders over bombers vs. missiles. It is expected to be exploded when the Air Force Association holds an annual Aerospace Panorama in Washington Sept. 9-12. It is rumored Defense Secretary McNamara has a secret weapon that he may use to defeat the reported pressure from the air industry.

The Armed Forces may pay military pay and allowances and sick and annual leave benefits concurrently to hospitalized National Guardsmen and Reservists of the Army according to a new ruling of the Comptroller General.

One of the major veterans organization is seeking support in Congress to reopen GI insurance benefits, especially to the disabled veterans who are finding it difficult to obtain regular commercial insurance. If Congress enacts the necessary legislation it will include personnel now on active duty.

Clothing manufacturers are protesting to the Secretary of Defense over a proposal to drop Army summer tans within the next few years. Under the proposal military men will wear the Army "Greens" year around. The summer wear type will be of lighter weight than that worn in the winter months. The clothing industry with huge stockpiles of the khaki cloth, is fearful of losses running into the millions. Best word at the Pentagon says that if the changeover should be approved it would be a gradual change over in a 5-year period.

For those planning after retirement to settle in Florida near MacDill AFB the word is that the hospital facilities at the base are unable to continue to take care of retirees and their dependents.

Playwright's First Work Eliminates Scenery

NEW YORK (AP) — James Baldwin's first stage work, "Blues for Mr. Charlie," is eliminating scenery in the interests of artistic effectiveness plus economy.

Cheryl Crawford, executive producer for the Actors Studio Theater, felt the drama would play better without settings and special costuming, instead relying on lighting to underscore episodes.

As a result, the production budget was set at $60,000, compared with a probable cost of about $100,000 if scenery had been used.

APRIL DAYS

Again the blackbirds and the meadowlarks sing and the streams are wide awake from their winter dreams. The tassels tremble on Maple trees in the wind. There are many thoughts in the minds of people in the month of April. We think of the many things to plant in our yards and of the many things to do in our homes. The first war mshowers may come to awaken all the flowers. The grass looks a little greener, the birds sing more merrily and the buds begin to swell, some bursting forth. The bees and butterflies are fluttering about in the warm, sunshine and there is a lot of excitement among bird life, chattering about nest building and gathering material. There is much to see in the month of April and every day brings new things to observe. April comes to the cities and towns but best of all the woods, the farms, the fields and hills. It is there she looks the best. The great patches of green, the newly ploughed fields with rich brown earth, the willows along river banks, all showing new colors, some with soft gray pussies, wild flowers springing up in all the nooks and blossoming trees. The cattle moving lazily across fields, the flocks of sheep taken to new pasture.

From the woods come voices we love to hetr. A soft breeze breaks through the tree tops and we hear the squirrels chattering, the low notes of the mourning doves, the scolding notes of the jays, the towee's lively note and the thrush with his bell-like notes. Out in the more open places, we see the blue birds perched on fences and low bushes giving their low note of spring which is soft and musical. The dewy springs flowers shine in the bright sunshine and when the day is done, they nod their heads as though a little drowsy in the chill of the evening so they tuck their heads back under the blanket of earth.

With bright sunshine overhead and flowers at your feet, life seems lovely and sweet in April. The old withered stalks of last year's growth will soon decay and in its place new life will spring forth. The earth will be arrayed in new dresses of green. The moss clinging to rocks has a new green look and behind the clouds and through the showers the sun is shining and sunbeams fall. April is the month of many moods and whims. We never know what is coming next but know whatever is coming, the sunshine is sure to follow. We will take what it has to offer and be glad it is April. The winds have sounded a retreat and spring laden with glory comes in.

MOTOR ENGINEER

LINCOLN, England (UPI)—Retired motor engineer Algernon Bates, 85, gave four magistrates the benefit of his 66 years driving experience Thursday when he appeared in court on a careless driving charge.

"I have been driving since 1898 and had never had an accident," he told the magistrates. "I am very proud of my record. I have lived in a car for 66 years, and what I don't know about driving—and I am not boasting — is not worth knowing. I am sound of limb, wind, eyesight and hearing."

The magistrates promptly dismissed the charge.

By 1970 there will be about 20 million Americans 65 years of age and over, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare reports. There were 16.6 million reported in the 1960 census.

Sen. Gill Man on Spot When Assembly Convenes

By GORDON G. GAUSS
Associated Press Writer

DENVER (AP) — State Sen. Frank L. Gill, balding, 69-year old rancher from Hillrose and a Senate veteran of 22 years, will be the man on the spot when the Colorado Legislature convenes in special session Saturday to equalize the state's four congressional districts according to population.

Gill knows it. And he loves the idea.

The senator is the Republican majority's leading dissenter to a so-called doughnut plan of reapportionment. It would form the suburban area into a doughnut-like district around Denver and would transfer much of northern Colorado into the Fourth District, now composed principally of Western Slope Counties.

Gill—who is known as "Ted" to everyone at the capitol from the governor to elevator operators—says the plan isn't fair. He contends it would break up the rich Platte Valley agricultural region, which he thinks should remain as a unit. Unless it does, he insists, its interests will not be protected adequately.

"I'm going to sit tight," Gill said in an interview at the capitol on the outlook for the session.

"It is no more desirable for us to go to the Western Slope now than it ever was.

"If they have to enlarge the Western Slope district, let them get the numbers where the people are—close to the district."

By this Gill means to add either Jefferson County or Pueblo County to the Fourth District. He wouldn't even object to placing Larimer County in the Fourth, providing Sen. Paul Wenke, R-Fort Collins, agrees.

Gill's flat-footed opposition to the doughnut plan, with backing from some other northern Colorado senators, has stymied efforts to get enough Republicans to agree to the plan in advance of the session to assure its passage.

The senator is sitting in a key spot. He is chairman of the Senate's State Affairs Committee—the logical place for any reapportionment bill to be handled before it reaches the floor.

Several times, Gill has bottled bills up in his committee and kept them locked there throughout a legislative session.

The most recent example was his refusal to report out several measures last winter asked by Republican Gov. John A. Love to reorganize the state government.

Gill insists he would have brought the bills out if there had been enough votes in the Senate to pass them.

The senator says he doesn't intend to use this tactic in fighting the doughnut reapportion-plan, however.

"If a bill comes to my committee, it will be acted upon promptly," he said. "This isn't a game of sit-around-and-pull-hair. Either a bill has merit, or it doesn't."

The senator said he thinks one reapportionment bill will be introduced into the House of Representatives. This will be the doughnut plan, he theorized, and will be sponsored by Rep. C. P. (Doc) Lamb, R-Brush. But Gill says he intends to offer a bill himself in the Senate and adds there may be others.

What happens from there on is anybody's guess.

The senator showed a reporter 11 different plans for realigning congressional districts. Four of them he worked out himself.

His initial bill will be what he calls his "Progressive plan," which would place Larimer, Adams, Arapahoe, Boulder and Weld Counties alone in the Second District and would move Jefferson into the Fourth, as well as a chunk of West Denver.

Another, which he says "the boys from Colorado Springs like" would place everything south of Denver in the Third District and move Larimer and Jefferson into the Fourth District.

But Gill has still another one which he says would bring districts within one per cent of equality in population. He labels this the as-near-as-may-be plan. It moves Larimer and Pueblo Counties into the Fourth District and shifts Jefferson and part of Denver into the Third District.

Closed - Circuit TV Attends to Patients

HOUSTON (UPI) — The Williamsburg Nursing Home has installed a closed-circuit television system to help give its patients constant attention.

Modern Masked Men Use Gold, Not Silver

NEW YORK (UPI) — Those modern masked men of industry, welders, may not use silver bullets but there is gold in their face plates. A controlled coating of metallic gold over a plate marketed by Chemetron Corp.'s NCG division filters out undesirable light rays to give the wearer a clearer view of his work and reduce eyestrain as well.

MASKED MEN

BOSTON (UPI)—A heart-lung machine that runs on oxygen and is so compact it can be carried in a car trunk has been designed and built here for $1,500.

Dr. Ernest M. Barsamian of the West Roxbury Veterans Administration Hospital and Prof. Samuel C. Collins of Massachusetts Institute of Technology spent seven years perfecting the device.

APRIL DAYS

Again the blackbirds and the meadowlarks sing and the streams are wide awake from their winter dreams. The tassels tremble on Maple trees in the wind. There are many thoughts in the minds of people in the month of April. We think of the many things to plant in our yards and of the many things to do in our homes. The first war [illegible] ers may come to awaken all the flowers. The grass looks a little greener, the birds sing more pretty and the buds begin to swell, some bursting forth. The bees and butterflies are fluttering about in the warm sunshine and there is a lot of excitement among bird life chattering about nest building and gathering material. There is much to see in the month of April and every day brings new things to observe. April comes to the cities and towns but best of all the woods, the farms, the fields and hills. It is there she walks the best. The great patches of green, the newly ploughed fields with [illegible] earth, the willows [illegible] banks [illegible] with [illegible] were [illegible] and [illegible] fields [illegible] laden [illegible] flowers shine in the bright sunshine and when the day is done they nod their heads as though a little drowsy in the chill of the evening so they tuck their heads back under the blanket of earth.

With bright sunshine overhead and flowers at your feet life seems lovely and sweet in April. The old withered stalks of last year's growth will soon decay and in its place new life will spring forth. The earth will be arrayed in new dresses of green. The moss clinging to rocks has a new green look and [illegible] buds and [illegible] the sun [illegible] and sunbeams fall. April is the month of many [illegible]. We never [illegible] but [illegible]. We [illegible] offer [illegible] April. The winds have sounded a retreat and spring laden with glory [illegible].

MOTOR ENGINEER

LINCOLN, England (UPI) — Retired motor engineer Algernon Bates, 85, gave four magistrates the benefit of his 66 years driving experience Thursday when he appeared in court on a careless driving charge.

"I have been driving since 1898 and had never had an accident," he told the magistrates. "I am very proud of my record. I have lived in a car for 66 years and what I don't know about driving—and I am not boasting — is not worth knowing. I am sound of limb, wind, eyesight and hearing."

The magistrates promptly dismissed the charge.

Sen. Gill Man on Spot When Assembly Convenes

By GORDON G. GAUSS
Associated Press Writer

DENVER (AP) — State Sen. Frank L. Gill, balding, 69-year old rancher from Hillrose and a Senate veteran of 22 years, will be the man on the spot when the Colorado Legislature convenes in special session Saturday to equalize the state's four congressional districts according to population.

Gill knows it. And he loves the idea.

The senator is the Republican majority's leading dissenter to a so-called doughnut plan of reapportionment. It would form the suburban area into a doughnut-like district around Denver and would transfer much of northern Colorado into the Fourth District, now composed principally of Western Slope Counties.

Gill—who is known as "Ted" to everyone at the capitol from the governor to elevator operators—says the plan isn't fair. He contends it would break up the rich Platte Valley agricultural region, which he thinks should remain as a unit. Unless it does, he insists, its interests will not be protected adequately.

"I'm going to sit tight," Gill said in an interview at the capitol on the outlook for the session.

"It is no more desirable for us to go to the Western Slope now than it ever was.

"If they have to enlarge the Western Slope district, let them get the numbers where the people are—close to the district."

By this Gill means to add either Jefferson County or Pueblo County to the Fourth District. He wouldn't [illegible] [illegible]ing Larimer County in the Fourth, providing Sen. Paul Wenke, R-Fort Collins, agrees.

Gill's flat-footed opposition to the doughnut plan, with backing from some other northern Colorado senators, has stymied efforts to get enough Republicans to agree to the plan in advance of the session to assure its passage.

The senator is sitting in a key spot. He is chairman of the Senate's State Affairs Committee—the logical place for any reapportionment bill to be handled before it reaches the floor.

Several times, Gill has bottled bills up in his committee and kept them locked there throughout a legislative session.

The most recent example was his refusal to report out several measures last winter asked by Republican Gov. John A. Love to reorganize the state government.

Gill insists he would have brought the bills out if there had been enough votes in the Senate to pass them.

The senator says he doesn't intend to use this tactic in fighting the doughnut reapportion plan, however.

"If a bill comes to my committee, it will be acted upon promptly," he said. "This isn't a game of sit-around-and-pull-hair. Either a bill has merit or it doesn't."

The senator said he thinks one reapportionment bill will be introduced into the House of Representatives. This will be the doughnut plan, he thinks, and will be sponsored by Rep. C. P. (Doc) Lamb, R-Brush. But Gill says he intends to [illegible] a bill himself in the Senate and adds there may be others.

What happens from there on is anybody's guess.

The senator showed a reporter 11 different plans for realigning congressional districts. Four of them he worked out himself.

His initial bill will be what he calls his "Progressive plan," which would place Larimer, Adams, Arapahoe, Boulder and Weld Counties alone in the Second District and would move Jefferson into the Fourth, as well as a chunk of West Denver.

Another, which he says "the boys from Colorado Springs like," would place everything south of Denver in the Third District and move Larimer and Jefferson into the Fourth District.

But Gill has still another one which he says would bring districts within one per cent of equality in population. He labels this the as-near-as-may-be plan. It moves Larimer and Pueblo Counties into the Fourth District and shifts Jefferson and part of Denver into the Third District.

Closed - Circuit TV Attends to Patients

HOUSTON (UPI) — The Williamsburg Nursing Home has installed a closed-circuit television system to help give its patients constant attention.

Modern Masked Men Use Gold, Not Silver

NEW YORK (UPI) — Those modern masked men of industry, welders, may not use silver bullets but there is gold in their face plates. A controlled coating of metallic gold over a plate marketed by Chemetron Corp.'s NCG division filters out undesirable light rays to give the wearer a clearer view of his work and reduce eyestrain as well.

MASKED MEN

BOSTON (UPI) — A heart-lung machine that runs on oxygen and is so compact it can be carried in a car trunk has been designed and built here for $1,500.

Dr. Ernest M. Barsamian of the West Roxbury Veterans Administration Hospital and Prof. Samuel C. Collins of Massachusetts Institute of Technology spent seven years perfecting the device.

Businessmen Advised to Plan For New Growth

By JACK LEFLER

NEW YORK (AP) — Businessmen are being advised to plan for a gradual shift of some government spending from defense to civilian programs.

The financial publishing firm Prentice-Hall discusses the changes and possibilities in the latest issue of its Executive Report.

[illegible]

[illegible] predictions that growth in nondefense sectors is likely to take.

It is expected that actual and prospective defense spending declines will likely be offset — and outweighed — by heavier expenditures on civil public works and nondefense services, Prentice-Hall says.

Prepare now to tap new growth markets in nondefense [illegible]

Whether you are a defense contractor or not, your business will be affected by defense spending cuts either directly as [illegible] or indirectly as the [illegible] effects of defense spending weaken.

[illegible]

[illegible] positive channeling of public funds into civilian uses as urban renewal, urban mass transit, water and sewer systems and education and medical services.

To rehabilitate American cities an average of $10.5 billion annually in public and private funds will be required for the next 20 years. About $1.5 billion was spent for that purpose in 1963.

Financial requirements to relieve growing congestion in downtown areas by fast rail and bus service are officially calculated at $1 billion a year for 10 years. Current annual expenditures run to less than [illegible] of that.

Spending of about $4 billion yearly through 1970 is needed to eliminate the backlog of urgent needs for water and sewer systems. Only about half that amount is being spent now.

[illegible] 200,000 classrooms [illegible] is needed [illegible] 1966 compared with [illegible] built in 1963. The market for educational aids will grow faster than school construction as industry and government manpower training programs expand.

CU Regents Okay $32.8 Million Fiscal Budget

BOULDER (UPI) — University of Colorado regents Friday adopted a record $32.8 million budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1—an increase of $3.1 million over this year.

University President Joseph R. Smiley said the bulk of the increase—$1.5 million—would go for operation of the new Colorado General Hospital in Denver. Lesser amounts were provided for strengthening teaching programs at Denver and Colorado Springs centers.

The two major budgets involved are the general fund budget of $18 million for Boulder and the extension division and $12.8 million for the Medical center in Denver.

The university increased tuitions this year to make up for a drop in state support which Smiley estimated would fall to $10.3 million from $10.7 million. The university's income is expected to increase from $6.3 million to $7.7 million mainly due to the higher tuitions.

Smiley said the budget was based on an expected enrollment of 13,100 students next fall at Boulder— 562 more than this year. The total Boulder and Extension budget is up $823,000 over this year.

Smiley, who earlier had criticized the action of state legislators in forcing a tuition increase, said the tightness of the budget would not allow for new faculty positions at Boulder.

He said there also will be no increase in research funds, no new scholarships and that the physical plant maintenance standards will be reduced. He said present scholarships would be revalued to meet the tuition increase.

He said there would be sufficient funds for a faculty increase of 3 per cent for normal staff salary raises. The Denver and Colorado Springs centers will receive a total increase of $243,000, most of it for additional full-time faculty members and for increasing the salaries paid to part-time teachers.

The $1.5 million increase at Colorado General Hospital increases that department's budget to $7 million. Smiley said the extra money was needed for increased patient care which will be necessary when the new hospital building is opened next fall.

In other action Friday the regents:

—Voted unanimously to proceed with plans for a 130-unit apartment project for married students on the Boulder campus at a cost of $13,000 per unit. Rental fees will vary from $81 to $99 per unit.

—Agreed to sell $440,000 in housing revenue bonds to two Denver bond firms— Boettcher & Co. and John Nuveen Co.— for the second phase of the Kittridge Residence Hall Project. The rest of a $2.2 million bond issue will be sold to the U.S. Housing & Home Finance Agency.

—Approved building a new $1.8 million laboratory building to house the Joint Institute for Laboratory Astrophysics and its program of advanced research in Boulder.
